One special danger menaces those who live well, who can use champagne and fine liquors, and that is Bright's Disease. Posted clubmen understand this so well that many have tests made every few months. Others drink nothing but dry wines. But still the deaths reported from Bright's Disease and Diabetes are increasing at a fearful rate. The last census reports show that since 1890 the increase has been nearly fifty per cent and that the deaths in the United States alone from above causes and diseases growing out of them last year reached the enormous number of 132,000.

Hence the importance of every clubman knowing this one fact, viz.: That Bright's Disease and Diabetes are now positively curable in about 87% of all cases. The Fulton Compound is now saving the lives of hundreds, and will, when better known, save the lives of thousands who are now with little hope.

SEYMOUR WILKES REG. NO. 0232.
Race Record 2:08 1-2

The Fastest Son of Guy Wilkes

Will make the Season of 1902 at

Lakeville, Sonoma Co., Cal.

SEYMOUR WILKES earned his record in a hard fought race and was a game race horse. The oldest of his get are five-year-olds, and no horse in California can show a greater proportion of large, handsome, strongly built and well-boned colts. They all look alike and in nearly every instance are square trotters. The only one that has been trained is Joe Eviston (3-2:22 in 1901).

SEYMOUR WILKES is by Guy Wilkes his dam Early Bird by Playmail; second dam by Odd Fellow, third dam by a son of Williamson's Belmont, fourth dam by Blackhawk 767. He weighs 1300 pounds, stands 16 hands high and is one of the most symmetrical horses in California. Several of his get are in San Francisco and will be shown to prospective breeders with pleasure.

Terms for the Season, $40. Mares not proving in foal can be returned next year by paying steamer Gold. Pasturage $3 per month. For further particulars apply to THOS. ROCHE, Lakeville, Sonoma Co., or J. W. GREGORY, St. George Stables, 408 Bush Street, San Francisco.

STAM B. 23444

RECORD 2:11 1/4. By STAMBOUL 5101, a trotting and show king; dam, Belle Medium 2:20, a great brood mare by Happy Medium, sire of the great all-round mare, Nancy Hanks 2:04, and other great ones; second dam by the handsome sire Almont Lightning (sire of the dam of Zombro 2:11 and other great all-in-all animals, both on the turf and in the show rings); third dam by that sire of game, sound, handsome animals, Mambrino Patchen 58; fourth dam by that speed producing sire, Mambrino Chief 11; fifth dam by that stylish and long distance racing horse, Mason's Whip.

STAM B. is a fine and substantial upstanding bay, 15 1/2 hands tall, weighs 1100 pounds, and now rightly ranks among the most promising young sires of the land. That he is now in public service in California is a fact for which breeders may be grateful. He is already proving a sire of speed and gameness, together with size, superb style and high action, transmitting these qualities to every foal regardless of dam. He is acknowledged by all who have seen him to be very near the real and ideal race horse and all-around sire. His racing qualities were beyond criticism, and all close observers know that in his blood are represented the kings and queens of the trotting turf and show rings.

Terms for the Season, $40. Payable at the end of June, with return privilege. Reduced rates to any one person breeding over three mares. Pasturage for mares, $4 per month. Freight must be prepaid on all mares. Season commences February 1st and ends August 1, 1902. No responsibility assumed for accidents or escapes.

Dam IGO (registered) by Antevolo 2:19. Second dam, Daisy May by Nutwood 600. Third dam, Ralston May by Alexander's Abdallah.

MONDESOL, 4 years old, stands 15 1/2 hands, weighs about 1100 pounds; is the best bred young McKinney stallion, combining as he does the blood of Electioneer and Nutwood with that of the greatest son of the great Alcyone. He is in every respect a splendid individual and should be seen by every owner of a good mare in this State before booking elsewhere.

Dam by Davis' Belmont, thoroughbred son of Belmont. Second dam by Talcott's imp. Flying Morgan, son of Old Flying Morgan. YOUNG VENTURE carries more of that great Herod Eclipse blood than any other trotting stallion in the world. That is the thoroughbred combination which crosses so well with the Hambletonian strains and produces the greatest harness horses on the track.

He is not only a great racehorse, getting his record, 2:10, in a fourth heat, but he is a grand individual of rare finish, gentle disposition, best of legs and feet and his get are all of good size, good looks and extreme speed. He is a bay horse 15 1/4 hands, weighs 1050 pounds and is standard by breeding, performance and produce.

PISTOL Reg. No. 28884

Sire LANCELOT 2:23, sire of 10 in 2:30, which is more than his half brother Electioneer, had at same age Dam PEPEROMIA by Alcantara.

PISTOL 28884, five years old, solid black 15 1/2 hands, weighs 1075 pounds. One of the handsomest and best individuals ever brought to California. He is a remarkably well turned horse, gentle disposition, rare intelligence and possesses extreme speed. His colts are universally black, good size, extra good limbs and stylish. He has only one colt that is 2 years old, and they all show great speed.

The above horses will make the Season of 1902 from February 1st, at the

SCRATCHES, GREASE HEEL,
MUD FEVER, HOOF ROT AND SPEED CRACKS.

Cases where ulcerations extend with transverse cracks which open at every step and often bleed, no matter how complex, aggravated, deep seated or chronic, if treated according to directions as given on circular with every box, positively cured with

Veterinary Pixine

After Blistering, VETERINARY PIXINE is the very best application that could be indicated. It absorbs all inflammatory exudate and hastens the reparatory process. Will heal the most severe cases without scar and prevent loss of hair.

AS A PREVENTIVE.

If a light application of VETERINARY PIXINE is used before speeding, driving in wet, muddy or slushy weather, or in the snow, your horse will never have speed cracks, scratches or grease heel.

FOR HOOFES.

It will keep the hoofs healthy, soft and in perfect form.

FOR SORES, ETC.

VETERINARY PIXINE heals collar and saddle galls, hock chafes, abscesses, inflammatory swellings, sores and all skin disease. In cases of emergency it is invaluable.

This penetrating, stimulating, soothing, absorbing, antiseptic, healing ointment heals from beneath the surface by disinfecting the parts, subduing the inflammation and stimulating healthy granulation, not by drying and scabbing.

IT is to be hoped that the directors of the different district associations throughout the State will realize the importance of arranging programs for their fairs this year that will come somewhere near to the standard that was in the minds of the legislators who inaugurated the district fair system in California and provided an appropriation for its maintenance. It should be the aim of every district board to give a fair that will be an actual benefit to the county or district wherein it is held. Every legitimate industry of the locality should be encouraged, and the farmers and fruit growers, the miners and the manufacturers, should have premiums offered for their best efforts. There are localities where stock breeding can be made the leading and most profitable industry of the county, and in such places the stock show should be the leading feature of the fair. In other places fruit is the principal product and big premiums should be given for the best varieties. The races should be arranged in such a manner as to provide the leading amusement feature and at the same time encourage the breeding and training of horses that will be profitable for the farmer to raise. On this plan the racing program should be made up almost entirely of trotting and pacing events. The light harness horse is a useful animal in every community, and the American roadster is the most valuable and at the same time the most profitable horse for the farmer to breed and raise. There should be races provided to test the speed and the endurance of the trotter and pacer, and good, liberal premiums for the handsomest and best park and road horses. The thoroughbred horse breeder needs little encouragement from the State or district fairs. There is about a half million dollars hung up for him to compete for during the fall and winter months in California and every summer millions are given for running races on Eastern tracks. The district fairs can ignore the thoroughbred horse entirely without detriment to anyone, as they cannot afford to give purses large enough to attract anything but the skates.

GREAT LISTS of entries have been received for the big early closing stakes offered by the associations that comprise the Grand Circuit. While the lists will not be ready to announce until next week, word comes across the continent that the entries are numerous enough to justify the prediction that the trotting and pacing events will have fully as many and probably more starters than last year. At Brighton Beach the five purses which closed March 1st have assumed record proportions. The largest of the money prizes is the $10,000 Bonner Memorial, a 2:12 trot for eligibles on March 1st, which are to be named August 1st. There are twenty nominators. The Brighton Purse of $5000, a 2:10 pace, with the same conditions, has attracted twenty-six nominators. The Hiram Woodruff Purse of $5000, a 2:20 trot, has obtained the record entry of 112 horses, representing forty-eight subscribers. The John H. Shults Purse of $5000, a 2:24 trot for four year olds, receives a total entry of 55 horses, divided among thirty-one nominators. The Metropolitan Purse of $5000, a 2:20 pace, is filled by 63 horses, representing thirty-eight subscribers. Among the nominators is Major P. P. Johnston, President of the National Trotting Association. While one of the prominent breeders of the country, it has been several years since the name of Major Johnston has graced the list of nominators and his return to the ranks of those who race the product of their farms is both noteworthy and gratifying. The animal nominated is the four year old Thakus by King Clay out of a thoroughbred mare. He is named in the John H. Shults purse.

TRAINING HAS BEGUN on all the tracks in California this week in earnest. The weather since the big storm has been of the true California type and trainers have begun taking advantage of it. Pleasanton has more horses stalled there than ever before known in the history of the horse centre and nearly every horse is headed for the races. It is the same at Alameda, San Jose, Vallejo, Los Angeles, Salinas, Hollister, Eureka, Colusa, Lodi, Woodland, Sacra. mento and, in fact, nearly every track in the State that is in condition to work horses on is well patronized. The district associations are all alive to the fact that entries will be numerous this year and are getting to work arranging for an early announcement of program. There will be more money to trot for in California this year than for many seasons past, and there is a determination on the part of all to make the racing of better class than usual. In the pacing classes we expect to see some very fast miles made this year, and it need not surprise anyone if there are more new comers to the 2:15 list among the side-wheelers than have ever before developed in one season. There are not many high class trotters to be found among the green classes, but it is early yet, and it may be that another month may bring out quite a contingent of fast green ones. Horses that can trot in 2:20 will more than earn their oats in California this year if they are consistent and good actors, and there will be many purses for that and slower classes. Twelve weeks of harness racing for purses ranging from $400 to $1000 is assured.

THE Golden Gate Fair Association has changed its dates. It had announced its meeting for the week of August 16th to 23d, but has decided to change to the week immediately following the State Fair. In fact, the Oakland association claims the balance of the month of September for its meeting, opening September 22d and continuing until and including September 30th, giving eight days of racing. In view of the fact that all the other district associations in this part of the State are satisfied with one week of racing, it looks to me as if the Oakland organization should be content with six days, so as not to conflict with any other fair that may follow it.

OWNERS AND TRAINERS are reminded that a large number of big stakes and purses for trotters and pacers will soon close, beginning to-day with that great event, the Kentucky $21,000 Futurity. The condition and dates of many of these stakes and purses will be found advertised in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN and we ask every horseman who has anything to enter to keep the dates in mind and not allow them to pass without making his entries.

SINCE the year 1892, when that famous team Tom Ryder and Belle Button, both by Alexander Button, paced the Oakland track in a race in 2:16½, setting a record for a double team that has never since been equaled in California, there has been considerable talk in regard to team racing at the district and State fairs. On several occasions team races have been held at Sacramento and other places, but for some reason they have seldom attracted much of an entry list. This year there is a chance to make team racing one of the features of the California circuit and we hope that all the larger districts can be induced to offer purses of good size for contests of this sort. We have heard several trainers say that a purse of $800 or $1000 will secure sufficient entries to make such a race, fill well and be a very attractive part of the program. We would suggest that should such purses be offered that an additional sum be offered for the breaking of the coast record of 2:16½. It will take a pair of good actors with great speed to lower the record of Belle Button and Tom Ryder, but there are several trainers who think they have the horses that can do the trick. No more picturesque or thrilling sight can be seen on a race track than four or five fast teams exerting every effort to reach the wire first. Any association that can provide such a feature for its meeting this summer will have a drawing card that will help to swell its gate receipts materially. It will cost nothing to offer the purse and if it does not fill no harm will be done.

A HOT AIR STORY was sent out from San Jose a few weeks ago, printed in a San Francisco daily and since copied extensively in the eastern turf papers, to the effect that Consul General Ho Yow, the Chinese Government's representative at this port, had purchased the mare Much Better 2:07½ for $2500, made an offer of $12,500 for Iran Alto 2:12½ and another of $23,000 for McKinney 2:11½. There was not a particle of truth in the story, but it has gone the rounds, and will travel faster than the denial possibly can.

"Sixteen Hands High."

Since public opinion has fixed the ideal size for race and road horses, and especially of breeding animals, at 15.2 to 16 hands, it is remarkable, indeed, how many trotting bred animals have grown an inch or so since they really "got their growth." While it is a fact that light harness bred horses average much larger and handsomer than they did a decade ago, it is remarkable how handy it seems to come to many horsemen to say of an animal that he is "sixteen hands and a good looker," when in reality oftentimes said animal is only about 15.2 and a very ordinary looker. Of course, the average owner can see more size and other good qualities about his own horse than others can see, but the task of getting a prospective buyer to view a horse through the owner's eyes is a difficult one, and as few buyers, indeed, can be fooled in the individuality of a horse, it is always a losing game to any owner to misrepresent a horse in order to get a prospective buyer to come and look at him.

Really this "sixteen-hand" habit is getting to be about as bad as the "smoke nuisance" in Indianapolis. Of late it is hard to locate a jack for sale—at a distance—that is not sixteen hands high! We have seen two horsemen—trotting horsemen—who wanted a jack for a special business purpose, who had traveled many miles, one of them from Pennsylvania, to see a bunch of jacks represented as "sixteen hands high," that proved to be about two hands under that size. Now, that jack dealer can sell no one a fourteen-hand jack for a sixteen-hand jack, and what is the use of his literally destroying his reputation and all chances of business by making such representations.

The way to sell any animal, from a "coon-dog" to a two-minute trotter, is to always have in reserve more "coon-dog" or more trotter—in actual quality—to show a prospective buyer than you have told him about in your correspondence. To show less than you write is always to lose a sale.—Western Horseman.

The register of Morgan horses, now in process of compilation for many years, must surely prove to be a prodigious volume. The work is being edited by the Hon. Joseph Battell of Middlebury, Vt., who some years ago engaged N. A. Randall of the Western Horseman to assist him, and now comes the announcement that Walter T. Chester, compiler of Chester's Trotting and Pacing Record, and for thirty years a well known writer on harness racing and harness horses on the staff of the Turf, Field and Farm, has given up newspaper work and gone to Middlebury, where he will assist Mr. Battell in editing this great historical Morgan work.

Jackson's Napa Soda is sold in every city, town and hamlet in the State.

JOTTINGS.

IF SOME of the horses that are now in training at

San Jose fail to show the speed in their races this summer that they gave evidence of possessing during the winter it will not surprise those who know all the facts connected with some wonderful eighths and quarters that were shown at the garden city course a few weeks ago. Among the horsemen who have wintered at San Jose—Durfee, Bunch, Hellman, Gordon, Williams, Barstow, Van Bokkelen and several more—there is a variety of speed known as the "menagerie burst" that is a little ahead of anything that has ever been shown on any other track as far as known. The Norris Brothers' show is responsible for this new feature in horse training and which may in the future make an elephant or a camel a necessary part of every first class training outfit. The show in question was quartered for the winter at Agricultural Park at San Jose with a herd of elephants, several camels, elk and other animals that are unfamiliar to the majority of track horses, and there was a reign of terror among the equines during the whole time. Sometimes the elephants would get to trumpeting in chorus and at such times every horse stalled at the track would try to jump over the door of his stall or through the roof. At other times the horses being jogged on the track would catch sight of a half dozen camels and there would be a stampede that would turn the British mules in South Africa green with envy. During the winter there floated up to this office reports of fast eighths and quarters made by trotters and pacers at San Jose that seemed incredible, but now we understand how they came to happen. One of the trainers would take a horse out to work and as he struck the head of the stretch and began driving, an elephant would sound one of his loudest notes and the horse would fairly fly. Durfee had Miss Jessie 2:13½ out one day and concluded he would drive her the last quarter of a slow mile at about a 2:30 gait. He snapped his watch as he passed the three-quarters and just then one of the show's animal trainers came out from behind a row of stalls with a big elk hitched to a cart and made a wild dash toward the track. Miss Jessie saw him before Durfee did and let out for home. Durfee had seen her strike a 2:04 gait in her work last year, but had never seen any speed like this and he let her go. He snapped his watch again at the wire and then had all he could do to pull her up and get her back to her stall. After his son Vince had taken her by the head and held her while three or four men helped unhitch the mare and get a blanket on her, Mr. Durfee looked at his watch. His eyes stuck out about an inch and he slipped the watch back in his pocket and came to San Francisco next day to have it fixed. He said he knew Miss Jessie was awful fast but the time of that quarter was a little too quick for anything but a McKinney.

Farmer Bunch had an experience with Dr. Frasse 2:12½ one day that came near costing him a big lot of money. He started to drive him a slow mile and the boys coaxed the keeper of the elephants to jab that big hook into two or three of them just as he started. Dr. Frasse was fat as a hog and in no condition for fast work at any distance, but he got to the half in 1:02 before Bunch could check him and had it not been for the Farmer's great strength, it would have been almost impossible to stop the son of Iran Alto, but he finally got him quiet, and after getting him to a standstill, dismounted and unharnessed the black gelding and led him back. When Bunch got his breath he ejaculated: "I expect to win three or four thousand dollars with Frasse this year, but, by gum, he'd a knocked himself out if that durned elephant had fetched another snore."

Mr. Barstow, owner of the handsome big stallion Wilkes Direct 2:22½ now called Nearest, has a green three year old by his horse that he calls Alone. She is a pacer and Barstow drove her one day when the "lions were a' roaring and the tigers a' lashing of their tails." Barstow was very much interested in the filly, which is one of the fastest things in Santa Clara county, but got a little excited over the noise made by the animals, and drove the filly a fast eighth as he thought, and after looking at his timepiece immediately had her photographed. He sent the picture to this office with the following written on the back: "Alone, by Wilkes Direct, green three year old, showed an eighth in seven seconds."

A few weeks after Mr. Barstow notified me that it was a sixteenth instead of an eighth, but I am half inclined to think that he is afraid Alone will be favorite in the pools when she starts if the story is not contradicted.

The menagerie took its departure from San Jose, however, three weeks ago, and all is tranquil at the track there now. Farmer Bunch has induced Jim Rea to negotiate for a couple of camels and an elephant, however, and will take them on the circuit this year as speed accelerators. His idea is to keep the animals concealed so that none of the horses but his own can see them, and just before a race give his own horse a sight and a whiff of them. He says if Rea will get the animals Iran Alto will beat Cresceus' time and Thomas R. will trot in two minutes.

As was said in these columns two years ago, and repeated again last year about this time, the trotter that can race three heats in 2:18 can win a fair sum on the California circuit. McKenna won $1557 last year in California and the fastest heat he trotted was 2:17½. Nora McKinney won $1405 and trotted a heat in 2:16½, but the majority of her heats were slower. What is it won over a thousand dollars and while he got a mark of 2:16½, won the most of his money in slower time than 2:18. The heaviest winner on the circuit that started in the green trotting classes was Thomas R. by Iran Alto. He got a mark of 2:15 but did not beat 2:18 but a very few times. This year there will be more meetings, more races and larger purses, and a horse will have many more opportunities to win than he had last year. Three heats better than 2:18 will win money in this State this season.

It is astonishing how those Palo Alto bred trotters are showing up over East. Every week there is reference made in our exchanges from over there of speed shown and big prices paid for horses raised at the California farm. The latest item is of Lorette, a six year old mare by Dexter Prince that Superintendent Covey took to Cleveland as a three year old in 1899 and sold for $200. She is out of Loraneer (two year old record 2:26½) by Electioneer. Last week Mr. A. J. Keating of New York went down to Kentucky and paid Mr. J. L. Tarlton $2500 for Lorette and will use her on the speedway and probably race her this season. Lorette is a very handsome brown mare with two hind legs white nearly to hock and showed trial quarters in 37 seconds as a three year old. She showed a mile in 2:15½ last year, but was not raced and had no mark. There is a pretty good profit in buying horses at $200 as three year olds and selling them in less than three years for over six times that money.

While trainers are worrying about stall room being at a premium at some of the training tracks it might be well for them to remember that the once famous Napa race track is again in prime condition for working horses over, and that the new lessee, Arthur Brown of Napa, announces that he will keep it in the best possible shape from now on until the racing season of 1902 is over. The Napa track has so many advantages that it is surprising horsemen have not flocked to it ere this. Few places are as easily reached from the city, the trip by boat being particularly convenient and inexpensive. There is no better track to work horses on, the nature of the soil being such that horses are very seldom "sored-up" or "knocked out" even with the strongest kind of work. There are plenty of well built, commodious box stalls and the rent for the same is very low. The best of hay and grain are to be had at low prices, and in short it is an ideal horse training track. I would suggest to the trainers who are in doubt where to go, or are dissatisfied with their present location, that the Napa track offers every inducement to them.

Every little while one hears of a trotter or pacer that is "good goods" but is unfortunately owned by some one who does not wish to race or is too deeply engaged in business to devote the time necessary to it. I heard of a case of this kind the other day from a friend who had recently made a trip to Salinas. He tells me that Mr. William Vanderhurst of that place owns a pacing mare by Diablo 2:09½ that is capable of putting in three heats in 2:15 or better yet is eligible to the 2:25 class. She is a well bred one her dam being Salinas Maid by Junio, second dam Marie V., by Carr's Mambrino, and third dam Jennie by Paul's Abdallah. She will be six years old in May, is sound and all right every way and is worth racing. Mr. Vanderhurst is too busy a man to devote any time to racing, and for that reason this daughter of Diablo will probably be unheard of in racing annals unless some one gets possession of her that will place her on the track. From what I am told, the mare, who is but six years old is a rare good one, and I hope some one will get hold of her who will give her a chance to get a place in Diablo's 2:10 list.

Here is a chance for a man who owns a trotter eligible to the 2:25 class to get rich without going to Klondike or having a fortune left him. There is the sum of $105,000 offered in purses and stakes for 2:25 trotters on the Grand Circuit this year and a horse entered clear through will only have to start once a week. All the owner will have to do to win fifty per cent of that money is to win all the races. It's easy, isn't it?

A Boston Man at Aptos.

APTOS, Cal., March 11, 1902.

EDITOR BREEDER & SPORTSMAN:—I am out in California for a visit from my old home in Boston, Mass., and always being interested in horses wherever I am, stopped over at Aptos, on my way from Los Angeles to Santa Cruz, to see my old time friend Sandy Smith, who, I heard, was getting some 24 head of colts ready for the sale at Cleveland for Mr. Spreckels, whose ranch is located here. As I stepped off the train here I noticed what a prettily situated little town it was. On one side, about five minutes walk from the station, rolls the Pacific ocean up on a beautiful beach; on the other side are rolling hills covered with a carpet of green grass, and just back of the hills are the mountains covered with large redwood and pines. This is a different picture than the East presents at this time.

Mr. Spreckels' ranch is only a short walk from the station and I started out to find Sandy, who little expected to see me out here. I found him hard at work with the horses, but he took time to stop and shake hands with that cordial welcome such as he always gives his old friends. As he has a string of 24 to warm up every day and is very conscientious about his work, he asked me to get up in the stand and watch his pets step around the half-mile track, which was in splendid condition notwithstanding the heavy rains they have had in this part of the country for the past month. The track is surrounded by shady oaks and rolling hills. I got up in the stand, took out my watch, and Sandy was soon out with a beautiful filly by Dexter Prince, dam by Antevolo and her grandam own sister to Crown Point 2:17½. My watch showed that she can do the last eighth in 16½ seconds. He took her over to the stables and soon came out with another which was ready for him when he reached the stables. Sandy don't believe in wasting any time, in fact he has none to waste and get through with the string each day.

The next one, as Sandy explained to me, was a black mare by Dexter Prince, her dam Emma S., a sister to the dam of Dione 2:07½. After going around the track a couple of times she passed me at a two-minute clip. This is a fine gaited pacer, jet black, goes along fine and needs no boots. Whoever gets her will get a race mare and a good one.

He next brought a little chestnut filly, snorting like a thoroughbred. She is by Cupid 2:18, dam Gracie S. 2:22, the dam of Dione 2:07½ and own sister to Lillie S., dam of Venus II. 2:11½. She is as sweet-gaited a little pacer as anyone would wish to see. She was never handled a day in her life until Sandy took hold of her and she can step a quarter in 35 seconds.

Another one he drove was a bay colt, own brother to Venus II. 2:11½ by Cupid 2:18, dam Lillie S., by Speculation. After giving me this information in regard to each horse, away he would go as though he found more pleasure in this work than in anything else. This colt is a pure gaited trotter, handled only by Sandy and he can show a quarter in 40 seconds. He had one more to show me before dinner and this was a chestnut gelding by Dexter Prince, dam by Steinway. This is a nicely gaited gelding and can step mighty well. Sandy broke him himself. He is a good trotter and who ever is fortunate enough to get him at the sale in Cleveland, can show a fast gait with him. The fresh crisp morning air seemed to put an extra amount of go into the horses.

After dinner Sandy took me about the place on a little tour of inspection, showing me Dexter Prince, who looks like a two year old. He looks like a colt for a horse that has been in the service as long as he has. He also showed me Cupid, a beautiful bay with a record of 2:18, and the colts. I must say that I have never seen a nicer lot of colts anywhere. They are all gentle as kittens, all fine gaited, sound as a dollar, and they should bring top notch prices at the sale in Cleveland if good attention and handling count for anything. I might say in connection with this that Mr. Keating told me once at Boston that he had left Dione with Sandy at Portland, Maine, for three weeks and she made Nico trot the race of his life. I got there the day of the race and she was as good a mare as ever in her life. So it goes to show that Sandy is able to get a horse in good shape. I expect to leave to-morrow morning for Santa Cruz and from there will call at Palo Alto, and from there, at Sandy's request, I am coming up to see you.

I expect to be in California until the first of April, after visiting the farms at Pleasanton and Cook's ranch, getting back home in time to attend the sales at Cleveland in May. With best wishes, I am,

Yours very truly, JAS. D. WILSON.

Frank P. Kenney, formerly business manager of the Kentucky Stock Farm, has associated himself with Ken Walker of Lexington and the firm will engage in the horse sales business. Both gentlemen have a very large acquaintance among horse breeders and owners and will no doubt build up a good business in the territory they have chosen in which to hold sales.

Harness Horse Items From Portland.

PORTLAND, Ore., March 2, 1902.

Arriving in the webfoot city to-day, I spent a very pleasant Sunday afternoon looking at the horses that are at the Irvington track. I saw about 75 horses and a number of weanlings.

I met Mr. Henry Hellman, of San Jose. Mr. Hellman arrived on Saturday with his car of horses and every horse in fine fix. Boodle 2:12½, the great son of Stranger and Goldsmith Maid, looked like a king when led out.

Oro Guy, a grand looking big black stallion sired by Oro Wilkes 2:11, dam Roseate by Guy Wilkes, shows his royal breeding in every particular and he will surely make a great cross for the Altamont mares in Oregon. Then I saw Myrtha Whips 2:10½. Myrtha is looking fine, as is old Ned Thorne 2:11½, and the trotter that beats him to the wire this year has a big job ahead.

Alton B., the full brother to Chehalis, got a royal reception on his return to Portland. He is a pronounced favorite here, as his sire Altamont made horse history in and around Portland. Alton B. will do a good stud business here, as will Boodle and Oro Guy.

Mr. Hellman and his partner Mr. Simpson, will give a race meeting in June and it is now a certainty that it will be a good meeting and horsemen can be assured of good purses and the coin after each race.

John Pender is here, and the premier stallion in John's stable is Capt. Jones, the grand looking black son of the champion McKinney. Mr. Pender showed as fine a lot of colts by Capt. Jones as I ever saw by any stallion. It is to be hoped that Mr. Pender will race Capt. Jones this year. Horsemen who know him predict a record of 2:10 for Capt. Jones. A number of his colts can take standard records.

Chas. Sreiber has four youngsters that any horse fancier may well be proud of. A black filly by the great Chehalis 2:04½, dam Codocil by Administrator, was led out and she is a counterpart of her great sire in conformation and color, but in gait a perfect trotter. A bay gelding by Chehalis, dam by Lemont; this youngster is also a trotter and a good one. Then a pacer by Del Norte that is said to be the fastest pacer in Oregon; then a trotter by a son of Lemont.

Mr. Watson, the restauranter, has in Bryan a two year old by Caution, dam by Lemont, one of the nicest young horses I ever saw. He is a typical Electioneer and is a fast trotter. His dam, Nancy by Lemont, is one of the grandest mares I ever saw and Mr. Watson surely has an elegant colt. His Ebony Wilkes gelding Neo Wilkes is a fast green one; last fall he trotted a mile in 2:26. Mr. Watson recently sold to eastern parties a pair of bays by Lemont that can out show any pair of roadsters ever raised in Oregon.

Chris Simpson has fifteen head of colts and aged horses, including his premier stallion Bonner N. B. 2:17. This horse was a game racer and is already a sire. His first to be worked, Phil N., took a record of 2:17½ and Mr. Simpson will race a few of his get this year. Alta Norte (pacer) 2:16 by Del Norte; this mare is billed for the 2:10 list this year. Mr. Simpson is a progressive breeder. He has a band of gilt edge broodmares.

Mr. Bradford is handling the Sreiber and Watson horses.

West Waldstein has the Duke of Waldstein 2:23½ by Waldstein; this is a grand looking big chestnut stallion and should be patronized.

Louis Zimmerman has a sensation in a big brown gelding with a tan nose. This horse was bought by Mr. Donathan and he is said to be a 2:10 trotter. It is a pleasure to know that Mr. Zimmerman has such a fast prospect, and if good looks count this gelding should be a 2:05 trotter.

McBriar is being prepared for the coming season.

George Misner is training for Mr. Zimmerman.

Messrs. Simpson and Hellman are the new lessees of the Irvington track and it is their intention to give first class racing and as every city on the North Pacific Coast is going to give a meeting and good purses, Portland will be in the circuit. Messrs. Simpson and Hellman cordially invite horsemen from everywhere.

Let's wish them a genuine success.

Yours truly,

C. A. HARRISON.

The North Pacific Circuit.

Secretary Leighton, of the Vancouver Jockey Club, writes us that everything at present looks most favorable for a very successful circuit of racing up north this year. Every association on the circuit is determined to do just what is right and fair to all, and the new rules adopted governing jockeys and drivers will be impartially and strictly enforced by all. As soon as the purses and stakes are arranged a general advertisement will be prepared, giving the purses and conditions for the entire circuit, and will be inserted in the columns of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN.

How to Judge a Horse.

W. A. Dobson, who states that he did not gain his horse sense from book, but from actual experience, briefly sums up what he knows of the subject as follows: "A horse should not have a flat foot nor a small, narrow, contracted or shallow heel; neither should he have an extremely long pastern or stand too straight on his ankles. He should not be calf-kneed, neither should he have a meaty leg. He should be deep and full at the heart, short in the back, strong over the loins, with long, well-sprung ribs. He should not be short and drooping in the hips, with the tail set low and tucked tight to the body. The hips should be long and smooth, sloping gradually to the root of the tail, which should be set on middling high and carried well up and away from the body. The hock can have more imperfections and not be unsound than any other portion of the horse. It can be too crooked or too straight, it can be box-jointed or coarse at the spavin bone, or it can have a curby appearance and other imperfections too numerous to mention and still be sound, but every one of these imperfections detract from the value of the horse and should be guarded against very carefully by all breeders. I would advise not to breed to any stallion who does not have a good sized, clearly defined, well-shaped, clean, bony set of hocks.

"When you are looking for a stallion to breed to, a good rule to be governed by is never breed to a horse that would not be a strictly first class gelding.

"Don't try to raise horses all of one size, so that you can only suit one class of customers. The best selling sizes for the American market are the horses that stand from 15.1 to 15.3 hands in height. The 16-hand horse sells well, but not quite as readily as the smaller sizes. The foreigners, however, like the 16-hand horses. Whenever you get over 16 hands you are getting your horse too tall. Any horse that is fine in his class, with quality, substance and action, from 14 to 16 hands high, will find ready sale.

"Don't breed to a horse with any very marked defect, as such animals are much more apt to reproduce their weak points than their strong ones. Breed for style, conformation, speed and action, as that is the combination which has made the American horse famous the world over. When it comes to the question of action in horses it is time to quit talking and go to looking. The only way a man can ever become competent to judge of what constitutes strictly high class action in a horse is by observation, and I would advise every one, both young and old, who is interested in the production of high class horses to make it a part of their business to attend every horse show that he can conveniently reach. Get as close to the ring side as possible, and study well the conformation, style and action of every horse that wins a ribbon, and while you are making a careful study of the winners don't forget to study just as carefully the horses that do not win, because then, and not until then, will you be able to draw an intelligent comparison."—Kentucky Stock Farm.

Busy Days at Palo Alto.

Mr. Frank W. Covey says that the Palo Alto two year olds are the grandest lot ever bred at the farm. He has seen them all from first to last, and his judgment should be good, for he rarely makes a mistake. This condition of excellence is natural, for the longer a farm is conducted with the ability that has distinguished all the Palo Alto breeding operations, the better chance there is for making successful nicks. The services of James Thompson, the former trainer for the Hon. L. U. Shippee, of Stockton, have been engaged to handle these youngsters and to get them in shape for the Blue Ribbon Sale at Cleveland next May, where all will go under the hammer.

There is a sister of Eleata (4) 2:08½, the biggest winner of last year, and also a sister of Lucativa 2:13½ and brother of Azmoor 2:13½. The lot contains colts and fillies from the dams of Ned Thorne 2:11½, Expressive (3) 2:12½, Rowellan (3) 2:15½, L. 96 2:16½, Bernal 2:17, Mendocino (3) 2:19½, Cecilian (2) 2:22, Ardotta (3) 2:25, Sweet Rose (1) 2:25½, Adabella (3) 2:25½ and from other equally desirable families. The entire crop will be sold. It will be a notable dispersal, with more than one "fortune winner" in the bunch, for many of them are engaged in the big futurities, and when it comes to early and extreme speed, Palo Alto stands alone without a rival.

The pacing stallion Bob Fitzsimmons 2:07½ by Judge Norval, was sold to Manitoba parties last week by Butler Throssal of Sheffield, Iowa, for $5000. Prelissa, the dam of this horse also produced Alpha W. 2:08, a full brother to Fitzsimmons. She is by The Prelate 4035. Bob Fitzsimmons won $9000 in purses last season and as he is but seven years old is still considered a good horse in his class.

Producing the Orloff.

Krenovoi, where George J. Fuller has spent the last three years as superintendent of the Russian training school, and where the government stud is located, was originally owned by Count Orloff, a Russian nobleman of great wealth and influence, who lived constantly on his estate and devoted his time and talents to horse breeding. He began by crossing black Danish mares with gray Arab stallions and succeeded in producing a horse called Barse, which was the foundation of the Orloff horses. The likeness of this to Russia's famous horse is now on the same bronze statue as his master in the center of the grounds at Krenovoi, depicted as drawing one of the low wheeled carriages which are still unchanged in style at the present day.

When Count Orloff died, this estate, which was only a portion of the possession of the Orloff family, and was said to contain some 200,000 acres of land, was left to the government, which has continued to improve and perfect the Orloff trotter. Krenovoi is situated in the steppe country lying between the Volga and the Don, not far from the home of the Don Cossacks. It is a thriving town of some 6,000 inhabitants, many of whom are farmers and have their divisions of land from ten to fifteen acres and even twenty vests away from their homes, and in seed time and harvest times they camp out on the land, sleeping in the open fields or in the carts and returning to town on Sunday and feast days. It is marvelous what a Russian peasant will go through as an ordinary event of his daily life without a murmur. The stud at Krenovoi is under the immediate direction of General Derfelden, to whose wise and judicious management its present success is largely due. The stud consists of 1,000 horses, only part of which, however, are Orloffs. These Orloffs are mostly of two colors, black and gray, the black predominating. They have considerable action in front and possess much dash and resolution with an even disposition and considerable speed. It is difficult to describe anything more enjoyable than driving over the boundless steppes in a real Russian "troika" drawn by three or four horses abreast, the middle horse or horses going at a fast trot and the two outer horses with their heads bent outward going at a hard gallop, and keeping this up with extraordinary ease for mile after mile. The driver, gaily bedecked in peacock feathers and other finery, emits occasionally Indian war whoops to encourage his charges on.

The two principal racing points in Russia are at St. Petersburg and Moscow, and at each place they race both summer and winter. The magnificence of the racing plants at these two places is far ahead of anything ever thought of in America. Most of the racing is conducted on the Russian system. Under this system the entries for a given race are started two at a time on opposite sides of the track. The time of each is taken and at the conclusion of the race the horse having made the fastest time is declared the winner. The races are largely attended, and every one present bets, both the men and the women. Each year the best of the horses at Krenovoi are sent to one of the trainers at St. Petersburg and sold or raced under the immediate charge of what is known as the St. Petersburg Club.

First Call for the Blue Ribbon.

The annual Blue Ribbon sale at Cleveland, has been set for the six days from May 12 to 17, and is a week earlier than last year. I tending consignors will please make a note of this.

At both our last sales, a number of most desirable consignments had to be declined, simply because there was no room for them. Only so many horses can be disposed of at any one sale and when the limit is reached, that settles it.

Hence the need of owners deciding in ample time on what they propose selling. We urge all to communicate with us now, so we may arrange for proper cataloguing and intelligent advertising. The sooner consignors furnish us with the necessary data, the better able we are to do them ample justice in placing their horses before the buying public. The market for first class stock was never better than now, and delays are dangerous. We already have the cream of a number of representative breeding establishments, and we feel confident our next sale will be the best we have ever held in Cleveland.

Don't wait until the last minute and don't be among those that are left on the outside. Jump in now and get a centre seat in the Blue Ribbon band wagon.

FASIG-TIPTON CO.

L. M. Ladd, a leading breeder and dealer in fine draft horses, came over from Hollister yesterday morning and purchased a fine Clyde stallion of Conrad Storm for $500. He also purchased from William Robson two fine Clyde mares at $250 each.—Salinas Journal.

Haywards Horse Show.

But for a day of heavy and frequent showers that made the streets and roads sloppy and muddy, Haywards would have entertained the biggest crowd of people last Saturday ever seen within the precincts of that pretty town in Alameda county. As it was, there were a thousand or two who did not allow water and mud to keep them at home when a lot of fine horse-flesh was to be displayed and they were well repaid for venturing out. At least a hundred horses were paraded and we defy any county in the United States or any other country to make a better showing. Led by as handsome a stallion as ever wore a bridle—Stam B. 2:11½—the procession passed through the principal streets of the town and each horse in turn was introduced by Mr. Samuel Gamble who announced its breeding and record, the place where located for this season, and whether or not for sale.

No prizes were given, but the spectators were permitted to form their own judgment and pick their own favorites. Nearly every horse whose name was printed in the list of entries published in these columns last week was in line, and the trotting bred ones made a particularly fine showing. There were twenty-four of the thirty-six original entries paraded. Stam B. 2:11½ was greatly admired. He is in the very pink of stud condition and was voted one of the most beautiful horses ever bred in California. Monterey 2:09½, driven to a light buggy by Mrs. P. J. Williams, wife of the horse's owner, was another horse that caught the eyes of the horsemen and the public. He is in fine shape and while full of life and spirit showed such a perfect disposition that he drew favorable comments from all sides.

Welcome 2:10½ and William Harold 2:13½, owned by the Meek estate of Haywards, were two stallions that showed well in harness. Welcome is a large horse with style and handsome conformation while Harold is smaller but all horse. There were several teams and single roadsters by Welcome and Harold that were much admired for their beauty and fine action.

Educator, the black son of Director owned by Mr. Henry of Haywards, made a fine showing in the parade and his son, Ed Keil, was voted one of the handsomest youngsters in the show.

Gossiper 2:14½, the handsome son of Simmons, and sire of several fast ones was driven to a cart. He has the same jaunty appearance that he had when he was known as one of the dandies of the circuit and looks as if he could equal his mark again if trained.

Ed Kavanagh of Vallejo, sent his horse, Gaff Topsail 2:16, all the way from the navy yard town to be shown and he lost nothing in comparison with the others. Gaff Topsail is doing well in the stud and promises to be a very successful sire.

Comet Wilkes 2:21 by Guy Wilkes, one of the favorite Contra Costa county stallions, was in the line of march and made a very handsome appearance. Among the stallions without records that were shown were Paramount by Altamont, Skylark by Comet Wilkes, Warren by Walker, Aleka by Chas. Derby, Dewey by Altamont, Abdol by Grand Moor and Metz by Malta.

One of the features of the parade was the old mare Cricket 2:10 by Steinway, the first mare to pace that fast to high wheels. She is the dam of William Harold 2:13½ and two more in the list, and had at foot a very handsome and stout built colt by Nutwood Wilkes 2:16½ that was greatly admired.

The display of roadsters, both single and teams, was very fine. A pair of Welcomes belonging to the Meek estate and a pair of Chas. Derbys owned by Geo. A. Davis, of Pleasanton, were surrounded by a crowd whenever they stopped.

No finer display of draft horses has ever been seen at a fair in California. There were ten big handsome stallions, Percherons, Shires and Clydes, besides several grade stallions.

The lilliputians were also in evidence and quite a number of very pretty Shetlands were shown.

The only drawback to the show was the weather and as this was beyond the control of the citizens who inaugurated and managed Hayward's first horse show they cannot be charged with anything but praise for their work. The affair was well managed throughout and great credit is due each and every one of the gentlemen who had the matter in charge. Next year Haywards will repeat the show and if there is anything like clear weather the town will be hardly large enough to contain the crowd that will attend.

Mr. Hugh Vail of Santa Barbara, who advertised for a jack in this paper recently, writes us to remove the ad as he has secured a very fine one. Mr. Vail states that he can testify to the efficacy of the BREEDER as an advertising medium, for were he to try to answer all the letters received in reply to the ad he should have to hire a private secretary, and that he did not know there were so many jacks west of the Rockies. Mr. Vail inserted the ad at the request of Mr. G. G. Robbins of Santa Barbara, who has leased Mr. Vail's stallion Neil W. for the season. Mr. R. reports that Neil W. and the jack will both be well patronized this year.

Pacific District Board of Appeals.

At a meeting of the Pacific District Board of Appeals of the National Trotting Association, held last Tuesday, at which Messrs. E. P. Heald, A. B. Spreckels, J. C. Kirkpatrick and Capt. N. T. Smith, the full representation of the Board, were present, the following cases taken under advisement at the January meeting were passed upon:

No. 1. J. L. Smith, H. D. Brown, I. H. Mulholland, J. Donahue, W. Mastin and F. E. Ward vs. the Golden Gate Race Meet. Applications denied.

No. 2. I. H. Mulholland, C. F. Bunch, A. L. Conklin and J. R. Freeman vs. the Santa Rosa Racing Association.

For relief from suspension, the claim being made that after entries were made the meeting was not given by the Santa Rosa Racing Association. Applications denied.

No. 3. W. Mastin, S. C. Tryon and H. D. Brown vs. District Agricultural Association No. 6, Los Angeles, Cal.

For relief from suspension on the grounds that under the conditions of the meeting one horse should not be permitted to walk over for the stakes. Applications denied.

No. 4. State Agricultural Society, Sacramento, vs. District Agricultural Society No. 44, Colusa, Cal.

Application for the return of money collected by the State Agricultural Society on account of Colusa Association.

Wm. Duncan and the horse Kentucky Baron were allowed to start in a race at Colusa while under suspension by the State Agricultural Society.

Application allowed and it was ordered that the suspension against Wm. Duncan and the horse Kentucky Baron be continued in force and when paid the money distributed to the member at Colusa. It was ordered that William Duncan, of Chico, be fined $50, under Sec. 1, rule 51, for starting Kentucky Baron at the Colusa meeting on July 26, 1900, while under suspension for non-payment of entrance due the State Agricultural Society.

All That is Recommended.

JACOB JAECKLE,
Contractor and Builder, Hardwood Finish a Specialty,
Office and Mill, 915 Genesee Street,
Buffalo, N. Y., February 19, 1902.
Dr. B. J. Kendall Co., Enosburg Falls, Vt., Gentlemen:—I saw one of your books called "A Treatise on the Horse and his Diseases," and I find it very good, which I must say also of your Spavin Cure, of which I have used about four bottles and find it all you recommend. I have been trying to get one of your books for some time and never could, so I thought I would take this course. The one I saw was published in 1891; maybe you have one later than that. Awaiting the granting of this favor, I remain, Yours respectfully, W. JACOB JAECKLE.

Major Daingerfield, manager of Castleton Stud, has received a letter from Foxhall Keene, to the effect that James R. Keene and trainer James Rowe are highly satisfied with the two year olds by Ben Brush which have just been shipped East. They are the first of that noted race horses's produce to be sent to the trainer's hands.

Jim Thompson's Dream.

At the sale of broodmares from Palo Alto Stock Farm, held in this city January 30th, Mr. S. Christensen of the Palace Hotel purchased the mare Ororose by Oro Wilkes 2:11, in foal to Mendocino. She was sent back to Palo Alto to await the arrival of the foal and then to be again bred to the same horse. The other day Mr. Christensen received the following characteristic letter from James Thompson, the Palo Alto Farm's head trainer, and known to California horsemen as the Cicero of the trotting turf:

DREAM LAND, Sept. 10, 1905.

DEAR CHRISTENSEN: On the night of the 3d of March, 1902, while enjoying a tired man's sleep, about the hour of midnight (fifteen minutes past one), there came a "tapping, gentle rapping at my chamber door," arousing me from deep slumber. The night-watchman informed me that your mare Ororose had just foaled a fine filly foal.

The next day after lunch I journeyed to the paddock to take a good look at mother and foal, and after observing all the strong points of the newly-born I sat down under the shade of an old oak to enjoy a cigar, and while there Morpheus embraced me, and oh! what a dream! I broke your filly as a yearling. You and I talked it over and we decided to work her a quarter in 40 seconds, which she did handily. Then we turned her out, wintered her nicely and the following spring commenced to jog her. We decided to step her a quarter in 35 seconds. You said she was entered in the Stanford Stakes with 365 more, by all the leading sires in California. Then we gave her a short run and the next spring commenced to work her in earnest. Chris, I can see the smile on your face, just as plain as yesterday, when she showed us a quarter in 31½ on August 23d. How you and I planned to keep it quiet! We decided to start her in the Stanford Stakes at Sacramento. Can I ever forget such a day? Great crowd, great betting, your filly selling in the field—17 starters. We laid her up the first two heats, and when you walked over to where we were cooling out great beads of perspiration stood on your face, all your pockets filled with pool tickets, and the gentleman who came with you, how he pleaded for you to go and hedge. He said he had been your counsellor and had tried to educate you in breeding and training of high-class families. "Now," said he, "you cannot afford to lose, for your filly will lose a toe-weight, or make a break, or run out of the gate, or some horse will put his foot in your wheel." But, old boy, you were game to the core. I never shall forget your instructions: "Go away fast, don't stop driving nor look around until you reach the wire"—but you did look pale when we were scoring. After the third score we got the word. My heart was in my mouth until we got around the first turn, and when we struck the back stretch she was sailing in the lead. I didn't even cluck to her until the head of the stretch. There I simply tapped her with the whip, and say, didn't she respond? She fairly flew to the wire! The people in the grand stand arose in one mass, shouting themselves hoarse. Every eye was on the judge's stand, waiting for the announcement, while there was a little hesitancy on the part of the judges. We found out afterwards that Tim Crowley was anxious to fine me $200 for laying up the first two heats. The time was hung out—2:10½, the rest distanced. My! Chris, didn't we have friends! It was almost impossible to get near the mare. You did not tell me how much you won, but some of your friends said $40,000.

All at once I felt some velvety, loving touch on my cheek, and such a fragrant breath—like a zephyr from an unbounded field of carnations. I said: "Don't do that, Miss Britt, I am not Anderson the Klondyker." Presently a little nip on my nose and I awoke. Behold! your baby colt had been licking my face. I got up on my feet and with sweat dripping from my brow I spoke to myself: "Oh! for a Gibson cocktail or a drink of number six to quiet my throbbing nerves."

Yours sincerely,

JAS. THOMPSON.

A Good Spark.

Nine times out of ten the trouble with gas engines is in the ignition. Where batteries are used they become polarized and a weak spark is the result. In another part of this paper will be seen the advertisement of the autosparker manufactured by the Mot-singer Device Manufacturing Company, which does away with the use of batteries, gives a good spark at any speed, is constant and positive. It is claimed that it is better than a magneto and any other style of dynamo for this purpose.

Notes and News.

Colorado Circuit entries close to-day.

The Napa track is in fine shape for training horses.

The Hartford Futurity, $11,000 for $1 closes Monday next.

Kentucky Futurity, $21,000, closes to-day. Nominate your mare.

It is said that nearly 110,000 horses were shipped out of Montana in 1901.

Hans Frelson has gone to Pleasanton with a string of seven or eight trotters and pacers.

Seven mares with records better than 2:10 have been booked to Cresceus.

The stallion Geo. W. Archer 25,492 will make the season of 1902 at Salinas.

Sam Gamble had his red vest on at the Haywards horse show and made a hit.

Secretary has been taken to Petaluma and will make the season at his old stamping ground.

Charles Jeffries is working quite a number of green trotters and pacers for Thos. S. Griffith, of Seattle.

An advertiser wants a good driving horse, trotter or pacer, that can beat 2:30. See our advertising columns.

Dick Benson has decided to campaign his string of horses this year and will take a dozen head to Memphis.

San Telmo 2:16 by Arion 2:07½ will be campaigned this season and is counted on as sure to enter the 2:10 list.

James Butler's fast pacing mare Hetty G. 2:05½ has been shifted to the trotting gait and will be raced this year.

Ed A. Tipton has been made president of the Fasig-Tipton Company, and right well is he fitted for the place.

Pixine—that's the stuff that cures grease heels and scratches every time. It is a new remedy and one of the best.

The foal of Cricket 2:10 this year is a lusty colt by Nutwood Wilkes 2:16½. He should be a fast one on his breeding alone.

Oro Rose by Oro Wilkes has foaled a fine filly by Mendocino. She is owned by S. Christensen of the Palace Hotel bar.

There is a report in Toledo that Geo. Ketcham is at the head of a movement to build a mile track there. The location is to be in West Toledo.

Seattle will give one of the big meetings on the North Pacific circuit. Entries to the big early closing stakes will close April 1st. Read the ad.

George Starr, who has been absent from the Grand Circuit for two years will be out again this year with a string of horses entered in the big stakes.

Genius by Belsire 2:18 is entered in $55,000 worth of three year old stakes to be trotted this year. He worked quarters when a yearling in 36 seconds.

Every stall at Pleasanton is occupied and the Pleasanton Training Track Association is figuring on building more stalls. Over a hundred horses are stabled there.

If all the McKinneys sold during the last six months could be reported, the average would be higher than the prices paid for the get of any trotting stallion in America.

The new rule which says that no heat shall be started after sunset by the calendar will make an Old Farmer's Almanac a necessary part of every track secretary's equipment.

A double team race for pacers is one of the races talked about by horsemen when the programs for 1902 are up for discussion. The chances are one would fill in California this year.

Sam Gamble will have to leave the red vest out of his colors for the coming season. Col. Gus Macey got that part of the combination copyrighted four years ago.—Ky. Stock Farm.

Monterey 2:09½ will receive a fair patronage this year. Breeders are recognizing in this son of Sidney a horse that should not be overlooked. He has all the qualifications for a great sire.

Addison 2:11½ was purchased this week by Mr. J. C. Bray for a gentleman of Butte, Montana, and will be shipped there soon with a carload of horses Mr. Bray is getting together for that market.

The 2:11 class pace should be one of the best races in California this year. There are at least twenty horses in this State eligible to this class whose owners think they would have a chance to win.

Governor Gage has appointed the following as directors of Agricultural District No. 33, San Benito county: William Higby, Thomas Flint, Jr., G. E. Shaw, J. A. Schofield, R. I. Orr and A. G. Wilson.

Truman's Brother 2:18½ by Electioneer is dead at Montpelier, Ind. He died from the effects of burns sustained in a fire that destroyed his owner's barn. Truman, his full brother, lost his life in the same way.

Coast agents for McMurray's sulkies, carts and speed wagons. Wheels to order for sulkies and carts at $18, $21 and $25 per pair. Kenney Bicycle Co., 531 Valencia street, San Francisco. Phone White 81. *

Eleata trotted nine heats in 2:10 or better last season, Cresceus eight, Lord Derby eight, Boralma six, Captor six, Dolly Dillon four, Toggles four, Chain Shot two, Dolly Bidwell two, Janice two and Onward Silver two.

Cherry Lass 2:24½, one of the prospects for the big pacing stakes this year is a granddaughter of the famous old mare Lady Bunker, dam of Guy Wilkes 2:15½. The dam of Cherry Lass is Welcome Bunker by Mambrino King.

M. Henry and Geo. Gray were the wheel horses of the Haywards Horse Show and much of the success attained is due to their efforts. They were right up in the collar from start to finish and kept the traces taut all the time.

Monroe Salisbury bought a big brown gelding by Chas. Derby 2:20 the other day that he thinks may be a second Azote. He is six years old, over 16 hands high, a square trotter, but has never been trained a day in his life.

A meeting of representatives from the agricultural districts in the northern part of the State are to meet in Marysville next week to arrange dates for a northern circuit. It is expected a circuit of five or six weeks can be arranged.

John Finnell of Napa, went to Salinas last week and purchased of J. B. Iverson a fine looking three year old grade Clyde stallion and of Hon. Jesse D. Carr two three year old shire stallions for shipment to his stock farm in Tehama county.

Buffalo will give one of the big meetings on the Grand Circuit. Six of its big early closing purses are advertised in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, to close one week from next Monday. If you are going East, don't fail to get off at Buffalo.

Geo. H. Ketcham has an order from Mr. Walter Winans, of England, for a 2:10 trotter. The American harness horse is gradually but surely forcing his way into popularity across the pond and the faster they go the greater is the demand.

J. R. Albertson is working eight head of trotters and pacers at the Fresno track. All are green horses without records, but there are three or four good prospects among them. A pacer by Strathway is particularly well thought of.

"That horse looks very much like old Gibraltar," said an old horseman at Haywards last Saturday during the parade. On inquiry it was learned that the horse was Metz, a grandson of Gibraltar owned by William Teason of Haywards.

Julia M., a three year old filly by Zombro 2:11, worked a mile last week over the Los Angeles track in 2:17½, and Walter Maben, her trainer, says she will trot in 2:15 in April. Many of the young Zombros are showing great speed at Los Angeles.

It is now authoritatively announced that Mr. Lawson paid the Messrs. Hamlin of Village Farm $50,000 for Dare Devil 2:09, a few weeks since. Not since the $41,000 paid for Stamboui 2:07½, by E. H. Harriman, has a stallion sold for so much money.

Nutwood is a wonderful sire. He has 172 standard performers, his daughters have produced 187 in 2:30 and 135 of his sons are producers, a greater number of producing sons that have been sired by any horse except Hambletonian 10, who is represented by 154.

Major P. P. Johnston, president of the National Trotting Association, with a party of friends has gone to Florida, where he will spend a couple of months cruising along the coast. Major Johnston is the owner of some fine cocoanut groves on the Gulf of Mexico.

Golden Gate Park Driving Club will hold a race meeting May 30th, at which four races will be given for club members. The O'Kane Challenge Trophy will be again contested for at this meeting. If possible the Emeryville track will be secured for the meeting.

Letter B. 2:17½ by Ward B., son of Eros, was discovered on the Dunne ranch near Salinas last week with a broken leg. A veterinary set the limb and it is thought the mare can be saved for breeding purposes. Letter B's dam, Brown Irish, was by that good thoroughbred stallion Judge McKinstry.

When Boralma was matched against The Abbot 2:03½ and Lord Derby 2:06½, it was decided to open bids from track managers, to be opened March 1st. The two matches were to be trotted over the track or tracks whose management offered the best inducements. So far as has been learned, A. J. Welch, of the Charter Oak and Oakley tracks at Hartford and Cincinnati was the only important bidder. Mr. Welch, it is stated, has offered sixty per cent of the gate and grand stand receipts and leaves the choice of tracks to the owners.

Brushing on the speedway in Golden Gate Park will soon again be the thing on Saturday afternoons and Sundays. Since the rains set in a few weeks ago the speedway has been kept closed, but is now open once more.

Zombro had been bred to fourteen mares at Los Angeles this year up to last Sunday and mares are being booked to him every day. What suits his owner, Geo. Beckers, more than anything else is that the mares already bred and booked are the best bred lot Zombro has ever been mated with.

Mr. Parks of this city will have his pacer Imp 2:19½ by Diablo trained again this year. James Berryman will probably take the horse in charge two or three weeks hence and believes he will have a good one for the 2:20 and faster classes. Imp is over fifty pounds heavier than he ever weighed heretofore.

Ed Lafferty's four year old stallion by Silver Bow out of Grace (the dam of Dadaelion 2:11, Creole 2:15 and Eagle 2:19½) by Buccaneer, is one of the most admired horses at Pleasanton. Mr. Lafferty is inclined not to race him this year as he is still growing, and believes he will have a great horse in him as a five year old.

A good sulky will be needed when the horses begin moving fast and the McMurray is one of the best made. Ask Kenney, the bikeman, about them. He is agent for this make of sulkies, carts and speed wagons and is selling them at lower prices than any vehicles of equal quality that are made. In many respects the McMurray vehicles lead the world.

Joe Gohagan of Toledo, Ohio, owner of the famous trotting stallion Galbetor 2:11½ by Galvin (son of Gambetta Wilkes), a few days ago refused an offer of $15,000 for the horse. The prospective purchaser was H. M. Hanna of Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Hanna is a member of the Cleveland Driving Club, and wanted Galbetor for the matinee races in that city.

Charley Doble, one of the younger brothers of Budd Doble, and the man who so successfully campaigned Lord Vincent 2:08½ a few years ago, has leased the track at Elmira, N. Y., and will train a stable of horses there this year. In company with others he will also give a race meeting on the Elmira track in connection with the Hudson and Mohawk Valley circuit.

Mr. Juan Gallegos of Mission San Jose will probably enter his black pacing mare by Direct in several of the purses given for pacers of the slow classes on the Grand Circuit. The mare has no record, but has worked several heats better than 2:15. She will be trained and driven by Mr. Gallegos' son, and it will be his first experience in the sulky. May good luck and speed attend him.

By way of encouraging other breeders to select pretty and appropriate names for their trotters, Thos. W. Lawson has offered five prizes, amounting to $500, to the owners of the horses registered this year who choose the best names for them. He is to be the sole judge. Mr. Lawson says combination names suggestive of parentage will be given the preference. The competition closes January 3, 1903.

James Thompson, who is training about 42 two year olds at Palo Alto Stock Farm for the Cleveland sale in May, says the most remarkable thing in his experience is the fact that not one of the youngsters shows an inclination to pace—all being square trotters. This is evidence that Senator Stanford laid the foundations of his great farm wisely and that the objects he sought for are being obtained. He started out to breed trotters and succeeded.

Mr. McCleery, an English gentleman who, when in California a year or so ago, secured several trotting bred horses and shipped them to his home for use as road and park horses, took among others the trotting horse Arrow 2:14 by Silver Bow 2:16. In a recent letter to a friend in this city he states that Arrow is one of the best high steppers owned in the district where he lives and attracts great attention when driven on the street or in the parks.

Two weeks from to-day the Fred Talbot place, near San Leandro, is to be sold by auction to the highest bidder together with all the horses, Jersey cows, Shetland ponies, furniture, wagons, buggies, carts, harness and in short everything on this magnificent farm is to go. There are a number of standard bred horses to be sold and there is a reserve price on nothing. Mr. Talbot wishes to sell everything as he is too busy to devote any attention to the handsome property. See advertisement in this issue.

Lewis A. Dougherty, whose hay and grain commission office is located at 26 Montgomery street, is making a specialty of keeping on hand for shipment to Hawaii, Manila and all foreign ports a large supply of choice hay in compressed bales. In shipping hay bulk is a very great consideration as freight bills are large, and it is only the very choicest article that can be exported with profit. Mr. Dougherty has a big supply of choice compressed hay now at his warehouse 203 Berry street, and can ship any quantity on short notice.

For some little time past the Adams and American Express Cos. have been very good buyers of horses of their kinds in the Chicago market says the Breeders Gazette. It is told that both of these concerns are laying in an extra stock whenever they can get what suits them out of a load for the reason that the managers who have charge of the equine supply departments of both companies believe that there is going to be a regular famine of such horses, and they would better get them when they are to be had, and not be put to the expense of getting different rigs at some future time, when they cannot get horses big enough and fast enough to do the work as it is now organized.

THE SADDLE.

Longstreet and the "Colt Nick."

The articles on scientific inbreeding which W. H. Rowe is contributing to the New York Telegraph, have been widely read by thoroughbred breeders and have caused much study of this interesting problem. The following is Mr. Rowe's latest contribution to the series:

One of the most interesting and important features of the present turf era is the increased attention which is being paid to scientific breeding. The discoveries in this realm of the thoroughbred industry have been especially numerous and valuable during the past decade. There may be something of a diversity in present opinions as to which of these discoveries is of really the most value and importance, but I think that a majority favor the Figure Guide's maxim for the production of race horses, namely, returning to a stallion the best strains of his dam.

It should be borne in mind that the advocates of this principle are not to be construed as claiming for it an invariable operation. The breeding problem is obviously dependent upon many operations of nature. These considerations may possess a fixed and invariable principle or foundation, but it is beyond argument that this fixed and invariable basis (if one really exists) has never been discovered. The most that we have accomplished is a deduction from the evidence as witnessed in the greatest percentage of cases. Here we reach our foundation for the Figure Guide's principle of returning to a stallion the best strains of his dam, in order that he may sire great colts.

I placed particular stress upon the operation of this principle when the pedigrees of Conroy and Commando were under discussion in previous articles of this series. I now turn to another of America's classic three year olds of 1901, and claim The Parader (winner of the Withers, Realization, etc.) as a very conspicuous exponent of the Figure Guide's "colt's nick" to which I have just referred.

The Parader's sire, Longstreet, is by Longfellow out of Semper Idem, she by imp. Glen Athol out of Semper Vive, she by Waverly out of Semper Felix, she by imp. Phaeton out of Crucifix, she by Lexington out of Lightstone, she by imp. Glencoe out of Levity.

Let us now note the strains of blood in the various sires whose names occur in the pedigree of Semper Idem.

Glen Athol was by Blair Athol out of Greta. Blair Athol was by Stockwell out of Blink Bonny, she by Melbourne out of Queen Mary. Greta was by Voltigeur out of Mountain Flower, she by Ithuriel, son of Touchstone.

Waverly was by imp. Australian, he by West Australian, son of Melbourne. Imp. Phaeton was by King Tom out of Merry Sunshine, she by Storm (son of Touchstone) out of a daughter of Falstaff, he by Touchstone. King Tom and Stockwell (the latter mentioned in connection with Blair Athol) were each out of Pocahontas, she by imp. Glencoe, sire of Lightsom.

Let us now examine the pedigree of Pretense, from whom Longstreet sired The Parader. Pretense is by Plenipo out of Boulotte.

Plenipo was by imp. Bonnie Scotland out of Dora, she by imp. Australian out of Lindora by Lexington. Boulotte was by imp. King Ernest out of Ponch, she by Harry Bassett (son of Lexington) out of imp. Wombat by West Australian.

Names which have already occurred in Longstreet's dam are plainly to be seen in Pretense's bloodlines as thus briefly stated, but we find even more returns upon dipping a bit deeper. Bonnie Scotland was out of Queen Mary, thus returning Glen Athol's possession of that invaluable blood. Imp. King Ernest was by King Tom out of Ernestine by Touchstone.

All of these individuals which I have been quoting were absolutely unrepresented in the pedigree of Longstreet's sire, Longfellow, and so it is all the more evident that The Parader illustrates the "colt nick" of affinities which were returned to his sire's dam.

Perhaps I can illustrate this with considerably more clearness by giving an outline of the principal strains in the pedigree of Semper Idem, dam of Longstreet:

SEMPER IDEM
(Stockwell, son of Pocahontas, she by Glencoe.
Blink Bonny by Melbourne out of Queen Mary.
Voltigeur.
Touchstone.
Australian by West Australian, son of Melbourne.
Weatherbit.
King Tom, son of Pocahontas, she by Glencoe.
Touchstone (twice).
Lexington.
Glencoe, sire of Lightsome.

Longstreet's possession of all these strains, as I have said, is practically confined to his dam, Semper Idem, and the great strength of the "colt nick" which was furnished by Pretense will easily be recognized in the following list of her eight grandparents as found in the third remove of her tabulated pedigree:

PRETENSE
Lago.
Queen Mary.
Australian, by West Australian, son of Melbourne.
Lindora by Lexington.
King Tom, son of Pocahontas.
Ernestine, son of Touchstone.
Harry Bassett by Lexington.
Wombat by West Australian.

I feel that no one will now question the propriety of quoting The Parader as an elegant illustration of the "colt nick." I can go even farther in the matter, however, for the stud success of Longstreet himself is on precisely the same basis. One of the best colts in earlier days was Lothario, winner of the classic Champagne Stakes as a two-year old and the Carlton at three.

Lothario's dam, Brunette, was by imp. Bonnie Scotland, out of Variella, she by Vandal, son of Glencoe. We have already found Bonnie Scotland to be the sire of Plenipo, who in turn sired The Parader's dam. The Queen Mary blood of Longstreet's dam was, therefore, returned one generation closer in Lothario, while the Glencoe was two generations closer. Lothario's strain of Vandal was also very important, for Vandal was himself a half-brother to Levity, the sixth dam of Longstreet. And then, more than this, the fourth dam of Levity and Vandal was also the third dam of Lexington.

Longstreet's last crop of winners offer equally interesting and important evidence in favor of the "colt nick." Four two year old winners were credited to Longstreet in 1901, of which no less than three were out of mares by imp. Great Tom, he by King Tom, out of a daughter of Voltigeur. This juvenile trio comprised Jack Demund, Hans Wagner and Easy Street, of whom Jack Demund and Hans Wagner claimed daughters of imp. Bonnie Scotland as grandams. All three colts were from great-grandams who possessed a close strain of Lexington. Thus we find that 75 per cent of Longstreet's winning two year olds of 1901 were from mares who systematically returned his dam's best strains, practically on the lines as found in The Parader and Lothario.

The fourth winner, Hunter Raine, is out of a daughter of imp. Charaxus, he by Distin, out of Sappho. This gives a "colt nick" return, although not so strong, for Distin was by Trumpeter, he by Orlando, son of Touchstone, while Sapphire was out of a daughter of Voltaire. Semper Idem's pedigree, as outlined above possessed a line of Voltaire through his son, Voltigeur, in addition to three lines of Touchstone. Hunter Raine's grandam was out of War Song, she by War Dance, son of Lexington, which constitutes another return.

The subject needs little summing up, for I feel certain that the operation of scientific inbreeding in the stud career of Longstreet has been demonstrated beyond all gainsaying. The percentage of results the world over is also indicative of the same teaching, and I trust that the foregoing analyses—of which The Parader is treated with the greatest degree of thoroughness—merit the most careful study and consideration by all participants in the breeding industry.

Hidalgo's Gossip.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

LOS ANGELES, March 9th.

And so the California colt beat the stout stranger from the Blue Grass region, High Chancellor. I did not think it probable even at the difference in weights, for the Odd Fellow's son had shown himself a colt of undeniable class, and I had always looked for his sire, whom I consider the best bred Matchem horse in America, to beget one real topsawyer. Well, wait till they meet at even weights and then, if the son of Golden Garter beats High Chancellor, I shall be ready to admit the maize. Eight pounds is a difference on these muddy midwinter tracks, and, counting in her sex allowance, the Schreiber filly, Sylvia Talbot, was likewise giving the winner the same concession. Mr. L. V. Bell, owner of the Suburban winner, Alcedo, has given a handsome piece of plate to the winner, a custom inaugurated by Col. D. M. Burns eleven years ago, when Hot-pur broke the record at one and three-quarter miles. I like that fashion of giving trophies. It recalls the good old days when racing had a dash of sentiment in it and had not been reduced down to a cold-blooded gambling proposition.

My good friend, Mr. J. N. Camden, Jr., of the beautiful Hartland farm at Versailles, Ky., has lost a splendid horse in imported Tarbolton, who received an injury to his head while being landed from the steamship at New York about three weeks ago and died from an abscess which formed on his brain. He had the sense of a philosopher and the courage of a Spartan king, or he would not have lasted as long as he did. I saw him several times while in England last year and was delighted when I heard that the young Kentucky millionaire had brought him over as successor to that grand old stallion, Esher, who "should have died hereafter." Of course, Mr. Camden is a very rich man and does not feel the pecuniary loss, but horses like Tarbolton are not picked up every day, and coming within sixty days after the unexpected death of sturdy old Esher, the blow seems a hard one. His other stallion, Mazagan, purchased by him at the same time, is safely installed in his new quarters alongside of Handsome, now the property of Dr. J. D. Neet, but at one time owned by Mr. "Granger" Jones of Oregon.

I have received a letter from a friend in New York who tells me he has been spending a few days up in Orange county, not far from where Goldsmith Maid first saw the light. While there he visited the farm of Mr. R. McE. Potter and saw an old California favorite, Flambeau, once the hope and pride of Palo Alto. The old hero is looking superbly and his yearlings, the eldest of his get since he went East, are perfect equine pictures. Flambeau was a better horse than he was ever credited for, because his get were never treated correctly, Henry Walsh used to stuff them and pamper them till they looked like prize bullocks at a cattle show. They were sold in December and put to work at once, to be raced in February. The consequence was that dozens of them were knocked to pieces, that should have been merely broken and reserved for racing engagements at three years old. I know that Crescendo was the best two year old that ever went East from this State, so good that I never expect to own his equal; and Mr. Spreckels' colt Ravelston was not very far behind him in racing ability and not at all in looks. My prediction is that Mr. Potter will raise from Flambeau a smaller but more serviceable class of horses than he got at Palo Alto; and as the forcing process is wholly ignored at Pequest, they will acquire a natural growth and be less difficult to train than were his progeny in California. The fifth dam of Flambeau was that great mare Queen of Trumps by Velocipede, who won the Oaks and St. Leger of 1835, completely smothering all the best horses of her day. Mark my words, if Flambeau lives two years longer, you will hear of another Crescendo.

Mr. Otto Zahn has purchased and brought here a very good looking son of imported St. Blaise, called Taranto, his dam being the imported mare Tarantula by Galopin. Here is a chance for Mr. Baldwin to get out of the rut into which he has fallen by sticking to the male line of Lexington, after every intelligent breeder in America had cast it aside as worthless. A good many of the Baldwin mares have Touchstone crosses in them and Taranto is a logical mate for them. But whether the master of Santa Anita will avail himself of this opportunity, is quite another proposition. He has had the Emperor of Norfolk in the stud now nearly thirteen years, during which time he has gotten just two horses of what you might call stake form—Rey del Carreras and Cruzados, the former now being called Americus. I saw him in England last summer, racing in the colors of Richard Croker, and while he is sound as a cobnut and retains all his oldtime speed, he is a bad actor at the post and rarely gets off with the bunch. Mr. Baldwin might better try Taranto with a few of his older mares, for while the son of St. Blaise is as yet untried, I believe that an untried stallion is always better than one that has been tried and found wanting.

Mr. Boots should certainly send some of his Brutus mares—I mean those with a Hercules cross in them to Mr. Spreckels' imported horse Marius, as he will return to them the best blood in his dam, namely the Daughter of Toscar by Bay Middleton. When I saw old Hercules at Mr. Shunnay's place at Mountain View in 1862, I certainly thought him the handsomest big horse I had ever seen, for I had not then been to Australia, nor seen the mighty Abercorn. Hercules was over sixteen hands high and as active as a polo pony. I shall never forget his light and springy walk nor the graceful poise of his intelligent head. It should not be forgotten, either, that he was the sire of Bob O'Hanlon's grand race mare Alpha, that beat Joe Daniels, Nell Flaherty and Osceola at the State Fair of 1874, in the fastest race run on this Coast up to that time. She was afterwards sold to Governor Stanford who tried to breed trotting horses from her. Her dam, Waxy, was the granddam of Sunol 2:08½ to a high-wheeled sulky, by the same token. Hercules got also a big gelding called Gallinipper that I saw in a race at six heats at Carson City in 1867. He was out of Miami, the pretty little bay mare (sister to Owen Dale, by the way) that laid the foundation of Mr. Boots' Elmwood stud from which have already come so many winners.

HIDALGO.

Up to the close of last week Green B. Morris' stable was the heaviest winner at the Oakland track, having over twenty-five thousand dollars to its credit.

Jackson's Napa Soda untangles the feet.

SADDLE NOTES.

Banastar has the top weight in the Metropolitan handicap having been allotted 127 pounds by W. S. Vosburgh, the official handicapper. Watercolor, Mr. Haggin's great colt is next with 126 pounds, three pounds more than Blues, who is to carry 123. In almost every case the Metropolitan weights are virtually the same as those in the Gravesend and Sheepshead Bay events.

The Bell Stakes, the first race of the year for two year olds at five furlongs, was won at Oakland last Saturday by Artvis, a son of Golden Garter that is owned by Green B. Morris. The cup given to the winner by Mr. L. V. Bell is one of the most beautiful pieces of plate that has been run for in California for a long time, and is valued at $500. Artvis was ridden by Jockey O'Connor, who gave the colt a splendid ride.

In the Circuit Court at Louisville, Ky., February 22d Judge Fields, in sustaining the demurrer of the New Louisville Jockey Club to an amended petition of T. P. Hayes, the turfman, in his suit for $50,000 damages on account of the refusal of the club to receive his entries at the race meeting last spring, held that the jockey club is not a public association, and that it has the right to do business or refuse to do business with any person whomsoever it chooses. This practically ends the suit, as Judge Field has already sustained a demurrer to the original petition.

Betting on the Brooklyn and Suburban handicaps appears to have been decidedly lively of late, judging from the revised list of prices just sent out. For the Brooklyn Blues still remains favorite at 8 to 1, with 12 to 1 against Banastar, Alcedo and Bonniberts. A horse that has been pretty widely played since the first quotations appeared is W. M. Hayes' Monograph, backed down from 100 to 1, to 30 to 1. J. G. Follansbee's Roehampton has been played down from 20 to 1 to 15 to 1, and is still at a false price, it is thought. Other cuts in prices are Irritable, from 75 to 50 to 1; Lady Schorr, the same; His Eminence, Toddy and Lanceman, each from 40 to 30 to 1; Gulden, 75 to 60 to 1; The Regent, 50 to 30 to 1; Petra II. and Flora Pomona, each from 150 to 100 to 1. Hernando has gone up from 15 to 20 to 1, while it is now possible to secure 60 to 1 against All Gold. For the Suburban, Watercolor is the choice at the very liberal odds of 8 to 1, while Blues and Gold Heels are held at twelves. Bonnibert, Herbert, Advance Guard and Heno come next in favor, each at 15 to 1, while 20 to 1 can be secured against Banastar, Alcedo and Roehampton. For the American Derby, Abe Frank, McChesney and Runnels are equal favorites at 10 to 1, with Cruzados, Heno and Endurance by Right at 15 to 1.

Dates for Brighton Beach.

The following letter from President Campau of the Grand Circuit to Secretary McCully of the New York Association, explains itself:

DETROIT, Mich., March 1, 1902.

MR. C. A. MCCULLY, Sec'y., 215 Montague street, Brooklyn, N. Y. Dear Sir: On my return to the city, I found a letter from the Secretary of the Glens Falls, New York, Association notifying me of the surrender to the New York Trotting Association of their dates, August 11th to 16, 1902, in the Grand Circuit. At the annual meeting of the Stewards, held in this city January 28th, I was authorized to assign those dates to the New York Trotting Association on receipt of notice of surrender of the week of the Glens Falls Association. I therefore take pleasure in notifying you that those dates have been assigned to your association, and on behalf of the members of the Grand Circuit bid you welcome and extend our best wishes for a most successful meeting. Very truly yours,

D. J. CAMPAU,
President Grand Circuit.

No Change in Fasig-Tipton Sale.

EDITOR B. & S.—It is probably due to the large number of horsemen in this country, Canada and Europe, who have had business dealings with Fasig-Tipton Co., many of whom were friends of the late William B. Fasig, to take this method of publicly informing them that there has been no change in the working force of the firm.

The business will continue to be conducted under the leadership of Mr. E. A. Tipton on the same broad and liberal lines which were mapped out by its deceased senior member, and which has brought it such an eminent degree of success.

In the future we shall endeavor to render our patrons even better service than in the past, if that be possible; and exert ourselves to make this sales firm an enduring monument to the business ability and integrity of its lamented founder.

The Bull Pup Brand.

"Why should we approve of measures that are solely for the benefit of posterity," said the impassioned Irish member, "for let me ask you, what has posterity ever done for us?" Trotting horses fare better, for it is their posterity that rescues their names from oblivion and makes them famous. All the celebrated sires and dams owe their fame to the doings of their descendants. The California mare Jennie is an instance in point. She has no distinguished line of known ancestry, but when it comes to extreme speed, there are few that class with her. She is the dam of Hulda 2:08½ and two others in the list. She had three daughters by Speculation, son of Hambletonian and half brother of Whipple's Hambletonian, and all were high class. Gracie S 2:22 is the dam of Dione 2:07½. Lillie S. is dam of Venus 2nd 2:11½ and Emma S. is dam of Psyche 2:16½. Half of the Spreckels Farm consignment to the Blue Ribbon Sale at Cleveland next May are members of this family, sired by Dexter Prince and Cupid 2:18. All of the foals of these three mares that are three year olds and over will be at the sale and they are choice goods, having style and beauty as well as action and speed.

It is a singular fact that while there are 136 trotters in the 2:10 list, only three of the dams have daughters that produced a 2:10 trotter. These are: First, Fleetwing, dam of Stamboul 2:07½ and of Lady Mackay, dam of Oakland Baron 2:09½; second, Kentucky Central, dam of Kentucky Union 2:07½ and Sylvan Maid, the dam of Onward Silver 2:08; and third, this mare Jennie, dam of Hulda 2:08½ and Gracie S. 2:22, the dam of Dione 2:07½. This shows the class to which Jennie belongs as a producer and reproducer of extreme trotting speed. Little is known of her ancestry. She was sired by Bull Pup, believed to be a son of St. Lawrence, similar to the strain in the dam of Directum 2:05½. If so, the Bull Pup brand of broodmare blood is all right.

A Bit of History.

It was just five years ago that there was a very sensational and well remembered race trotted at the Grand Circuit meeting held at Columbus, O., in which owing to a decision of the judges in declaring a heat won by Oakland Baron 2:09½ "no heat," that horse, who had previously won two heats of the race, was immediately withdrawn by his owner, the late Colonel R. G. Stoner. This was done in defiance of the judges, who thereupon expelled Colonel Stoner, which action caused no small amount of comment. The race was continued without Oakland Baron and was eventually won by the black gelding Mosul, and it was many a day ere discussion over it ceased. Last month, when the Penn Valley Farm management consigned Oakland Baron to the New York sale, both he and Mosul met again, each with a record of 2:09½, made in the above race, and were sold at auction. Oakland Baron brought $15,700, as is well known, and Mosul found a new owner only willing to risk $300 on him. Both are the same age, 10 years, but Mosul is now practically a broken down and outclassed gelding, while Oakland Baron is a sire of rising fame and ultra-fashionable breeding. The incident, as a whole, forcibly illustrates how curiously "time doth revenge."

The Sale of Dan Patch.

Acting for M. E. Sturges, a New York capitalist, M. E. McHenry, the famous reinsman, has bought the great young pacer, Dan Patch 2:04½, from D. A. Messner, of Oxford, Ind. The price, which was $20,000, is second to the largest sum ever paid for a pacer, John R. Gentry once bringing $20,500.

When seen in his room at the Palmer House, Chicago, last week, where he was confined with a severe cold, McHenry had this to say of Dan Patch, which, with the possible exception of the world's champion trotter, Cresceus, is the most talked of horse in the country: "I drove Patch in all his races last summer, and he went through the season without defeat, in fact, he lost but one heat during the entire campaign, which was a strenuous one.

"I never sat behind a gamer horse than the son of Joe Patchen, and he is also possessed of a flight of speed that ought to set his mark the coming season in close to two minutes, provided he has no mishaps.

"He has wintered well and looks as fine as silk.

"I will take a small and select string through the Grand Circuit when the season opens, and Dan Patch will be at the head of my stable."

It is a well known fact that in Kentucky, Tennessee and in fact the entire south, horses are far behind in their work. Reports from Memphis, for instance, where there are always a number of the best race horses in the country in the spring, go to show that not in many years have the race horse people been so anxious about the condition of affairs.

Not a Crank.

"Columbus," who edits the "Western Department" of the Western Horseman, and can come as near hitting the nail on the head as any writer on harness horse matters in the country, has the following to say on the question of laying up heats:

"The writer has always been opposed to laying up heats for the purpose of working the bookmakers or patrons of the bookmakers, but we are not enough of a crank to imagine that every driver who rests a tired horse is doing so for illegitimate purposes. And furthermore, we do not intend offering advice to owners and drivers that we would not act upon if placed in their position. The man who breeds, develops and pays entrance money on a trotting or pacing horse should be granted the privilege of racing his horse according to his own methods. Such men are not robbers, outlaws, etc., and they are far more reliable and honest than the class of men who play the races for the money there is in it. So far as our observation has gone, the man that 'pays the freight' generally knows how to race his horse better than anyone else; he knows just how much punishment he will stand; how many heats he can go when the miles are trotted right at his limit, and he also knows when to rest the horse. Few horses in this Western country can go every one of four or five hard heats without showing signs of fatigue. When a good horse has tried to win and cannot, it is folly to punish both horse and driver at the suggestion of some man who has bet a dollar; yet such things occur altogether too frequently."

Colusa Will Hold a Fair.

Mr. E. C. Peart, one of the leading merchants of Colusa county and an enthusiastic horse breeder of harness horses, was in the city last week and informed us that Colusa will hold a fair this year and desires to claim the dates of July 22d to 26th inclusive for its meeting.

The Colusa directors are trying to get several of the northern counties to join with them and form a northern district, such as was arranged two years ago, except they would like to get Shasta county added to the circuit.

The largest purse at Colusa will be $500, which is not a small purse by any means as outside of the two main circuits over East, very few associations there give more than that amount for a race.

The Colusa association has a new secretary, Mr. J. W. Scoggins, the former secretary, Mr. Wright, having resigned on account of being absent from the county the greater part of the time.

As soon as the directors can canvass the situation a little more thoroughly they will announce a program of harness races for the fair this year.

The steamer Excelsior, of the Southern Pacific line left New Orleans last week with a full load of race horses, steeplechasers, jockeys, etc., for Havana, where the Havana Racing Association has decided to have a three months' race meet. The horses numbered twenty-nine, including Judge Steadman, Newberger, Robert Bonner and Merry Day, and there were thirty-nine jockeys and other horsemen. Seventy-five other American horses were sent over to Havana from New Orleans a few days ago. The Havana Racing Association, which has 150 stockholders, is capitalized at $150,000 and is trying to introduce American racing in Cuba.

Conducted by J. N. De WITT.

The Victoria premium list is at hand. Entries close March 26th with Hon. Secretary T. P. McConnell, 5 Johnson street, Victoria, B. C. E. Davies of Dewdney, will judge all classes. The regular prizes are diplomas and cash, $3 and $2, for best in limit and novice, four dogs must be in a class for money prizes. A large list of handsome specials is also announced. There is 217 classes listed. Handlers' prizes, for the largest strings from California, Oregon, Washington and British Columbia, first $15, second $10.

Bench Show Notes.

The premium list for the April show will be issued to-day. Entries will close on April 12th.

The judges announced are John Davidson of Monroe, Michigan, Pointers, Setters, all Hounds, Great Danes, Mastiffs and Dalmatians. Mr. Davidson judged here in 1891 and 1895, and has a strong following among the Coast fanciers. G. M. Carnochan will pass on Fox Terriers. Major R. L. Rathbone will judge packs of Foxhounds. Hon. Ho Yow, the Chinese Consul, will distribute the prizes for Chows, Japs, etc. An effort has been made to induce J. Pierpont Morgan to send Mr. Robert Armstrong to act in conjunction with Mr. Dudley E. Ward in the special judging of Collies and St. Bernards.

An additional list of the lady patronesses embraces the names of Mrs. Phoebe Hearst, Princess Poniatowski, Mrs. William Wood, Mrs. Harry Babcock,

THE GEORGE H. KETCHAM TROPHY.

Mrs. Robert Bruce, Mrs. Will H. Crocker, Mrs. A. N. Drown, Mrs. George Pope, Mrs. Lawrence Pool, Mrs. Wm. R. Smedburg and Mrs. W. H. Taylor.

The Ketcham silver trophy will be awarded to the best team of four of any breed. Cash prizes of $40, $20 and $10 will go to next best respectively. The teams will be judged on the first day of the show, all the judges officiating. Entrance in this contest will be $10 per team.

The Redelsheimer cup will be given to the best pack of hounds.

Enough specials have been donated to give a cup for nearly every class.

Particular attention will be paid this year to small dogs—which element of the bench show has to some extent been ignored in the past.

Don Cesario in smooth Fox Terriers at New York swept everything before him until he came against the wire haired champions Hands Up and Hot Stuff, who went over him on some specials.

Pointers and Setters at the New York Show.

We are indebted to Mr. F. J. Lenoir and Mr. W. Tallman for the following report on both breeds benched at the recent Westminster Kennel Club show. The report appeared first in Turf, Field and Farm.

The greatest number of Pointers benched for the past seven years. Quality fair, the bitches being of better type and carrying less lumber than the dogs. In dog puppies Chappie of Kent took the blue, with Fair Acre Hector second. Chappie has a better head and stands not so high as Hector; both show light in eye; Mark Rush is coarse. In novice dogs Blackstone, shown in nice condition, won first; he has the best of feet. Dan Woodstock, the second winner, is a big, strong dog of fair type, good head and muzzle, but loses to Blackstone in front and feet. Lumber Boy is too heavy in shoulders. Fair Acre Trinket is plain, and Cresceus has good size, but is light in eye and inclined to be dish-faced. In limit dogs, under 55 pounds, the winner, Fair Acre Puzzle, is a clean-cut Pointer, with the best of running gear, beating his kennel mate in head, shoulders and feet, Blackstone getting third, and close up to Fair Acre. Bonnie Flynt's Boy, reserve, is throaty and turns out too much on his front feet; he is good in body and eye. In limit dogs, 55 pounds and over, the winner, Dan Woodstock, already described, is not so light in eye and muzzle as Young Flint, and Tioga Sam, coming next, seemed to be over fed—later in the field trial class he showed to better advantage. Sam's Maro, reserve, is heavy in shoulders and his feet are not of the best. In open dogs, under 55 pounds, Lansdowne Malt carried away the blue; a good dog right through, the best of feet and shoulders, splendid loins and neck, stands about right; a little more muzzle would improve him; he is a game-looking Pointer, and was in great shape. Prince's Boy was a good second; he stands high from the ground. Shotaway, getting third, was shown too high in flesh, short in head and showing age. Blackstone in this class dropped to reserve, the company being more of the Pointer family. In open dogs, 55 pounds and over, King William was first, put down in good hard flesh; he is said to be short in head and neck; he is a strong dog all over. Dustaway, in good condition, a close second, losing to King in loin and feet, Dan Woodstock losing to Dustaway in condition mostly, Mott Regent going to v h c with others; he was shown soft in flesh and has thickened up. In bitch puppies Fair Acre Anna, first, was the best, being deeper in chest and ribbed out better than Granny. Woolton Girl is light in eye and short in head. Quito, the reserve, is on the same order. In novice bitches Fair Acre Judy was the pick of the class; in fact, in head she was as good as any in the show; her shoulders and feet are good; with more bone she would be hard to beat. Miss Westlake, second, a neat little bitch, with splendid loin and good feet; nice eye. Ruth of Kent, wider in front and thicker in skull, was third. Linden Bess, the reserve, is a fair bitch. In the limit bitches, under 50 pounds, Princess Alice, first, is a neat bitch; good head, ears well hung; a showy Pointer. Westlake Surprise, second, is of good type, shown a little light in flesh. Lass o' Yoka, getting third, lost some in shoulders, Miss Westlake going to reserve, with Bessie Bang II. v h c. All five are good bitches. In limit bitches, 50 pounds and over, Westlake Ornament, shown light in flesh, but a well formed Pointer, was first, May Hobson, too flat and long in loin, but good in head and feet, going to second place. Linden Bess, described before, third, with Nellie III., reserve, a fair bitch. In open bitches, under 50 pounds, Ch. Westlake Startle, the winner, is well known, and was easily the best, with Miss Westlake in second place and Bessie Bang II. getting third; the latter two being close. Prince's Lad's Lassie for reserve, with Lad's Letty v h c. In open bitches, 50 pounds and over, Belle Westlake, never shown in such hard flesh, won with something to spare. May Hobson, the second winner, loses in bone, loin and ribs. Daisy Steen, getting third, a close thing with the second winner. Winners', bitches, Belle Westlake, first. Princess Alice, reserve, losing in bone, loin and expression to the winner, Lansdowne Malt and Belle Westlake coming together for best Pointer in show. Malt was given the special, his free action and clean front, with readiness to go, winning for him the cup.

The English Setter classes at this show, so far as quality and type are concerned, were ahead of anything I have seen in many years. But I must admit that there is a lack of workman-like character in the general run of show English Setters of the present day, and that it appears to me that the breeders of show dogs and field dogs are getting farther apart each year. I am sure that if those who are anxious to preserve the proper type of English Setter would breed to the best type they have, the dogs of good field trial blood that nearest approach the correct type, there would before long turn up at our best shows dogs that combine both show and field qualities. There was but one dog that made an appearance here that in action on the chain and in harness and game appearance would appeal to one who was looking for a Setter for work. He was entered only in the class for dogs that had been placed at a public field trial. He is not of the correct type of English Setter and there is nothing in his conformation to make him a better field dog than those of correct type. The fact that he is a field dog is due to his having been bred from stock that has been developed in the field without regard to type. His head is common, ears set on too high; he is high on the leg round in barrel, curly in coat and has a bad carriage of tail, but he is full of gameness and hard as nails. There are lots of dogs and bitches owned in every State of the Union that are equally as well bred from a field trial point of view that approach much nearer the correct type of English Setter. If in selecting stock to breed to these field dogs their owners would select dogs of good type that have proved themselves field type they would surely get English Setters in type and bird dogs at the same time. There seems to be a very small number of those who care to compete for bench show honors that are practical sportsmen, and it seems that the field trial men are afraid to breed to any dog that has a strain of show breeding in him for fear that he will lose field quality. If some of those who are spending so much money in getting together kennels of dogs that can sweep the benches would devote some of the capital to training and bringing out dogs of good type in field trials they would reap a harvest, and receive merited praise from both sportsmen and fanciers who cannot afford the time and expense to carry out their ideas. We had an example of field trial and show qualities combined a few years ago in Cincinnati Pride. There is no good reason why such a combination should not be found at present. If those who can afford to buy the best of show winners would select and run at field trials the best they can procure of the type of dogs that win on the bench and prove that that class of dog can win in the field, those who are so much in favor of field dogs would soon be induced to breed from a better type of dog, and the result would be satisfactory. There was an entry of fourteen in dog puppies; of these Real John was the best, showing the most quality and being best in head, neck and shoulders of anything in the class. He is not quite right in hind legs, but I think it is more due to lack of work than to natural conformation. Roderigo D. was second; a very good youngster, and may develop into a winner. He is level throughout and has the appearance of one that would improve. Mike D. was third, a litter brother to the winner of second; there is not much to choose between them at present. Queen's Patch was reserve, followed by another of same litter as second, and third, Bullet D. He is light throughout, but looks as if he might develop into a very good one. The balance of the class were better than the average, nearly all showing good Setter quality. In novice dogs, while all showed fair quality, none of them were up to what would be considered high class, and none were considered by their owners good enough for competition in the limit class. Fred's Roy was first, Fleet Highland second and Windholme Woodchuck third. There were eleven entries in this class. Limit dogs had eight entries, and here the quality of the exhibit began to show itself. Malwyd Sirdar was rather an easy winner. He is a dog of wonderful quality; he has a head which is so clean cut and picturesque as to impress one that it is exaggerated; he is sound and straight on his legs, and well balanced throughout. Bracken o' Leck was second. He is a dog of good type, not as clean in head as the winner, and rather flat in ribs; aside from his color (dark blue and black) he is a handsome dog, and should be a good one to breed to some of the better class of Llewellyn bitches, as he is a good mover and acts as if he might be of good field quality. Deceit was third. He is a very nice-headed dog, but not as strong in body formation as those above mentioned. Stylish Sargeant, Malwyd Bar None, Malwyd Prince and Windholme Woodcock followed in the order named; they are all dogs of fine quality, any of which might win in good company. In open dogs the competition was between Malwyd Sirdar and Barton Tory, and the fact that Barton Tory is nearer to the true type of English Setter was enough to place him ahead of the younger dog. While it is largely a question of fancy as to which has the best head, there is no doubt but that Tory is best in chest formation and nearer to the correct type, either for field work or from an artistic point of view. Bracken o' Leck was third, Deceit reserve and Stylish Sargeant v. h. c., Gilhooley was h. c.; he has grown heavier in shoulders and is lacking in the head qualities of the winner. Barton Tory was first in winners, with Malwyd Sirdar reserve. There were ten entries in bitch puppies. Blue Bess and Pauline B. litter sisters, were first and second, as named, third and reserve going to Fairy D. and Flirt, also litter sisters, and of the same litter as the winners of second and third in the dog puppy class, a very good showing for four puppies of one litter. The winner has an exceptionally nice head, and if she fulfills her promise will be among the best of them another season. In fact, there are several in this lot that, barring accident, will be heard from again. The novice class for bitches brought out a good one in Fan o' Leck. Batrice of Salop was second and Nellie Allis third. In the limit class Malwyd Queen was first. She was not in as good coat as the others, but her highly carried head and elegant running gear (notwithstanding the fact that she is rather long bodied) won for her over some that might be placed over her another time. Fan o' Leck was second and Queen's Paragon third; the latter is a beautiful bitch in outline; in fact, if she was not so slow and sluggish in her action she would crowd the best of them. In the open class Malwyd Queen was again to the front, with Queen's Place Pride second and in Queen's Pride third. Malwyd Queen won in the winners' class, with Queen's Place Pride reserve. The special for the best kennel was won by the Vancroft Kennels, and also the specials for the best English Setter with Barton Tory. The special for the best English Setter puppy was won by Mr. Horace A. Belcher with Blue Bess.

G. G. Gauld's MIRIAM J. and her daughter DUTCHESS.

Striped bass are very plentiful in the local markets. The fish are nearly all very large ones and are taken on the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers and in the shallow waters of east San Pablo bay.

The rod fishermen have not shown themselves very diligent in bass angling recently. W. R. McFarland has caught several lately in Raccoon Straits. On Wednesday, McFarland, W. S. Kittle and Louis F. Weinman tried the straits. Weinman landed a ten-pound fish.

Along the Marin county shores the herring are now to be found in countless schools busily engaged in spawning. The bass are feeding on the herring and for this reason have ignored the seductions of the trolling spoon recently. The experts claim that when the herring leave again, striped bass anglers will have a chance to catch more fish.

The Pointers in the Field Trials of 1901.

Looking over the records of the field trials of 1901 the Pointer breeders find some encouragement and no reasons to ask for favors or for separate stakes for their favorite dog, Charles B. Pineo, of Bar Harbor, and a well known Eastern Pointer fancier, writes in the American Kennel Gazette for February.

The short-haired dog has more than held his own; he has won more than his share of the honors.

The English Setter has for a number of years had the support of the very wealthy, and has been boomed.

At present the English Setter is hunting for a type, talking about the ability of his ancestors and trying to find out where he is at. The Pointer in the hands of comparatively poor men has kept along in the even tenor of his way, and is not asking for any odds of his rival. Of the Pointers running in the trials of 1901, all things considered, it would seem that King Cyrano was about the best dog out, and when in condition it takes a good dog of any breed to beat him.

I very much doubt if any dog has yet been produced that has a license to win from him. He comes by his field ability honestly, for his sire is Champion Jingo, a field trial winner; his dam is by King of Kent, a field trial winner, and one of the best Pointers ever owned in America; third dam by the good dog Beaufort.

King Cyrano is an honest worker, and when he makes a mistake seems to know it, and feels as badly about it as anyone.

The future may produce a better dog, but up to the present no dog very much his superior, certainly has not been brought before the public. Rip Tick is another honest, consistent performer; he can be depended upon to do good work at any and all times; in all his trials he ran but very few, if any, poor heats. He has met the best dogs, and defeated many of them, and when not winning first he has made it interesting enough for the others so that they will remember that they had been in a race.

Rip Tick comes honestly by his field ability, for he is by the field trial winner, Young Rip Rap, and out of a daughter of Tick Boy, another field trial winner.

Rip Tick is not all done with his winning, and will be a still better dog this year than last.

Senator P. is a good dog that has proved himself to be a hard nut to crack, running at times in great form.

Lad of Jingo is a dog that has always shown that he can do just what he is bred to do—find birds with the best dogs of any breed, and asks for no favors. He is one of the very best bred Pointers of the present day. His son, Alpin Lad, is a chip of the old block; he has shown himself to be a good young dog that will be in the money hereafter as well as in the past.

Jingo's Boy and Emma B. Rush were both good dogs this past year, and seem to improve in their work and grow better. Certainly, they are a credit to the breed.

Alex II. is a dog of much merit, the first of the season as well as in the previous year, performed well, as she had a right to do from her breeding.

Cuba Jr. is, I think, from the Pacific Coast, and is a credit to any section of the country. [This stylish and consistent performing young liver and white Pointer is by Cuba of Kenwood out of Florida, whelped March 13, 1900; owned and bred by Stockdale Kennels, Bakersfield, R. M. Dodge, manager. Cuba of Kenwood was one of the Pacific Coast field trial winners in 1898, 1899 and 1900 and is also a bench winner. Cuba Jr., besides his Eastern work last year, won the Pacific Coast Derby last January. He was said to have shown himself far ahead of the Derby dogs, but he did not last longer than the second series when he went against the more seasoned dogs of the All-Age. Ned Funston, a Pointer by Kris Kringle out of Plain Sister, was third in the Derby. A Pointer, Dr. Daniels—a lemon and white dog by Plain Sam ex Dolly Dee II., and owned by W. W. Van Arsdale—won the All-Age stake here in January. Pearl's Jingle (Young Jingo—Pearl's Dot II.), owned by Clinton E. Worden, won second place. Of these two Pointers it was said, when they were put down, "It seemed as if the best had been kept for the last," for this brace of Pointers put up one of the finest races ever seen at a Coast field trial. Dr. Daniels is a handsome, wide ranging dog; he hunts his ground with ease and judgment and his work is high class in every particular. Pearl's Jingo is also stylish and wide ranging and runs with a high head, although not so fast as Dr. Daniels. They ran at a side-plitting pace for forty-five minutes, ranging from one-quarter to one-half mile and finished with Daniels on a fine bevy point, Jingle backing beautifully. Judge Balmer complimented the handlers on the fine showing made by both dogs.—ED. B. & S.]

Robs is a dog that, while he did not start in a large number of trials, showed good form in the trials that he did take part in.

Zulika is a good one; I am not familiar with her breeding, but it is very certain she is bred in good lines, for Manitoba has drawn on England very liberally for her Pointer stock, and some of the best Pointers on this side of the Atlantic are in this section.

Among the younger dogs Sabine's Rip has shown that he was of the kind that could win. He no doubt has as much natural ability as any one of the young dogs performing this last year. Coupled with his field ability was good form and good breeding; by Young Rip Rap out of Mother Sabine, own sister to Plain Sam.

It was a loss to the Pointer interest of the West when Sabine's Rip died. I believe the American Pointer has improved in the last fifteen years and is better than his cousin across the water in England, for the work he is required to do in the South, West and North of the United States I believe the present day

American Pointer to be faster than the old dogs and faster than the present dogs in England.

I think it requires a different dog to do the hunting satisfactorily in the West and North of America to what it does to hunt in England, or to do the hunting in New England of our own country.

In the West or North, where much of the hunting is done on horseback, a fast dog is required, and I believe our lighter dog can hunt faster and longer than the heavier dog.

The blood of the English Pointer could be used to advantage, I have no doubt, but the English Pointer, in his present form, and as bred to hunt in his own country, is not just the dog that is required in all parts of America.

[Hunting on horseback in this State and where a field dog is required is not so much in vogue as to be noticeable. Nor do we believe that this practice has many devotees in Oregon or Washington, or in some of the other States or Territories west of the Rockies. When the writer mentions the "North" and the "West" he, we believe, confines himself to a territory east and north of the Missouri and Platte rivers.—ED. B. & S.]

The modern Bull Terrier, frequently referred to as the "gentlemen's dog," is a much different animal from the fierce brute of olden times. To day the typical Bull Terrier is a clean cut, handsome animal, entirely white, and although gamey to the tip of his slender tail, no longer quarrelsome. He is lacking the formidable "pit" expression, common in the old type.

Half a century ago, James Hinks, Birmingham, England, began to cross the patched, heavy-headed Bull Terrier used for fighting with the English white terrier. In due time he produced dogs handsome enough to make a name for themselves and able to revolutionize the variety. It was stated that the new breed were soft and unable to fight, but this supposition has been long ago disproved.

The white dog is now the typical specimen, although the color does not always bar from winning in this country, for the patched dog is often seen in the ring. Lovers of sport delight in Bull Terriers, for they are not only companionable, but teachable, while their gamey qualities may always be relied upon.

Besides being a devoted friend and companion, the Bull Terrier is death on rats, and no vermin exists in his vicinity.

The Bakersfield enthusiasts with the shotgun are taking steps to bring about a State shoot in that city during the free street carnival in April. It is the intention of the promoters of the scheme to get together the clubs from San Francisco, Los Angeles, Fresno, Visalia and other California points to contest. Live birds in abundance can be secured there and a most enjoyable time has been promised if the plans of the shooters are carried through. A gun club is about to be formed in that city. It is proposed by those who have signified their intention of joining the club to move the club house from the grounds at Agricultural Park to a location near Crawford and Hoag's roadhouse. The grounds at this place could be well fixed up at but little expense.

Sacramento game officials are having difficulty in stopping illegal duck shooting. This might be expected from a section where, among one faction of shooters, a sentiment prevailed against the protection of English snipe and where men are out daily hunting ostensibly for the "long bills." Ducks are more than plentiful in many places in the overflows along the Sacramento river.

H. F. Lorquin has had numerous specimens of mounted feathered game on exhibition in a local sportsmen's emporium. Several drake mallards, canvasback and sprig as well as some of the prettily plumaged diving ducks, mounted on handsome shields, are dining room pieces that have been in demand this season.

Some game pieces by the well known local artist, E. W. Currier, have recently won much praise from many sportsmen. One panel in particular, two Oregon pheasants, is notable for their life-like appearance and the brilliancy of coloring of the birds.

The fish time buds are springing.

I wipe the dust from off my pole
And oil again my reel;
And dreams of many a fishing hole
Across my memory steal.

I search again my braided line
For any kink or hitch—
For I can feel along my spine
The yearly fishing itch.

The fishing sun is in the air;
I hear the reels a-singing;
And in my mind I see the pair
Of beauties I am stringing!

—Charles W. Lamb.

Fish Lines.

Mr. Charles Vogelsang, chief deputy of the California Fish Commission, who has recently visited the Siskiyou hatchery, reports that nearly 5,000,000 young salmon have been liberated within the last three weeks into the headwaters of the Sacramento and its tributaries, and 5,000,000 remain to be liberated in the near future for distribution in other counties. These young fry will at once start for the ocean and be gone four years, by which time they will have become mature fish weighing from fifteen to forty pounds.

Reports from the south are to the effect that mackerel fishing is productive of results at Redondo beach when the salt water fisherman fishes at night with the aid of a lantern.

Barracuda have been seen outside last week in the channel off Redondo beach and those who strike the school will get a fair mess. Usually the barracuda run begins about this time and a few catches are made. Then the fish are lost for two or three weeks, when they reappear in larger numbers than ever.

It has never been proved whether barracuda follow the warm water and go south in winter, or live on the bottom during the cold months. It is probable that they do both. Line fishermen who set their gear often take barracuda on the bottom in winter. This shows that some of them must be around in the rainy season. On the other hand, it is a known fact that they can be caught in far Southern waters all winter.

Outside in the kelp a few yellowtail have begun to bite, and fishermen who go far out into the channel will get bonita and albicore. The uncertainty of the weather has kept everybody but the professionals and most enthusiastic yachtsmen-anglers off the deep lately. There has been however a fair chance of catching a mess of fish at any of the beaches. It is not likely that the sport will be at all sensational.

While taking the outside trips in the Donahue, now at San Pedro, Captain Smith of Ocean Park, had many opportunities to study the peculiarities of rock bass and other game fish of that tribe. His research was made particularly with a view to ascertaining if they would take the fly, trolling spoon or other similar baits.

One surface bait employed was a revolving aluminum bait, and Captain Smith says they were snapped readily at that. He has several sound objections to its use, however. In the first place, being aluminum, the salt water soon eats out the strength of this lure, and further the hooks are not heavy enough to stand the terrific jolt administered by a six-pound bass. There are more of these hooks than are necessary. A few heavier ones would be better.

Another bait employed by the captain is the casting spoon, and he finds that bass will strike at it readily. In fact the substance of his conclusions was that they would rush at almost anything which might be drawn within their sight. He believes that on a calm day a fisherman could take rock bass readily with a common Eastern bass fly. There are many holes in the kelp outside San Pedro where bass are abundant, and the scheme is worth a trial just for the sake of demonstrating the possibility of it.

Doubtless it would be necessary to fish "wet" for bass or other salt water fish. That means the fly would have to be allowed to sink several feet. Bass might rush to the surface for it, however, as they will take a crippled fish at the top of the water.

Of course none of the foregoing ways of catching bass are necessary, as the fish will bite better at a small live anchovy or sardine than at anything else, but there are many who like to fish in the most scientific way and rejoice in taking fish by harder methods than anyone else. The possibilities of California salt water angling are just dawning on the public, and within the next ten years fish will be taken in ways that now would be laughed at as generally as were the efforts of Professor Holder to take a tuna on rod and reel.

Open Trout Season Shortened.

An ordinance, of interest to anglers, was passed this week by the Monterey county Supervisors shortening the open trout season one month by changing its beginning from April 1st to May 1st. This action was taken in conformity with a petition from a large number of influential citizens of the county, and will, it is understood, take effect this year.

Grover Cleveland—Fisherman.

By way of introduction and explanation, it should be said that there is no intention at this time to deal with those who fish for a livelihood. Those sturdy and hard-working people need no vindication or defense. Our concern is with those who fish because they have an occult and mysterious instinct which leads them to love it, because they court the healthful, invigorating exertion it invites, and because its indulgence brings them in close contact and communion with Nature's best and most elevating manifestations. This sort of fishing is pleasure and not work—sport and not money-grabbing. Therefore it is contemptuously regarded in certain quarters as no better than a waste of time. Generous fishermen cannot fail to look with pity upon the benighted persons who have no better conception than this of the uses and beneficent objects of rational diversion. In these sad and ominous days of mad fortune-chasing, every patriotic, thoughtful citizen, whether he fishes or not, should lament that we have not among our countrymen more fishermen. There can be no doubt that the promise of industrial peace, of contented labor and of healthful moderation in the pursuit of wealth, in this democratic country of ours, would be infinitely improved if a large share of the time which has been devoted to the concoction of trust and business combinations had been spent in fishing.

The narrow and ill-conditioned people who snarlingly count all fishermen as belonging to the lazy and good-for-nothing class, and who take satisfaction in describing an angler's outfit as a contrivance with a hook at one end and a fool at the other, have been so thoroughly discredited that no one could wish for their more irredeemable submersion. Statesmen, judges, clergymen, lawyers and doctors, as well as thousands of other outspoken members of the fishing fraternity, have so effectively given the lie to these revilers of an honest and conscientious brotherhood that they are glad to find refuge in ignominious silence.

In point of fact, full-blooded fishermen whose title is clear, and whose natural qualifications are undisputed, have ideas, habits of thought and mental tendencies so peculiarly and especially their own, and their beliefs and code of ethics are so exclusively fitted to their needs and surroundings, that an attempt on the part of strangers to speak or write concerning the character or conduct of its approved membership savors of impudent presumption. None but fishermen can properly deal with these delicate matters.

What sense is there in the charge of laziness sometimes made against true fishermen? Laziness has no place in the constitution of a man who starts at sunrise and tramps all day with only a sandwich to eat, floundering through bushes and briers and stumbling over rocks or wading streams in pursuit of elusive trout. Neither can a fisherman who, with rod in hand, sits in a boat or on a bank all day be called lazy—provided he attends to his fishing and is physically and mentally alert in his occupation.

It is sometimes said that there is such close relationship between mendacity and fishing, that in matters connected with their craft all fishermen are untruthful. It must, of course, be admitted that large stories of fishing adventure are sometimes told by fishermen—and why should this not be so? Beyond all question there is no sphere of human activity so full of strange and wonderful incident as theirs. Fish are constantly doing the most mysterious and startling things; and no one has yet been wise enough to explain their ways or account for their conduct. The best fishermen do not attempt it; they move and strive in the atmosphere of mystery and uncertainty, constantly aiming to reach results without a clue, and through the cultivation of faculties non-existent or inoperative in the common mind. In these circumstances fishermen necessarily see and do wonderful things. If those not members of the brotherhood are unable to assimilate the recital of these wonders, it is because their believing apparatus has not been properly regulated and stimulated. Such disability falls very far short of justifying doubt as to the truth of the narration. The things narrated have been seen and experienced with a fisherman's eyes and perceptions. This is perfectly understood by listening fishermen; and they, to their enjoyment and edification, are permitted to believe what they hear.

It is perfectly plain that large fish are more apt to escape than small ones. Their weight and activity, combined with the increased trickiness and resourcefulness of age and experience, of course, greatly increase their ability to tear out the hook, and enhance the danger that their antics will expose a fatal weakness in hook, leader, line or rod. Another presumption, which must be regretfully mentioned, arises from the fact that in many cases it is the encounter with a large fish which causes such excitement, and such distraction or perversion of judgment, as leads the fisherman to do the wrong thing, or fail to do the right thing, at the critical instant.

Those who accuse true fishermen of falsehood, it is perfectly clear that they are utterly unfitted to deal with the subject. Upon this theory any story of personal experience told of a fisherman is to the fishing apprehension indubitably true; and, since disbelief in other quarters is owing to the lack of this apprehension, the folly of accusing fishermen of habitual untruthfulness is quite apparent.

The position thus taken by the brotherhood requires that they stand solidly together in all circumstances. Tarpon fishing has added greatly to our responsibilities. Even larger fish than these may, with the extension of American possessions, fall within the treatment of American fishermen. As in all past emergencies, we shall be found sufficient in such future exigencies. All will go well if, without a pretense of benevolent assimilation, we still fish as is our wont, and continue our belief in all our brethren of the fishing class.

The foregoing is taken from a paper written by Grover Cleveland (the article was originally published in the Saturday Evening Post of Philadelphia) and was read by President Walter D. Mansfield at a recent banquet of the San Francisco Fly-Casting Club upon the occasion of Mr. Cleveland's election to honorary membership in the club.

Tiger Hunting Adventures in India.

Two exciting hunting episodes are here related by Captain A. H. Woddell and a writer in The Asian respectively. In the one adventure the hunter has a taste of deadly peril to give his quest the true sportsman's flavor, in the second story an element of the supernatural has a strong influence in giving the leading actor a tinge of excitement in the enjoyment of his hunt.

"I was hunting in the Western Ghats of Southern India, had been out about two months and had had fair but not extraordinary sport. The monsoon had been light, the succeeding hot weather very hot, water scarce and game, of course, more plentiful in its vicinity. I had struck camp and marched some thirty miles southeast, into a thick, broken, difficult country and camped in what from all appearances was a sportsman's paradise. Deer, bear and panthers were reported plentiful, an occasional tiger was no uncommon visitor and small game of all sorts abounded. A hot ride through a most wild, romantic and beautiful country brought us to the dry and sandy bed of a small river, in the middle of which were some patches of rush and grass, kept green by a kind of boggy formation common in that part; to one of these patches Ramiah led me, and from and to the furthest bank were the well defined pugs (footprints) of a tiger, or as Ramiah said, tigress. She had been there only once, and that, the night before; and there in the near vicinity she was now. I told Ramiah that the only chance lay in "tying up" and sitting up over the "kill;" this was no information for him, however, for he replied, with a gesture like a Frenchman, "Master know very well." Before sunset that night I had six water buffaloes tied up along the course of the nullah, which was clear and free from growth, and the nights as good luck would have it, were very light. Sitting up over "kills" is only one way of shooting tigers, and I would say at the same time not by any means the most pleasant or exciting, although there is the ever constant expectancy of seeing the striped monster, creeping, catlike, up to its victim in the dead of night, amid such strange surroundings, phantom shapes and shadows, near and distant jungle noises, the thunderless lightning so common in India, the great orb as she rises in her stately glory, the Southern cross, as he slowly but steadily turns upside down; the flitting of the night birds, the hum of innumerable insects and the howl of the kolaru, or jackals.

Soon after dawn next morning Ramiah reported a kill. This meant a quiet day in camp and preparations for the night's sentry duty. The buffalo which had been killed was tied to a tree that grew on a slight elevation in the center of the nullah, at a point where it flattened out and divided into two, and where the banks and edges, instead of being abrupt and steep, sloped gradually up until they became lost in the jungle growth. A spot more suitable for the purpose could not have been found; the dead cow lay where she had been killed, about twelve yards from a huge rock or boulder nearly sixteen feet high, perpendicular on the side facing the cow and almost flat on the top, which was about a yard and a half across its widest part. With the help of Ramiah and a rope, for the rock was almost unscalable, even on the most accessible side, I succeeded in gaining the summit, and with a resal and pillow made myself as comfortable as circumstances would permit. Ramiah, after handing up my rifle, a .500 Holland & Holland express, retired to a tree some five and twenty yards to my left front. I shall never forget that night; the heat was stifling, the stench from the cow was abominable and the mosquitoes were past understanding; they bit through every part of my khaki clothing, they punctured me through the lace holes of my shoes, my putties might have been so many feet of gauze rolled round my legs, and altogether the undigested joy they manifested at my helplessness, knowing full well that I dare not move for fear of attracting attention, was most maddening. I do not know how long I had been laying there, gazing first at the cow and then glancing at Ramiah, who sat in a fork of the tree with a jhool cloth over his head, never moving a muscle, and looking for all the world like a graven image, when I saw the tiger walking quietly from the edge of the jungle, and I should imagine about seventy or eighty yards away.

After coming somewhat nearer the tiger, or tigress, as she really was, stood still and elevated her head, as if trying to see the buffalo, which she evidently did, for she immediately crouched like a cat and commenced stalking the dead cow in that manner. I have often thought of this curious procedure. The tigress must have known that the buffalo was dead and could not get away from her, and that it was an easy matter for her to replenish her appetite without going through the formalities of a "kill," yet she kept creeping noiselessly and stealthily up to within a few yards of the carcass, stopping every now and then, rocking on her feet and gathering them under her, while her tail, which she carried on the ground straight out behind her, would give a nervous curl at the tip. She then, when within bounding distance, sprang upon the prostrate form, with a soft, satisfied, half growl, half purr, smelt about the haunch or quarter, from which she had feasted the night before, and which, I may mention, is the part that a tiger always commences to feed upon, and soon began to tear and eat; she was in no hurry, and every now and then stopped and listened. After a time, and evidently becoming satisfied, she began to play with a piece of meat she had torn off, and I saw it was time to act, as she would evidently soon be off.

She lay over the buffalo, almost facing me, but still giving me a fair mark at the proper spot. I flattened myself out, raising my elbows slowly, brought my rifle quietly to my shoulder. She saw me the fraction of an instant before I pulled the trigger, her eyes caught mine fair and square, and I shall never forget them. I had fired by this time; the tigress sprang up, made two tremendous bounds in rapid succession, and the next instant her head and both forepaws appeared well onto the top of the rock, to which she hung. I had jumped up, but she was so close to me, and the top of the rock so narrow, that I could not get far enough away to raise my rifle to give her the second barrel without falling off backward; so I grabbed the rifle by the grip, pistol fashion, with my right hand, holding the barrels in my left, with the intention of shooting her through the brain, but before I could do so, she fell off dead, after covering me with blood and froth, which was escaping from her nose and mouth. Ramiah was down the moment he saw her fall off the rock—she was dead before she reached the ground—and after salaaming and shahbazing, with much profusion, assisted me from my perch.

The story of the "phantom tiger" is told by another sportsman: "My camp was pitched in the shadow of a great clump of banyan trees, situated in the depths of the forest. For miles around, with the exception of one pool in the watercourse not far from my tents, all the water had dried up, for it was the height of the hot weather. All day long the pitiless sun beat down upon the parched earth, scorching it into dust and drying up the fallen leaves, so that they cracked loudly even beneath the light tread of a lizard. At early dawn the furred and feathered inhabitants of the jungle came down to drink. During the long hot day the forest slumbered, save for the creaks which kept up their strident screech, and the brain-fever bird that shrieked from the tree top with an ever increasing crescendo of maddening notes. Towards evening, when the shadows lengthened and the heat became a little less intense, the denizens of the forest awoke and began to move about in the thickets, all converging towards the pool of water where they might slake their thirst after the parching heat of the day.

This was the time for the tiger to commence his nightly prowling in search of victims. For there was no jungle-law in force in this forest. That is only found in story books. The sambur, the chital, the nilgai, and the little chausingha came down to drink at dawn, and at the setting of the sun, looking cautiously around them in fear of the lurking foe. The sambur generally came after the forest was wrapped in the gloom of night, and so did the heavy, shambling bear. All animals alike approached the water with great circumspection. For who could tell whether or no the striped watcher, the dweller on the threshold of the pool, were lying-in-wait for prey? "There is a pleasure in the pathless woods," especially when they team with game, and perhaps there is no greater pleasure than the observation of the wild inhabitants of the forest, when, in concealment one's self, one can watch them in their native wilds, although "sitting up" is not a practice recommended for obtaining sport, as it seems scarcely fair on the animals to encompass their destruction in this manner. Still, there are sometimes circumstances when no other method of bringing a tiger to bag is possible, either owing to the density and extent of the jungle or the absence of beaters.

A fine old tiger as haunting the forest in the vicinity of this pool which has been mentioned. I found the imprints of his great paws in the soft mud on the water's edge, and in the neighboring thicket the skull of a wild boar with fine tusks, doubtless one of his victims, lay bleaching in the sun. The only human beings within a distance of many leagues were some half-dozen Gonds of a neighboring hamlet, so it was useless to attempt the organization of a beat. Therefore one afternoon at about four o'clock I took up my position among the branches of a great banyan tree that overshadowed the pool, where the gnarled limbs and thick foliage shielded me from the sun and from the view of the animals.

The sun sank gradually towards the horizon, and as it descended the life of the thickets awoke in song and movement. First birds of many kinds came down to the water's edge; peafowl, junglefowl and the little painted quail all put in an appearance, whilst flights of parrots, cutting the air like arrows, came swooping down to the branches above me, while they occupied themselves in noisy squabbling. The jungle cocks crew defiance at each other from the hillsides, and two of them with ruffled feathers approached to do battle. Then the little four-horned antelope, singly and in pairs, emerged cautiously from cover, and a red kakur barked loudly on the hillside, giving warning of approaching danger. The shadows were already blending into one mezzotint of gloom. The sun had disappeared, leaving a faint suffusion of light in the sky above, while the brighter constellations were already visible in the dark blue vault. The solitude and the peaceful surroundings lulled me into a slumberous state, and more than once I found myself nodding over my rifle. It was rapidly growing dark, and the moon would not rise for another hour.

Suddenly there was a commotion among the animals that still surrounded the pool. The peafowl and other birds hurried off into the bushes. The small deer disappeared silently like spectres into the shades of the forest. No living thing appeared in sight. No sound disturbed the unbroken silence. No breath of wind stirred the leaves. Then suddenly a human cry, a shriek of mortal fear and agony cut the silence, and the sound of a struggle among the bushes not far off was followed by a quiet as deep as before. I remained spell-bound. It was still light enough to see everything clearly. The hoarse purr of a tiger came down the nullah, followed by the sound of the animal lapping at the water, but I saw nothing. My hair rose in horror at the presence of something supernatural. Then the lapping ceased, and the purring became fainter as the beast receded, evidently in the direction of his prey. But all was not yet over. Again the noise came near, accompanied by the sound of the dragging of a heavy body through the bushes and down the nullah. Rapidly it approached. I could hear the great beast breathing heavily, and the stench of it assailed my nostrils. A faint wind, hot as a breath from Hades, came scorching down the nullah, and then the Presence was beneath me. And as I looked, the footprints of a great tiger were printed off one by one in the sand below, and alongside of them appeared the trail of dragging feet, and dark stains that might be blood. But nothing more was to be seen. Doubtless the scene of some former tragedy was being re-enacted below me. The thing, invisible to mortal eyes, passed away down the glen, leaving those great pugs and the trail of the ghastly burthen in the sand, and with it passed the scorching wind. I started from the spell which had until this moment held me, grasping my rifle and peering into the gloom of night. The moon had risen over the tops of the trees, and cast her soft beams upon the surrounding scene; faint, ghost-like outlines of trees appeared, the bushes were bathed in a white mistiness, and the water, slightly rippled by a faint zephyr, was sprinkled as with diamonds where a moonbeam, like a ray of hope, was shed across its surface. And beneath me, clearly outlined in the bright moonlight, was the great tiger whose pugs I had seen in the daytime; no phantom now! Even as the beast bent down to drink I raised my rifle and pressed the trigger, and he subsided without a struggle upon the margin of the pool. It had been an uncanny adventure, but perhaps the dream or vision seemed more accountable when the old local shikari informed me next day that many years before a man-eating tiger had infested the forest, and had killed several of his victims near that very spot.

The Bacon Breeds.

The large Yorkshire and Tamworth, or lean meat breeds, besides being leggy, are long and muscular and therefore have strong breathing, circulatory and digestive powers, which accounts for their economy in the amount of food consumed, as shown by experiments in Iowa and Minnesota; and a series of experiments for five years in Canada, writes Thos. Beazeley in the Rural World. The qualities named—length and strength of muscles and constitutions or powerful vitality and motive force—also account partly for their proficiency. That which makes lean meat also makes milk, the equivalent mostly of lean in liquid form. Therefore, and for their gentleness, etc., they are fine breeds, the Yorkshire, at least, for sows.

If you want lard hogs, breed to boars of smaller breeds, such as the smaller Yorkshire and the Essex, the Suffolk and the Victoria, the Cheshire and the medium Yorkshire, possibly, or to the flop-eared breeds, if you are not particular about the kind of ears in the offspring. The above named breeds have erect ears.

The true way to enlarge a smaller breed is said to be by breeding the sows of the larger to boars of the smaller breed—not the opposite cross. Breeding the sows mentioned to Berkshire, another bacon breed next in order, is an excellent cross, and many of the progeny should resemble those excellent breeds known as Cheshires and medium Yorkshires, and which probably rank next in order for quality of meat and bacon, with the Essex and Suffolk, the smaller Yorkshire and Victoria not far behind.

As to sows of the lard breeds, I would like to see more of them bred to the bacon breeds and to breeds of their own kind, but with erect ears and a coat of hair similar to their own except possibly in color, such as the Poland-China to the Essex or to the smaller Yorkshire.

The writer owns neither Yorkshire nor Essex at present, and the above is submitted largely in the spirit of inquiry and in the hope of inciting some one to cover the same ground and improve it.

Prolific Sheep.

J. L. Pottle, of East Butte, Sutter county, has a ewe in his flock of sheep that has a pretty fair family record. Last March she gave birth to two fine lambs and in September went one better, dropping three, making a full hand of five for the year. All the lambs are strong and healthy. The breed according to Mr. Pottle is just "sheep"—Sutter Co. Farmer.

stands at the head of all veterinary remedies. Such troubles as Spavins, Curbs, Windpuffs, Splints, Bunches have no terrors for a horse if the master keeps and applies Quinn's Ointment. All well known horsemen speak of it in the highest terms:

Miller & Sibley of Franklin, Pa., owners of St. Bel, brother of late Bel Boy, write, "We have used Quinn's Ointment with great success and believe it fills all claimed for it. We cheerfully recommend it to our friends." For Curbs, Splints, Spavins or Bunches it has no equal.

132,000 Deaths from this alone.

One special danger menaces those who live well, who can use champagne and fine liquors, and that is Bright's Disease. Posted clubmen understand this so well that many have tests made every few months. Others drink nothing but dry wines. But still the deaths reported from Bright's Disease and Diabetes are increasing at a fearful rate. The last census reports show that since 1890 the increase has been nearly fifty per cent and that the deaths in the United States alone from above causes and diseases growing out of them last year reached the enormous number of 132,000.

Hence the importance of every clubman knowing this one fact, viz.: That Bright's Disease and Diabetes are now positively curable in about 87% of all cases. The Fulton Compounds are now saving the lives of hundreds, and will, when better known, save the lives of thousands who are now with little hope.

SEYMOUR WILKES REG. NO. 0232.
Race Record 2:08 1-2
The Fastest Son of Guy Wilkes

Will make the Season of 1902 at

Lakeville, Sonoma Co., Cal.

SEYMOUR WILKES earned his record in a hard fought race and was a game race horse. The oldest of his get are five-year-olds, and no horse in California can show a greater proportion of large, handsome, strongly built and well-boned colts. They all look alike and in nearly every instance are square trotters. The only one that has been trained is Joe Eviston (3-222 in 1901).

SEYMOUR WILKES is by Guy Wilkes his dam Early Bird by Playmail; second dam by Odd Fellow, third dam by a son of Williamson's Belmont, fourth dam by Blackhawk 767. He weighs 1200 pounds, stands 16 hands high and is one of the most symmetrical horses in California. Several of his get are in San Francisco and will be shown to prospective breeders with pleasure.

Terms for the Season, $40. Mares not proving in foal can be returned next year by paying $10 additional. Mares can be shipped direct to ranch, via steamer Gold. Pasturage $3 per month. For further particulars apply to THOS. ROCHE, Lakeville, Sonoma Co., or J. W. GREGORY, St. George Stables, San Francisco.

NEIL W. 30371

By GUY WILKES, dam VERONICA 2:29 by Alcona 730; second dam, Fontana (dam of Silas Skinner 2:17; Flora Belle 2:25, etc.) by Almont 33; next dam Fanny Williams by Abdallah 15; next dam by Denmark, thoroughbred.

STAM B. 23444

RECORD 2:11 1/4. By STAMBOUL 5101, a trotting and show king; dam Belle Medium 2:30, a great brood mare by Happy Medium, sire of the great all-round mare, Nancy Hanks 2:04, and other great ones; second dam by the handsome sire Almont Lightning (sire of the dam of Zombro 2:11 and other great all-in-all animals, both on the turf and in the show rings; third dam by that sire of game, sound, handsome animals, Mambrino Patchen 58; fourth dam by that speed producing sire, Mambrino Chief 11; fifth dam by that stylish and long distance racing horse, Mason's Whip.

STAM B. is a fine and substantial upstanding bay, 15 3/4 hands tall, weighs 1100 pounds, and now rightly ranks among the most promising young sires of the land. That he is now in public service in California is a fact for which breeders may be grateful. He is already proving a sire of speed and gameness, together with size, superb style and high action, transmitting these qualities to every foal regardless of dam. He is acknowledged by all who have seen him to be very near the real and ideal race horse and all-around sire. His racing qualities were beyond criticism, and all close observers know that in his blood are represented the kings and queens of the trotting turf and show rings.

Terms for the Season, $40.

Payable at the end of June, with return privilege. Reduced rates to any one person breeding over three mares. Pasturage for mares, $4 per month. Freight must be prepaid on all mares. Season commences February 1st and ends August 1, 1902. No responsibility assumed for accidents or escapes.

Dam IGO (registered) by Antevolo 2:19. Second dam, Daisy May by Nutwood 600. Third dam, Ralston Mare by Alexander's Abdallah

MONDESOL, 4 years old, stands 15 1/2 hands, weighs about 1100 pounds; is the best bred young McKinney stallion, combining as he does the blood of Electioneer and Nutwood with that of the greatest son of the great Alycye. He is in every respect a splendid individual and should be seen by every owner of a good mare in this State before booking elsewhere.

He is not only a great racehorse, getting his record, 2:10, in a fourth heat, but he is a grand individual of rare finish, gentle disposition, best of legs and feet and his get are all of good size, good looks and extreme speed. He is a bay horse 15 1/2 hands, weighs 1050 pounds and is standard by breeding, performance and produce.

PISTOL 28884 Reg. No. 28884

Sire LANCELOT 2:23, sire of 10 in 2:30, which is more than his half brother Electioneer, had at same age. Dam PEPEROMIA by Alcantara.

PISTOL 28884, five years old, solid black 15 1/2 hands, weighs 1075 pounds. One of the handsomest and best individuals ever brought to California. He is a remarkably well turned horse gentle disposition, rare intelligence and possesses extreme speed. His colts are universally black, good size, extra good limbs and stylish. He has only one colt that is 2 years old, and they all show great speed.

The above horses will make the Season of 1902 from February 1st, at the

Veterinary Pixine

After Blistering, VETERINARY PIXINE is the very best application that could be indicated. It absorbs all inflammatory exudate and hastens the reparatory process. Will heal the most severe cases without scar and prevent loss of hair.

AS A PREVENTIVE.

If a light application of VETERINARY PIXINE is used before speeding, driving in wet, muddy or slushy weather, or in the snow, your horse will never have speed cracks, scratches or greaseheel.

FOR HOOFES.

It will keep the hoofs healthy, soft and in perfect form.

FOR SORES, ETC.

VETERINARY PIXINE heals collar and saddle galls, hopple chafes, abscesses, inflammatory swellings, sores and all skin disease. In cases of emergency it is invaluable.

This penetrating, stimulating, soothing, absorbing, antiseptic, healing ointment heals from beneath the surface by disinfecting the parts, subduing the inflammation and stimulating healthy granulation, not by drying and scabbing.

A BEAUTIFUL FARM HOME, the well known Fred Talbot place near San Rafael, is to be sold at auction on Saturday next and at the same time all the handsome furnishings of the residence, the horses, cattle, etc., and a number of fine buggies, carts, surries and harness; in short, everything at this beautiful country seat is to go to the highest bidder. Several fine road animals by Direct 2:05½, Mt. Hood 2:22½ and other well known sires will be sold, together with a number of first class saddle horses and four or five beautiful and thoroughly broken Shetland ponies. The Talbot place comprises 140 acres and is one of the best appointed country homes in California. Mr. Talbot, however, cannot devote the necessary time to it, and has decided that it must be sold for what it will bring without reserve. Send to Woodward, Watson & Co., 903 Broadway, Oakland, for a catalogue of the sale, giving terms and all particulars.

ONLY THREE STARTERS faced the flag in the Thornton Stakes, at four miles, for which $3000 was hung up by the California Jockey Club last Saturday, and after half the distance had been covered by these horses, the contest was over, and Siddons, the youngest horse of the trio, simply walked in, winning by forty lengths. Siddons was ridden by Jackson carried 109 pounds, and was favorite at even money. The winner is owned by T. H. Stevens and is a four year old by Wadsworth, a son of Longfellow. The dam of Siddons is Modjeska by Buckmaster, second dam by imp. Billet, third dam by imp. Canwell, fourth dam by imp. Australian, fifth dam by Lexington. The race was run in 7:30. The four mile race is not a great attraction nowadays, and few associations provide for them on the programs. They fail to bring out a high class lot of horses as in former years and are only kept up as a sort of concession to the "old guard," who imagine that they are still a great test of a horse's abilities. When it is considered that a mare like Lucretia Borgia holds the world's record for this distance it must be acknowledged that time at the distance is not much of a test of class.

THOSE INTERESTED in the recent purchase of the Empire City track met in New York, March 5, and organized the Empire City Trotting Club. James Butler was elected president, Fred Gerkin first vice-president, Edgar Bronk second vice-president, and Charles C. Lloyd third vice-president. It was decided to hold a meeting at the track on September 8, 9, 10, 11 and 21, and purse events to the value of $19,000 were arranged. These were $5000 for 2:20 trot, $5000 for 2:09 pace, $3000 for the 2:11 trot, $3000 for the 2:14 trot and $3000 for the 2:30 trot, entries to close April 1. It is also announced that the association has secured the services of Horace W. Wilson as secretary. Mr. Wilson has resigned his position as secretary of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association where it is said he was receiving a salary of $5000 a year, and will it is said be paid $10,000 a year by the New York Association. Mr. Wilson is one of the ablest secretaries in America, and can come as near arranging a program that will fill as any person in the business.

THE TERRE HAUTE MATRON STAKES, $10,000 for foals of 1902, closes April 14th. Two thousand dollars of this stake is set aside for two year old trotters and $1000 for two year old pacers. The balance, $7000, goes to the three year old trotters. It is one of the great futurities of the country and the cost of original entry is so low—$5—that all can patronize it. The conditions are so arranged that payments are easily kept up. The first payment, $5, is made when the mare is nominated April 14th; the second payment of $10 is due December 1, 1902, and there is nothing more to pay until the year of the race. If you want to race your colt as a two year old there are two small payments that year, but if not, none are required until the colt is three years old. It is one of the best conditioned stakes ever devised. The importance of entering in stakes should be realized by every breeder. We ask all our readers to read the conditions of the Terre Haute Matron in our advertising columns to-day and to make as many entries as possible before the date of closing. It will pay whether you race or sell.

THE SPECIAL HARNESS STALLION STAKE offered by the California State Agricultural Society and which had 36 stallions nominated on the date set for its closing, is to be re-opened. The Speed Committee has recommended that May 1st be fixed as the date of closing and the Board of Directors at their next meeting will undoubtedly select that date and re-open the stake. We do not think there will be an objection on the part of any owner who has already made a nomination to this course, and we know there will be many more nominations to the stake by parties who misunderstand its conditions when first advertised. Stallion owners should realize that stakes are the very life of the breeding business, as they give colts an earning capacity that they can acquire in no other way. When the advertisement of the re-opening of the Special Harness Stallion Stake appears, we ask every owner to carefully read its conditions and to nominate his stallion on the date set for closing. It is a duty he owes his horse and the breeding business of the State, not to mention his own personal interests.

SUPERINTENDENT COVEY, of Palo Alto, is very sweet on the two year old colt Alta Vista by McKinney 2:11½, out of that great mare Expressive 2:12½, at three years, by Electioneer. He is a brown, fifteen and one-half hands high and a grand youngster in every way. McKinney is the leading sire of his age, and Expressive the best campaigner sired by Electioneer, which should give the youngster every right to trot fast and stay the route.

FIVE HUNDRED trotters and pacers are doubtless in training in this State, and the number is very likely in excess of those figures. From the delay in announcements of programs, associations are only jogging slowly and have not begun any fast work as yet.

CINCINNATI'S SUMMER MEETING is the first big meeting to be held over East this year, and has two purses of $2000 each for the slow class pacers and trotters and four of $1500 each for the faster classes. Entries close Monday, March 31st. There will be several other purses at $1000 to close later on. Those going East should start in at Cincinnati. There is a fine track there—one of the best in America, and Andy Welch knows how to provide for all the wants of the horsemen. P. M. Campbell is the Secretary and his address is Station O., Cincinnati, Ohio. Read the advertisement in this issue.

Waxana Dead.

On Saturday night last the great broodmare Waxana died at Palo Alto Stock Farm and was buried in the memorial horse cemetery by the side of the famous broodmare Sontag Mohawk, dam of eight in the list: Eros 2:29½, sire of Dione 2:07½; Sallie Benton (4) 2:17½, world's champion four year old in 1884 (the dam of Serpol 2:10); Sport 2:22½, Sonoma 2:28, Colma 2:25½, Conductor 2:14½, Mohawk 2:15½ and Serenata 2:25.

Waxana was a chestnut mare, 15.3 hands, few white hairs between left eye and nostril, foaled May 27, 1878. Bred at Palo Alto. By General Benton 1755, dam Waxy (thoroughbred) by Lexington. Waxana was handled in her two year old form by Doc Williams' had considerable speed. Having been bred for a brood mare, she was stunted to Electioneer in her three year old form, 1881, and produced in 1882 the bay colt Woolsey, who was sold for $10,000. He is the sire of Abeto (p) 2:10½, Nellie W. 2:15½, and five more in list. In 1883 Waxana was barren. In 1884 she produced General Wellington 2:30. He was sold for $6000, was by Electioneer 125 and was the sire of Lady Wellington 2:15½ and two others. In 1885 Waxana produced by Electioneer 125 the bay colt Sunolo, sold for $510. He is the sire of seven in the list. In 1886 Waxana produced by Electioneer the greatest colt trotting phenomenon ever produced, Sunol 2:08½ to high wheels. In 1888 she got the world's record for three year olds 2:10½, in 1890 the world's record for four year olds 2:10½, in 1891 the world's record for five year olds and the world's champion record 2:08½, a success never achieved by any other trotter in the world. These miles were all to high wheel sulky, and crowned her the greatest of her time, or of any time, as a champion. She was sold to the late Robt. Bonner, of New York, for $41,000.

In 1887 Waxana produced the bay colt Warrenner by Electioneer 125. He is represented in the list and sold for $5000. In 1888 and 1889 Waxana was barren. In 1890 she produced General Worth by Electioneer 125; he sold for $14,500.

In 1891 she was barren. In 1892 she produced Worthier by Advertiser 2:15½; he sold for $3100.

In 1893 she produced Paora by Palo Alto 2:08½; sold for $500. In 1894, 1895 and 1896, barren.

In 1897 came the beautiful bay filly Sunolito by Advertiser 2:15½; now a broodmare at Palo Alto. In 1888 she produced Wesley by Advertiser 2:15½; sold for $375. In 1899 Waxana produced the bay colt Memorial by Mendocino; sold for $185. In 1900 foaled chestnut colt by Mendocino; foal died when very young. In 1901, barren. In 1902, dead colt.

Waxana had in all thirteen foals. One came dead, another died very young; this would leave eleven that lived to age to be handled and sold, with one exception, Sunolito, a young broodmare at Palo Alto. The ten of her produce sold brought $80,000, an average of $8000 apiece.

Waxana was a great broodmare by that great broodmare sire of mares producing extreme speed, General Benton 1755. Her dam, Waxy by Lexington, a mare that produced Wave by Electioneer 125, a fast trotting mare, and also produced Alpha, that game running mare by imp. Hercules.

The superior qualities of Waxana will make her recognized by students of breeding as one of the best representatives of Governor Stanford's ideas, that from the right selected thoroughbred blood, action, form, disposition, and from racing families considered, would come extreme speed, and Waxana, whose dam was by Lexington, has proved it, for she has produced the champion Sunol 2:08½.

RIO ALTO.

Do You Need a Cart?

There were more McMurray carts sold last year than all other makes combined. The new No. 30 cart is a dandy and can't be beaten by anybody. The Kenney Bicycle Company at 531 Valencia street are agents. Take a look at these carts, and see for yourself if they are not the best thing made for the money.

Like all good things, Jackson's Napa Soda dozen counterfeits. Watch out!

JOTTINGS.

ALAMEDA TRACK is not as lively a place as it was last year at this time, owing to the fact that the heavy storms of February and early March have kept many horses at home, but within the next week or two stalls will be at a premium at the track on the estuary, as applications for stalls are coming in rapidly. Monroe Salisbury, whose judgment in regard to a training track is about as good as any man's, says it could be made the greatest training track in the world for winter work. All that is needed, in Mr. Salisbury's estimation, is to cover it with the same silt of which it is now made or any good loam until it is at least a foot higher than at present. That will place it above high water mark in the winter time and then if there is plenty of water used during the summer months there is no reason why it should not be one of the greatest tracks in America. It does not break away unless it gets very dry and even then not nearly as bad as the vast majority of tracks, while it can be trained on a day or two after the heaviest rain. It is unfortunate that it is not supplied with plenty of box stalls and the necessary fences and buildings for a regular race meeting.

Jack Groom, the well known trainer who brought out the now famous Sir Albert S. 2:08½ by Diablo, trained and drove him in all his races and never lost a heat, is now located at Alameda with five horses. He has the Chinese Consul's good mares Sola 2:14½ and China Maid by McKinney. The latter is one of the fastest pacing prospects in the country. She worked a mile in 2:14 last year. Another good one in Groom's string is a green trotting mare by William L., sire of Axtell. She is a bay of that peculiar burnished copper hue that is so seldom seen but universally admired. This mare is the property of Mr. C. F. White, of Cosmopolis, Washington, and is one of the best prospects in this country. Easter D., a pacing mare by Easterwood belonging to Mr. H. C. Myers, of Vallejo, is also in Mr. Groom's care and is being trained for the California circuit. The pacer Denny Healy by Gossiper 2:14½ is another horse that Mr. Groom will work for the races. None of these have been driven faster than a jog as yet but will soon be moved up and be getting slow miles and fast quarters before long. Groom has several others to add to his string and when the campaign opens will be ready to get the money in several trotting and pacing classes.

J. M. Nelson has a string of six or seven and some of them "good goods." The roan trotter Dan W. 2:17½ is one that is expected to make a good showing this year in his class and looks fit right now to stand lots of hard work. He is a well built horse of the rugged order and is game as a pebble. Richard S., a full brother to Clay S. 2:13½, owned by Henry Schlosser of San Rafael, has been in Mr. Nelson's charge but a very short while, but is developing into a trotter that looks good enough for the 2:15 class. He is a tall, rangy fellow like his brother and has a wonderful flight of speed for a green horse. An eighth in fifteen and a half seconds was trotted by him recently and he did it so handily that Nelson concluded there was no use trying to teach him any more speed and will devote his time to putting the horse in condition to go mile heats. Richard S. will be entered all through the California circuit. Iloilo by Alexis, a horse that Nelson has trained a little for the past two years but never started is now a five year old and looks good enough to take to the races early. He has shown an eighth better than sixteen seconds at the trot and did it handily. Princess Airlie, a mare bred by the late William Corbett, and by Prince Airlie son of Guy Wilkes is a very handsome mare and quite a trotter. She will be raced this year. Martha Washington, a three year old filly by George Washington 2:16½ is a candidate for the Occident stake this year. She is not very large, but is racy looking and has a very attractive way of going. Nelson has Joe Selby 2:26½, but has not begun work on him. The horse looks rough but stronger and more rugged than ever before. A big seventeen hand green trotter by McKinney 2:11½, completes the list of trotters that Mr. Nelson is training. This fellow is about as big and rangy as any trotting bred horse in California, but he gets over the ground like a trotter. He trotted a mile to cart last year in 2:26 and will be in McKinney's 2:20 list barring accidents.

While at Mr. Nelson's stables I took a look at that grand old hero. Altamont 2:26½, twenty-seven years old this spring and still in business at the old stand. When led out for inspection he came with head up and necked and looked better than for several years. Mr. Nelson tells me he will have between fifteen and twenty foals this year and that he knows of but one mare bred to the old horse last year that is known to be barren. Altamont is the same age as the great Onward and like him, one of four stallions that have sired as many as seven in the 2:10 list. One of California's most prominent horsemen said to me as he looked at the great son of Almont, now sightless and gray, but not bowed with the weight of years: "I never had but three of that horse's get in my stables; but they all took records below 2:10 and won two-thirds of the first moneys in all the races I started them in. A stud colt by that horse out of a high class broodmare will be about as valuable a few years from now as any horse a man can own."

Pleasanton track will be the place where harness horse admirers who can spare the time will congregate every pleasant Saturday from now on until the racing season opens. The trainers now quartered there have agreed to have their principal workouts on that day of the week so that visitors to the town can be entertained with the performances. Every stall at the track is occupied at the present time and it looks as if at least fifty additional stalls will have to be built. On Saturdays the trainers propose to work out together, horses of the same speed being matched as nearly as possible and the miles rated according to the desires of the trainers. There will be four or five of these match workouts every Saturday, which will furnish a day's sport that can only be equalled at the big training tracks over East. As Pleasanton is one of the most hospitable places in California and visitors are always made welcome to the best of everything, these Saturday workout days will doubtless draw a very large attendance of horse lovers from this city and adjacent territory.

Representatives of the English Government are in this State looking for more horses for the British army. It is to be hoped the farmers and stockmen who breed horses will get more from these buyers than they did from those who came before them. California should be able to furnish all the army horses needed if a decent price is offered. A liberal commission should be paid to the Boer's cause by all who sell horses to the British as they are the ones who are creating the demand. More power to them.

An Eastern paper suggests that farmers buy up the old cast off thoroughbred mares, sold at the Kentucky and other auctions, and breed them to Hackney stallions. I protest. A farmer should never buy a cast off of any kind, whether it is a thoroughbred or anything else. In one case out of several hundred he may make a profit by so doing, but all the other cases will result in failure and loss. Don't ever breed a mare whose career in the breeding ranks or on the turf has been a failure and expect to get something great from her. The theory of "thoroughbred infusion" in trotters has had many a hard knock from the breeders who have selected some old skate whose pedigree was as long as the moral law, but whose performances were entirely of the "also ran" order, to breed to a trotting stallion in the hopes of getting a game trotter or pacer. A thoroughbred mare that has shown a lack of stamina and gameness when racing cannot be expected to produce foals by a trotter that will be able to win long drawn out races at the trot. It is a great mistake to buy cast off mares or horses of any description with the expectation of breeding crackerjacks from them.

Geo. H. Ketcham, owner of Cresceus, is getting a grand lot of mares booked to the champion. Among those sent him recently was Adabelle, a full sister to Adbell (1) 2:23, being by Advertiser out of Beautiful Bells. I would like to make a tabulation of the pedigree of the produce when it arrives. It would be what the boys call "a beaut."

It is reported from the East that Messrs. Fred Gerken and John Scannell, of New York, owners respectively of The Monk 2:08½ and The Abbot 2:03½, are contemplating hitching these two great geldings together and sending them for the team records this year at the Empire meeting. Mr. Gerken confidently believes he can drive the pair in 2:08.

While there will be several big trotting events on the Eastern tracks this year where the purses will range from $2000 to $20,000, there will be none that will attract more attention than the race for the Boston Cup which has no money consideration, but is strictly an amateur contest. This race will come off over the Cleveland Driving Club's track, as that club now holds this handsome trophy having won both of the races thus far trotted with Mr. Devereux's great stallion, John A. McKerron 2:06½. The change in the rules of the National Trotting Association will permit horses to win this race without acquiring a record, and for this reason it may be expected that there will be a larger field of starters than usual and that the son of Nutwood Wilkes will have to make the effort of his life to win. It is very probable that Mr. Fred Gerken who owns The Monk 2:08½, the horse that wears the crown of the King of the New York Speedway, will be one of the starters for the cup this year, and Chain Shot 2:06½, The Abbot 2:03½ and Lord Derby 2:06½ may also be named in the race. Boralma 2:07 is a possible starter, and it may eventually result that the Boston Cup race, without a cent of money put up to trot for, will develop into the greatest trotting race of the year. It will be a splendid testimonial to this great American sport if such should prove to be the case, and be proof positive that harness racing, unlike the running game, can be conducted successfully without the adjunct of gambling.

I see by the Western Department of the Chicago Horse Review that Pat Lester believes his horse Riley B. 2:06½ has a cinch on all the 2:07 pacing classes from Wisconsin to Tennessee, and that "to back his confidence in the horse he offers to match him against any horse in the world eligible to the same class for $5000." Here is a chance for the California pacer Sir Albert S. 2:08½ to make a little easy money for his admirers. There ought to be a dozen or so California horsemen who would chip in and back the Diablo horse for this amount to beat the son of Happy Riley. There are many of us out here who think Sir Albert S. can beat all horses of Riley B.'s class and do it easily. As Mr. Layng has already entered Sir Albert S. in some of the Grand Circuit early closing purses and will send him East unless he sells him before the racing season opens, the Eastern people will have a chance to see whether the fast pacer comes up to the stories that have gone out from California about him. We think he will make good and perhaps go them a little better.

I want to congratulate the Chicago Horse Review management on the entry list it has received to its Subscription Futurity Purse No. 8. No less than 1080 nominations were made in this stake at five dollars each. This breaks all former records by 78. The Review, which is undoubtedly the best horse journal published, has done much for the breeding and training business by giving these stakes, and deserves the support of all horsemen. May its Stake No. 9 get two thousand nominations.

At a meeting of the Speed Committee of the State Agricultural Society it was agreed last Saturday to recommend that the Board re-open the Special Harness Stallion Stake for foals of 1902, until May 1st. The Board at its next meeting will doubtless endorse and confirm this action, and advertise the fact. Every stallion owner on the Pacific Coast should have an entry in this stake. The misunderstanding that arose in regard to the former date of closing kept many stallions from being nominated that would otherwise have been named. As it was there were 36 entered, which would have made the stake a good big one as it would have had at least $2000 to start with before a colt was entered. There should be a hundred stallions entered. The great good that would result to the harness horse breeding industry can hardly be estimated, but it would be very large.

The following item appeared in one of our Eastern exchanges recently:

"C. A. Durfee, San Jose, has bought Miss Jessie 2:13½ from Gilbert E. Morton, Kansas City, Missouri."

If the statement had been made that Mr. Durfee had sold instead of purchased it would have been correct. In my opinion Miss Jessie will be in the great broodmare list as soon as she has two colts old enough to race. She has but one now—Cuate by McKinney, and if he is not a fast trotter then such things are not to be found. His name will be in the papers before another season of racing has closed, and while he is Miss Jessie's only living foal, she is a young mare and has plenty of time to make a name for herself. The reason why I believe she will be a great broodmare is because, 1st, she is by Gossiper 2:14½ that is already a 2:15 broodmare sire with very limited opportunities. 2d, her dam is Leonor 2:24, dam of two in 2:10 and four in 2:25 by Dashwood. 3d, her grandam is the great broodmare Dushferne, dam of two in 2:25 by Echo, and grandam of seven with standard records. Now, if Miss Jessie, being a fast and game race mare with a record of 2:13½, by a fast producing sire, first dam a great producer, second dam likewise, is not in line to be a great broodmare herself, there is nothing in breeding.

One of the grandest colts in Southern California is owned at Mr. M. S. Severance's Valencia Stock Farm at Arrowhead. This colt is by Chas. Derby 2:20, sire of three in 2:10 and nine in 2:15, and his dam is Bet Madison 2:15½ by James Madison, second dam Betsy Trotwood by Abbottsford, third dam Alpha Medium, dam of Katie S. 2:19½. This colt has two crosses of Electioneer.

It Does Pay.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN: The article on "History Making" printed in your columns recently reached Judge Irwin Stratton of Wichita, Kansas, and so impressed him with the attitude of our citizens regarding the education of our children, and the love of fine stock, that he at once determined to move to this city. Judge Stratton has for some years been one of the most painstaking breeders of horses in the State of Kansas. He wisely laid the foundation for his breeding enterprise by going to Kentucky and Tennessee to make his selections; from the former State he bought of R. P. Pepper (the owner of the great Electioneer stallion Norval 2:14½) Norlin 24378, so perfect an animal in all the requirements of a horse, that he has taken the first premium four times at the State fair, Kansas. The blood lines of Norlin are the equal of any living sire, his first dam being "Mandolin," registered in Vol. 7, sired by Onward, the greatest living sire, second dam Phyllis by Egbert sire of 85 in the 2:30 list and of the dams of six faster than 2:14, three of whom are faster than 2:10, third dam Coquette by Pilot Jr., sire of the dams of Maud S., Jay Eye See, Electricity, and 30 others in the list, fourth dam Forty Cents by the great race horse Wagner, thence tracing through an unbroken chain to the original imported Barb Mare. The analysis of Norlin's pedigree on speed lines shows him to be as rich in speed inheritance as any horse living. Electioneer, his grand sire is the sire of 160 with records from 2:07½ to 2:30 and all trotters but two; he has now 380 descendants in the 2:20 list. Mandolin, the dam of Norlin is a full sister to Pilatus 2:09½, and sold for $10,000 and is standing at Louisville, Ky., at $50 for the season. Mandolin is by Onward; he has over one hundred producing sons and over fifty producing daughters, the dams of over eighty standard performers. Norlin is bred almost exactly like Bingen 2:09½. With the opportunity he will have in his new home judged by the laws of nature, he cannot fail to add greatly to the wealth of San Bernardino county and the State of California. Electioneer was the only horse strong enough in trotting instinct to sire a champion trotter from a thoroughbred mare. Colts of Electioneer, breeding learn to trot without paying out more for training than they are worth.

Judge Stratton is a great believer in breeding for a purpose, he bought Norlin because he is sure to sire trotting speed and then went to Tennessee and bought Hal Stratton, a half brother to Star Pointer 1:59½ and twelve others with records faster than 2:15. He is a rich, beautiful bay with star and small snip—powerfully made and looks like a race horse, and is very intelligent. Col. Moore (Trotwood) editor of the racing department of the Horse Review, in an editorial note said, "Hal Stratton is one of the best bred and best individual sons of Brown Hal, he has 71 per cent. of the identical blood that produced the world's champion race horse Star Pointer, and the remaining blood lines are nearly identical. I cannot imagine a better cross on the Wilkes and other trotting bred pacers than Hal Stratton."

Judge Stratton also has a herd of the celebrated Miller and Sibley Franklin, Penn., Stoke Poges; St. Lambert family of Jersey cattle the finest he could buy of the greatest importers of America.

ALCATELLUM

San Bernardino, March 15, 1902.

The famous Old Glory meeting at Charter Oak Park, Hartford, Connecticut, will again be one of the leading features of the Grand Circuit this year. A half dozen rich purses are already announced to close on the first of April, and are headed by the renowned Charter Oak $10,000 race for trotters of the 2:11 class. This is the oldest of all the big trotting stakes and has been one of the big drawing cards of American harness racing ever since it was inaugurated in 1883 and won by Director 2:17, the great stallion that was afterwards brought to California where he founded a great tribe of champions. In addition to this great event there will be five purses of $3000 each—the 2:19 and 2:30 classes for trotters, and the 2:09, 2:16 and 2:30 classes for pacers. The Charter Oak Park meeting will be held from the 1st to the 6th of September. Entries close Tuesday April 1st. See advertisement for conditions.

"No barb wire" is now a necessary statement to make in every advertisement soliciting horses for pasturage. Scarred horses will not sell, and hundreds of animals ruined by wire cuts have to be killed every year to put them out of their misery. The wire fencing that is safe, has no barbs and does not injure stock, is the brand made by the Lamb Wire Fence Co. of Adrian, Michigan. It is the best fence that can be erected and is the cheapest in the long run. You may find a cheaper fence than the Lamb but you cannot find a better one.

Leaders in 2:15 Speed.

[Chicago Horseman]

As the success of the sire is now measured by his ability to produce at least 2:15 speed, a tabulation devoted to the greatest sires of such speed cannot fail to be of general interest. There are now no less than 33 stallions that have produced ten or more 2:15 trotters or pacers, and Alcantara with 28 stands at the head, an honor he has enjoyed for several years. The preponderance of Wilkes blood in this list of 33 sires forms the feature of the table, there being 13 sons and five grandsons. The first four, therefore, the four leading sires of 2:15 speed, are all sons of George Wilkes, then follows the greatest of the Hal tribe, Brown Hal, with his great number of pacers, after which come five more representatives of the Wilkes family; in short, of the first fifteen ten are sons and one a grandson of George Wilkes. Onward and Baron Wilkes each have sixteen trotters in the 2:15 list, and Brown Hal leads as a sire of pacers with 21. Electioneer is the only sire whose entire list consists of trotters. The majority of developed sires which constitute the list is also a feature, 23 of the 33 having records below 2:30, of which two, Allerton and Direct, are in the 2:10 list, two others, McKinney and Brown Hal, in the 2:15 list, and a total of 15 in the 2:20 list. The youngest sire in the list is McKinney, notwithstanding which he is in ninth place. At the age of 14 years he has 18 in the 2:15 list. At the same age Alcantara, the champion sire of 2:15 performers, had one only, though he was the sire of 41 in the list at that time. The table of the sires of ten or more follows:

SIRE, RECORD AND BREEDING.
Year Bred	Produce	Produce	Produce
1876 Alcantara 2:23 by George Wilkes	9	19	28
1875 Onward 2:25½ by George Wilkes	16	10	26
1882 Baron Wilkes 2:18 by George Wilkes	16	9	25
1874 Red Wilkes by George Wilkes	13	9	22
1870 Brown Hal 2:12 by Tom Hal	0	21	21
1870 Simmon 2:25 by George Wilkes	16	5	21
1879 Guy Wilkes 2:15½ by George Wilkes	14	5	19
1875 Bourbon Wilkes by George Wilkes	3	6	19
1887 McKinney 2:11½ by Alcyone	11	7	18
1880 Wilton 2:19½ by George Wilkes	11	7	18
1871 Robert McGregor 2:17½ by Major Edsall	15	3	18
1881 Sidney 2:18½ by Santa Claus	5	12	17

As is generally known, Nutwood has a long lead over all stallions as the champion broodmare sire, but it is no greater than his lead over all other stallions as the sire of the greatest number of 2:15 speed producers. His daughters have produced a total of 36 in this list, and the nearest him are Red Wilkes and George Wilkes with 26 each. In this table Kentucky Prince with 13 is the only sire whose entire representation consists of trotters, and Electioneer, who was the "only" in the previous table, is credited with as many pacers as trotters. The table of 2:15 producing dams consists largely of the sons of Hambletonian, who is represented in the table of sires of 2:15 performers by only Electioneer and Strathmore. In the list of dams he has seven sons, four grandsons and three great grandsons, a total of 14 out of a grand total of 20 in the list. The table follows:

SIRE, AND BREEDING.
Years Bred	Produce	Produce	Produce
1870 Nutwood by Belmont	23	13	36
1871 Red Wilkes by George Wilkes	16	10	26
1866 George Wilkes by Hambletonian	8	18	26

In the table below is found the stallions, taken from the two above of ten or more, which now have a total of 20 in the 2:15 list produced by themselves or by their daughters. From a total of 53 in the two tables nineteen are found which enter the more select table Nutwood is again at the head, but he had a lead of only one over Red Wilkes, who, as the table of dams shows, is rapidly coming to the front as the sire of 2:15 dams. Onward is third, and of him it can be said that his daughters have only started as producers of extreme speed. It is a fact too plain to be overlooked that after Nutwood the next four in this select table are sons of George Wilkes, after which comes George Wilkes; also that this table of nineteen names contains George Wilkes and ten of his sons, as follows:

SIRE AND BREEDING.
Produce	Produce	Produce	Produce
Nutwood by Belmont	4	2	23
Red Wilkes by George Wilkes	13	2	16

Getting in Shape at Hollister.

The Directors of the San Benito County Agricultural Association held a meeting last Friday afternoon. The newly appointed Directors, Geo. E. Shaw, A. G. Wilson and William Higby, were seated, and Robert I. Orr and J. H. Scholefield, who were re-appointed, were also present.

The officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: R. I. Orr, President; Geo. E. Shaw, Vice-President; A. D. Shaw, Secretary; William Higby, Treasurer.

There was considerable enthusiasm displayed over the promising outlook for the fair and race meeting to be held this fall, and a speed program committee was appointed to meet with a committee from the Salinas Association, April 8th, and arrange dates for both meetings.

The race track at Hollister is in fine condition, and the lessee, Joe Sanchez, has a string of very promising young horses at work. A black two year old by Alto Rio out of Nellie Nutwood, the dam of Uncle Johnny 2:19½, is doing wonders at the trot. This colt is owned by Geo. Shaw and is entered in both the Stanford and Occident Stakes for next year, besides the stakes to be trotted at Salinas and Hollister this fall.

Another promising youngster is a three year old belonging to Mr. Lathrop. This is a trotter and is by Prince Airlie, the son of Guy Wilkes that went to South Africa. The colt's dam is Susie Hunter (dam of Lalla Wilkes 2:26) by Arthurton. This colt is entered in all the local stakes.

The bay pacing stallion Dictatus Medium 2:27½ is also in Mr. Sanchez' hands. This large and handsome young horse is expected to be a strong candidate for the 2:10 class this year. He is by Dictatus 2:17 out of Belle Medium 2:20, the dam of Stam B. 2:11½.

A very promising filly by Benton Boy will soon be placed in Mr. Sanchez' hands to be trained for the races this year and she is expected to be a money winner.

The recent rains have made all the farmers and stock breeders in San Benito county happy and they expect a very prosperous year.

Well Worth Trying.

$5 a bottle looks like a pretty stiff price for a horse remedy but if it will absolutely cure a splint, spavin, curb or ringbone, it is well worth the money and when a large and thoroughly reliable concern like the Troy Chemical Company, puts a remedy on the market and gives a positive written guarantee with each sale, under the seal of the Company, that their "Save-the-Horse" will effect an absolute cure of these ills, it is worth trying. Their advertisement will be found on the second page of this issue and it explains what the remedy is, what it will do and their guarantee. They also manufacture Veterinary Pixine, a most healing and soothing antiseptic ointment which soon effects a cure of scratches, grease heel, mud fever, hoof rot and speed cracks and heals hopple chafes, galls, inflammatory swellings, sores and all skin diseases.

Neernut 2:12 1 4 at Los Angeles.

Neernut, the son of Albert W. 2:20 by Electioneer, and Clytie II by Nutwood, will not be kept at his owner's home at Santa Ana this year, but will devote all his time in the stud at the Los Angeles track. Neernut has been in Los Angeles since Christmas and until recently his owner, Mr. Geo. W. Ford, did intend to keep the horse at Santa Ana a part of the time this season. But since there will now be plenty of pasturage in Los Angeles, Mr. Ford has decided to leave the horse there altogether and will take his own brood mares there. Mr. Ford has booked mares from all over Southern California, and a number from the northern part of the state, and as an evidence that Orange county is beginning to wake up to the importance of the best in breeding, a great many mares will be sent from there as well, and in anticipation of this arrangements have been made by Mr. Ford to supply good pasturage near the Los Angeles race track at a reasonable price. Neernut is one of the most fashionably bred stallions in the world. The Year Book just issued (No. 17) places George Wilkes at the head of all speed progenitors with 2656 standard performers to his credit in two generations—that is, those sired by him and by his sons and daughters number that many. Hambletonian 10, the founder of the great family comes next with 1815, Electioneer follows third with 1205 and Nutwood is fourth with 1042. No other stallion has as many as 800 in the first two generations.

Neernut has none of the Wilkes blood, but his sire is a great producing son of Electioneer and his dam a great broodmare by Nutwood. If the plan of keeping to the top is adopted this year by the breeders of California they will breed their Wilkes mares to a stallion like Neernut and thus have the four best families in the world represented in the resultant foals, as Hambletonian 10 is the sire of both Electioneer and Geo. Wilkes.

Neernut is a wonderfully fast horse, as his record of 2:12½ shows. He is one of the sort that trained on, having reduced his record annually for four years until he set it at its present low notch. He also produces the kind that train on. His daughter Neeretta 2:09½, the first of his get to be trained, reduced her record every year for three years and was sold for a big price to European parties and is still racing over there, being one of the largest money winners of last year in Austria. Last week at the matinee of the Los Angeles Driving Club, Cocanut, a green Neernut colt beat three old matinee horses handily in a race in 2:22½, much to the surprise of all the talent there, as they knew he was a decidedly green one. Cocanut was raised on a salt grass pasture and was never in a barn or knew the taste of hay or grain until last August, when a halter was placed on him for the first time. He was hitched to a breaking cart a few times and taken to Los Angeles last Christmas. He can now step a quarter in 32 seconds and an eighth in 15 seconds. While the get of Neernut old enough to train are very few, as he has been in the stud regularly only during the past three years, they are all fast without exception.

Neernut has all the qualifications of a sire. He was a fast, game race horse and has a low record. His breeding cannot be surpassed. He is a fine individual, having size, style and splendid action. His get are all good gaited and fast, showing that he is able to reproduce with uniformity the good qualities he possesses. All speedy sires are by no means likely to beget race horses, as some of the most promising prospects are unable to train on, and the owner's trouble and expense are often thrown away in developing a three year old, which in trials promised to be a world beater, but in the actual test of speed and endurance from some unaccountable cause, fails to rise above the standard of a second or third rater. The reason, however is simple, as just as sure as like begets like, the sire with some inherent weakness will transmit that defect to his progeny and vice versa, the horse with sound constitution, pronounced speed, and a line of record making ancestors is a pretty safe proposition to bank on as a sire of racing stock. And Neernut is of this latter class, for as the records show, he was raced until he was ten years old and is to-day in as good condition, sound and straight as ever in his life.

Sale of Anzella 2:10 1-2.

This, the greatest money winning mare on the California circuit of 1901, has become the property of the Santa Rosa Stock Farm, consideration being in part a McKinney colt out of the great Stamboul-Simmons mare Bonsilene 2:14½ (half-sister to Bonnie Direct 2:05½). Ever since this celebrated stock farm lost the great mare Janice 2:08½, the owners have been looking for one to take her place and believe they have found one in Anzella. She will be exercised henceforth by Miliard Sanders, the famous reinsman at Pleasanton, with the balance of the Santa Rosa string as follows: Dolly Dillon 2:07, Bonsilene 2:14½, Almareta 2:25 (winner of Stanford Stake, Sacramento, 1901, a daughter of L. W. Russell), Lou Milton by Sidney Dillon (another Dolly Dillon), Stamboulita 2:28 by Stamboul, Pansy Russell by L. W. Russell, and many other youngsters.

It looks as though the Santa Rosa Stock Farm has the greatest aggregation of trotting material on the Pacific Coast. On their farm near Santa Rosa they have as premier stallions L. W. Russell, son of Stamboul 2:07½ and Bye Bye by Nutwood 2:18½, the $10,000 sister to the great Lockheart 2:08½, and Sidney Dillon by Sidney are siring many fast and level-headed trotters that seem to have inherited all the qualities which horsemen are looking for. Aside from these the three great California sires which were liberally patronized in the past, viz: McKinney 2:11½, Diablo 2:09½ and Direct 2:05½ and the produce from these sires, and the great broodmares there will make this farm the Mecca to which all horsemen seeking first class material for track or road will turn.

State Board of Agriculture.

SACRAMENTO, March 16—At a postponed meeting of the directors of the State Board of Agriculture today the following directors were present: Spreckels, Rush, Paine, Johnson, Mackey and Covey.

Superintendent Grove L. Johnson was authorized to make such repairs as were imperative at the pavilion, owing to the damage caused by the late storm. Communications were received in the matter of furnishing to the State Board of Agriculture free of cost suitable sites for exhibition and fair grounds outside of Sacramento, with all necessary buildings.

Henry Berrar of San Jose was selected as judge of the poultry department for the next fair. The directors, realizing the great possibilities for profit in California in producing the poultry and eggs that are required for home consumption, propose making this department and the dairy industry leading features at the next fair.

The harness stallion stake for 1903, which closed February 15th, was re-opened for entries to be received to May 1, 1902.

The running stallion stake of 1903, for foals of 1901, has been extended to May 1, 1902.

Most of the business of the session, which was executive, was transacted without a quorum, and will be indorsed at the next regular meeting of the board.

Draught Stallions at Rio Vista.

The breeding season is now fairly launched and lovers of fine horses are discussing the merits of the different breeds.

McCormack Bros., of Rio Vista, have lately purchased a three year old Shire horse. He is one of the number imported by J. B. Haggin from England last winter. The animal is a perfect specimen of the Shire, a beautiful coal black with faultless limbs and strong body, standing 16 hands high and will weigh upward of 1600 lbs. He will serve a limited number of mares this season.

Cyrus Noble, owned by the same parties, is as usual held in high esteem by breeders and while many are desirous of introducing new blood, the progeny of this stallion and the well known merits of the Norman Percheron are sufficient to induce many owners to breed their mares to this horse, consequently he will have all he can attend to.

These stallions are standing at the low figure of $20 to insure, and as Rio Vista is a very convenient place to ship mares to, being on the Sacramento river and reached by steamer daily, breeders will have no trouble in shipping their mares to these horses. McCormack Brothers place mares from a distance on good pasturage at the low price of one dollar per month.

Young Zombros at Los Angeles.

Italia 2:23½, the filly by Zombro 2:11 that won the Occident Stake last year, and was sold recently to Mr. W. P. Murray of Cleveland, trotted a mile last Monday at Los Angeles in 2:23, last quarter in 31 seconds. She will be sent east to Mr. Murray in May.

Col. E. L. Mayberry's five year old Zombro mare that is being trained by P. W. Hodges at Los Angeles, stepped a mile in 2:26 on Tuesday of this week, first quarter in 34 and last quarter in 33 seconds.

Mr. Willets of Los Angeles bred his fine mare Helen Dunlap to Zombro last week. She is a full sister to the trotting mare Jean 2:11 by Ellerslie Wilkes 2:22½, and is out of Nadine by Mambrino Russell, second dam Wand by Strathmore, third dam by Solicitor, son of Belmont 64, fourth dam by Mambrino Chief 11. This is very choice breeding and Mr. Willets should get something good by Zombro from her.

There are several young Zombros at Los Angeles that are just being taken in hand to be trained and without exception they are moving well and look like fast prospects.

News From the North.

[Portland Rural Spirit, March 14.]

Horsemen who intend racing on the North Pacific circuit need have no fear about classes. There will be a purse from the three-minute class to the free-for-all at most every meeting.

A. C. Lohmire had the misfortune to lose a very promising colt by Lovelace 2:10 out of his Altamont mare. This youngster was only a week old, but had the two-minute mark stamped on the imagination of its owner very thoroughly.

Jim Misner is jogging T. D. Condon's horses and will soon open a stable at Irvington for actual training. He will have T. D. C., Zombro C., Alma Mack, Weary Willie and Heterogenous.

Thos. S. Griffith, of Spokane, has bought the young stallion Gry Falcon by Zombro 2:11 out of Lyla 2:27, full sister to Chebalis 2:04½, Del Norte 2:08, Touchet 2:15, Tennio 2:19½, Claymont 2:27 and Coquette 2:30 by Altamont 3600; second dam Tecora, dam of all the above and grandam of Vinmont 2:21, Althal 2:27½. This is one of the richest bred young stallions in the Northwest.

T. D. Condon is now the owner of that good McKinney filly Alma Mack out of Mary A. 2:30 by Altamont, having purchased her from August Erickson. Alma Mack met with a slight injury coming down from the farm, straining one of her hind legs, which the veterinarian says is only temporary. In good condition, she is one of the most promising three year olds in Oregon. Some day horsemen will wonder why they didn't buy her.

G. A. Westgate of Albany, Or., has sold his fine driving team of mares to Geo. W. Haas of San Francisco. These mares were both sired by Coeur d'Alene 2:19½. One was out of Susie S. 2:18 by Hambletonian Mambrino; second dam by Bellfounder 62; the other was out of a mare by Alwood 972; second dam by Bellfounder 62. They were well mated in size, color and action, and were the first prize team in the Portland Horse Show last fall in a large field of entries. Mr. Haas paid $600 for the team.

Sam Casto has moved from Vancouver, Wash., to Fair Grounds, Oregon, where he will be pleased to add to his stable a few more campaigners. Mr. Casto takes with him Dewey, a green pacer by Del Norte out of Carrie Fisher, owned by C. A. Whale; a three year old pacer by Del Norte out of Little Maid 2:18; Starone, two year old by Gerome out of Kitty Morrison by Challenger, owned by Dr. Long of Salem. This filly is entered in the Oregon Stake of $1500, and will contend in the trotting end of the stake for first money.

Answers to Correspondents.

W. PARSONS, Salinas—Geo. W. Archer 25,492 is by the great Allerton. His dam is Tot, a very fast road mare that was owned by D. S. Hammond of New York. She had her record when he purchased her, but he would not race her although it was known she could trot in 2:15. Tot was by Columbus Jr. 6429, a son of Columbus 95. The dam of Columbus Jr. was Dolly (in great broodmare list) by Morse Horse 6, sire of Gen. Taylor, etc. Dolly's dam was by Vermont Black Hawk 5. The second dam of Geo. W. Archer is Young Maggie by Vermont Volunteer, and the third dam was Old Maggie, whose breeding is untraced. Columbus 95 was by Columbus 94 out of Black Maria by Hambletonian 2, he by Bishop's Hambletonian, son of imp. Messenger. Columbus 95 sired eleven with standard records—all trotters. Six of his sons are producers and eight of his daughters. One of the latter is the dam of Abbotsford 2:19½, sire of Poindexter 2:11½, She 2:12½ and other fast ones. We should call Tot, the dam of Geo. W. Archer, a member of the Columbus tribe. The Year Book gives but one producing daughter of Altoona—the dam of San Luisito 2:14½. Her name is Alta. Altoona has no producing sons recorded in the Year Book. Erwin Davis is not credited with any producing sons or daughters by the Year Book.

A SUBSCRIBER asks us to give the pedigree of the stallion Oxnard or Oxnut. We know of no stallion by either name. The horse Oaknut 2:24½ is probably meant. He is by Dawn 2:18½, son of Nutwood 2:18½. His dam is Miss Brown (dam of three in the list) by Volunteer 1758, grandam Maggie Dale by the thoroughbred Owen Dale, son of Williamson's Belmont.

A GRANGEVILLE SUBSCRIBER asks for information as to Bessie Thorn. She has a record of 2:22½, made at San Jose in 1894. Her sire is Hawthorne and her dam Bessie Sedgwick, a thoroughbred mare by Joe Daniels. We have no record of a full sister called Nellie Thorn. There was a mare by that name sired by Hawthorne, but she was out of Jennie H. by Blismack 67 and was bred by L. U. Shippee. If now living she is 16 years old. The story of her winning a race at Sacramento six years ago, driven by the lady you mention, and getting a record of 2:19 is probably a fairy story. If such a race took place it was never reported.

Notes and News.

Volume 17 of the Year Book is out.

Charter Oak Park gets the Boralma-The Abbot race.

Clipper 2:06 has been sent to Pleasanton and will be worked by O. A. Hickok.

There are about 18,000 trotters in the 2:30 list, and nearly 8,000 pacers with record of 2:25 and better.

McHenry says that one of the highest class pacers he saw last year was Loconda, the son of Allerton.

The British government is still sending about thirteen thousand horses to South Africa every month.

E. E. Smathers by his recent moves evidently intends to be quite a factor on the big circuit this year.

J. B. Chandler thinks very highly of a two year old brother to Peter Stirling 2:11½, that he is handling.

A offer of $10,000 has been refused for Advertiser 2:15½. At the late sale he cost his present owner $5,300.

Allendorf 2:19½, son of Onward and Alma Mater, has been sold to Canada parties. He is twenty years old and a successful sire.

C. L. Griffith will send Rect 2:16½ and several young horses by him and by Direct 2:05½ and Directum 2:05½ to the Cleveland sale.

Everett L. Smith ("Percy") is no longer with the New York Telegraph, but is furnishing the New York Sun with his interesting horse gossip.

The Terre Haute Matron Stakes has $1,000 for foals of 1902. Entries close April 14th. Don't fail to read the ad in this issue and don't forget the date.

A couple of match trotting races are to be pulled off over the track at Milpitas, Santa Clara county, to-day. They are between horses owned in that vicinity.

Pleasanton trainers have decided to have their workouts every Wednesday and Saturday this season. On Saturdays particularly will the fast work be given.

Terrace Farm, Titusville, Pa., has entered Zephyr, the filly by Zombro 2:11, in the John H. Shultz $5000 stake for four year old trotters eligible to the 2:25 class.

Green Mountain Maid is the dam of nine trotters and grandam of nine with standard records at that gait, while four of her sons have produced 200 standard record trotters.

At Santa Rosa last week R. Hogeboom's mare Yolo Belle by Waldstein, dam by Clay Duke, foaled a colt by Washington McKinney, which is a beauty and looks to be a great one.

Ability to race is what brings the big money to-day. A few years ago it was the pedigree that brought the price. That is the difference between the boom days and now, and the present gage is far the healthier.

It is said that an eastern man offered $6000 last week for Sweet Marie, the Los Angeles mare by McKinney that has a matinee record of 2:13½. It is said that Mr. Taylor, her present owner, contemplates racing her and declined the offer.

Anzella 2:10½ worked a mile in 2:15 over the Pleasanton track last Saturday and repeated in 2:14½. When she hits the 2:11 classes on the Grand Circuit this year there will be some horse racing that will be worth seeing if they beat her.

"Farmer" Bunch of San Jose writes under date of March 17th that he has bought the colt Marconi by Boodle 2:12½ out of Much Better 2:07½. Bunch has a big string of horses at work and says: "Get out your programs and I will enter liberally."

The trotting mare Letter B. 2:17½ died at the Dunne ranch near Hollister last week from the result of the accident heretofore chronicled in these columns. Letter B. was a good race mare and a good winner when campaigned in this State from 1894 to 1897.

One of the handsomest and stoutest looking colts in California at the present time is a two year old by Altamont out of Nutwood Weeks, the dam of Ethel Downs 2:10. When the stallion and mare were mated, the former was twenty-four and the latter twenty years of age.

S. H. Crane of Turlock sold a carload of fine mules last week and a good team of horses at good prices. Mr. Crane is one of the liveliest horse dealers in California and seldom a week passes that he fails to patronize the railroad company to the extent of two or three carloads.

The Contra Costa Association will soon begin the erection of a new grand stand at their beautiful fair grounds at Concord and will also widen the track. Concord's fair will be given this year on a larger scale than ever before and the races are sure to attract a large number of entries.

Dan W. 2:17½, the roan gelding by Live Oak Hero, son of Director, was sold last week to an Alameda county business man and will be in J. M. Nelson's string on the California circuit. The price paid, we understand, was $1200. Dan W. should be a good horse in his class this year.

The six year old mare Rippling by Chas. Derby out of Rill by Prompter, that was bred at Oakwood Park Stock Farm and sold over East, took a record of 2:24½ last year at the trot and will be campaigned again this year. She is being trained by W. F. Meyer at Cleveland and is expected to trot below 2:20 easily.

The handsome horse Motanic by Chehalis 2:04½ out of Maggie by Hamboy is now at the Morshead stables, foot of Clay street in this city, where his owner, Mr. John Wise, has him stabled for a time. The horse is for sale and should find a buyer without much delay. He is a fine individual and a very fast pacer, besides being a royally bred one.

Those who go East will have a chance to start racing as early as July 1st. There will be a summer meeting beginning on that date and ending on the 4th at Oakley Park, Cincinnati. This is two weeks prior to the opening of the Grand Circuit at Detroit. Six purses, four for $1500 each and two for $2000 each will close March 31st. See advertisement in this issue.

Mr. Thos. Lawson is advertising $500 in prizes to the horsemen who select and register the most appropriate names for their horses during the year 1902. Mr. Lawson evidently has no idea of entering the competition himself or setting an example to others as he has named a colt Dreamwold Poncelacy. The cognomen is a little too long and rangy to last through a five heat race.

Dr. M. M. West and wife of Homestead, Pennsylvania, who have been visiting California this winter, drove over to Aptos Ranch from Santa Cruz one day last week, and while there the Doctor saw Sandy Smith work several of the young horses being prepared for the Cleveland sale. He was much taken with them and expressed the opinion that they would be bid on eagerly when the sale took place.

It will soon be too late to consign horses to the Fasig-Tipton Company's sale at Cleveland, which is to be held in May. A fast horse that is well advertised and can show all that is claimed for him at the sale will bring more money there than can possibly be had for him in California. Buyers with money will be at Cleveland looking for the good things and they will be perfectly willing to pay for such as come up to representations.

Anzella 2:10½ has been sold by Geo. A. Kelly, of Pleasanton, to Pierce Brothers, of the Santa Rosa Stock Farm. The price, we understand, was $4000, and Mr. Kelly took in part payment the yearling colt by McKinney 2:11½ out of Bonsilene 2:14½, daughter of Stamboul 2:07½ and Bon Bon, dam of Bonnie Direct 2:05½ by Simmons 2:28. Messrs. Pierce have a great mare in Anzella and Mr. Kelly has one of the greatest bred colts in America.

Among the mares bred to Monterey 2:09½ during the past week are Jenny by Henry Patchen, owned by T. D. Witherly, of Irvington; a bay mare by Boodle 2:12½, owned by Henry Helman; Rosa Moor by Ross S., son of Nutwood, dam by The Moor, owned by L. M. Williamson; Polly, a black mare by Will Direct, dam Junio 2:22, sire of Athanasio 2:10. Monterey never looked better in his life than he does now and if he is trained again will lower his record. He is one of the best dispositioned stallions in America.

The Spreckels horses are not being worked to their limit at Aptos. Sandy's instructions are to get each one going nicely and to land every one in Cleveland in May, sound and well broken, but able to be trained on to show more speed than will be shown on the track there just before the sale. Mr. Spreckels desires that every horse sold shall be fully as represented and in such shape that the buyer will be able to have them still further improved by training. This is a wise policy for any farm that is to hold yearly sales.

Major T. S. Griffin, of Detroit, Michigan, a lover of the light harness horse, and manager of several Eastern tracks, spent a few days last week at Green Meadow Farm near Santa Clara. While there he visited the San Jose track and was surprised to see the sign of the New England stallion Alejo 2:10. After viewing several horses he went to Alejo's stall, and looking at him, said: "He looks natural, and he is the greatest horse of the East, as he never started in a race but he sold favorite in the pools. He was the most thought of horse amongst horsemen in Massachusetts."

There were many on the California circuit who took such an interest in the performances of Sir Albert S. that they sympathized with his owner, Wm. G. Layng, when the game and level headed pacer earned a record of 2:08½, claiming that his money earning capacity was restricted, that he was out of the 2:10 class, etc. It seems that nearly all the big associations on the Eastern circuit have not provided for the 2:10 class as they advertised purses for the 2:09 and 2:08 classes. Sir Albert S. is entered and eligible to start in the following, and his money earning capacity is unequalled by any horse in California: Detroit $3000, Cleveland $3000, Columbus, Ohio, $2000, Buffalo $2000, Empire City, New York $5000, Baltimore $5000, amounting to $20,000 in all. Besides there will be several big purses offered later for classes he is able to start in which will amount to from $3500 to $10,000. His owner says, and every one who has seen this horse at work and on the road believes that he will be a free-for-all horse before the season ends and will always be in the money. Mr. Layng drives him through the city and in Golden Gate Park daily. The horse never looked or felt better.

Mr. C. H. Harrison of Los Angeles, one of the best hotel men on the Pacific Coast and an enthusiastic admirer of the trotting horse, has just purchased the Hotel Rosslyn, one of the best equipped hostleries in the country. It is located on South Main street, directly opposite the postoffice and has all the latest and up-to-date conveniences. It is conducted on both the American and European plan, the rates being from one to four dollars per day. Mr. Harrison sent a mare back to Toledo to be bred to Cresceus 2:02½ this year and owns quite a number of high class roadsters.

The trotting bred four year old stallion Acorn, owned by Cheney Brothers of Sonoma county, was sold last week through an advertisement in this paper to Mr. John Fleet of Kamloops, British Columbia. Acorn is by Oaknut 2:24½, he by Dawn 2:18½, son of Nutwood 600. The dam of Acorn is Nellie Whippleton by Whippleton 1883, second dam by the thoroughbred horse Baywater. Acorn is 16.3 hands high and weighs 1250 pounds, with plenty of style and action. He will be a good horse for the northern country as he comes from families on both sides that are noted for size and style as well as speed.

There is a very silly, though general, prejudice against the working of stallions in harness out of the season, but it is all wrong. The stallion that is worked all winter long, and made to work good and hard and plenty at that, being the while suitably and liberally fed, will, other things being equal, get much stronger and more colts than if kept up in a box and either starved or pampered unduly. It may be accepted as a fact that primarily oats, cut hay, bran and roots are the best food for stallions in the winter—in season and out of it. Barley, especially when boiled or steamed, is also very good food for such horses.

The signs are unmistakable that the coming season will prove to be one of the greatest in the history of trotting sport. Every track in the country has claimed dates for 1902. Some idea of the magnitude of harness horse racing in America may be gleaned from the fact that nearly 1,000 cities gave race meetings that were officially reported last season, and as many of these gave more than one meeting, some as high as seven, the grand total of meetings was considerably over 1,000, and a very conservative estimate of the money hung up by associations in purses will place the figure in the neighborhood of $2,000. The announcements already made show a tendency to increase the size of the purses not only at the larger cities, but for the smaller towns as well.

Tarlton C. Miles, a leading veterinary surgeon of America and well known in Canada, England and France, died at Charlestown, Ill., February 6. He was familiarly known as "Farmer" Miles. He was born near Frankfort, Ky., in 1825, and settled in Coles county, Illinois, when twenty years old, where he engaged in farming and stock raising. His methods in equine surgery made him famous throughout the United States. He conducted a yearly institute at his home, which was attended by hundreds of young men from Maine to California, and published a book of his methods, that had a large sale. Pneumonia, with advanced age, overwork and Bright's disease, caused his death. Deceased was a deacon in the Presbyterian Church, and had held various offices of trust.

That progressive horseman and live stock auctioneer, William G. Layng, has purchased the fine large livery and boarding stable adjoining his place, The Occidental Horse Exchange. His new purchase fronts on Third street and extends 137 feet back to Clementina, and includes 100 narrow stalls besides a large lot which will contain 20 box stalls. Mr. Layng will have room to accommodate 200 horses and as it will be conducted strictly as a sale and boarding stable, those who are looking for first class horses or who have them and wish them cared for in the best manner can be accommodated. Special attention will be paid to receiving and shipping horses from and to all parts of the world. Auctions will be conducted as heretofore and Mr. Layng says he has a number of large sales to announce in the near future.

Mr. C. X. Larribie, proprietor of the Brooknook Farm, Montana, who purchased three mares at the recent Palo Alto sale in this city, has sent two of them to Tom James' horse Barondale, at San Jose. One of the mares is Ella, four year old record 2:29, full sister to Helena 2:11½ by Electioneer out of the great brood mare Lady Ellen by Carr's Mambrino. Ella has a very handsome colt by Nutwood Wilkes at foot. The other mare is Anselma 2:29½ by Ansel 2:20 out of the great broodmare Elaine 2:20, dam of Iran Alto 2:12½, Palatine 2:18, etc., second dam the famous Green Mountain Maid dam of Electioneer and nine standard trotters. This mare is now heavy in foal to Monbells. Two better bred mares have not been sent to any California stallion this year, and that Mr. Larribie, who is one of the leading breeders of the country should select Barondale is a compliment to Mr. James great horse.

The recent purchase by President Roosevelt of a team of driving horses for $11,000 is of interest to horse owners, because of the fact that one of the team was bred and raised by Doctor C. O. Burke of Atlanta, Ill. He broke it at the age of four years and then drove it on his professional rounds through the counties of McLean and Logan. He sold the horse to a New York fancier for $475. The latter found a perfect match, and putting the value of the Illinois horse at $6000 and the other at $5000, received the price stated from the President. The horse owned by Doctor Burke is dark bay in color, without a white hair or blemish, and was looked upon as one of the finest actors in Central Illinois. When Prince Henry was in Washington he was greatly impressed with the beauty of the team, and learning that the Illinois horse had a brother in Missouri, owned by a brother of Doctor Burke, he left instructions to purchase it and ship it to the royal stables in Germany.

HORSE TRAINING FOR SHOW.

A Veteran Circus Man Tells of His Methods of Teaching Animals Tricks for Ring Performances.

(From The Denver (Col.) Post.)

"Uncle Dan Costello—the king of horse trainers, old-time clown, showman, rider, athlete, and general circus performer—is wintering in Denver, and was persuaded to come and sit before my grate fire on a wintery afternoon and tell me something of his days under the tent and in the sawdust ring.

"You know," said the old man, "Charles Dickens wrote a pamphlet about me. He said: 'Costello is a marvel; he doesn't jump, he doesn't somersault, he just flies.' That pleased me. He also said 'that I was the only clown he had ever seen who was not a buffoon.' I had a copy of that pamphlet a long time, but finally lost it, and later, when in London, I went to every bookstore in the city and tried to get a copy, offering $1000 for one, but I was not successful. It was a small affair, but I would give a great deal to have one now."

"I should think so. You knew Dickens, then?"

"Oh, yes; I met him three or four times, and he was very much interested in my vaulting. I was then champion of the world, and made a jump straight from the ground, without springboard or run, over the backs of sixteen horses, turning two somersaults at the same time. Dickens came to see me, and it was his story that led her Majesty, the late Queen Victoria, to command a special performance, which we gave at the Alhambra Palace, London, before her Majesty and the Court, on the afternoon of May 8, 1858.

"Performers in those days had to do everything. For instance, I was a clown, but I also had to ride, vault, take anybody's place who happened to be sick or incapacitated, no matter what their line—in fact, everyone had to be ready for anything when called upon. Of course, we all had our specialties; mine, as I've said, was vaulting, and I always ended my performance with a 'leap for life,' when I dove straight over the backs of sixteen horses until just at the last one, when I made my double turn. Well, when I did that at the special performance, their Majesties rose right up out of their seats. And later the Queen ordered that I be brought before her, and she complimented my performance.

"In the Winter of 1865 I went with Barnum and for many years ran his shows. He was the greatest showman who ever lived. Soon after going with him I bought a horse called Senator. He was one of the greatest beauties I ever saw. A fine blood Circassian, brought over from the south of Russia. He was jet black, not a single white hair on him. He had a wonderful mane and tail of fine, silky, straight black hair, which swept the ground. The ladies used to rave over him.

"I lost that horse in New Jersey. He was too sick to travel and I left him behind. You know, it is one of their peculiarities, no matter how sick a show horse is, if you leave him behind he'll get out and try to follow the show. Well, Senator got away and was trailing after us, and, like a sick horse, the green marsh grass looked cooling to him; he tried to get at it, got mired, and that was the end of poor Senator. The Governor of New Jersey had his truly wonderful mane.

"One time Henry Bergh brought some ladies to see me train Senator, and after that they came often to watch the horses. One of them had been out to Helena, Mon., and she wanted to know why I didn't get wild horses off the ranches, educate them, and bring them into the market. Well, it struck me rather favorably. I went out to Montana, bought horses of Salisbury and some of the Indians—twenty-one in all; took them down to Chicago, and then my troubles began. They were wild as hawks, never had a halter on them, and afraid of everything.

"It was the 9th day of November when I landed them in New York, and on the 3d day of April we opened at the Garden, and they went through their performance without a break—and it was a wonderful performance—a school scene, marching, drilling, a rescue from a burning building, when one of them ran upstairs and rescued a child, firing pistols, playing dead—in fact, in five months they had learned all that any horse had been taught up to that time, and went through their tricks with splendid dash. It was the hardest winter's work I ever put in, and the first lot of wild horses I ever broke.

"I've read everything I could get hold of about horses and I've owned and broken and trained horses from all points of the globe—Tartar, Arabian, Circassian—every kind, including our own wild horses, which, it is said, strayed up here from Mexico and are descendants of the horses brought over by Cortes and his band, and which had a wild strain of their own from their Barbary ancestors.

"Oh—as to his intelligence. A man sometimes tells you he has a horse that will do whatever he tells him—lie down, come to him, go over yonder, turn around, etc., at order. Don't you believe him. It isn't true. No horse in the world will do anything of the kind without a certain amount of compulsion. Custom—daily custom backed by compulsion—makes the horse do these things, nothing more.

"The Fire Department horse is accustomed by training to run into place at the sound of a bell, but suppose the engine is in the street, do you think he will run to it and get into place. Not by a long shot. He hasn't been trained for that.

"As to his reasoning power—that's a hard question to answer. Just where instinct leaves off and reasoning power commences has puzzled greater men than I ever expect to see. I feed my horse candy, he sees me coming, and noses around my pockets. There must be a certain degree of reasoning there. He associates me and my pockets with the sugar and goes after it.

"Plain horses are born to liberty and will often die before they will submit to confinement. But I've broken fifteen or twenty broncos to shoot cannon, go through fire, and do all sorts of tricks, and after they are once broken you can't scare them. You can drive them right up to an engine where a domestic horse will shy and they are perfectly fearless. Their eyesight is better. Almost all domestic horses have defective eyes, and they are the ones that shy and are afraid of everything. Plain horses are skittish because they feel good and want to play. The only way a horse knows how to play is to jump and kick his heels. Of course, if he hits a dashboard its liable to frighten him, and then you must look out—but because he runs it doesn't argue that he's vicious.

"Let a carriage horse stand idle for a few days. When he's taken out he feels like any one else who has been cramped up, and he wants to run and jump and throw up his heels. He's not to blame if something happens then to frighten him—the blame rests with the fools who refused him proper exercise.

"There is a deal of theoretical talk about how a green horse should be taught. In my opinion, there is only one way—you do it precisely as you teach a little child, in the simplest, kindest and most attractive way.

"Take a nervous horse and tie his head back by passing a cord across the jaw and up over the back of the head; he'll be in a lather in ten minutes from the pain in the muscles where the head joins on the spine. Then all the whipping in creation won't make him do anything.

"There is just as much difference in horses as there is in children; you can't use the same method with all alike; you must study the individual.

"Take the ponies I am training this winter. There is Sappho, a little beauty, but a nervous little devil. When we began to teach her to dance she licked all three of us in one day. Did I whip her? Certainly not. I said, 'she's frightened. Take her back to-day and pet her up a bit; we'll try again to-morrow.' She had jerked Otto Foloto, who was holding the cord, clean off his feet, and he got up and dusted himself off, as disgusted a man as you'll ever see. 'Dan,' says he, 'if you teach that lady to dance, you'll be a peach.'

"Well, I've taught her to dance until the best of them will have to take a back seat when she comes in.

"Patience, good judgment, patience, more judgment, and still more patience, and patience—and that does it.

"I have been torn almost to pieces by a horse that was blindly jealous of me. I remember a big black fellow, smart as a whip, that I trained for a certain act. I did it alone for a while; then I had a partner, and I was to change horses the last half of the act. I rode my horse into my dressing room; the other fellow came in on his and dismounted, getting on mine. As I went to mount the other man's horse mine caught me by the waist and gave me a vicious bite. The 'entry' was playing, the act was waiting, so I bound up my waist and rode in. As soon as my horse saw me he grabbed me by the leg and tore a piece right out. Nor would he ever allow me to ride another horse when he was around. I've been scarred all over by horses whose sole motive was a very human pique or jealousy."

"Whoa, January."

"About 'Whoa, January?' Yes that was my pony. You see, Rarey had a farm in Ohio, and he went himself to the Shetland Islands for a lot of ponies. I met him one day in Liverpool, and he said: 'Had a little foal coming over; if you'll go down and get it you can have it.'

"Well, I went and got it and carried it in my arms to the hotel and up to my room. It wasn't more than eighteen inches high, and the cutest thing you ever saw. My wife put a lot of cotton in the coal box and we kept it there, feeding it from a bottle. We named it January, because that was the month it was born. Pretty soon it could run up and down stairs like a dog.

"Tom Thumb and Hawes were both there, and they plagued the life out of the colt until it got ugly and would chase anybody that annoyed it; then it would scoot upstairs like all possessed. One day in the ordinary the colt was being plagued. The table was set and dinner ready for twenty people. He grabbed the tablecloth between his teeth and started upstairs pell mell, scattering dishes all along the way. Tom Thumb laughed until he like to have died, and he and Hawes said they were willing to pay for the damage all over again to see the little devil go up those stairs. But, just the same, after that I had to take him away.

"At the show I was doing a clown act with Hawes, and him and me had a horse trade. He had a great big fellow and I offered to trade my pony for him.

"How big is your horse?"

"Oh, he's most as high as this tent."

"Go away."

"Yes, he is. He's awful big and strong."

"Where is he?"

"In the stable."

"Where is the stable?"

"Right here."

"And then I'd open a big carpet bag that I stuffed the pony in and dump January out on the ground. The moment he saw Hawes, who had always plagued him, he'd chase after him, catch the tails of his coat—which were only basted on—and tear them off. Then he'd rush around the ring with them in his mouth, while Hawes would stay outside. It always made a big hit.

"Lord Roberts, who was present at the special performance for Queen Victoria, got up a bet at his club with Baron Rothschild, who said that the mules were fakes and could be ridden by a jockey he knew.

"Well, his lordship bet him £1,000 that the jockey couldn't do it. Then he came to see me, and I told him he was all right and could bet any amount he liked on it. The result was that the whole club took it up, and something like £20,000 was put up, and all the sporting blood of the clubs came over that night to see the English jockey tame the Yankee mule.

"Well, the jock saddled his animal cautiously and, got up with a flourish. Got part way round the ring, then the mule stopped to consider. Mr. Jock dug his spurs into him, mule went together like a jack-knife, and a jock went hurling through the air head first, into the laps of the people on the top row. When the jockey came to, we asked him if he wanted to try again, but he took one look at the mule where he stood wagging his ears in convulsive starts of outraged dignity, and said he'd had enough."

The old man laughed at the recollection, and getting up to put on his coat, said:

"Yes, I've had my day, enjoyed my hours of triumph, seen my ups and downs. But I'm growing old—nothing matters any more. I've seen it pretty nearly all—London, Paris, Berlin, St. Petersburg, Vienna, Rome. I knew them as I knew New York and Chicago, in those old days when I traveled the pace. Life was a great, a glorious game, and the struggle to win, the battle for fame and fortune, was what made it worth while. Now that I no longer fight there is nothing much to it. Yes, I'm growing old."

Los Angeles Club's Matinee.

An excellent program of harness racing was furnished a large crowd of pleased spectators at the matinee of the Los Angeles Driving Club last Saturday.

Mr. F. B. Taylor's little mare Primrose started during the afternoon to beat her record of 2:09½, made a few weeks since, but 2:09½ was the best she could do. The trial was made too late in the afternoon, and the track was not in the best condition for the attempt.

In the free for all the pacing mare, Sweetheart, beat the trotting mare, Sweet Marie, and the pacer, Montecito, in straight heats, the time being 2:15½ and 2:14.

The sensational race of the day was the mile dash for colts, Geo. W. Ford springing a big surprise by winning with his colt Coconut by Neernut in 2:22½ and doing it easily. The summaries of the races follow:

First race—2:40 class, 2 in 3.
 Patsy, b m..... (L. J. Felton) 1 1
 Neerdell, b m..... (G. W. Ford) 2 2
 Diamond, b g..... (Ed. L. Ford) 3 3
 W. L., b g..... (W. L. Vail) 4 4
 My Girl, b m..... (Dr. John Furbert) 5 5
 Maggie May, b m..... (E. W. Nettleton) 3 dr

Time—2:31½, 2:32½.
 Second race—2:30 pace, 2 in 3.
 Irving C., b g..... (F. K. Wilson) 1 3 1
 Mowitza, br m..... (R. B. Moorehead) 3 1 4
 Tom Moore, blk g..... (Dr. M. L. Moore) 2 2 3
 George, b g..... (R. E. Muncey) 4 5 3
 Jingle, blk g..... (General H. G. Otis) 5 4 5

Time—2:25½, 2:30½, 2:31½.
 Third race—free for all, 2 in 3.
 Sweetheart, b m..... (E. T. Earl) 1 1
 Montecito, b g..... (L. J. Felton) 3 2
 Sweet Marie, b m..... (William Garland) 2 3

Time—2:14½, 2:14.
 Fourth race—exhibition mile to beat 2:00½, the amateur race record of the state.
 Time.....
 Primrose, b m..... (Fred B. Taylor) 2

Time—2:09½.
 Fifth race—mile dash.
 Coconut, b g..... (G. W. Ford) 1
 Hurley F., br g..... (H. G. Bundren) 2
 Polo, b m..... (N. W. Myrick) 3
 Medico, b g..... (J. H. Reynolds) 4

Time—2:22½.

Heno and the Figure System.

The remarkable exhibitions which the pedigrees of the world's greatest race horses of 1901 furnished in support of the policy of inbreeding have been in consideration during the course of a number of my recent writings, says W. H. Rowe. Commando, Conroy, The Parader, Banastar, etc., have been treated among the senior division of our American horses, while Yankee and Nasturtium have been specified among the juniors. England has also furnished a brilliant juvenile illustration in Minstead, who, as I stated recently was deliberately bred "on the figures."

Despite the above really formidable array of illustrations, the list of available references has hardly been begun, let alone exhausted. Another prominent American juvenile of 1901, whose pedigree is an object lesson with regard to the potency of inbreeding, is Heno, with whom Mr. Clarence H. Mackay's "turquoise and black" captured one of the most valuable and important two year old events of the season, Morris Park's Matron Stakes.

Heno is officially described as being "by Falsetto or Henry Young." I understand that he is undoubtedly a son of Henry Young, and one can well appreciate the grounds for Heno's racing ability when once an examination of his component bloodlines is intelligently prosecuted.

Heno's sire, Henry Young, is by Duke of Montrose, out of Perfection, she by imp. Leamington, out of Maiden, she by Lexington out of Kitty Clark, by imp. Glencoe. Perfection, I may note in passing, is a full sister to Parole, the "hero of two continents."

Heno's dam, Quiver, is by Faustus, who was himself by Engineer out of Lizzie G., by War Dance. Engineer was by imp. Leamington out of Lida, by Lexington. War Dance was also by Lexington, while Lizzie G.'s dam was by Lecompte, he by Boston, sire of Lexington. Here we have an inbreeding of imp. Leamington, and triple Lexington inbreeding (with a fourth line of Boston) between Henry Young's dam and Quiver's sire. This is the most favorable placing of inbreeding to create a "colt nick," as I have so frequently illustrated of late in these columns.

We must now note another phase of inbreeding which is possessed by the pedigree of Lizzie G., dam of Faustus. Lizzie G., as stated above, was by War Dance, son of Lexington. The dam of War Dance was Reel, she by imp. Glencoe out of imp. Gallopade. But Lizzie G. was out of a daughter of Lecompte, and this horse was not only by Boston (sire of Lexington), but was also out of the same Reel who threw War Dance. Even more than this, however, we find that Lizzie G.'s grandam, Edith, was out of Judith, she by imp. Glencoe out of a daughter of the same imp. Gallopade who produced Reel.

Bearing in mind all the inbreeding of Lexington, Glencoe and Gallopade which characterizes the combination of Perfection and Faustus, let us now analyze the pedigree of Heno's grandam. This mare is Belle Broeck by Ten Broeck out of Belle of the West by Big Fellow. Phaton's sire, King Tom, was a son of Glencoe's greatest daughter, Pocahontas. Fanny Holton was by Lexington. This gives us still another infusion of both Glencoe and Lexington, but even this notably increased strength of these strains is still further intensified when we find that Big Fellow, sire of Heno's third dam, was a son of War Dance. Thus we have the Lexington-Glencoe-Gallopade triple alliance intensified. And then, as a finishing touch, we find that Heno's fifth dam was out of a daughter by imp. Glencoe.

It is incumbent upon me to now direct the closest attention of all interested in the breeding industry to the fact that the pedigree of Heno is another notable illustration of the Figure Guide's principle for the production of a successful colt—namely, by returning to a stallion the best strains of his dam. I have in recent writings shown that Commando, Conroy, The Parader, etc., are unanimously in support of the principle, and nothing can be more obvious than Heno's demonstration of the same idea.

It has been found that Heno's pedigree contains inbreeding of Leamington, Lexington and Glencoe—the two latter in remarkable strength, and it is especially to be noted that Heno's sire, Henry Young, possessed these strains in his dam alone. The four grandparents of Henry Young's sire, Duke of Montrose, were imp. Australian, imp. Cicely Jopson, imp. Bonnie Scotland and Sister Ruric. There is no Leamington, Lexington or Glencoe about this quartette, but just a connecting link (so to speak) with the remainder of the pedigree in the fact that Levity's fourth dam, Lady Grey, was also the third dam of Lexington.

Henry Young's dam, however, was by imp. Leamington out of a Lexington mare, grandam by imp. Glencoe. These are the lines which constitute such a great percentage of Heno's inbred blood, and I am thoroughly confident that neither student nor general reader will now gainsay my right to claim the Matron winner of 1901 as a genuinely powerful addition to my previous list of great winners, whose pedigrees not only endorse the policy of inbreeding, but also give unequivocal support to the principle of returning to a stallion the best strains of his dam.

Butte Driving Club.

[Butte, Mont., News.]

At a meeting held in Butte last Thursday evening, what is to be hereafter known as the Butte Driving Club, was organized and fairly started on a promising career among the sport-giving organizations of the Northwest. The club has the backing and membership of many of the very best residents in Butte, and every indication points to a successful season during the coming summer months. At the meeting the following officers were elected: C. W. Clark, President; F. E. Shaw, Vice-President; F. H. Coney, Secretary; W. B. Hamilton, Treasurer. The Board of Directors consists of Dr. T. B. Moore, James T. Finlen, Donald B. Gillis, Joseph Lutey, Jr.; Race Committee, William Gemmell, W. J. Kennelly and Dr. J. D. McGregor.

The admission to the club is $25, payable at the time membership card is issued, and all persons are eligible who are not professional drivers.

A lease has been obtained on the inside track of the race track, and matinee races will be given at stated times. There will be no purses, entrance fees or dues of any kind, and everything will be conducted on the strictest amateur basis.

About 40 members have already signed the membership roll, and it is expected the list will be over 100. The club is composed of the following members: Donald B. Gillis, W. B. Hamilton, A. M. Carr, F. E. Shaw, Dr. J. D. McGregor, William Gemmell, F. A. Ironsides, J. C. Strong, Dennis O'Neill, John Hoy, Lou Frank, D. B. Jacobs, Don Elgie, Joseph Lutey, Jr., K. J. McRea, James B. Furey, Peter Breen, James Maher, Charles McGarvey, W. J. Kennelly, Charles W. Clark, W. A. Clark, Jr., B. H. Dunshel, J. E. Smith, Dr. McIntyre, F. H. Cooney, Dr. T. B. Moore, James T. Finlen, Silas F. King, G. O. McFarland, Marco J. Medin, F. M. Grady, J. N. Nevells, William Luxton, D. C. Smith, P. A. Breen, Elroy Smith, J. R. Ried, R. E. Taylor and Charles Lane.

The people of Butte do not realize the number of fine horses with records that are being driven on the streets of this city every day. The following list will give some idea of the horses that are owned by members of the club, and will take part in the matinee races:

Charles W. Clark's Orphan Dick 2:17, W. J. Kennelly's Erudition B. 2:19½, James T. Finlen's Tuttle 2:30, F. E. Shaw's Christobelle 2:19, Charles McGarvey's Howell 2:16½, F. A. Ironsides' Almax 2:18, Dennis O'Neill's Caption 2:16 trial, Silas King's Caption P. 2:22, Elroy Smith's Idol 2:19, Exuberant 2:25, Dr. T. B. Moore's On Trial 2:26½, W. A. Clark's (Jr.) Master Del Mar 2:20, Mar Boy 2:19, Will Lane 2:13½ trial, William Kane's pacer 2:20, D. C. Smith's D. C. S. 2:23, Macco J. Medin's Black Tom 2:23, K. J. McRea's Tom Burns 2:30.

Among the unmarked horses are some very fast ones that some of the older horses will have to step very fast to keep up with. A few of the best are as follows:

Dan Jacob's Poor Guest, Josep Lutey's chestnut pacer, Elias Seigle's Calsite, John Hoy's Prodyte colt, Louis Frank's McKinney colt, F. H. Cooney's Colbert colt, D. B. Gills' Don Angus colt, J. C. Strong's Ralf R., Dan Elgie's Oderator colt, Dr. J. P. McGregor's bay gelding, R. E. Taylor's chestnut pacer, Dr. T. B. Moore's Flavina by Daljarino, Java (Ginger), Lady Lyons; J. R. Reid's Lans W., Alerton; J. L. Carroll's Belmont filly.

The club extends a cordial invitation to all who are interested in harness racing to come forward and sign the membership roll.

Sixteen $1000 Purses at Glens Falls.

Those who intend racing over East this year should carefully look over the sixteen $1000 purses advertised by this association for its Grand Circuit meeting, which will be held September 15th to 18th inclusive. They are equally divided between the trotters and pacers and ten of them are early closing events with May 1st set for closing. These are the 2:10, 2:12, 2:14, 2:18 and 2:24 class trots, and the 2:08, 2:10, 2:12, 2:14 and 2:24 pacing classes. In these early closing events it only costs $5 to enter on May 1st. The other payments are easy and horses are to be named July 1st. On August 1st, six purses of $1000 each will close, horses to be named with entry. Glens Falls will have one of the best meetings on the circuit this year.

California favorite hot weather drink—Jackson's Napa Soda.

The Buffalo Meeting in August.

Next Monday is the day for closing entries for the Buffalo Driving Club's great meeting. Those who expect to race east of there on the Grand Circuit should realize the necessity of giving their horses actual work in races before starting against the crack-erjacks they will meet at Readville, Providence, Hartford and Brighton Beach. The Buffalo purses, which close next Monday, are six in number—three for trotters and three for pacers. The Electric City Stake is for trotters of the 2:24 class and $5000 is the amount. There is $2000 for the 2:12 class trotters and the same amount for 2:18 class trotters. The chief pacing event is the Frontier Stake for $5000 and is for the horses eligible to the 2:24 class. The 2:08 class and the 2:14 class pacers have stakes of $2000 each. Besides these rich events there will be six additional large purses given for trotters and pacers of different classes, and the Buffalo meeting is sure to be one of the largest on the Grand Circuit. Monday, March 24th, is the day for closing the six stakes already announced and those who intend campaigning on the Grand Circuit cannot afford to let the day go by without making entries. See the advertisement in this issue.

It takes quite a bunch of money to buy a ready made race horse these days.

VETERINARY DEPARTMENT.

WM. F. EGAN, M. R. C. V. C., F. E. V. M. S.

Subscribers to this paper can have their horses and ponies examined in all cases of sick or injured horses, and ponies, dogs, cats, etc., by sending a plain description of the case. Applicants will send their name and address that they may be identified.

POLL EVIL.—Would you be kind enough to diagnose and give treatment for poll evil, if there is a cure for it.—R. N. S.

ANSWER.—Poll evil is a fistula, or running sore, situated on top of the horse's neck, back of his head. It is generally the result of an injury and necrosis of tissue.

Treatment consists of removing, as far as is possible, all necrosed, or gangrenous tissue. (This had better be done by a veterinary surgeon, as the spinal cord, which is to a certain extent open to injury, between the bones, may be reached by instruments in the hands of a man who does not know just what parts he is cutting through. Injury to the cord is almost always fatal.) And afterwards daily injections with antiseptics.

Injections alone, without operation, may in mild cases result in cure, but if the bones become affected, which is frequently the case, or even the "ligamentum nuchæ" (or ligament of the neck) diseased, the treatment will be long and tedious.

The general treatment should consist of daily syringing out with antiseptics, keeping a free opening for exit of pus, keeping the horse on soft food, such as at pasture or bran mashes and hay if in stable. Avoid burning out with too strong a caustic (which is sometimes done) and which may penetrate to and injure the spinal cord. Remove all decayed tissue; do not keep on a halter or anything that will irritate the parts.

If the horse be valuable, it would be better to call in a veterinary surgeon who, after examining the parts, may be able to give you an idea of the extent of the disease, and by removing the necrosed parts, that would take months to slough away without the aid of the surgeon's knife.

Fly-Casting.

The San Francisco Fly-Casting contests No. 3 at Stow lake on Saturday and Sunday last were the center of attraction for a large concourse of interested spectators. The weather on both days was fine and favorable to the sport. We note the appearance on the platform of John Lawrence and P. J. Tormey, as well as a number of new members. On Sunday Mr. J. B. Kenniff had the proud distinction of being high rod in long distance and accuracy. Kenniff is rapidly nearing a position that will make some of the other rod-wielders guard their laurels if they wish to retain them. The scores made follow:

Fish Lines.

At breakfast it was rock cod; it was halibut at lunch; At dinner barracuda was the name; It was smelt or sole or something new each time it reappeared. But the fish itself—alas!—was just the same.

Striped bass fishing in Raccoon straits has not been good for a week past. The bay water is very clear again. The vast shoals of herring are now gone and the bass should readily take the spoon. We heard this week that several bass had been caught at Bay Farm island on Sunday.

One way of preparing a trout line is the following: Dissolve or melt some paraffin wax in a jar, put the line in coils in it—having thoroughly dried the line first—for a few minutes, wipe the line carefully with a linen rag, and it is ready for use. The line requires to be done several times through a season, but as it only takes so short a time to do, it amply repays the angler for his trouble, as a line thus dressed will float all day, and a few cents of the wax is sufficient for all the season.

A sight to make others besides anglers stop and gaze with extreme enjoyment was the window of Clabrough, Golcher & Co. this week. Rods, from the lightest and daintiest split bamboo fly-rod to the heavy, single jointed Noib wood tuna rod were in profusion. A three jointed steel rod with agate guide and tip and wrapped from top to bottom with silk is a handsome and powerful but plant rod for striped bass. Reels in profusion, flies of many kinds and the best, leaders, tackle boxes, leather and metal. A new invoice of silk and linen lines should be seen to be appreciated. Some gaffs and landing nets are so excellent that one wants them even tho' he never should go a'fishing. As for boots, stockings and other apparel as well as numberless other things the angler deems indispensable they can be seen in variety.

A very excellent pouch for carrying leaders, flies, casts, etc., in, can be made as follows: Cut two circular discs of skin, with the hair left on, and half a dozen discs of wash leather the same size. Arrange the wash leather discs one on top of the other, and the skin ones at the top and bottom of the wash leather with the hair outside. Then have them stitched to gether right through with waxed thread about an eighth or sixth of an inch from the edge, half way round. This will make a tackle pouch like the Paley, (which, by the way, are good and handy for the pocket, cost little and can be found at Clabrough, Golcher & Co.) only better. The raw edges of the skin at the open part of the pouch can be edged with braid or other suitable material. "I got a pouch of this kind made with sealskin for the outside, and it has been a great success," says a well-known angler. "I used the common hair sealskin, not the kind that ladies' jackets are made of. This pouch was the idea of a fishing friend of mine, who seriously thought of patenting it, but found that some other somewhat and similar patent tackle holder would invalidate his patent."

Who was the inventor of the very popular evening fly yclept "the Coachman"? This question was recently asked, by a convert to the dry-fly, in the company of several expert fly-dressers—most of them more or less entitled to the distinction of anglers. Not one of them knew! Well, be it known unto all anglers that the fly—which is now an acknowledged standard pattern—was "invented" and first used by the famous coachman, Tom Bosworth, whose pride it was to say that he had driven three sovereigns—George the Fourth, William the Fourth and Queen Victoria. "Old Tom" was one of the old school of anglers; many a time has he extracted fish from pools which have in vain been negotiated by other anglers; and, be it noted, he generally had to follow in their wake. 'Tis said of Tom Bosworth that he could fetch the pipe out of a smoker's mouth with his whip-lash as he drove by one. At any rate, he knew how to put a fly over a rising fish, as many a score hundred trout and grayling learned to their cost. The Coachman fly has been "improved" beyond all recognition by modern "experts," but Bosworth's dressing still remains, it is claimed, the best—white wing, peacock herl body, red hackle, orange tag.

The following story is told by Dan Fraser who was once fishing on a Highland salmon stream. He had been intently paying his attention to a pool where he knew there was a fine big fish; making cast after cast, without result, for the salmon that had baffled all the anglers. While readjusting his tackle and seated some little distance from the bank, two other anglers appeared on the scene, a well known Laird and his gillie. Without ado, the Laird made a cast, and, to Fraser's great disgust, he saw hooked, the king of the pool, which after quite a long and gallant struggle was finally gaffed and landed. Fraser was an unobserved and interested spectator, being too much of a sportsman to allow his chagrin to prevent his enjoying the sight of a brother angler's victory. The one thing, however, that struck him as being ludicrous, and also made him feel the other's good luck was undeserved, was the following short dialogue, which was the only break in the silence of the two while the big fish was being fought:

Donald—"E-h, Sir, but that's a gran' fesh ye've gotten a haud o'!"

The Laird—"Oo, aye, a gran' fesh eno," but I'd be right glad if I saw my twa and saxpenny flee weel oot o' his mouth!"

AT THE TRAPS.

The postponed regular club shoot of the Empire Gun Club will be held at Alameda Point to-morrow.

The Golden Gate Gun Club program for their initial live bird shoot for 1902, at Ingleside to-morrow, will commence with the club match at 15 birds, distance handicap, $20 added by the club. The second event will be a miss and out, the third event, a six bird race, will close the regular events. After the club shoot, pool and practice shooting will be in order. The shoot starts at 10 A. M.

Otto Feudner and Harvey McMurchy will start for Kansas City on Tuesday next. It is possible that Phil B. Bekeart and Ed Donohoe will join them. Starter Dick Dwyer will leave for the shoot on the 29th inst. It is probable that the total purse in the Grand American Handicap will be over $11,000.

The Union Gun Club program this season is the following: The club shoots will take place at Ingleside the third Sunday of each month, commencing March 16th and ending September 21st. The first event will be a "warm up" 10 target match, high guns, entrance to be named by the captain. Following will be the club match at 25 targets, distance handicap, 12 yards to 22 yards. Not more than one score to be made up during the season of seven shoots. Club offers $10 money at each shoot, divided into four equal classes: 20 breaks or over will constitute first class; 16 to 19, inclusive, second class; 12 to 15, inclusive, third class; below 12, fourth class. Ties to shoot off at 10 birds, or shooters' option.

The third event will be the club handicap, gold and silver medal event, 25 to 30 targets, entrance 50 cents. Handicap to be governed according to scores made in club event. Winners of medals to wear same each month. Medals to become the property of member winning same the greatest number of times during the season. Gold medal, over 68%; silver medal, below 68%. Ties to shoot off at 10 birds, or shooters' option. Handicap governed as follows: Give 11 and under, 5 birds; give 12 to 15, inclusive, 3 birds; give 16 to 19, inclusive, 1 bird.

Fourth event, outsiders' and members' handicap match, entrance 75 cents. Club will add money at each shoot. Purse divided into 50, 30, and 20%, class shooting. Shooters will all shoot at 25 birds and will be handicapped from 14 to 20 yards, according to ability. After making score, shooters will be placed according to schedule below: Shooters scoring 24-23-22, placed at 20 yards. Shooters scoring 21-20-19, 18 yards. Shooters scoring 18-17-16, 16 yards. Shooters scoring 15 and under, 14 yards. Shooters will be entitled to shoot as many as they have missed from the above schedule of yards. After final score has been made, purse will be divided.

A special members' medal match will take place at the end of the season, for shooters who fail to win prizes in club or handicap medal events. Shooters to enter this match must take in five club or handicap medal events. Other events to be arranged by the captain. All shooters are invited to participate in any club or other events for birds, at the rate of two cents a bird. Practice shooting from 9:30 A. M. to 11 A. M. Regular club events at 11 A. M.

On June 29, 1902, and, if possible, August 31, 1902, the club will have live bird handicap shoots.

A merchandise prize shoot will be held on the 28d inst.

The opening shoot of the club last Sunday at Ingleside brought a large attendance of shooters and spectators. The weather was excellent and many good scores were made. In the club match, 25 birds, distance handicap, C. C. Nauman won first money. M. J. Iverson, O. Fisher and D. Daniels divided second money. G. Thomas, C. T. Mitchell and G. Herring divided third money. A. Phillips won fourth money. The scores and handicaps were: Muller 14 yards, 18 breaks; Grauerholz 14-13, Phillips 14-11, Tuckey 14-8, O'Shaughnessy 14-13, Ryan 14-6, Hoyt 16-18, Herring 16-15, Gordon 16-14, Zeimer 16-21, Walpert 16-22, Michelson 16-12, Mitchell 16-15, Sylvester 16-22, Jackson 16-19, Fisher 16-19, Knick 16-21, Janssen 16-21, Shields 16-17, Sylvester 16-22, Finocchia 16-12, Daniels 16-19, Robertson 16-17, Thomas 16-20, Drieschman 16-16, Iverson 18-19, Feudner 19-23, Burnell 18-15, "U. M. C." 18-21, Nauman 20-25, Clausen 18-25, Snipper 18-17, Kirsch 18-9, A. Sylvester 18-8, Burns 18-13, Eggers 18-12, Wollam 18-20.

In the next event, the medal shoot, Iverson, Sylvester and Burns tied for first place. In the shoot-off Sylvester won the gold medal with a score of 14 out of 21. Burns' score of 11 beat Iverson by 1 for the silver medal.

In the visitors' and members' handicap event at twenty-five birds, the shooters were handicapped from fourteen to twenty yards. The scores were as follows: Ladd 22, Zeimer 25, Iverson 23, Sylvester 24, Burnell 22, Jackson 24, Walpert 23, Drieschman 22, Robertson 25.

In this event Zeimer and Robertson divided first money; Sylvester, T. Lewis and Jackson divided second money; Walpert, Burnell and Ladd divided third money.

The Slater-Bennett anti-pigeon shooting bill passed the New York Assembly on the evening of February 24th by a vote 111 to 9 and entirely without debate. When the bill was reached on the calendar Speaker Nixon surprised everybody by ordering the clerk to call the roll on final passage. The result had been announced before the opponents of the measure appeared to have recovered from their astonishment. Then there was a chorus of nays which were finally recorded as follows: Brooks, Bradley, Ruehl, McKeown, McInerney, T. W. Fitzpatrick, W. P. Fitzpatrick, Doughty and Robinson. The bill now goes to the Governor and ends a fight that has been briskly carried on in both houses for the past two years.

Anti-pigeon legislation has also been started in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Illinois and New Jersey.

On the 16th inst. at Sacramento the Capital City Gun Club held a shoot on the Kimball and Upson grounds. The Oak Park Gun Club members were present as guests. An interesting feature of the day was a team shoot between representatives of the two clubs. The scores in the main events were the following:

Goose hunting at Norman seems to be a much sought for sport, last week two parties, one including three Sacramento sportsmen, Frank Newbert, J. Brinker and Will Geary bagged nearly 450 geese in a day and a half; a party of local shooters, Fred Bushnell, John B. Coleman, Frank Ireland and Chas. A. Palm of Sacramento, also in two days, killed 620 geese. The birds were mostly large and small brant, with a sprinkling of the "Mexican" goose.

Shooting Schools.

We heard one day recently a conversation between several sportsmen in which the merits and proficiency of several experts were discussed; particularly so, the remarkable improvement of one local shooter, both at the traps and in field shooting. This degree of skill was acquired in but a few seasons' application to the use of the shotgun. In connection with the argument one of the gentlemen present offered the suggestion that if most men were taken in hand and properly instructed, virtually at a shooting school, a surprisingly large percentage of the novices would advance rapidly in the art of handling and shooting a breechloader properly. This idea has been proven to be fairly correct, for on the Continent and in England it seems such institutions are in vogue and apparently well patronized. Some five years ago the first school for the teaching of shooting was an innovation introduced in the world of sport in England, and from its inception was looked upon as supplying a long felt want. Riding schools, fencing and boxing instructors, dancing, cricket, rowing and swimming composed quite a list of sport developing mediums which helped the English youth to equip for the battle of life; to these diversions was added shooting, which in most countries, as in our own, has to be picked up by the youths, as well as their elders, as best one can, either from kind friends or by dint of the experience which comes from observation and gradual application. In acquiring a shooting education, the country lad generally has had a great advantage over his city cousin. He has many opportunities of getting educated in a knowledge of how to shoot that are denied to the town boy, to say nothing of his other opportunities in the matter of learning the habits and ways of both feathered and furred game.

When shooting schools are available the latter, how ever, will no longer alone enjoy the privilege of being taught how to use his gun. The advent of shooting schools will change all that.

Capital to no small amount has been sunk in the instituting of a considerable number of good schools of shooting, of which there are five in London, two at Birmingham and one at Glasgow. Those near London are the Blagdon School in Surrey, founded by Messrs. Cogswell and Harrison; the London Sporting Park at Hendon, founded by Mr. Watts; the Wimbledon Park School of Messrs. Lang and Son, the Badminton School of Messrs. Holland and that of Mr. Charles Lancaster at his private grounds. London is now very well supplied, therefore, with schools for shooting, and the practical question coming up, would they pay? was often heard at first. The indication is that they pay very well indeed, even where considerable capital has been sunk. At one school the whole of the instructor's time is secured for months in advance. He has not an available hour to give newcomers, except very early in the morning or very late in the evening, and the proprietor consequently contemplated withdrawing from advertising for a time. Yes, shooting schools are paying and will pay still better when every father who, can afford it, recognizes that without a knowledge of how to properly handle his gun, his son's education is incomplete."

Bench Show Notes.

The premium list for the San Francisco show is, we regret to say, at hand this week too late for the extended notice it deserves. Entries will close April 12th, at 138 Montgomery street, the kennel club office, this city.

An entry fee of $3 will be charged for each entry in the regular classes, $10 in the team, $20 in the pack classes and $5 for the brace sweepstakes. For dogs required to be listed a charge of 25 cents additional must accompany the entry.

The prizes offered by the San Francisco Kennel Club in all regular classes are: 1. The club's new gold, silver and enameled shield blue ribbon. 2. The club's silver medal; or, when specially requested on entry blank, $5 in gold, red ribbon. 3. The club's bronze medal, yellow ribbon. Specials, as offered and red, white and blue ribbon. Winners, the club's new winners' rosette.

The list of specials published comprises six pages and is an interesting one.

If more than one kennel of the same breed is entered for competition in the team class, the judge of that breed will first alone pass on their respective merits, and the winning kennel will receive a kennel prize of $15 in addition to any prizes it may win in the team class.

Classes, regular and special, for 54 breeds, etc., are enumerated.

Jack Bradshaw will have among his string of dogs for the Northern circuit, Chas. Newman's St. Bernard Lester C., Mrs. Thos. Magee, Jr.'s, Boston Terrier Winner, J. G. Morgan's Champion Niola Daddy, Legs and Feet and two wirehaired puppies. A kennel of four Cocker, recently received from George Bell, of Toronto, including Standard, Perfection and two crack bitches, W. Feige's English Setter Buckwa, a Boston Terrier bitch The Lady and several other good ones. Bradshaw will leave here on the 27th inst.

Among the dogs promised for the northern circuit, L. A. Klein enumerates, N. H. Hickman's kennel of smooth Fox Terriers, Chas. K. Harley's team of four crack Fox Terriers, J. D. Spreckels Bull Terrier Banjo, Mrs. W. C. Ralston's Cocker Spaniels, Plumeria Cocker Kennels' string, Phil C. Meyer's Glenwood Kennels, St. Bernards and Cocker, L. A. Klein's (agent for Geo. C. Thomas) Fox and Irish Terriers, etc. Irving C. Ackerman's Fox Terriers will go direct to Portland from the Boston Show.

Mr. Albert Joseph, we are very sorry to write, has this week been so unfortunate as to lose his Boston Terrier Lady Montez, Flirt, as she was called, died, the veterinary, Dr. Steers, reports of a complication of ill, and somewhat suddenly. This will be a noticeable loss to the breeders on the Coast. Flirt was a well known prize winner and the dam of winners and promising puppies. She was a splendid companion and much thought of by her owner. Mr. Joseph still has Endcliffe Lita, who was recently bred to H. H. Carlton's Oaksides.

Jackson's Napa Soda is sold in every city, town and hamlet in the State.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

We are indebted to Mr. H. St. John Cooper, of Brighton, England, for a copy of his popular work "The Bulldog Kennel Book and Toy Bulldog Breeder." Mr. Cooper was assisted in this work by Mrs. C. F. C. Clarke. The book itself is in great demand and worthily so. To the breeder the work appeals with much force, much attention being given to the importance of careful breeding. The book deals with everything the novice may wish to know about Bulldogs and Toy Bulldogs, how to house and feed them properly and how to rear and prepare these breeds for show purposes. We cheerfully recommend the volume to our readers. A copy can be obtained by addressing "Our Dogs," 10 Gore St., Piccadilly, London, England. Price 1 shilling 8 pence, postpaid.

In a recent letter from Mr. H. St. John Cooper, the well known author and Bulldog fancier, he says:

"Please except my best thanks for the copy of your interesting paper, containing a reprint of my article on Bulldogs in England in 1901. At the time the article was written Chinosol was in the land of the living, but died before the article appeared in print. His death was a severe loss to his master, my friend Mr. W. J. Pegg, who had previously refused a large sum of one thousand pounds for him. The morning following the dog's death a gentleman called at Mr. Pegg's place of business in London and made him the startling offer of fifteen hundred pounds for the champion. 'I am sorry, but it is quite impossible for me to accept your offer,' said Mr. Pegg. 'The dog died last night.' Whereon the would-be purchaser, an American who had come to England for the sole purpose of buying the dog, turned round on his heel and bolted out of the place without a word. Chinosol, well in the morning, died at night, after only a few hours' illness—pneumonia—he died standing, as a good Bulldog should, with his forelegs well out, as perfect a model of a Bulldog as one would wish to see, fighting for his breath to the very last. He remained on his legs even after death and Mr. Pegg says that he would have stiffened in that position had he not laid him down on his side."

We note with much regret the loss by Mr. Chas. Newman of his justly renowned St. Bernard, Golden Lion, a dog familiar, we will say without exaggeration, to thousands, residents here, visitors to the city and tourists, who have been delighted and interested observers of the rare and exceeding intelligence shown by Lion time and again at the Richelieu and in public. The dog possessed a most amiable disposition and was a happy pal with his master and family. To enumerate the roster of star performances Lion was capable of doing in a surprisingly clever manner would fill a small volume. The dog was an attraction at his master's place of business and seemed to take keen pleasure in doing his many stunts. When Mr. Newman purchased Lester C. another grand St. Bernard, Lion showed by his actions, in an almost human manner, that the intruder was unwelcome. Later on when Lester C., after a course of special instruction by Newman, was made the star performer—Lion was over eight years old and his rival was young and strong, the old dog showed in actions and expression that being supplanted apparently in his master's affections and passed by the public was a hard blow and in fact he went from bad to worse and literally died of a broken heart, instead of heart disease. Upon numerous occasions his owner refused liberal offers for Lion. Mr. Newman and his family feel keenly the loss of Lion, in fact so well was the dog liked that his master was the recipient of many tokens of regret verbally, by letter and wire.

The first number of the Illustrated Kennel News came this week. The typographical appearance of the new doggy journal is attractive and a perusal of its pages gives one the idea that a first class kennel paper will be issued under the guidance of Mr. George R. Krehl, editor in chief, assisted by A. Croxton Smith, L. P. C. Gtley, E. B. Joachim, E. Farman, Dr. Alfred Sewell, H. H. Spicer and "Lady Betty." In his introductory Mr. Krehl says: "On this, the first occasion after a considerable interval, that I have the pleasure of addressing my readers and friends, I must express my deep gratitude at being again able to thank them with my own pen for the many tokens and expressions of sympathy which I have received from home and abroad during my illness. The reason why I am not in a position to do so through the channels which for so many years has been the means of my intercourse with the kennel community, is naturally a subject for legitimate curiosity. I wish to avoid touching on anything which is not of public interest, but an explanation is necessary. The time for 'whispering' is past, and in justice to my constituency, to those who have worked with me, and to myself, I must speak out. It is common knowledge that when I took up the kennel editorship of the Stockkeeper, nearly twenty years ago, the Kennel Department had reached the 'vanishing point.' With the assistance of my co-workers, and the appreciative support of the public, it was raised to such a state that, without presumption, I may say it was a credit to the kennel world, besides enjoying considerable financial affluence. In fact, during many years the Kennel Department has borne the brunt and burden of the day in the maintenance of the journal.

"In consequence of the recent sale of some of the Stockkeeper's shares alterations took place in the directorate, and one of the first changes the new board made was the entire abolishment of the kennel editorship. In my temporary absence, through illness, I was deprived of my position in the Kennel Department, without being ever consulted in the matter.

"The feeling produced by this action of the board among the chief members of the staff of the Kennel Department was expressed by their resignation, and they have joined me in founding the Illustrated Kennel News."

After treating my valuable dog two years with various preparations for a canker sore in his ear, without effect, I cured him in one week. If you wish a cure for your dog write me. O. T. Welch, Grand Island, Neb. *

Indoor Field Trials.

OLENA, March 18, 1902.

DEAR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—In the approaching dog show—he who loves the dog and gun looks only at the Pointer, Setter, Cocker and Water Spaniel. These dogs are the companions of the hunter; on upland, marsh, fresh water ponds, on estuaries of the salt sea; where the web feet swim and dive for food and exercise.

In the last issue of your paper, an Eastern correspondent bewails the taste that prefers the bench show winner to the field dog. This writer advocates a standard which shall consider field trial requisites as essential to success upon the bench. The Monk of Furness was both a field trial winner and a great success on the bench. So was Countess Noble, one of the last season.

My opinion is that either a Pointer or a Setter should be of medium size. In that such a dog is easily transported in a wagon to the hunting ground.

I do not believe in a crate for a dog to stand in. No animal rests standing; the muscles are not relaxed, they are tense. The mind is not at rest; it is alert. The dog sees too much.

For a good day's hunt your dog must be rested in mind and body. Next to size, give me good cat-like feet, round and upstanding.

The San Francisco Kennel shows are held in the spacious Mechanics Pavilion. The exhibits take up the centre of this vast amphitheatre. Now suppose at each end on the sides some brush was placed; some tussock grass artificially arranged to simulate nature. Then put a dozen quail in the cover. Show the dogs, according to age, turned loose, to point, to back, to drop to shot, to work to right or left to the motion of the handler's hand, would not all the indoor tricks of the carpet knights of the sitting room fade into insignificance before the exercises of the kings and queens of the field? One great drawback to our field trials is that San Francisco ladies cannot be induced to make the long trip required to reach locations hitherto selected for field trials. But let the fair patronesses of the bench show see the Setter and Pointer in action they will learn "to love me love my dog" to be an easy task.

The value of a hunting dog will be understood. Judging will be made easier and a new and valuable feature will have been added to the San Francisco dog show of 1902.

STAR WHITE.

Fox Terriers of 1901.

Fox Terrier fanciers, of smooth as well as wires, will read with interest the monographs of Mr. W. Glynn and Mr. Francis Redmond in the English Kennel Gazette. Some valuable ideas on judging and trimming can be read with profit.

It is a somewhat delicate matter for me to undertake this review, bearing in mind that terriers belonging to my kennel have occupied positions in several of the prize lists during the year, says Mr. Redmond.

Having prefaced my remarks on the smooth Fox Terriers of 1901 with this statement, I feel I have a clear course, and any reference to my own kennel or strain will be understood.

My impression of the smooth Fox Terriers of the year just closing is, that they are a fair average lot, but, that with the exception of Avon Minstrel, no debutant of 1901 is likely to make history, without it is one of the very young puppies that made their first bow at the Kennel Club's Show, at the Crystal Palace, or at the Fox Terrier Club's Show at Cheltenham, in November.

Taking the principal shows of the year in order, and beginning with Liverpool, nothing of exceptional merit came out there. At Cruft's Great Show, some useful terriers appeared for the first time, but nothing up to classic form. Following Cruft's came Manchester, where Fox Terriers were well represented, but no embryo "flyer" appeared. The next show of importance was the Fylde Fox Terrier Club's annual gathering at Blackpool, where undoubtedly the best youngster of the year made his appearance, in Mr. F. Reek's Avon Minstrel, who here could not get nearer than third to Eagerman and Rowton Knight Marshal. He, however, had the satisfaction later, when served by condition and maturity, of beating these terriers at the Fox Terrier Club's Show at Cheltenham, and subsequently winning the club's 50 Guinea Challenge Cup. One of the best young bitches of the year also came out at Fylde in Lady Edith Villier's Grove Venus. The London Fox Terrier Club's Show at the Crystal Palace afforded some sensation when two youngsters in Morden Blazer and Battles Merryweather won in dog and bitch puppies respectively, and also in several other classes; in point of size they were good, and on the day the latter was a promising puppy, but neither were of the lasting sort and a few weeks later both had to give way.

Ranelagh, although it brought together a strong collection of terriers, did not furnish any new "flyer" among the young entry, which we were all looking for, and the Kennel Club's Show at the Crystal Palace was the next important meeting. Mr. Doyle was complimented with an exceptionally good entry, most of the best terriers of the day being exhibited, and among the new faces a quartette in Philip Christian, Glory Quail, Vaidis and Dukedom may all be heard of in future prize lists. Within a month came the Fox Terrier show of the year in the Club's annual exhibition at Cheltenham, where a record entry flattered the judge, Mr. Walter Glynn, who kindly undertook the position in the absence of Captain Thorold, who was prevented by his military duties. Here Mr. Glynn had the good fortune to meet a good little dog in Avon Minstrel, an unhesitatingly placed him at the head of every class in which he was entered, and ultimately awarded him the Fox Terrier Club's Grand Challenge Cup for the best smooth in the show. I think Mr. Glynn is to be congratulated in having placed this terrier first, as he is undoubtedly the best small dog we have had before us for some years, and it is a good little one that judges have been looking for so long. Avon Minstrel followed up his Cheltenham successes at the last important show of the year (Birmingham), where more than one good puppy appeared.

The foregoing reference to the principal shows of the year, and a few of the winners that appeared will give some idea of the 1901 entry, from which it may be added that, with the exception of Avon Minstrel, no dog or bitch of extra merit appeared that is likely to lower the colors of the existing champions, without it be one or more of the youngsters that came out at the Crystal Palace or Cheltenham, and they are too young to speak of with certainty at present.

As to the Fox Terriers of to-day, compared with those of the past 25 years, I submit they show a great improvement, both individually and collectively; and to those writers whose comparisons are so unfavorable to our present-day Fox Terriers, I would answer that we have had exhibited more good bitches than could have been collected in any one decade of the past 30 years. In size, stamp, type and character they as nearly approach perfection as we are ever likely to attain; and some of our classes have been remarkable, containing close upon a dozen high class terriers, averaging about 16 lbs. in weight. Turning to the dogs, I quite agree they are much too large, pounds too big, and I was delighted to see such a good "little un" as Avon Minstrel come out at the Fylde show, and ultimately take the position he did at Cheltenham, though regretting there were not more of the same size and stamp to follow him; but at Cheltenham there was not a matured dog of the right size good enough to make him gallop, and, instead of being consistent on one point only (size) and selecting a bad little one for second place, the judge had to go for a good big one, as is frequently the case, when judges are charged with being inconsistent. Size is undoubtedly a point that breeders have to consider very seriously. Our bitches are the right size, and are, all round, a long way ahead of the dogs, and breeders should aim at getting the dogs down to 16 or 18 lbs. in show form. Granted that it is much more difficult to breed good little ones than good big ones, still it should be the primary aim of all Fox Terrier breeders to get the dogs down to the right size, and I trust the day is not far distant when those good but oversized terriers that we see at the head of our dog classes may be relegated to the stud only, and we may find our dogs, in point of size, more nearly approaching the unsurpassed bitch classes of to-day. There is plenty of use for the oversized dogs at stud, where the big dog has frequently proved the more successful sire, and, with the many perfect sized bitches we now have, this should be more general.

In other points we are certainly holding our own. In head, our terriers will compare favorably with those of any time, showing as much character, with equal punishing power; in ears the improvement is decided, particularly in size and shape. In neck, shoulders and body properties I also judge our terriers to have improved, and am glad to note more spring of ribs and better hindquarters than the straight-shouldered, flat-sided, leggy animal that sometimes found its way into the prize lists a few years ago. In bone, legs and feet we continue to improve, especially in feet, a point on which the successful breeders of the past placed such value and a quality in terriers, as in Foxhounds, the most difficult to obtain and soonest lost; with this, I think Foxhound breeders generally will agree. Certainly, we have never had a great winner in Fox Terriers that has been deficient in these qualities, and if classic honors have fallen to an otherwise good specimen, not possessing good legs and feet, his position has been ephemeral and he has soon returned to the ranks. In the matter of coat, I think care must be exercised. We have far too many terriers with the profuse, soft, almost woolly coat, instead of the hard, dense, wiry jacket. Constitution is another point that must not be lost sight of. As to gameness and working qualities, I submit our pure bred Fox Terrier of to-day is as game and hard as any Fox Terriers of the past, and if carefully entered will in every way render as good an account of himself. I have on my table at the present moment a long letter recording the doings of one of our prize bred Fox Terriers and his work for over three hours in taking a 25 lb. badger, and this is not the only instance I have had quite recently of the show Fox Terrier proving himself a game dog at work underground, both at fox and badger.

As long as they are bred up to this standard we shall find them attached to our Foxhound kennels of the kingdom, and as one of our oldest breeders wrote of them nearly 40 years ago, "the companion of many a good sportsman through fields and town."

The wires in 1901 may, I think, fairly be written about on the assumption that the breed is on the up rather than the down grade. Taking the principal winners, dogs and bitches together, I do not consider that their average size is too big. Their coats are good, though it may be some receive a little bit too much preparation for a show; their bone, legs and feet, as a rule, are more than good, and in expression and terrier fire and character they are excellent, and it is, in my opinion, in this particular that, taken all round, they are an improvement on their smooth brethren, writes Mr. Glynn.

The judging appears, with perhaps but one exception, to have been very fairly uniform, the same dogs and bitches being always—with a little variation in order maybe—"there" or thereabouts.

There is, in my idea, one fault possessed by these terriers, and I am not sure that it is not on the increase, which is not sufficiently handicapped, and that is, weak loins and hindquarters, cow-hocked and bad hind action. This is inasmuch as it amounts to unsoundness, a most serious fault, and, as in my experience there is nothing which is more hereditary, it behooves breeders to be careful not to breed from these animals, to leave them alone and go to the terriers that "can put them down fairly and squarely, one, two, three, four."

I always think, too, that judges are too prone to go for the terrier with a beautiful long head, irrespective of other points—especially his after end—being bad. I have often seen very faulty, ill-balanced terriers put first, simply because of their beautiful heads, and on the other hand, grandly balanced terriers relegated to a low position because their heads, though in perfect harmony with the rest of their bodies, were not abnormally long. I well remember some years ago under a—at that time—well known wire judge showing a well-balanced terrier with an ordinary head, not coarse though in any way but not abnormally long, in a very ordinary class, I got b c, and on asking the judge after why he had put me down below certain very ill-balanced, stilty, long legged and open coated brutes, though of course, I did not tell him my opinion of them, he replied, "Ah, you see yours has no 'nob,' and I never look at a terrier unless he has a nob." That in my opinion is the acme of bad judging, whatever individual faults a terrier may have he is entitled to have the whole of his points thoroughly weighed in a judge's mind, in fact to be judged.

Coming now to the dogs of the year the best are undoubtedly Alport Frost, Barkby Ben, Belfield Baronet, Cackler of Notts, Christopher of Notts, Commodore of Notts, Captain of Notts, Eskdale Scout, Jolly Tar, Dusky Twitcher, King Eli, Gomersal Star, Matchmaker, Baby Holdfast, Royston Remus, Shamrock, and last but by no means least, Westoe Ben, and Mr. Tom Ashton's "little big" dog—I don't know his name. Baby Top Knot and Salt-sear Conqueror I have not seen, but I am told and have heard they are good. Several other useful terriers and promising I have seen, such as Bolton Woods Ben, Barkby Benedict, Morden Barb Wire and Don't Go Bang.

In the above named there are several terriers of doubtless more than average quality, but I do not think there is anyone of them that approaches as near to perfection as one would wish to see. Types there are among them, I mean different sorts of types without number, and this is a great blessing for half the fun of exhibiting, and the whole of the misery of judging would be gone if this were not so. In that mysterious thing called type though, from out of the dogs above mentioned, I unhesitatingly pick as far ahead of the rest, Westoe Ben, Belfield Baronet, Shamrock and Mr. Tom Ashton's dog, and these four have this further qualification—by no means possessed by all the rest—they are sound. In bitches, Appleby Jane seems to still hold her own, and Dusky Reine is also well to the front. Mr. Houliker and Mr. Redmond showed two good bitch puppies at the Kennel Club Show. Barkby Trollop and Donington Flirt last well, surely from these two one ought to have seen some very good progeny by now; but if they have been shown I have missed them. Nux Vomica still looks well, and a very beautiful bitch is Miriam, with the best head we have on a Foxterrier at the present time. How she would suit my old friend of the "Nob." Several other good bitches I have seen, and, taken as a whole, they are certainly sounder than the dogs, though, in other respects the dogs beat them.

In concluding this rather meagre report, I should like, to a certain extent, to appeal to exhibitors not to over-do the trimming business. Legitimate trimming will never have a firmer supporter than I am. Legitimate trimming is absolutely essential for the benefit of the health of any long haired working terrier, and no one who has any knowledge of terriers or love for them, will deny this for a moment.

What is legitimate trimming? One reads and listens to a host of trash from brainless idiots on this question. I answer at once the removal of old coat by pulling it out with the finger and thumb. I do this myself. I order it to be done on all my terriers who need it, and nothing will ever stop me from doing it, for the simple reason that terriers who grow heavy coats are not healthy or happy unless this is done.

On the few occasions I judge I always make it a rule to severely handicap a man who shows a terrier under me with a lot of old, useless, dirty coat on him, as it is distinct evidence that he is either a lazy brute who has not the welfare of his dog at heart, or a fool, and in either case he is to be discountenanced. To remove old coat from some terriers without hurting them is, however, at times a somewhat lengthy operation and I am given to understand that to remedy this it is an increasing custom to use a razor or a sharp knife to break the hair uniformly all over. Personally, I do not believe a word of it, I don't think it is done, but if it is it must be stopped, under Kennel Club rules it is faking and ought to be and must be exposed at once when detected and put an end to.

Where I think the trimming business is overdone is in the cutting of the toe nails down to the quick and in the preparation of the coat ostensibly for cleaning purposes for exhibition.

Quite recently anyone would have been looked upon as a terrible person who was seen powdering his dog to clean his coat, but nowadays this is most ostentatiously done in the show a few minutes before the dog is taken into the ring. I think this ought to be stopped—it is done in several breeds as well as Fox Terriers—let a person clean his dog as he likes (as long as it is fair) at home or wherever he likes, but not in the show, it is not an edifying sight and I wonder show committees allow it.

I think exhibitors are apt to forget that the more a dog is "got up" the more under a good judge he is likely to be handicapped. It is possible I am wrong in this, but if I am may I ask judges to make a point of in future handicapping dogs who are too beautifully got up, somewhat severely, and there is one other request I would make them and that is to invariably leave entirely out of the prize money the whippet, starn'd, cow-hocked brute who has no right to the name terrier.

Angling Notes and Angling Ethics.

BY CLIPPERTON.

If there is any kind of animal that I dislike more than an Egotist it is a Dogmatist, which some fishermen are, particularly the striped bass variety.

There are only three kinds of fish worth fishing for, and they are Trout, Salmon and Wild Ducks, the latter are only named as they can be caught with a hook and worm, and by the way it may be said that they are much more toothsome when roasted than either of the other kinds of fish named.

In these notes only the Trout will be dealt with, and whenever a fish is named it is understood to be a trout of eight inches in length or over, unless otherwise specially stated. I mention the length because I never take any below that size, for in the first place plenty of small ones can always be bought from other anglers on the boat, coming home, and secondly, well, I don't like to be afraid to meet a deputy fish commissioner.

Trout are caught in various ways, and the following may be taken as the principal means of capture from a sporting point of view, and the order in which they are placed shows the relative merit of the sport, (1) being the lowest: 1. Worm on the bottom. 2. Ticking, kittling, or guddling with the hands. 3. Dabbling or dapping with natural or artificial fly. 4. Superior kind of dabbling with a long line; called dry fly fishing. 5. Worm in clear water up stream. 6. Minnow in clear water up or down stream. 7. Fly fishing proper; that is casting the fly not only where fish are rising, but where the angler knows a good fish will be lying, whether rising or not. It will be seen that the less sportsmanlike means of using Lime or Dynamite are omitted.

Taking them in the order given, the various arts may be fully described as follows:

1. Hang a worm on a hook—any kind of worm and any kind of hook will do—slung it into a hole with water in it, fix your rod, and sit down and whistle, read a book, or take a stroll to the next hole, or go home, or do anything you like—go home is the best thing you can do, and stop there.

2. Ask any country lad who has lived near the streams.

3. Poke about through the bushes or trees overhanging water where fish are rising, and let the fly drop gently on the water and float along over rising fish, use strong tackle, and be prepared to use stronger language if the hook should come away, then look aloft and sigh.

4. Ask some of the gentlemen who dispute whether a fly should be put two inches or six inches above a rising fish; they may also be able to tell you how they do it at comparatively short distances, say twenty-five yards. I cannot, and I never knew a man who could locate a spot to six inches at twenty-five yards.

5. The water must be clear and fine, the finer the better—pack up a good lunch and flask of water; Butler's best or similar, sort out your finest tackle, having previously got a supply of good sized "barnyard hackles", the thicker and plumper the better. You should have—in fact, you must have—an accurate knowledge of where the fish should be lying, and you cast partly up stream and partly across, more the former than the latter, and let the worm fall naturally to where the fish is lying. There must be no drag on the line, but you must feel the worm all the time, and tighten up at every stop until you have learned to distinguish between the bite of a fish and the worm touching the bottom.

You will need some weight on the gut, about twelve or fourteen inches from the hooks; the most convenient form is a chain made up of two or three small triple or, better still, spring hooks and, if more weight is necessary, have a link that will hold two No. 3 shot. The spring hooks can easily be made by anyone wearing less than a No. 9 glove.

To make them get some steel wire of the required thickness, cut a piece off about six inches long, heat one end in a gas flame until red hot, then hammer the end flat on an anvil for about half an inch up, file down the edges of the flat part until it is of the same width as the diameter of the wire; heat in the gas again, and with the aid of a pair of round nosed pliers bend to the required shape; cut off the wire at the final bend, and finish with a small half-round smooth file. To temper, heat in the gas to a bright red, and cool in water, or better still, in oil—any lubricating oil will do; after this dip it in the oil, shade off all superfluous oil, and press the hook through and through the flame of the gas until the oil on it is in a flare; then cool outright again in the oil. A very few trials will enable you to make a spring that will not break with any fair usage.

N. B.—If you haven't an anvil use two hammers, hold one between your knees—the wire should be of good steel that will temper, not such as is usually used for wire ropes. Have a hole somewhere where you can work by yourself, and don't let your better half come and jaw you about next Sunday's dinner while you are busy, or you may burn your fingers, and have cold meat on the Sabbath.

6. This is really a fine sport. In the first place fresh caught minnows are the best, but the next best are those preserved in a diluted solution of Formalin. The latter last longer, and sometimes more than one fish can be killed with a bait, but the fresh minnows are the best, and when the water is very fine and clear—as it should be for this sport—the fresher they are the better. Fine tackle must be used, and the best is that made as follows: Two triple fine wire hooks in one side of the fish, and a single triple hook on the opposite side. Where the two strands of gut meet a third strand is knotted, and to this should be tied the combined needle and weight to go inside the fish. The weights are easily made out of sheet brass, and when pushed home in the bait the only way of getting them out is to pull the minnow's head off.

When properly fixed there is nothing visible outside the bait excepting the fine hooks, one hook of each triple one being fixed in the minnow. You do not need any fins or spinning arrangement. They are an abomination and only guard the hooks. If you think it won't spin, try to put a minnow on any kind of hook or hooks so that it won't turn in the water, and you will find you cannot.

The first swivel on the leader should be fifteen or sixteen inches from the hooks, and if any extra weight is wanted for rapid water pinch a shot into this. Have a few shot up to BB shot in size, or up to 1/4 inch diameter with a hole and slot in them, and as stated pinch one on to the swivel—it will not prevent its working if put in properly, do not pinch shot on to gut, it is a dangerous and lazy practice.

It is necessary, as a rule, to wade to minnow fish properly in running water—you may fish either up or down or both—but you must always feel the minnow and keep it in motion, however slow. Cast it where you expect fish to lie, and do not simply drag the streams with it.

When I say cast where you expect fish to lie, I do not mean flop it on top of them, but cast it a little above and beyond, that is nearer to, or further from, the shore, as the case may be, and draw it down or across in gentle strokes. Do not strike—striking is a blunder at any time unless a smaller man hits you—give the fish time, and tighten up firmly with enough force to put the hooks in, and hold in at that.

Your leader should be not less than nine feet long, and the same applies to cast for up stream worming.

7. Now I feel like John Butler on Fox Hunting. "O my beloved earers," never mind what they tell you about bobbing worms into holes, tickling mountain trout, peddling blue bottle flies through cracks in bushes. Never mind the scientific twenty-five yards to an inch man. Kick the greedy devil that goes worming up stream in the early morning, and hang the man who would skulk-drag a decent river with a dirty minnow, they are all just lime and dynamite men who are afraid of the game wardens, FLY FISHING (put this in big print, please) is sport, and can only be learned by years of practice and study, practice so that you can put a fly somewhere near where you want it, study to know where to put it, experience to teach you what is the best fly to use, sometimes letting your fly sink and drift down with the stream, at other times letting it float gently over rising fish as you come in the way of them; sometimes, when they will not look at it otherwise, smacking it on top of them, or as near on top as you can, and startle them into rushing at it, or away from it.

We are all too conceited to learn from lecturing when once we have tasted the blood of Salmo salar, Salmo gairdneri, fontinalis, or irideus. The whole question with the fly, and even the angler of mature years, is what is the best killing lure. His soul is bent on sport and sport alone, and he will listen to nothing except there be behind it the promise of making a basket and beating the triumphs he has already won. It is often the old story of one niche higher, till the bladeless heft drops from his palsied hand, and he resigns himself into the arms of others, either to make a fresh start or retire from the scene of his former joys, now turned into a barren waste, because it has been overdone—done to death! Can a fishery be exhausted? Look at the tenantless waters all over the State, and then answer the question. The angler may not be responsible for the avaricious greed of the netter. He may not be responsible altogether for the depopulated streams as far as Salmo gairdneri is concerned, nor for the depredations of the spear poacher; but in other respects he is responsible for just quite enough. His education has been and is sadly neglected as an angler.

The sportsmen of the old school were, on the whole, very good men, and their sense of justice to their neighbors, and their high character as to what was right and proper, proved in itself a safeguard against encroachments on the rights of others, and so began a restraint beneficial to sport. There was always plenty and to spare; and so education in the direct sense was not needed. The same fruits were there, and the esprit d'corps which was ever present, made matters agreeable all round. There was life, smooth sailing yet pleasant life, on both sides of the stream, and the hearty "Good morning, and I wish you luck," was the usual greeting.

There can be no mistake about the fly; but it is sometimes useless, and with a just appreciation of the respective rights of our neighbors and ourselves, we should be able to determine when a spoon, worm or minnow may be used properly with impunity. "I am with my rights and can do as I please," is selfish in the extreme and deserving of the utmost contempt. There are conditions of season, weather and water, when it would be madness not to put aside the fly and with a baited hook or any other lure try to fetch wandering fish from the pools. They can be got no other way. But to rake a pool fore and aft in water at dead summer level with a bait, is sheer greed and downright pot-hunting. If the fish are to be potted and no one's feelings likely to be hurt by the operation, why certainly try a shrimp or worm in a dead summer water, but always "By your leave, sir; by your leave!"

Educate the angler to return all undersized fish to the stream and to study the unwritten laws of angling. In fishing a stream where one can easily cast from one bank to the other we know of several anglers who, fishing together on both sides of the brook, instead of clashing, will each watch their opportunity. If one's fellow angler is at a pool or the other side, he generously passes on to the next pool, if he does not prefer to wait and follow. But there is a mean practice, which I must allude to, and which is but too commonly done, where several rods are crowded together. It is to get on to the water an hour before your neighbor, so as to have it all whipped before his arrival. Again, to get out of the pool when you are about half through with it, and hurry down stream, just for the purpose of securing the next pool before the arrival of your neighbor. What heart burnings these mean tricks provoke, and how they spoil the enjoyment of all concerned.

Educate the angler to look after the minor details of his and his neighbor's fishing rights, and such disagreeable incidents would not happen. He has also to educate himself to do justly in only retaining the mature and well grown fish. The fingerlings and such like ought to be carefully returned. They will grow in the water, not in the creel. Yet how many retain every troutlet which comes their way. Really the trout fisher stands in his own light when despising this wholesome self-restraint. What is the average size of the trout for a particular stream should be his first question; and all below such should be carefully returned.

Entries to early closing events close Thursday, May 1, 1902, when nominations must be made and accompanied by first installment of entrance fee. Horses must be named July 1. In the late closing events horses must be nominated and entry paid August 1.

On payment of one entrance fee nominators will be allowed to name two horses only in same class; and the horse that is to start must be named at 7 P. M. the night before the race. In case where two horses are named as one entry, from the same stable, and any horses that have been separated from the stable from which they were originally named, and such separation made according to rule, they shall be eligible to start in the race if the forfeits falling due after said separation have been met according to conditions, upon the payment of forfeits which fell due before said separation. All forfeits are payable in cash, on or before the date specified. No credit extended. Horses may be declared out any time, but declaration must be mailed to the Secretary in writing, and to be valid must be accompanied by amount due (if any) on such entry. Upon such declaration being received the subscription is forfeited, the horse ineligible to start and the nominator released from further liability. No return of any payment on account of death of horse, but the death of the nominator will not make void his entry.

Entrance fee 5 per cent, with 5 per cent additional from the winner of each division of the purse. Customary division of purses, viz.: 50, 25, 15 and 10 per cent.

National Association Rules to govern, except Section 2 of Rule 9, abolishing the use of hobbles, which will not be enforced. Member National Trotting Association.

132,000 Deaths from this alone.

One special danger menaces those who live well, who can use champagne and fine liquors, and that is Bright's Disease. Posted clubmen understand this so well that many have tests made every few months. Others drink nothing but dry wines. But still the deaths reported from Bright's Disease and Diabetes are increasing at a fearful rate. The last census reports show that since 1890 the increase has been nearly fifty per cent and that the deaths in the United States alone from above causes and diseases growing out of them last year reached the enormous number of 132,000.

Hence the importance of every clubman knowing this one fact, viz.: That Bright's Disease and Diabetes are now positively curable in about 87% of all cases. The Fulton Compounds are now saving the lives of hundreds, and will, when better known, save the lives of thousands who are now with little hope.

RECORD 2:11 1/4. By STAMBOUL 5101, a trotting and show king; dam Belle Medium 2:20, a great brood mare by Happy Medium, sire of the great all-round mare, Nancy Hanks 2:04, and other great ones; second dam by the handsome sire Almost Lightning (sire of the dam of Zombro 2:11 and other great all-in-all animals, both on the turf and in the show rings; third dam by that sire of game, sound, handsome animals, Mambrino Patchen 58; fourth dam by that speed producing sire, Mambrino Chief 11; fifth dam by that stylish and long distance racing horse, Mason's Whip.

STAM B. is a fine and substantial upstanding bay, 15 1/2 hands tall, weighs 1100 pounds, and now rightly ranks among the most promising young sires of the land. That he is now in public service in California is a fact for which breeders may be grateful. He is already proving a sire of speed and gameness, together with size, superb style and high action, transmitting these qualities to every foal regardless of dam. He is acknowledged by all who have seen him to be very near the real and ideal race horse and all-around sire. His racing qualities were beyond criticism, and all close observers know that in his blood are represented the kings and queens of the trotting turf and show rings.

Terms for the Season, $40.

Payable at the end of June, with return privilege. Reduced rates to any one person breeding over three mares. Pasturage for mares, $1 per month. Freight must be prepaid on all mares. Season commences February 1st and ends August 1, 1902. No responsibility assumed for accidents or escapes.

Cases where ulcerations extend with transverse cracks which open at every step and often bleed, no matter how complex, aggravated, deep seated or chronic, if treated according to directions as given on circular with every box, positively cured with

After Blistering. VETERINARY PIXINE is the very best application that could be indicated. It absorbs all inflammatory exudate and hastens the reparatory process. Will heal the most severe cases without scar and prevent loss of hair.

AS A PREVENTIVE.

If a light application of VETERINARY PIXINE is used before speeding, driving in wet, muddy or slushy weather, or in the snow, your horse will never have speed cracks, scratches or grease heel.

FOR HOOFES.

It will keep the hoofs healthy, soft and in perfect form.

FOR SORES, ETC.

VETERINARY PIXINE heals collar and saddle galls, hock chafes, abscesses, inflammatory swellings, sores and all skin disease. In cases of emergency it is invaluable.

This penetrating, stimulating, soothing, absorbing, antiseptic, healing ointment heals from beneath the surface by disinfecting the parts, subduing the inflammation and stimulating healthy granulation, not by drying and scabbing.

THE HARNESS STALLION STAKE has been re-opened. Entries for stallions will close May 1, 1902, and the race will be contested at the California State Fair of 1905, when foals are three years old. It will be remembered that this stake, inaugurated by the California State Agricultural Society, was originally advertised to close February 15th, and that on that date 36 stallions were named in it. Unfortunately a misunderstanding arose among many of the nominators and also among many owners who failed to nominate their stallions, as to the eligibility of the foals of this year dropped after the date of closing. Quite a number were of the opinion that only those foals born prior to the date of closing the stake could be entered in the race. This was entirely an error. The stake was for the get of stallions that stood for service in 1901, and any such get born this year are eligible. The stallions must now be named by May 1st, but the colts can be named any time up to June 1st next year, 1903, and any foal of 1902, sired by any stallion nominated, is eligible. The original 36 nominators will doubtless again name their stallions in this stake and there will be many more who will make entries, so that the stake is sure to be one of the richest stakes in the United States the year of its decision. We ask every owner of a harness stallion whose horse was in the stud last year, in the district covered by the conditions of the advertisement, and which includes California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Idaho, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Nevada and Arizona, to send in the names of their horses to Secretary Geo. W. Jackson, at Sacramento, on or before May 1st, so that the produce of their stallions will be eligible to this great stake. The conditions of the stake are all set forth in the advertisement which appears in this issue, and we refer our readers to said advertisement for full particulars.

JOHNNIE BLUE IS DEAD. No man connected with the horse industry in California will have more sincere mourners over his untimely death than he. He was one of nature's noblemen—an honest, upright man, who did his duty at all times as he saw it, who was loyal to his employers and faithful to his friends. He was a born horseman and few men in the business knew as much about conditioning race horses. He had served his time as a young man with the runners but for the past ten years had devoted his time to the harness horses and was eminently successful. During the life of the late T. E. Keating, in the years when that famous reinsman reached the zenith of his reputation, John Blue was his first lieutenant and it was under his watchful eye and supervision that Keating's champions were made ready for their greatest efforts. He looked after Anaconda, Searchlight, Coney, Dione, Klatawab, Owyhee, and others of the horses that Keating so successfully campaigned and gave the majority of them nearly all their work. After Keating's death he entered the employ of Ed Gaylord of Denver, and having a string of high class horses the future was bright for him. Last Thursday afternoon he was taken suddenly ill at the Overland Park track, just after finishing his day's work in the sulky and expired in a short time. Heart disease was the cause of his death. John Blue was born in Monmouth, Ill., 48 years ago, but the greater part of his life was spent in California. He leaves a sister, Mrs. Ada Hearst, living at Idaho Falls, Idaho. The announcement of his death will be received with regret by every person that knew him, and there will be honest and sincere tears shed for the loss of an upright, honorable and true lover of the horse.

WILL YOU GO NORTH to race this year? If so you must not fail to have an entry in each and every one of those early closing events advertised by the Oregon State Fair. The Greater Salem Stake for 2:18 pacers is $2000, mile heats three in five, five per cent entrance. The Capital City Stake is $1000 for 2:24 trotters. The Webfoot Stake is $500 for three-year-old trotters of the 2:30 class, and the Inland Empire Stake is $500 for three year-old pacers of the 2:25 class. Then there is the Illihee Stake for two-year-old runners, $300 added, five-eighths of a mile. One of the best features of this program of early closing events is a consolation purse of $500 offered free of any entrance fee for the horses in the Greater Salem Stake that fail to win money. This will make eight of the entries in the $2000 stake sure of their entrance money. The North Pacific Circuit will furnish excellent racing this year, and all California horsemen who contemplate going north should enter, especially at Salem. It holds one of the greatest fairs in the Northwest, and is one of the best managed of all the meetings. Make your entries with Secretary M. D. Wisdom by April 15, 1902.

RALPH A. TOZER has been appointed Secretary and associate judge of the Montana Jockey Club, that will begin a two months' meeting at Butte on June 21st. Mr. Tozer was formerly one of the editors of this journal and no more intelligent, competent or honorable man ever wielded a pen. For the past four years he has been identified with racing matters in various avocations, finding time however to write occasionally for the press and to attend to pedigree work, for which there is probably no student of thoroughbred breeding more eminently qualified. Mr. Tozer has the entire confidence of the horsemen and the public and all who know him are confident that no act of his will ever bring discredit upon the grand sport in which he takes so much interest and pride. He will be a very valuable acquisition to the list of sterling officials which the Montana Jockey Club has secured for its meeting this year.

TERRE HAUTE MATRON STAKE, $10,000 for foals of 1902. Entries close April 14th. $2000 for two year old trotters, $1000 for two year old pacers, and the rest, $7000 for three year old trotters. Only $5 to nominate and the other payments few and far between. One of the best conditioned stakes ever devised. Entries close April 14th. Read the ad in this issue.

CINCINNATI'S SUMMER MEETING will be held during the first week in July and the horsemen who "do" the Grand Circuit will start it by celebrating the Glorious Fourth at Oakley Park, where that prince of managers, Andy Welch, will have charge of the first, big meeting of the year. Six early closing events for this meeting are advertised in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN to-day. The 2:30 class trot has a purse of $2000 and the 2:30 class pace has one of like generous proportions. Besides these there are four purses of $1500 each for the 2:19 and 2:13 trotters and 2:13 and 2:09 pacers. The entrance is five per cent in several payments with small forfeits. Entries close Monday next, March 31st. Don't forget this date, but sit down to-morrow and make out your entries and mail them.

THE TALBOT PLACE AT AUCTION is an attraction for those who will spend to-day in the country. This beautiful country seat of 140 acres, nearly a quarter section, will be sold to-day, together with all the magnificent furnishings of the residence, and all the horses, cattle, etc., with which the place has been stocked until it is one of the ideal farms of California. The Talbot farm is near San Leandro, in Alameda county, and can be reached from this city in an hour by train. If you want a good driving horse, a Shetland pony, a good cow or a handsome piece of furniture attend this sale to-day.

TUESDAY NEXT, April 1st, is the date for closing six stakes for the Old Glory meeting at Charter Oak Park, Hartford, Conn. The meeting occupies the first week in September on the Grand Circuit, and is always one of the big features of the year's harness events. The Charter Oak, $10,000 for trotters of the 2:11 class, is a race that every horseman has at some time had a desire to win. Besides this rich stake, there are five of $3000 each for trotters and pacers of different classes. Entries close next Tuesday. Don't miss being at Hartford this year. It will be one of the "best ever."

BEAU B. 32,606, record 2:16 1/2, sired by Wildnut, dam the great broodmare, Nettie Benton by General Benton, was sold this week by Santa Rosa Stock Farm to Mr. D. McGregor of Ferndale, Humboldt county. Mr. McGregor will place this elegantly bred and handsome horse in the stud at Ferndale and he should be a very valuable addition to the stock of that county. The colts by Beau B., now at the Santa Rosa Stock Farm are a very choice lot and are highly valued.

AT UKIAH, the directors of the 45th agricultural district held a meeting this week and decided to hold a race meeting of five days this season and will endeavor to make it the best ever held in the county, and will give better purses than ever. The owners of the race track have expended $1600 alone on grading the track, which is one-half mile, and have covered it with eight inches of clay and thrown up the turns one inch to the foot. It is now one of the most perfect tracks in California.

IF YOU ARE BREEDING your heavy mares to draft stallions this year, you will find it to your advantage to patronize the horses owned by McCormack Brothers at Rio Vista. They have two of the noblest specimens of the Shire and Percheron breeds to be found in the State. The best of pasturage at $1 per month, and transportation rates by steamer are very low. See advertisement.

FIVE DOLLARS is not a very large sum to pay for curing a horse of spavin or curb, but the new remedy "Save-the-horse" is sold at that price with a guarantee that the money will be returned if the medicine does not do the work. A written guarantee goes with every bottle. This is one of the few investments one can make without taking any chances of losing.

GLENS FALLS BIG PROGRAM closes May 1st. You have a month yet to study them over, but it is a good idea to begin now and see which of the $1000 purses you will have horses for. Read the list of these purses in our advertising columns.

Take Your Choice.

Two gentlemen the other day were speaking of the relative merits of trotters and pacers, and one of them said that for racing only he would just as soon have a pacer as a trotter, but for road purposes, particularly for long-distance driving, he preferred a trotter. He had conceived the idea that a pacer was not so good for long jaunts. The other gentleman would just as soon have a pacer as a trotter for road purposes or otherwise, if the former was a good roadster and had a smooth even gait. There is this one fact to be considered—a pacer is not so apt to be a good roadster as a trotter. We do not know why this is, but we know that it is so. There are ten good roadsters among trotters to one pacer that is a good roadster. Many gentlemen prefer the pacer for speed on the road to the trotter, and this is where the pacer is in his element. For brushes on the road he is superior to the trotter. On the track he now holds his own with the trotter. The advertised list of pacers shows as much money in purses for pacers as for trotters. A dozen years ago not a thousand dollars was offered in purses for pacers. Last year $100,000 was offered in purses for the side-wheelers.—Newark Call.

JOTTINGS.

SATURDAY AT PLEASANTON will have many attractions for horsemen from now until the California circuit opens, and speed will be shown that is worth going to see. About a hundred and fifty good, bad and indifferent trotters and pacers are attending the speed school at the "horse centre" at present and the tutors are all pretty busy. Few fast miles have been attempted, but there are speedy quarters galore and many brushes that furnish excitement enough to keep the interest up to concert pitch on workout days. Last Saturday was a particularly interesting day to visitors who journeyed there from various points. Millard Sanders, O. A. Hickok, Ed Lafferty, Bert Webster, Sam Gamble, Geo. A. Kelly, S. K. Trefry, J. M. Alviso, Hans Frellson, Bob Gallegos, William Cecil and several others were on the track during the day with representatives of their strings. Mr. Hickok drove Thornway a half in 1:08, the first time the Steinway colt has been moved that fast this year, but it was done so easily that it was not considered an effort, and Col. J. C. Kirkpatrick, his owner, who was present, looked very much pleased. Thornway is a high class horse in looks, bearing a strong resemblance to his sire. On a slow jog he generally trots, with a sort of shuffle that is anything but attractive. When Hickok calls on him to go, however, it is a different story and at speed he moves like a well ordered machine. Clipper 2:06, looking better than ever in his life, has just reached Mr. Hickok and will be put in shape for purses that may be offered for his class. Russell G., the two year old by Nutwood Wilkes out of a mare by Cal. Nutwood, that was purchased by Mr. W. P. Murray of Cleveland and placed in charge of Mr. Hickok until he could be shipped East in May, is one of the handsomest youngsters at the track and will attract attention from the club members at Cleveland whenever Mr. Murray takes him out.

Bert Webster has quite a big string at work—seven or eight of which are intended for the Blue Ribbon sale at Cleveland in May. They are owned and were bred by Mr. C. L. Griffith, owner of Bonnie Direct 2:05½. Mr. Griffith has taken up his residence at Pleasanton and takes great pleasure in driving Bonnie and Rect. The former is big and stout yet, and has been sent no fast miles this year. He is in the stud and has been mated with quite a number of high class mares already. There is no handsomer pacing horse in America than this son of Direct and Bon Bon. Rect 2:16½ is a faster horse this year than ever before in his life and should bring a good price at the Cleveland sale. His son Domino, a green pacer that has as much style as any horse, can turn the Pleasanton track any good day in 2:10 or perhaps a little better. He has already worked a mile in 2:16.

One of the real good things at Pleasanton this year is a two year old colt by Steinway out of Nola by Nutwood, second dam Belle Byron (dam of Claus Almont 2:12½) by Bowman's Clark Chief, third dam Belle Hook by Almont 33, etc. I saw Bert Webster give him his work Saturday. If there is a prospective candidate for the two-minute class in California this is the one. He is a chestnut, large for his age, with the best boned and muscled set of legs under him I have seen on a two year old for some time. He takes to pacing as naturally as a duck to water and can spurt at a 2:20 gait so easily that it looks like fun for him. A two year old by Steinway out of Bon Bon, dam of Bonnie Direct 2:05½ and Bonsilene 2:14½, is another of the "warm ones" in Webster's care. The toppest, longest necked, highest class looking yearling by Direct 2:05½ I ever saw is a little black fellow that represents all that Mr. Griffith ever got from breeding Vida Wilkes 2:18½. She was mated many years in succession but either missed or the foals died, until this fellow came and if looks count he will pay for all the previous disappointments, as he is a Jim Dandy and no mistake.

Millard Sanders is about as busy a man these days as he has ever been and that is saying a good deal as he has led what "Teddy" would call a strenuous life. He has fourteen head of trotters in charge, all but one or two the property of the Santa Rosa Stock Farm. Dolly Dillon 2:07 is all she was last year in the way of speed and more too, and Bonsilene 2:14½ by Stamboul 2:07½ out of the dam of Bonnie Direct 2:05½ is again in training, after having raised a magnificent colt by McKinney. A late addition to the string is Anzella 2:10½, the boss of the California circuit last year and a very likely candidate for the same position over East this summer. Almaretta, a very handsome rangy daughter of L. W. Russell, has grown considerably since she won the Stanford Stake last year at Sacramento. And that reminds me: L. W. Russell is a stallion that should not be overlooked by breeders.

He is by Stamboul 2:07½ and his dam By By (a producer and sister to Lockheart 2:08½) by Nutwood, second dam the great broodmare Rapidan by Director, third dam a producing mare by Edwin Forrest 851, and fourth dam by Mambrino Chief 11. L. W. Russell sires good looks and speed and will be prominent in the Great Table with opportunities. This daughter Almaretta is certain to get a low mark if raced this year and no accident happens her. Mr. Sanders is again working Judge Green's little black stallion by Directum and has him moving nicely. He is entered in the Kentucky Futurity to be trotted this year and looks good enough to make the last payment on. There is not a trainer in California that would receive more hearty and sincere congratulations over winning this big futurity than Millard Sanders, and if he does the trick with Judge Green's colt there would be double cause for expressions of pleasure, as the Judge is one of the most popular jurists in the State, and breeds a few good ones each year for the simple pleasure of owning them, and always aims to breed up.

Ed Lafferty has a string of eight, the record horses of the string being Durfee Mac 2:17½ by McKinney and Floradora 2:18½ by Sable Steinway. He also has the Hughes mare by Shippee's Dictator Wilkes. These three belong to Mr. Albert Joseph, the attorney of this city. The mare Babiola by Chas. Derby out of Anteeo, belonging to Mr. Umbson of this city, is in Lafferty's hands and looks like a good prospect. She ought to win money in the green class trots if trained and raced. She is a square trotter, has size and soundness and can trot an eighth in 16 seconds now, although the work she has had is very limited. A two year old colt by Silver Bow out of a mare by Nushagak, that Ed is working a little for Mr. E. Clawson, of this city, looks like one that will be showing lots of speed next season, as he has symptoms of the speed disease now and breaks out with it once in awhile. Lou Crellin sent to Lafferty the other day a long haired but very nicely proportioned two year old that gives every promise of developing into the counterpart of his illustrious sire, Searchlight 2:03½. He is out of a mare by Directum 2:05½, so that he is bred pretty close to the top. Although just off pasture and looking rough, he has a way of stepping that suggests something sensational when he gets a little older.

Will Welch has a half dozen trotters and pacers and they have size and good looks to spare. He is working the handsome big pacer Dr. Hammond by Chas. Derby out of a Nutwood mare. The Doctor looks good enough to take to the races right away. Mr. Welch worked him a mile in 2:08 at San Jose last year. He is still green and has never started in a race, but when he does there will be "something doing." Mr. Welch has Dr. Rowell, a three year old full brother to Dr. Hammond; Miss Marshall, a three year old by Dictatus, a four year old trotting filly by Starboul out of a Dexter Prince mare; Ben F. 2:22½ by Bradwood, a very promising pacer that took his record last year at Concord, and is expecting to get Rajah, one of last year's Grand Circuit disappointments, to begin work on soon.

Hans Frellson has a string of eleven head that he is just beginning to give track work although he has jogged the most of them on the road during the winter. A big bay trotter by Direct that trialed last year better than 2:15, a three year old by McKinney belonging to Capt. W. Ford Thomas of this city; a Nutwood Wilkes colt owned by the same party, and a four year old mare by Seymour Wilkes are among the best of this string. Geo. A. Kelly since selling Anzella 2:10½, is devoting his time to three or four green horses. S. K. Trefry has a few, and Bob Gallegos is working several belonging to his father, Mr. Juan Gallegos of Mission San Jose. Among them is Trilby a very rapid pacing mare by Direct that has been entered on the Grand Circuit. She has beaten 2:15 in her work. J. M. Alviso ought to get some of the money in California this year with his five year old Rey del Diablo. This horse took a record of 2:23½ as a two year old, but was knocked out later that year and had the same bad luck as a three year old. He looks perfectly sound and strong now, and is a pacer from raw. Mr. Alviso's son worked him a couple of slow miles Saturday while the "old man" drove another Diablo, a filly. The two were brushed through the stretch, Rey del Diablo making it swinging in 32½ seconds while the filly made it in 33. Rey del Diablo has shown quarters as fast as 31 seconds recently and if he does not get into his sire's 2:10 list this year I will be greatly mistaken. I have never seen a more improved horse, or one that can go fast with any more ease than he.

Among the visitors to Pleasanton Saturday was Mr. Martin Carter, owner of the Nutwood Stock Farm, who generally goes up to the track once a week to see the colts by Nutwood Wilkes work. A three year old full sister to Bob Ingersoll showed him Saturday that she was quite a stepper. She was driven by the farm trainer, William Cecil, and a quarter in 35 seconds seemed but an easy thing for her. She has a most attractive way of going. Cecil drove Bob Ingersoll an exercise mile or so, but did not call on him for much speed. It will be remembered that Bob took the distemper last year and did not start during the season, thus having no opportunity to lower his record of 2:14½, made the year before as a four year old. When Cecil was back East last year he took a look at his old favorite, John A. McKerron 2:06½, and was highly pleased with him, but says that he told Mr. Devoreux that Bob Ingersoll would come very near equalling any record that John A. would make. When Cecil drove Bob through the stretch Saturday in 35 seconds, he let him step the last 16th, and though still big and fat, he came like a whirlwind, and was moving very close to a championship rate. He is one of the best gaited and nicest going trotters ever on a track. Cecil has about ten of the get of Nutwood Wilkes at Pleasanton, all high class in every respect.

Sam Gamble was busy with his horses, but found time to have Stam B. 2:11½ by Stamboul and his black Excel by Axtell led out for inspection by some lady visitors. The ladies thought Excel was a "perfect beauty," but Sam told them in his characteristic way that Stam B. would take all kinds of ribbons away from the black fellow at Madison Square Garden. Both these horses are looking especially fit and in shape. Excel will be bred to about a half dozen choice mares this year and being the only son of the great Axtell in California his services should be in great demand next season, as he is developing into a grand looking horse and is one of the best bred animals ever brought to the State. Mr. Gamble is being very earnestly requested to take Stam B. to Salem, Oregon, and is promised all the mares the horse can serve and a large number of them high class at that. Those Oregon breeders are showing as much enterprise as the Oregon associations and it need not surprise any one if the web-foot State soon gets to be a rival of California in both the racing and breeding business. They race under difficulties up there owing to the frequent rains, but the people show enterprise and enthusiasm that no downpour seems able to dampen and I guess those qualities are waterproof in Oregon.

A visit to Pleasanton would be incomplete without a look at Flying Jib 2:04, whose record of 1:58½ with a running mate, made in 1894 has never been equaled. Some years ago Mr. Chas. Griffith turned the old champion over to the care of Mr. Geo. A. Davis, superintendent of the Rancho del Valle, and Mr. Davis and the Jib have become cronies. Mr. D. uses him as a buggy horse, has a man to care for him and sees that he is never asked to do more than he wants to do cheerfully. The result is Jib looks and acts like a youngster, and while he is too dignified a horse to indulge in any foolishness or antics, has all his old fire when taken on the track and is ready to show two-minute speed or better at any time. He is in his fifteenth year but we firmly believe he can beat any horse in America in a brush of a quarter of a mile. Without any preparation Flying Jib pulled Mr. Davis (a heavy-weight) the last quarter on the Pleasanton track last Saturday in just 29½ seconds, with a dozen watches held by such men as Chas. Griffith, Judge W. E. Greene, Martin Carter, Monroe Salisbury, Orrin Hickok, Col. J. C. Kirkpatrick and others, to verify the statement. I think he is the most wonderful horse in America to-day. What a pity the knife was ever used on him. He is a grand looker as a gelding, and as a stallion would have been a prize winner. His speed is perfectly natural, and how he does like to show it. After watching Mr. Davis drive the old fellow through the stretch Saturday I came to the conclusion that it would be a toss up as to which enjoyed the spurt the most—the horse or his driver. Is there a pacer in the entire country to-day, old, young, sound or unsound, in or out of training, that can beat Flying Jib through the stretch? I doubt it.

A couple of pacers that have been campaigned and secured fast records that they are liable to reduce this year owing to the improvement they are already showing are I Direct 2:12½ and King Cadenza 2:15½. They are being worked by Mr. H. H. Dunlap. I Direct is working without the hobbles and is going smoothly and fast with his legs bare. King Cadenza is also showing well. Mr. Dunlap hitches them double once in a while and is ready to enter them in any team race that may be offered.

Mention has been made before in these columns of a big bay trotter by Chas. Derby that Monroe Salisbury purchased the other day. Mr. Salisbury tells me he bought the horse on account of his size and looks for his brother, who expects to drive him in his buggy or to a carriage. The gelding is six years old and was almost unbroken when Mr. S. took hold of him a month ago, and had been on pasture two years. He said Saturday that as yet he feels very much pleased if he succeed in getting back to the stable with him any day without having an upset on the road. The horse is green, decidedly so, but Mr. Salisbury drove him a quarter in 36 seconds the other day. Those Derbys are a grand lot of horses. They have size and good looks almost invariably—in fact I don't know of a stallion that gets those qualities with more uniformity.

L. Carillo is handling a bunch of ten horses at the track belonging to W. A. Shippee. They are by Hawthorne and other sires of the Shippee farm, and are being put in shape to sell. Mr. Carillo stepped a trotter a mile in 2:27 one day last week very handily.

While at Pleasanton I met Mr. Geo. A. Kelly, former owner of the good mare Anzella 2:10½, that he trained and raced to her record, and sold last week to Pierce Brothers of the Santa Rosa Stock Farm. He got $4000 in cash and a yearling colt valued at $1000 for the mare. He showed me the bank draft and the colt so there is pretty good evidence that the price named was paid. If the colt is not worth a thousand, then no colt of the same age in these United States is worth that sum. A picture of the youngster held by Mr. Kelly's ten year old son is on the front page of to-day's B. & S. By McKinney 2:11½, dam Bonsilene 2:14½ by Stamboul 2:07½, second dam Bon Bon 2:26 (dam of Bonnie Direct 2:05½ and Bonsilene 2:14½) by Simmons 2:28, third dam Bonnie Wilkes 2:29½ (dam of Bonnie Nutwood 2:29½) by Geo. Wilkes 2:22, fourth dam Betty Viley by the thoroughbred horse Bob Johnson, son of Boston. This colt is now a very handsome yearling and will undoubtedly develop into a grand looking horse. Mr. Kelly is one of the most careful of trainers and will take every precaution to see that the colt grows into a well developed horse without having any blemishes. He looks like a trotter and will be one if there is anything in looks and breeding. He is certainly one of the best bred sons of the great McKinney and sons of that horse will be in greater demand with each succeeding year.

In the last issue of the Chicago Horseman I noticed the following brief item:

"It is quietly reported from Lexington that the entire staff of our esteemed contemporary, the Kentucky Stock Farm, suspended business for a few hours one day recently to entertain a 'Mr. Budd Doble.'"

Who the individual is that has been impersonating the veteran who drove the champions Dexter, Goldsmith Maid and Nancy Hanks to their records, is a mystery, but we do know that the only and original Mr. Budd Doble is enjoying good health and the glorious climate of California at the present time, and that on Tuesday of this week he sat in the office of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN and was drawn into a few reminiscences of the old time record breakers, and made this statement: "I believe there were horses thirty years ago that possessed just as much speed as do the best trotters and pacers to-day. There is a much greater number of fast ones now, but in my opinion the best of a quarter of a century ago were the equal of anything that lives to-day. I firmly believe that Goldsmith Maid, with the advantage of the bike sulky, boots, harness and parlor tracks of the present time, would have been able to trot as close to two minutes as any horse can trot to-day. Geo. M. Patchen trotted a trial of 2:18½ pulling a heavy high wheeled wagon over a poor track, and when doing it was considered at least sixty pounds too heavy in flesh. He was put through the sweating process to take it off before he was permitted to race. They thought that the proper way to train in those days. Flora Temple's lightest sulky was one that weighed 90 pounds, and she never pulled one around a turn that was thrown up. She was a quarter grabber and the only boots she wore were made of cotton, sewed into cloth, and presented a clumsy appearance. We made the only boots that Dexter wore out of old pieces of blanket and they flapped in the wind like the sails of a small boat. Goldsmith Maid's hind shoes weighed nine ounces and her front shoes nearly twelve. I think her lightest sulky weighed about forty-five pounds and her harness about twelve. I got her when she was ten years old and raced her nearly ten years. She won over $360,000 in purses. If I had her now as good as she was in her prime, I think the two minute trotter would be very likely to be a fact. Don't understand me to say that there has been no improvement in breeding the trotter. There is a wonderful advancement, but I am of the opinion that the great horse, the perfect horse, like the perfect man, is liable to appear at any time. There are more books written in a month now than there were in a decade a few centuries ago, yet Shakespeare has not been equalled. Where would Napoleon have stopped had he been favored with modern war appliances? Geo. Washington never had the opportunities that Grant did, yet he was a greater man in my opinion. And in classifying

Goldsmith Maid, I think she was the greatest trotter that ever lived. There will be others her equal, but opportunities and circumstances considered, I don't believe her superior has been born so far."

Mr. Doble does not look old enough to have been the pilot of Dexter. He holds his age so well that not one man in a hundred will guess within ten years of it. He is going East in May with that handsome pair of roan mares owned by Chas. Newman of the Richelieu Cafe in this city—Maud and Neerbell. Just what Mr. Doble will do with this team he does not say, but that they will attract attention from the road drivers is certain. They are well matched in size, shape and gait, and have extravagant knee action and considerable speed. Maud, or Maud Newman as she is put down in the Year Book, has a race record of 2:17½. She is by Anteeo Jr. 2:37½, out of the pacing mare Lady Pulsifer 2:26½ by Ulster Chief, grandam by Sir Butrick. Maud could make a hit in the circus ring as Newman has taught her a variety of tricks which she does with as much intelligence as a horse can show. Her mate Neerbell, is by Neerhut 2:12½, sire of Neeretta 2:09½. Neerbell is one of the most promising trotters in this part of the State and if Mr. Newman would consent to part the team and train her for the races she would be winning money in the 2:15 class this year. Mr. Doble has been driving this pair for several weeks past and has induced Mr. Newman to permit him to take them East. Whenever he drives them down a speedway or on a track there will be a "rubbering" on all sides and inquiries as to whence they came. A well matched pair of high stepping, fast trotting, strawberry roan mares is not to be seen often in this or any other country.

McKinney is Popular.

Perhaps the most popular stallion in the United States to-day with breeders is McKinney 2:11½, the greatest son of the great Alcyone. Last year at $100 the season he was mated with over one hundred mares, which was undoubtedly the heaviest season made by a horse standing at that figure. Mr. Durfee has been writing to owners of these mares to ascertain if possible just how many colts will result from the services of 1901 and up to last week he had received information of over eighty mares that had already foaled or were known to be with foal to his horse. When the fact is taken into consideration that no answers were received from quite a number of breeders to whom Mr. Durfee wrote, it will be seen that the percentage of McKinney's foals this year will be very large and will fully substantiate Mr. Durfee's advertised statement that McKinney is as sure a foal getter as any horse in California.

This year McKinney is to be limited to fifty mares and of these thirty have already been booked and bred. The horse is in as fine shape now as ever in his life and his book will be filled within a few weeks in all probability. He is getting a very choice lot of mares this year.

Now that the Year Book for 1901 is out and the statisticians are compiling their various tables of producing sires, it is remarkable what a showing McKinney is making. As a producer of 2:15 speed he still holds, as he has for several years past, the lead of all stallions of his age. We noticed in a recent table that Alcantara, the present leading sire of 2:15 performers, with 28 to his credit, had but one solitary representative in the 2:15 list when he was 14 years of age, while McKinney at the same age has 19.

Another wonderful showing for McKinney is the percentage of his get that are in the 2:20 list. The Year Book credits him with 40 standard performers, and of these 26 have records below 2:20, while only five have marks as slow as 2:25 and only three slower than 2:26. He has a producing son—Zombro 2:11, and a producing daughter, Jennie Mac 2:09.

In the sales mart McKinney has led all stallions during the past six months, as more of his get have been sold for four figures than the get of any other horse. There is probably not a McKinney for sale in California to-day for less than $500. We heard of a stud colt by him that had a tendon severed by a barb wire so that he can never be trained or worked selling for $350 a few weeks since and the present owner will not take twice that sum for him now.

Sidney W. Giles, for the past nine years the efficient secretary of the Cleveland Driving Park Company, has been compelled to resign on account of ill health and his resignation has been accepted with the greatest reluctance, as Mr. Giles has the confidence and esteem of all who have had dealings with him or the company he has so long been identified with. His successor will be Mr. Geo. J. Dietrich, manager of the Chicago Horseman for the past year and formerly associate editor of the American Sportsman of Cleveland. Mr. Dietrich is well fitted for the position and is very popular with horsemen all over the country.

No Corner in Harness Horses.

All the signs indicate that the next trotting season will be the busiest we have ever had. There are more meetings, larger purses and longer entry lists. Matinee racing has a firm foothold, and gentlemen's driving clubs increase in number, membership and popularity. Even the speedways grow more crowded. This happy state of affairs is the natural outcome of the general business prosperity. So many more people can indulge their fancy for a fast horse and the manifold delights that go with it. These are abundant reasons why the demand for speed and the better type of driving horse makes this demand urgent. The panic of 1893 hit the trotting horse breeders hard, and put many of them out of business, and sharply curtailed the operations of those that remained. You can't store trotters like merchandise. When they are fit and ready they should be sold, for no matter what the market conditions are, there is always a stage with every horse when he will sell for more money than later on. The market may get better, but the horse may have lost his marketable form. That is why the wise owner always sells when the best selling opportunity presents itself, and in the long run comes out ahead. It also explains why in the present condition of the harness horse market, with an active and urgent demand on one hand, and a keenly felt scarcity of good material on the other, no trust is being formed to buy up everything in sight. If some genius will only devise a method by which a horse will keep in the pink of condition and not grow old, now is the time to corner the light-harness horse market, and get any price almost for speed, good looks and manners you care to ask. There would be "millions in it." But until this genius arrives, the only alternative is to sell when your horse is fit, and the buyer is at hand. The very best opportunity of the year is at the Cleveland Blue Ribbon sale. It comes at the right season, in May, just as training and road driving begins. It is the oldest established auction of fast horses in America. More young horses that become big winners, or rapidly increase in value are purchased at this sale than any other. This makes it the most popular in the whole country. Many of the best buyers wait for it. Horses are exhibited rigged for business. The speed can be shown over the Cleveland track, under the watch, and a buyer always pays handsomely for what he sees. The shrewd owner who has a horse fit and ready for the market should make his entry without a day's delay. The opportunity comes but once a year, and should not be missed this time, because prospects for the seller never looked brighter.

Barondale Doing Well.

Tom James, of San Jose, is much pleased with the patronage his horse Barondale is receiving. He writes us under date of March 23d that people are coming every day to look Barondale over and many are booking their mares. Mr. John I. Sabin, the well known manager of the Sunset Telephone Company, has recently booked a handsome and well bred mare to Barondale. Mr. Chas. R. Detrick, a prominent citizen of Palo Alto, has sent to Barondale his grandly bred mare Consolation by Electricity, dam Consolation (dam of Utility 2:13, Clarion 2:25½ and two producing sons) by Dictator; second dam Belle by Norman 25, third dam Vic by Mambrino Chief 11, etc. In a letter to Mr. James, Mr. Detrick says: "I cannot see how Barondale could be improved in breeding or individuality, especially in view of breeding to him such fine mares as have been raised at Palo Alto. Men fortunate enough to own these mares ought to thank you and the other gentlemen with Wilkes stallions for the opportunity to follow the well known advice of such a great authority as Mr. Covey and breed to sons of Baron Wilkes, Alcyone and Guy Wilkes. I expect to enter the Monbells youngster of this year and the Barondale of next year in all the futurities. You will notice that the latter will have for great grandparents Geo. Wilkes, Nutwood, Electioneer and Dictator for stallions, and Belle Patchen, Midnight, Beatrice and Belle for broodmares. The pedigree will certainly be an ideal one in both male and female lines and contain only great and famous individuals."

Mr. James says that Barondale will have about all he can do this season at San Jose. Mr. John A. McKerron looked the horse over a few days since and told Mr. James he need not hesitate to have such a horse led out and shown at any time. The mares thus far booked to the horse are of choice breeding and extra good individuals, so the first crop of Barondales in California should be a fine lot of colts.

Elliot W. Shanklin, a prominent trotting horseman and member of the sales firm of Woodward & Shanklin, has accepted the Secretaryship of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association made vacant by the resignation of Horace Wilson. Mr. Shanklin is eminently qualified for the position and the Kentucky association is fortunate to secure his services.

Sacramento Track Notes.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 26, 1902.

OUR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—Considerable interest is manifested in horse circles in Sacramento just now as the time approaches for the spring meeting of the Capitol City Driving Club and as the season is also coming on when the programs for the meets in the different agricultural districts are in process of formation.

The old Sacramento track, with all its historic associations, will probably soon be a thing of the past; a memory around which will cluster the names of many turf celebrities that have carried their conquests into other lands and placed California in the front rank among the States that have brought the horse to the highest state of perfection of form and speed. The present track will doubtless be sold and a new fair ground and track built a little further out and provided with all the modern appointments.

At present there are not so many horses at the track as there usually are at this season of the year. Among the stables of trotters and pacers at the track Vet Tryon has fourteen head. A pacer by Tom Benton that has paced in 2:18, one by Falrose, a green trotter by Sable Le Grand and several others.

H. S. Hogboom has quite a string of green ones, among them a yearling that he is quite sweet on.

S. W. Mitchell has two very promising ones. His Zombro colt stepped a quarter in 35 seconds and the Baron Wilkes colt one in 40 seconds.

L. M. Clark has Ouiboul 2:22 by Stamboul; he is looking fine now and is in the pink of condition. He also has a mare by Nephew and a three year old by Whips.

Chris Jensen has a string, several of which are quite fast.

Mrs. E. W. Callendine has Guynut by Nutwood Wilkes that is going some and also has the dam of Guynut, Abbie Woodnut, in training for road races, besides several others.

WILLITA.

Empire Track's Prospectus.

Horace Wilson, who has been appointed secretary of the Empire City Trotting Club, of New York, evidently intends making that organization a leader in harness racing affairs by much the same methods which he brought to bear on the conduct of the meetings of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association at Lexington, where his administration as secretary was marked by extraordinary success in the association's affairs. In a letter outlining the plans of the Empire City Club Mr. Wilson says:

This is practically the inaugural meeting at this grand trotting plant—the costliest, most complete and beautiful of the kind in the world, and it is the manifest duty of every horseman interested in the advancement of trotting sport to give his enthusiastic assistance to the firm establishment of a representative trotting club in the greatest city in the land.

The management is determined to make the Empire Club the greatest trotting organization in history, and will not be sparing of anything that will tend to that end, but it must have the unqualified and hearty support of all horsemen to gain complete success. This will mean much to every man in the business professionally. New York is already the best market in the world for harness horses, and the success of the Empire track will make it vastly better. No driver wishing to dispose of a first-class horse at a long price can possibly figure out a better place to show him than in a good race over the Empire track, with a thousand rich road drivers looking on.

The policy of the management is to be straight, fair, liberal and just. Discipline and observance of rules will be strictly enforced. Good conduct, promptness and politeness will be insisted upon. All drivers will be required to wear colors of satin, or silk jackets, as well as caps, of bright colors, and the rest of their attire must be neat. Drivers not possessing such colors will be loaned same by the management, and cannot start without them.

No half-naked grooms will be allowed to expose themselves on the track, and the management will sell suitable cheap sweaters and caps to such as need them, at cost, the amount to be charged to their stable.

In short, all details of these meetings will be up-to-date, for New Yorkers will not "stand for" anything but the best, and we hope to prove to the millions of cosmopolitan, sport-loving people of New York that trotting is really the greatest racing sport of America.

Vance Nuckols, the Cleveland trainer who has been so successful during the last two years, will have the best stable of horses this year he has ever had. He wintered Tom Nolan 2:08½ by General Hancock and Home Circle 2:13½ by Axtell, and he has recently added to his stable Schley Pointer 2:16½ by Star Pointer, and Rose Budd 2:13½ by Alameda. The last two were campaigned on the Lake Erie Circuit tracks last year and attracted much attention. Both are expected to beat 2:10 early in the season on the mile tracks.

Trotters and Pacers at Honolulu.

Every Sunday morning now sees quite a crowd of enthusiasts at the track, who come to see the amateur reinsmen of the city indulge in a brush. On these occasions every man in town who owns a horse seems to turn out. Among the regulars are Captain Soule, who drives his old standby Artie W.; W. H. Smith, with a brand new 2:17½ pacer from the Coast; Alec Harris, behind a likely looking brown trotter by Dexter Prince; H. H. Perry, guiding a nicely gaited sorrel pacer; W. H. Cunningham, with Wayboy, and M. H. Drumm and Los Angeles.

Among the trainers now at the track is the veteran Jack Gibson, who is on the turf again, after a lapse of two years. He is looking after a green bay pacer belonging to Seeley Shaw, which is being jogged along at a three-minute clip. He also has a green Creole pacing mare, half sister to Edith R., which won in the Hawaiian breed class last year. The mare is the property of Tom King.

Jim Quinn has a couple in hand, Waldo J. and Cyclone. The "white ghost" is too well known to local race-goers to need description; suffice it therefore to say that he looks as well as he ever did in his life. The other horse is a big upstanding black pacing gelding, with a white blaze. He is new at the game and worked along in 2:50 on Saturday with three or four breaks thrown in. Ed Finn is working with Quinn.

John Callan is snugly ensconced in the stables occupied by "Bonnie" Judd last year, at the mauka end of the track. In his string are Leahi, C. L. Wight's Edna G., and a green pacing mare by a son of Dexter Prince, which looks big enough for anything. Hollinger expects his pet, Leahi, to show his quality this year, and he has now come to an age when she should. Edna G., looking fat and well, was putting in slow heats on Saturday, and pacing with machine-like regularity.

Another old face at headquarters is Mike "Wela ka Hao" Costello, who is in charge of W. Norton's game little roan mare, Directress 2:24, which has not been raced since 1900. He is occupying Larry Dee's old suite of stalls, and expects to have a couple more horses in a short time. It is said, by the way, that Dee will keep Octoroon and Albert M. 2:29 in their stables this year, as far as racing is concerned. Octoroon, however, is being jogged on the road all the time.

Capt. Rees Will Retire.

Capt. Rees, the most popular racing official on the running tracks, has announced that he will permanently retire from the stand after the close of the meeting at Louisville, Ky., this spring. Capt. Rees has been in the judge's chair on all the leading tracks of the country and has made a most enviable reputation. He is not a poor man by any means and has only worked as he has for the sake of the sport and of putting in his time actively in some congenial pursuit, and since the middle of the New Orleans meeting now drawing to a close he has been determined to get out of the business for good and all. He was especially hard in his rulings against some of the crooked steeplechase riders at that meeting and both he and his wife have received many threatening letters from persons supposed to be in the clique that was detected and ruled off. Capt. Rees' wife is not strong and rather than subject her to such a strain he will leave the turf at the time mentioned. His loss will be sorely felt.

Answers to Correspondents.

C. S. B., Los Angeles—Zolock 2:10½ is by McKinney 2:11½, dam Gazelle 2:11½; by Gossiper 2:14½; second dam Gypsy by Gen. Booth; third dam Echo Belle by Echo; fourth dam by Lumnox; fifth dam by Gray Eagle. He is owned by Mr. Ben Davies of San Bernardino, California.

J. J. M., Visalia—The pedigree of Iris is not given in the Year Book, except the statement that he is by Eros. We believe, however, that his dam is by Elmo 891, and his grandam by Chieftain 721. We can find no record of a mare by the name of Fligo.

R. T., city—The name of the gentleman who purchased Miss Jessie 2:13½ from C. A. Durfee a few weeks ago is Gilbert E. Morton, and he resides at Kansas City. We do not know the price paid as it is private.

At the Splan horse sale at Chicago last Wednesday George H. Ketcham paid $6250 for the trotter Roy M., record 2:14½, over a half-mile track. It is understood the horse will be sent to England. May Allen 2:09½ was purchased by C. W. Marks of Chicago for $2800. Henry L. 2:15 brought $2400 from George Castle of Chicago.

The All Around Harness Horse.

BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—Men who have made fortunes in mercantile, manufacturing, banking and mining ventures, and have afterwards given their attention to the breeding of the all around, high acting harness horse, have stated that it requires more judgment to make a success in the latter than in either of the former lines of business. When the truth is learned it will generally be found that the successful men, those who have made fortunes in any business, learned all branches of it in their youth and reached the top by good judgment, practical experience and hard labor.

Many start in the horse breeding business believing themselves competent judges of what is required to make a success, but their knowledge has been gained entirely from books and newspapers, and they know nothing of the practical side of the business. I have known personally a few breeders of harness horses who left snug fortunes made at the business, but they were far-seeing, practical, good horsemen.

I have a friend who made a fortune dealing in high class trotting-bred horses. In conversation with him at one of the Western sales two years ago he said he could not see why the horse breeding business could not be conducted so as to make a profit, the same as any other business. He said that he noticed the tendency all over the country in late years was for all lines to drift into their special grooves, and that since he had confined himself to his specialty, the trotting-bred coach or harness horse of high action, he had been able to make it profitable. He was free to admit that his preference in breeds was for the American trotting-bred horse that furnishes every variety of size and type, and said that breed fills all gaps between fourteen to sixteen hands high.

I said to this active, well-informed man: "Describe to me, if you please, your fancy to produce that handsome, all around horse." His reply was:

"The Hackney and French Coach horses are both good, but the high bred American trotter is my preference over all breeds; but there are many points to guard against and if you can guard against these you are pretty sure to produce a good type of horse. If your broodmares are deficient in any particular you should be very careful not to breed to a stallion that is deficient in the same place.

"For a show or coach horse the head should be of medium length, broad between the eyes and jaws, the ear moderately thin and long, with a quick active movement and setting erect. The eye should be full, round and clear, neck not deep or heavy at the throat, nor short and thick or straight on top, nor too long and slim with a curve on the under side. Avoid ewe necks always. The neck should be of good length with good depth at the shoulders, but not too thick. The crest should arch gently and be thin at the top. The withers should not be low and thick, but should be of good height and thin. I have heard more fault found among buyers over the mutton shouldered type than all other imperfections combined. Proper head, neck and withers are among the most important points to be considered in the production of the great all-around harness horse for any good market.

"The more all around, high trotting action a horse has the more he is worth, and a horse with high, thin withers is pretty sure to have high action. He should be deep and full at the heart, short back, strong over the loins with long, well sprung ribs, hips long and smooth, sloping gradually to the root of the tail, which must be set on high and carried well up and away from the body. There are a few important thoughts for the breeders, the first of which is if you wish to produce a 'pacing racing machine' breed to such of the highest type of that class; if for a gentleman's light or heavy harness horse, breed to that horse that produces such uniformly; that has style, high trotting action, and after, if you fail to get high trotting speed, you will in turn have a type of a horse that will sell well at your stable front. Beware of low bred stallions; don't breed to any inferior horse. Secure the service of the handsome, high bred trotting horse 'at thrice' the service fee. If your mare is of inferior breed and quality, breed her to the best trotting stallion that in your judgment will improve her produce. Never at any time breed to a stallion that would not produce a handsome gelding, and don't try to produce a class of horses all one size and color. You will only suit one class of buyers. The best selling size for show or coach horse is from 15 to 16 hands high. Such sizes suit all comers. Such a horse with such quality, substance, beauty and high trotting action will find ready sale and has made the American trotting horse famous the world over. In breeding the speed alone should not be the only object in view. At the best this will only show in sufficient quantity about once in a life time, but if qualities are in evidence, such as are described above, there is little trouble to sell at a profit." SAMUEL GAMBLE.

Notes and News.

Good jacks are selling at from $300 to $700 in the East.

The Abbot 2:03½ did not win a race last year, still earned $21,500.

Sweet Alice by Sultan out of the dam of Onward Silver 2:08 is regarded as a 2:10er.

Charley Herr 2:07 has been taken up and may again be raced through the Grand Circuit.

The Brighton Beach early closing stakes received a total of 275 nominations by 163 subscribers.

The standard list was increased by the addition of 842 pacers and 918 trotters during the year 1901.

Concord has claimed the dates September 30th to October 4th for its fair and race meeting this year.

M. E. McHenry will prepare Dan Patch 2:04½ and the rest of his string of campaigners at the Cleveland track.

A 27 year old mare, owned by W. B. Hawkins, of Lexington, Ky., recently foaled a filly by Liberty Chimes.

Santos, dam of Peter the Great 2:07½, has two foals by Chimes, and is now at Village Farm to be bred back to him.

James B. Brewster, the well known carriage maker, is dead. The Brewster buggy has been the standard for forty years.

Advertiser is the sire of eight 2:30 performers, two of the number pacers. He is the sire of Adbell 2:23, the sire of two.

The man that rustles is the one that secures the business. Sitting down and lamenting never did a stallion owner any good.

A new Ohio law makes it a crime to own a horse whose tail has been docked. A penalty of from $25 to $100 is provided.

Alta Vela 2:15 will be trained at the Napa track this year. Mr. Hooper arrived there with him and his other horses last week.

Axtell is the sire of sixty-five 2:30 performers, fifty-five of the number being trotters. Twenty-five of his performers are in the 2:20 list.

The training season has now fairly opened at all the California tracks and seats on the rail near the wire are hard to get on workout days.

The first mile in 2:10, driven by an amateur in 1902, was made at Los Angeles, Cal., recently, when Primrose stepped that distance in 2:09½.

The entries for the Kentucky Futurity, $21,000, for foals of 1902, closed on Saturday, March 15th. At that date over 1000 entries had been received.

Alta Bois, a very promising young stallion by Altamont, son of Almont 33, is owned by the Gospel Ridge Stock Farm, near Griswold, Ia. He is siring a nice lot of foals.

The Contra Costa County Agricultural Society, District No. 23, claims September 30th, October 1st, 2d, 3d and 4th as its dates for this year's fair and race meeting.

Audubon Boy 2:06, that started in twelve races, ten of which he won and was second in the other two, has wintered nicely in Scott Hudson's care and is looking good and strong at every point.

It is said D. J. Campau will soon call a meeting of the board of Grand Circuit stewards to consider the relations of the Grand Circuit tracks to the National and American Trotting Associations.

M. M. Donnelly, the well known horseshoer at 1306 Grove street, has sold his fine road mare Lady Bell to a Montana man. She is by a horse called Ashby and out of the dam of Estelle Wilkes 2:19.

Lord March, who is counted by Ed Geers, John Bradburn and others as the fastest trotter ever bred at Village Farm, is being staked again. Last year he went wrong early in the training season.

The Roman 2:19 by McKinney has reached Memphis with Dick Benson's string of campaign material and reports from there say he is looking stronger than ever and has all the speed he has been credited with.

Princess Derby, the still green sister to Derby Princess 2:08½, is now in the hands of Jerome McKinney and will be tried again this year. Her new trainer believes she will "make good" before the season closes.

There were just forty-four stallions that sired five or more that took new standard records in 1901. Of these thirty-nine trace in the direct male line to Hambletonian 10, three to Mambrino Chief 11, and two to Tom Hal the Tennessee sire.

A. J. Chapin of Denver is training four very promising horses at Overland Park. He has a son of Blackwood that has trialed in 2:15 and is also working the four year old Thornberg 2:18½, winner of the three year old race at Overland last year.

Valencia Stock Farm, at Arrowhead, California, has just sold a team to a Pasadena man for $1100 and another to a Redlands party for $900. Mr. Severance writes us that all these horses were royally bred and each had a strain of the great Electioneer blood.

John A. McKerron 2:06½ is reported to have grown and filled out considerably since last year. He is entirely recovered from an attack of distemper which caught him in December last. Doc Tanner is giving him eight or ten miles of jog work at Cleveland every day.

A new comer at the Rose Dale Stock Farm, Santa Rosa, this week by Washington McKinney measured 45 inches high when two hours old. He is black in color and is out of Hazel Turk by Silas Skinner 2:17, second dam Miss Brown, dam of three in the list, by Volunteer.

A gentleman who came down from Sacramento last week informed us that the stallion James Madison 2:17½ was shipped to Kentucky a few days since by Mr. Mackay, superintendent of the Haggin farm, and that the son of Anteeo will make the season of 1902 in the blue grass state.

The annual sale of speed horses held by John S. Lackey in Cambridge City, Ind., last week was one of the most successful in the history of the vendue. Over 300 horses were disposed of for an average price of $243, no sensational prices being paid and nothing going begging for a buyer.

Mr. J. C. Bray, of Butte, Montana, who has been in California for the past month buying road horses for the business men and members of the driving club of that city, expects to ship his purchases some time next week. He has secured twelve head and has paid from $200 to $600 for them.

Among the entries to The Norfolk $5000 purse for 2:24 class pacers, offered by the Readville association, is China Maid, the mare by McKinney 2:11½ out of Blanchard by Onward. She is entered in the name of Thos. L. McArar, but is owned by the Chinese Consul-General Ho Yow.

The news is that the great $10,000 race between Thomas W. Lawson's Boralma and E. E. Smathers' Lord Derby will be trotted over Charter Oak Park track, Hartford, during the Grand Circuit meeting. It is said that Marsh will not pilot Boralma in the race, and the guess is that Myron E. McHenry will have the mount behind the Lawson crack.

In the Kentucky Senate last week the Newcomb bill prohibiting the docking of the tails of horses in Kentucky was adopted. Senator Farris tried to secure an amendment to the bill providing that it should not apply to horses to be shipped out of the State, but the Senate by a vote of 21 to 17 defeated the amendment, and the bill was passed.

Wayland W. 2:12½ has been taken to the Napa track by W. C. Hellman and will make the season there. Wayland W. was one of the best trotters in California in his racing days and since retiring to the stud has been a success, being the sire of such fast ones as Arthur W. 2:11½ and John A. 2:12½, besides several others with slower records.

The question as to what constitutes hereditary unsoundness sufficient to disqualify animals intended for breeding purposes has been officially decided by the directors of the Boston Horse Show. Roaring, whistling, ringbone, spavin, navicular disease and cataract are specified as the only ailments giving cause for disqualification on the score of unsoundness.

The Seventh Biennial Congress of the American Trotting Association will convene at the Auditorium Hotel, Chicago, Tuesday, May 6, 1902, at 12 o'clock M., for the purpose of electing officers and transacting such other business as may be properly presented for its consideration. The Board of Appeals of the Association will meet at the same place, May 6th, at 8 o'clock, P. M.

The horsemen of Haywards are agitating the question of a race track at that town. If a regulation track could be built and a live association with a live secretary take charge of it, harness meetings could be successfully given that would attract large crowds. It is one of the most ideal places for training in this State, and can be reached by steam and electric lines in an hour from San Francisco.

The earning capacity of the trotter down the Grand Circuit is on the increase. At Detroit is the M. & M. $10,000, Readville has the Massachusetts $15,000, Providence the $10,000 Roger Williams, Hartford the $10,000 Charter Oak, Brighton Beach the $10,000 Bonner Memorial and one is to be opened by the Cincinnati management. If the horse still remains good he can be accommodated at both Lexington and Memphis.

W. J. Irvine, of the Pacific Stables, Sacramento, is very much pleased over the advent last Wednesday of a big handsome bay colt by McKinney 2:11½, that was presented to him by his bay mare Lady Ansley by Our Jack 2:13½. The colt hasn't a white hair on him. Mr. Irvine's boy has named the little fellow Sir Thomas Lipton. Over at the Lodi track last Saturday Tom Holmes worked Mr. Irvine's sorrel gelding Talisman a mile out in 2:18½.

The indications are that the big guns of the turf will make the first sensational miles at Cincinnati this year instead of Detroit, for with $22,000 in purses July 1st to 4th, the Ohio city will catch most of the big stables.

Bonnatella has added new honors to her European turf record. In Italy last month she won the Grand Trotting Prize of 10,000 francs, trotting the first and third heats of the 1½ mile race at the rate of 2:20 and 2:22. The second heat was won by Hornelia Wilkes, which trotted the distance at the rate of 2:19. At the same meeting Killona by King Wilkes won a race in straight heats in which Royal Baron, by reason of a handicap of 136 yards, was unplaced.

A. J. Welch will try to arrange a great wagon race for amateur reinsmen as a feature of the Fourth of July trotting meeting at Oakley Park, Cincinnati. He hopes to bring together Lucile 2:07, driven by C. K. G. Billings; The Monk 2:08½, driven by Fred Gerken; John A. McKerron 2:10, driven by H. K. Devereux; Lord Derby 2:06½, driven by E. E. Smathers, and another fast horse, driven by Julius Fleischmann, the Mayor of Cincinnati.

Thos. W. Lawson says that Boralma 2:07 will positively be a starter in the Boston Cup race this year unless he is ill or lame. Mr. Gerken of New York, owner of The Monk 2:08½, king of the speedway, has stated that he would rather win the cup race than a ten thousand dollar purse and there are several others among the wealthy horsemen who feel the same way. It will be one of the greatest races of the year.

Mr. Frank H. Burke, of this city, was in Los Angeles last week and tells us he saw as fine looking and promising a lot of colts by the stallion Zombro 2:11 as he ever saw in training on any track. One worked a mile in 2:21, another in 2:23 and a green one that was just learning trotted a half in 1:22. There were several others that were reported faster stabled at the track, but these were the only ones Mr. Burke saw worked and they greatly impressed him with Zombro as a sire.

Among the sales of coach horses for $5000 under strange names during the past year was the made-over Dewey Bow Bells, that, owing to an injury, was prevented from acquiring a record. This horse is a son of Bow Bells 2:19½ and the celebrated show mare and speed producer Rachel Ray, dam of Commodore Porter 2:13, the magnificent stallion Parole 2:16 and Luzelle 2:15½, dam of Bowerman Bros.' handsome show winner Libertine.

A former resident of Australia who is now in San Francisco recently received a letter from a wealthy man in that country asking him to secure a price on a trotting stallion in California that was about 15.2 in height, bay or brown, solid color, without blemishes of any sort, standard bred and from a trotting family. A horse with a good mark preferred and one that had broken down but could be fitted to show a half mile at speed would not be objected to. Has any one such a horse for sale?

The Greater Salem Stake of $2000 for pacers of the 2:18 class offered by the Oregon State Fair has very attractive conditions. There are four moneys in the stake and the horses that start and do not win any part of the stake will have a purse of $500 offered for them free of entrance during the meeting. In this consolation race the money is divided $200 to first, $125 to second, $100 to third and $75 to fourth. So that there are certain to be seven of the original entries that will not be out any money for entrance while the eighth will only be shy $25. This is almost as good as the merchandise stores that advertise "money back if you want it."

Mr. John Fleet of Kamloops, B. C., who purchased the stallion Acorn by Oaknut 2:24½ as stated in this paper last week, found he could not ship the horse home by steamer owing to a recent rule of the steamship company which prohibits horses being shipped on passenger steamers. As it is about as cheap to ship two horses by rail as one, Mr. Fleet went up to Pleasanton and purchased from James Sutherland the very handsome little brown stallion, Charley G., full brother to Rey Direct 2:10 and De Veras 2:11½. While a small horse in stature, Charley G. is strongly built and fast. He has worked a mile in 2:18 trotting, but has been permitted to pace recently and could take a low record at the lateral gait. Mr. Fleet has secured two well bred stallions in Acorn and Charley G.

If Mr. Lawson means to award the prizes he has offered for the best names for horses with the name Dreamworld Poncelacy as a model for those who compete for the prizes to have in mind, then there will be a lot of inexpressibly meaningless names in the next volume of the trotting register. How much more expressive and significant is the name of Chimes whose dam was Beautiful Bells, or Curfew, a son of Chimes. Dissipation by Prodigal, Impeachment out of Electrix, Emancipation out of Franchise, Welcome Home by Prodigal, Searchlight by Dark Night, Summer Morn out of Midsummer, Gammon out of Fib, Equity by Heir-at-Law, Poem, Prose and Stanza, all out of Sonnet; Merry Christmas by Santa Claus, Volunteer and Sentinel out of Lady Patriot, Standard Bearer by Volunteer, Rumor, Slander and Gossip, all sired by Tattler; Fiction out of Romance, are other horses the names of which, when connected with those of their sires or dams, have some significance. If breeders would endeavor—and it is a pleasure to know that some of them do—to give their foals sensible, significant names, instead of the stupid combination names, bestowed on so many horses, the readers of the turf papers would be inexpressibly delighted.—Raymond in Horse World.

Jackson's Napa Soda is sold in every city, town and hamlet in the State.

Old Broodmares.

Recently mention was made relative to Russell Sage's breeding operations, and the fact that at 26 the dam of his famous road mare Nellie proved fruitful. T. L. Milsbaugh, of Walden, N. Y., writes to the Sun that at 26 Green Mountain Maid produced Lancelot by Messenger Duroc, whom as a yearling the late Charles Backman sold to William Russell Allen, of St. Louis, to place at his Allen Farm, Pittsfield, Mass. Last November Mr. Allen sold Lancelot to A. Koenig, who represented Austrian breeders, and the grand, young half-brother of Electioneer is now in foreign lands at the stud. He cost Mr. Allen, it is said, $12,500 and took a record at maturity of 2:23. Several of Lancelot's get took standard records in America, and the few that were exported heretofore raced well in long-distance races abroad.

At Mariposa Farm, near Pawtucket, Frederick C. Sayles has the old mare Madeline 2:23½ by Rysdyk's Hambletonian out of Robert McGregor's dam, now 28 years old and bearing a foal. She has bred regularly the last few seasons and seems as well preserved as though in her teens. Her eye is bright, her back is yet unswayed by age, her limbs are sturdy as during her track days and few gray patches are to be seen about her head. There are few her age in the breeding ranks and she may be productive at 30. Few mares, however, produce after their twentieth birthday. Beautiful Bells 2:29½, of the Palo Alto Stud, California, produced eighteen foals in successive seasons, but has been barren now five seasons. Ten of her produce have records ranging from 2:12½ to 2:30 and Chimes has a record of 2:30½ made as a three year old.

Lady Bunker, famous as the dam of Guy Wilkes 2:15½ and William L., the latter the sire of Axtell 2:12, was barren ten seasons and given up in despair. She was by Mambrino Patchen from Joe Bunker's dam and a splendid individual, consequently all too valuable to allow to remain non-productive. Mr. Hamlin wanted to experiment with her, so the late Gerhardt Lang sent Lady Bunker to the court of the noted National Horse Show winner, Mambrino King, son of her sire, and she produced two fillies to him. One of these is a speed producer already.

Some mares there are that breed only alternate seasons for some peculiar reason. At the Bates Farm, Waterton, Mass., was kept a big mare, Pauline, by Shakespeare, a pacing sire. Every second foal was sizable, each intervening produce rather small. She had about fifteen foals and throughout her experience as a broodmare it was ever thus. On the same farm was May Day, a daughter of famous Pocahontas 2:17½, and at 15 she stopped breeding. It was hoped she would become fertile again, but she never did. Her daughter, Nancy 2:23½, by Daniel Lambert, never would breed, although in perfect state of health and preservation. Others of her family were ever uncertain. Her noted half-sister, Mr. Bonner's Young Pocahontas 2:26½, was tried year after year at the Bonner Farm only to die without leaving one foal. Maud S. 2:08½, was never productive. Mr. Bonner's noted mare Molsey 2:21½, produced her first foal at 21.

Sunol 2:08½, had a foal last spring, but it lived only a day, being laid low by distemper. Goldsmith Maid was not retired till 20, yet produced two foals that lived to produce speed, her daughter, Rosebud, having two in the list and Stranger living to sire 2:20 speed. Flora Temple had foals late in life.

Formerly it was fancied that late foals of aged broodmares lacked the vitality of those earlier to appear; yet Monbells, the last foal of Beautiful Bells, took a record of 2:23½, with very little work last season and showed high form in brushes. Mr. Sayles regards Madeline's late foals as among the best at his farm, and sees no reason why they should not take fast records at maturity. Green Mountain Maid was so highstrung she was never safe to hitch for a drive. Her produce included Elaine 2:20, Prospero 2:20, Dame Trot 2:22, Antonio 2:28½, Mansfield 2:26½, Lancelot 2:23, Storm 2:31 and Electioneer, the greatest sire that ever lived. Elaine is a rare producer at Palo Alto. Prospero was, early in life much like his dam. One day, it is related, he started to run away with the Stony Ford trainer, having taken fright at some object on the road, and struck a trot that was impressive. Thereafter he was ever a true going fast trotter and one of the first of the 2:20 trotters. Green Mountain Maid's dam, the humble Shanghai Mary, was a resolute mare and little did her owner expect to see her a success as a speed progenitor.

Everything tracing to Green Mountain Maid is golden in the eyes of the progressive breeder, yet the Clay family was regarded with suspicion, and not a few to this day seem to consider the Electioneers as "Sunday trotters." Governor Stanford gave many of them tincup records so as to secure to his horse and his matrons a 2:30 list composed in the main of juveniles. But one pacer to take standard record did Electioneer sire, Peruvian Bitters 2:23½, yet many of his more noted trotters wanted badly to pace. Bonita 2:18½, whom Pierre Lorillard paid $15,000 for, paced after retiring and in her old age was never known to strike a trot. She brought fame to Electioneer, however, as a sire of early extreme speed, but Marvin had lots to encounter converting her to a pure-gaited reliable trotter.

In the old mare Nell by Estill Eric, John Shults owns one of our best speed producers. She breeds regularly at Shultsburst Farm, Mr. Shults' stud at Port Chester, and has already contributed Vassar 2:07, trotting record 2:21½; Belle Vara 2:08½, who was shifted to the pace and showed fast; Susie T. 2:09½, a pacer, and Ambidexter 2:11½, pacing brother to Susie T. Vassar proved a failure at the stud, Belle Vara has been bred by H. O. Havemeyer to an untried stallion. Susie T. has refused pointblank to breed thus far, and Ambidexter is a speedway star owned by Patrick Kennedy.

It is not generally known that old Pocahontas died bearing a foal to George Wilkes, yet William H. Tourtelotte, twenty-five years the Bates Farm's superintendent, has so stated. Every foal she produced accomplished something of note. Young Pocahontas 2:26½ was sold to Mr. Bonner for $40,000. She was by Ethan Allen. A full sister named May Queen went blind but produced May Morning 2:30, the dam of Revenue 2:22½ and others that are listed. Tom Rolfe 2:33 by Pugh's Aratus sired Young Rolfe 2:21½, who dropped dead at Mystic Park. He gave the turf Nelson 2:09, once our trotting stallion king and salable at $60,000 had Mr. Nelson so willed, as the late S. A. Brown of Kalamazoo, Mich., offered that sum. May Day by Miles Standish, son of Black Hawk, produced Nancy 2:23½; Blanche Jefferson, the dam of Charles N. Reilly's beautiful black trotter Mahlon 2:13½, as well as his brother Arthur Cleveland 2:23½, and others to produce speed. Young Strideaway by Black Hawk Telegraph, from old Pocahontas, showed 2:15½, but died early in life leaving the trotter Spratt 2:28½ and Mr. Darling's famous broodmare Young Daisy, the second dam of several fast Axtells, also the foundation mare in the pedigree of Kingmond 2:09, who swept through the Grand Circuit of 1900 and won many thousands in the big stakes. He sold for $3000 here recently and is now on the speedway.

The widely known breeder, Peter C. Kellogg, has long had an idea that if Orange county breeders were to pick up a few of the best individuals sold without pedigree by the Breeders' Protective Association yearly at Lexington, and breed them to their standard bred trotting sires we would in a few years see the wisdom of such mating. Palo Alto 2:08½ was produced from thoroughbred Dame Winnie, Sunol's second dam was by Lexington, and various other thorough and part-bred mares figured prominently in the building up of the Palo Alto stud. J. B. Haggin's splendid sire Dan Cupid 2:09½ traces to stout thoroughbred ancestry and was one of the gamest to appear in our races.—N. Y. Sun.

Cresceus' Campaign for Coming Season.

TOLEDO, March 16.—George H. Ketcham returned to Toledo last night after a trip West, and one of the first things he did was to deny the report that he would equip a new track here. He handed out his itinerary to-day for Cresceus' campaign this coming season. The champion trotter will make his first public appearance at Indianapolis on August 21st. He will be at Dayton on Aug. 28; at Albany, Sept. 15; Syracuse, Sept. 11; Philadelphia, Sept. 25; Memphis, Oct. 16; Birmingham, Oct. 23; Atlanta, Oct. 30; Montgomery, Nov. 6; Mobile, Nov. 13; Havana, Nov. 27. At all of these places Cresceus will be paced by the runner, Mike the Tramp. Thus far Ketcham has been absolutely unable to secure a race. He is now getting a shipment of speedy horses ready to send to Europe to fill special orders. Cresceus is in exceedingly good condition and is in stud this spring.

Brighton Beach entries show that five California stables propose to race at the big New York trotting meeting. In the $10,000 Bonner Memorial for 2:12 trotters, which has 20 nominators, C. E. Clark, of Fresno, has taken a nomination which is doubtless intended for Sue 2:12½ by Athadon. The Hiram Woodruff 2:20 class trot is for a purse of $5000 and has received entries from two California stables. W. G. Durfee names Ben Liebes, Coronado and Deacon Chase, all by McKinney, and Petigru, the bay stallion by Kingward that he purchased in the East last year. C. E. Clark has named his horse Cozad 2:20½ in this race. No less than 48 owners have made entries in this stake, with from one to eight entries each. In the Metropolitan, a $5000 purse for 2:30 class pacers, C. L. Griffith, of Pleasanton, has entered Domino and Rector, both by Rect 2:16½. Rector is out of Bon Bon, the dam of Bonnie Direct 2:05½ and Bonsilene 2:14½. Mr. Juan Gallegos, of Mission San Jose, has entered his black filly Trilby by Direct out of Bessie Wilkes by Sable Wilkes in this race, and O. A. Hickok names Col. Kirkpatrick's colt Thornway by Steinway in the same event

News From the North.

Portland Rural Spirit.]

Direct C., full brother to Freddy C. 2:14½, has been gelded.

There is a pair of Del Norte colts at Walla Walla, two year olds, that can trot quarters better than 40 seconds.

Freddy C. 2:14½ is entered in the 2:15 pace at Cleveland, Ohio. This looks like the little black rascal will be on the Grand Circuit this season.

W. G. Eaton of Portland has sold his driving team Road Boy 2:16½ and Newsboy to C. X. Larrabee, who will take them East.

The Washington State Fair has announced two $1000 stakes for their fall meeting, one for 2:20 pacers and the other for 2:40 trotters. Entries close May 1st with T. B. Gunn, secretary.

The Riverside Driving Club has been offered free use of Irvington track by Messrs. Helman & Simpson, in the afternoons during the driving season, for a speedway.

A. C. Lohmire has bought the green pacer School Boy from Wallace L. Whitmore of Idaho. The horse was shipped down in a special car, and will be put in condition for matinee racing. He is sired by Bill Frazier 2:14, out of Miss Blanchard by Hambletonian 725. Mr. Lohmire expects to hold the wagon record of the seventh ward with him before the snow flies.

The Roswell, Colorado, half-mile track has been plowed and resoiled this winter. There are about thirty-five horses quartered there: Roy Day 2:13½, who is kept busy; Geo. Bernard, president of Elkton G. M. Co., has four good ones—Bell Burton (p) 2:17 by Edgar Wilkes—Dollie Herr, Joe Joe (green pacer), Gipsy Girl (p) 2:26 and Ima Electrite 2:15 by Electrite 2:28½, son of Electioneer 125. This blood is from the Loma Alta Farm, Dallas, Texas. R. B. Ludwig has a few good ones in training, and McMasten has some good ones.

Death of Electric Bell.

With much regret we announce the death of this valuable stallion, which occurred at the farm of his owners, Messrs. Butt and Lower, at Gettysburg, Pa., on Wednesday, March 12th. Electric Bell, as is well known, was a son of Electioneer and Beautiful Bells 2:29½ and was foaled March 12, 1888, at Palo Alto Farm and was purchased by Messrs. Miller and Sibley of Franklin, Pa., when beside him dam, for $12,500—the record price for a trotting weanling. As soon as old enough he was placed in the stud at his new owners' Prospect Hill Farm, where he remained until about three years ago, when he was purchased by Hon. J. W. Bailey of Texas, who, in turn, sold him to Messrs. Butt and Lower in 1900. Electric Bell never appeared upon the turf, but his produce have shown him a worthy member of the wonderful "Bells family." His son Captor 2:09½ was one of the most sensational Grand Circuit trotters out last year and besides him Electric Bell is credited with nine standard trotters and one pacer, the most of them having made their records at early ages. It is said that Electric Bell had not fifty foals old enough to train prior to this season. As, in the natural order of things, he should have been good for eight or ten years more of stud service, his death is a very severe loss indeed.—Horse Review.

Eleata 2:08 3-4 Will Race Again.

Superintendent Dan Mahaney of the celebrated Maplewood Farm, Portsmouth, New Hampshire, writes us as follows about the Palo Alto bred mare Eleata, winner of last year's M. & M., and heaviest winner of all trotters on the Grand Circuit of 1901:

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Mar. 17, 1902.

BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—Gentlemen: Some of our Eastern papers have been agitating the question about Eleata 2:08½ being raced this year and reported that she might be bred and given a year's rest, all of which came from an unreliable source. In renewing my subscription to your paper, I will say Eleata is being jogged every day by Mr. Hiram Tozer and is as big and strong as a draft horse and will be got ready to race in any or all of the classes to which she is eligible, and should all go well with her there might be a new race record for mares made during the season of 1902. Glad to see so much interest in the horse business on your side of the country. It looks now like it will be the best year for the trotting horsemen ever known the country over. Yours very truly,

DAN L. MAHANEY,
Supt. Maplewood Farm.

LOS ANGELES, March 20th.

There has been a good deal of queer looking running at the Oakland track, during the past three weeks; and yet, while appearances are very much against certain beaten horses, it is by no means certain that there was any fraudulent intent upon the part of owners, trainers or jockeys. Horses are like men, the victims of whims and moods, not to say "isms," as the late Secretary Brewster was wont to put it. Some of the more acrobatic offenders beat stake horses one day and are beaten by the slowest of selling platers, a day or two later. Whenever the offender is a poor man's horse, his owner gets suspended for a month, at least; and if it occurs twice in one season, the stewards come down on him with a verdict of expulsion. August Belmont had out three horses in one season, all by old Rayon d'Or and all bad actors at the post—Octagon, Firearms and Don de Oro. Nobody for one moment would suspect that gentleman of wanting to lose a race from a desire to enrich his individual bank account, but it goes without saying that had the three horses above mentioned belonged each to a poor man, their three owners would have gotten the "walk off" order at their second failure to win. It is hard to imagine three faster or more inconsistent performers than they were. Hence I say there are a great many charges of crooked work on the track that have no real foundation in fact. Much of this work comes from reporters on the daily papers who get lazy and don't go out to look at the horses in their preliminary work. They go out to see the races at the appointed hour and then take the word of some unsavory and irresponsible "tout" who tells them:

"Hully gee! Yer orter have seen Bullwhacker go up dat back stretch dis mornin'. Went to der half in forty-seven and under a big pull; and dat stable boy on him weighed a hun-twenty if he weighed an ounce." Or this:

"Snuffy McGuffin give Powderhorn three-quarters in 1:14½ dis mornin' and der colt jist chewed it up like it was oats. He'll win dis fourth race to-day in a walk."

The reporter to whom this is addressed, goes out into the ring and plays Bullwhacker "across the board" for $2 each way and has the supreme disgruntlement of seeing him finish fifth in a very ordinary lot of horses. To get even on that misfortune, he waits until the fourth race and then plays Powderhorn straight and place, there being no show odds against him, as his price is 5 to 2. Perhaps the jockey is unable to get him off straight or perhaps he does not like the footing, for he is never prominent at any part of the race. The consequence is that all parties connected with these two horses—Bullwhacker and Powderhorn—come in for a first-class "roast" in the next issue of the Daily Gridiron. It is not that these reporters are not good judges of performances. They are, but they get lazy and don't exercise sufficient vigilance over the branch of business entrusted to them. In the California Derby, all three reporters tipped Sombrero to win and Water Scratch to get second money; and as there was more money to be won by Water Scratch coming second than by backing Sombrero to win, scores of men lost their money on the son of Helen Scratch, who was beaten over fifty yards. A moment's reflection would have convinced them that Helen Scratch has had a half dozen foals to race and Imperious was the only one that could last above a mile. They have all been short horses—barring the son of Morello.

Mr. Spreckels' new stallions will have a good opportunity at the Napa Farm, of which George Berry, a very painstaking man, is the superintendent. Mr. Spreckels has a very large lot of finely bred mares, which he has been gathering in the past eight years. Among them are several daughters of Flambeau, concerning whom I wrote last week; and I look for them to drop some good horses next year to the cover of Solitaire and Marius. Flambeau should be a great broodmare sire, because he contains the blood of Melbourne, Emilius, Wild Dayrell, Velocipede, Hermit and Castrel, all famous as sires of great matrons. I rank the broodmare sires of the past sixty years as follows:

1. Touchstone.
2. Melbourne.
3. Pantaloon.
4. Stockwell.
5. Hermit.
6. Rataplan.
7. Scottish Chief.
8. Wenlock.
9. Isonomy.
10. Hampton.

Stockwell got 7 of his best 10 performers out of daughters or grand daughters of Touchstone or Pantaloon. Hermit's best success was on the daughters of Stockwell, while Adventurer, by the same sire, got his best from the daughters of Rataplan, who was a full brother to Stockwell. King Tom's daughters bred well but not equal to those above. Harkaway was sadly deficient in sire blood, as Mr. Bruce Lowe shows beyond all dispute, yet his son, King Tom, got St. Angela, dam of St. Simon, the only English stallion to head the list of winning sires for nine (9) seasons, Stockwell and Hermit being premiers each for seven. Touchstone led for five seasons, once at 24 years of age, while Birdcatcher, Orlando, Melbourne and Galopin were each in front for three years. Neither Bend d'Or, Doncaster, Isonomy, Sterling, Wisdom, Parmesan, Scottish Chief, Rataplan, Barcalaine, Sweetmeat, Rosicrucian nor Voltigeur ever headed the list, although the former got "the horse of the century," and Isonomy is the only stallion in history to get two winners of "the triple crown." This may sound strange to those who give Ruff's Guide a hasty perusal but I have all the figures in my book-rack, ready for their perusal in case they doubt this assertion.

The lowest amount credited to any premier sire in England since 1840 was £8665 to Epirus in 1850, he beating Voltaire by the very narrow margin of £141; and in 1894 Isonomy, as second on the list to St. Simon, had £42,055, which was more than had been previously credited to any premier stallion, except the following:

1867—Stockwell.....	42,521
1882—Hermit.....	47,311
1889—Galopin.....	43,516
1892—St. Simon.....	53,504

Sir Dixon was our premier sire in America last year with over $165,000 to his credit, being about $49,000 more than was credited to Hanover in 1897, his best year. The lowest amount credited to any premier stallion in these United States of ours was to Leamington in 1897, being $41,170, the great Lexington having headed the list with $120,360 in 1870, when racing prizes were not worth more than 40 per cent of what Hanover had in 1897. Look the whole ground over and you will agree with me that Hanover was a great horse, but a very lucky one as a sire, for one cannot imagine a horse more deficient in sire blood. But six of his sons are already the sires of good winners and Hanover scarcely three years dead. His marvelous success is the paradox of the century, so far as breeding was concerned, for he seemed to "nick" with all sorts and conditions of mares, frequently getting stake horses from mares that had only produced selling platers to the best sires in the country.

Speaking of Flambeau, a while ago, and referring to his having a cross of Wild Dayrell through that good filly Rumping Girl, makes me remember that both Wild Dayrell and his sire, Ion, were decidedly "hard luck" horses. Ion ran second to Amato in the Derby of 1838 and when Sir Gilbert Heathcote pulled the saddle off the winner and said he should never run another race, General Peel felt very good over his St. Leger chances at Doncaster. But there he was doomed to run second again, this time to Don John, who won the Doncaster Cup at the same meeting, beating the famous Beeswing and The Doctor. Ion got Wild Dayrell and Poodle, the latter winning the Great Metropolitan; and while Ion was only rated as a second class sire during his lifetime, you can scarcely find a first class horse of to-day that has not a cross of Ion in him.

Passing on from Ion to his best son, Wild Dayrell, we find that his get were decidedly unlucky. Honor (sent afterwards to Australia) was third in Thormanby's Derby at 80 to 1, Wild Agnes was second for the Oaks, while Hurricane, Rumping Girl and Ischia were each third. But it is in the One Thousand Guineas that the ill luck of Wild Dayrell's daughters becomes most apparent, as Hurricane won it in 1862, while Avalanche and Wild Agnes were second and Ischia third, on every occasion, to fillies that were not good enough to win The Oaks. Wild Dayrell was the tallest horse that ever won the Derby till Common carried it off in 1891, being 16½ hands high. He was the most beautiful horse of his day, with a possible exception of the Knight of Kara. The latter became a savage and had to be destroyed, while Wild Dayrell died of heart disease at fifteen years of age. That is why they are so seldom found in modern pedigrees.

HIDALGO.

Takes Dare Devil's Place.

It is announced that The Viceroy has been promoted and will fill the place at the Village Farm that has been occupied by Dare Devil 2:09. He is a grandly bred fellow sired by Mambrino King; dam, Princess Royal (2) 2:20 by Chimes; second dam, Estabella (dam of Heir-at-Law 2:05½, Prince Regent 2:16½ and Princess Royal (2) 2:20, by Alcantara 2:23; third dam, Annabel (dam of Dolly Withers 2:29½) by George Wilkes 2:22; fourth dam, Jessie Pepper (dam of Iona 2:17½, Alpha 2:23½, etc.) by Mambrino Chief. The dam of The Viceroy is full sister of Princess Chimes (the dam of Lady-of-the-Manor 2:04½), and The Viceroy is a full brother of the chestnut trotting stallion, The Earl, that took a record of 2:17 at Hartford, Conn., Sept. 6, 1898.

The Greatest Broodmares.

The table of Great Broodmares which appears in the Year Book is made up first of "mares that have produced two or more trotters with records of 2:30 or better, or two or more pacers with records of 2:25 or better, or one trotter with a record of 2:30 or better and one pacer with record of 2:25 or better; second, mares that have produced one 2:30 trotter or one 2:25 pacer and another son or daughter that has sired or produced a 2:30 trotter or a 2:25 pacer." This table is growing very rapidly, and now fills 170 pages where 48 pages sufficed in 1894. Of the mares that have a place among the Great Broodmares, there are thirty-three that have produced six or more with standard records as follows:

Beautiful Bells by The Moor.....	10
Soprano by Strathmore.....	10
Green Mountain Maid by Harry Clay.....	9
Alma Mater by Mambrino Patchen.....	8
Emeline by Henry B. Patchen.....	8
Lady Yeiser by Garrard Chief.....	8
Lark by Abdallah Mambrino.....	8
Minnehaha by Bald Chief.....	8
Sontag Mohawk by Mohawk Chief.....	8
Belle of Clarence by St. Lawrence.....	7
Charm by Santa Claus.....	7
Dolly Smith by Mambrino Chief, Jr.....	7
Eva by Tippoo Bashaw.....	7
Lady Pepper by Onward.....	7
Miss Russell by Pilot, Jr.....	7
Tecora by C. M. Clay, 22.....	7
Hattie R. by Andy Johnson.....	7
Adele Tyler by Chester.....	6
Belle Dudley by Belmont.....	6
Bicara by Harold.....	6
Crepion by Princeps.....	6
Durango Queen by Durango.....	6
Eye See by Nutwood.....	6
Lady Horton by Sweepstakes.....	6
Lady May by Port Leonard.....	6
Lucia by Jay Gould.....	6
Mamie by Star Almont.....	6
Nellie Lambert by Daniel Lambert.....	6
Primrose by Alexander's Abdallah.....	6
Sue by Thorndale.....	6
Waterwitch by Pilot, Jr.....	6
Winne Wilkes by Red Wilkes.....	6
Young Nellie Haynes by Harry Wise.....	6

It will be noticed by anyone who takes the trouble to look up the pedigrees of the stallions standing for service in California this year that our horses are particularly strong in the blood lines of the very greatest of these great ones. Beautiful Bells, Green Mountain Maid, Alma Mater, Minnehaha, Sontag Mohawk, Miss Russell, Tecora and Bicara are the names of those most familiar to our breeders, while Soprano, dam of ten, has a full brother here in Steinway, the premier of Oakwood Park. The founders of the great stock farms in California were wise in their generation and the fact that they secured so much of the greatest broodmare blood, not only accounts in part for this State's marvelous success in breeding the American trotter, but reflects the greatest credit on their judgment and foresight.

Since Mr. E. H. Harriman lost Stamboul 2:07½, the head of the Arden Farm stallions, he has decided to replace him with his noted pacer, John R. Gentry 2:00½, who is now the sire of Gentry's Treasure 2:10 and Jim Ramey 2:10½. As nearly all of the stock on this farm is by Stamboul, it is believed that the cross with Gentry will produce speed equal to any of the stallions now standing in that section. The placing of Gentry at the head of this farm will retire him from the turf for good.

Trout Fishing Notes.

On Tuesday next the open season, in this State, on trout will commence and from present indications it would seem that the banks of streams within easy reach of this city are destined to be visited by many anglers. Despite the fact that streams are generally known to be high, reports from many sections are indicative of fairly good fishing thus early in the season. Fly-fishing will not prevail to any great extent for a month at least.

The outlook on the streams along the California and Northwestern Railway is excellent, although many streams are high the water is clear and fish are plentiful. In the Mendocino streams the prospects for the 1st are better than has been the case for years.

In Marin county, the Paper Mill creek and tributaries are also reported to be in inviting condition although containing plenty of water.

Advices from the south are favorable to sport next week, from Ben Lomond local sportsmen predict good fishing in all the streams contiguous to that point. The high water during February cleaned out the streams, washing away the drift and other obstructions, enabling the fish to get up stream. In this section are the San Lorenzo river, Newell creek, Love creek, Clear creek and numerous small streams all within a short distance of town where first class accommodations can readily be had.

A report from Boulder creek is encouraging for good fishing on this favorite stream which has a reputation as a good early fishing water.

From Los Gatos word has been received that the indications are good for fishing in that vicinity. Local anglers, however, believe the fishing will commence to be better from and after April 15th as the streams are now rather high. It will probably be a good plan to leave the train at Wrights' or Laurel station and fish down stream as the Los Gatos creek has a number of feeders in that vicinity where trout can be found.

For possibly six weeks most of the fishing will be found in the Coast streams and tributaries. The attractions of the Gualala, Navarro, Noyo, Garcia, Big river and other streams are tempting and will attract a number of anglers during the opening weeks of the season.

Probably, for the present, the best fly-fishing will be found at the head of streams and in their tributaries where the water is lowest. Dark flies, as a rule, will be the most effective lure—the blue bottle, brown and gray hackle, governor, improved governor, March brown, brown wing, black gnat, black ant, coche-y-bondhu are all good early flies. As the season advances, lighter colors will be available, in keeping with the prevailing tones of the insect life on the streams. Some anglers will wade down stream for a long distance, closely observing what insects, etc., are present and which particular kind the fish are feeding on; then from the fly-book is selected the applicable fly or flies and then the fun begins. Other anglers will take a fish any old way and then endeavor to find out what the trout are feeding upon by an examination of the fish's stomach.

A letter from Mr. W. S. La Sells, at Sims, states the scarcity of snow on the surrounding mountains insures low water and is favorable for early fishing. The fishing streams tributary to the Sacramento at that point are Mears, Hazel, Flume and Shotgun creeks. The fish in these creeks, while running rather small, are plentiful and readily take the fly. A report from Upton is to the effect that little fishing in the McCloud is anticipated before April 15th.

From Boca comes word that fishing promises to be good, but hardly before April 15th, the Truckee and adjacent streams being now high and muddy; there is also considerable snow yet in that region. Bait fishing will be good as soon as the snow disappears; fly-fishing will come in with the warm weather. At Truckee, the river is reported to be low and clear. The prospects from Truckee down are quoted as good. At Reno, for those who have the time for a rather long trip, there is at present splendid spoon fishing below the dam; the stream is full of Pyramid lake and rainbow trout, large fish, all in splendid condition.

Fly-Casting.

The fly-casting club members had two pleasant meetings at Stow lake, Saturday and Sunday last. The average of work was excellent, as will be seen by reference to the score below. A noticeable feature of the long distance work is the rapid progress shown by J. B. Kenniff in working up to the top-notchers. Harry Golcher, so far, is next to Champion Mansfield in this event. The general tone of the fly-casting by most of the new beginners shows rapid improvement in the different events. The records made were:

Lake Merritt has recently attracted the attention of striped bass fishermen. The fish have been very plentiful there, feeding, it is believed, on the myriads of small fish found there. At all events a large number of bass have been taken during the last ten days, many of them on hand lines or any old tackle. On Friday last one fisherman caught, with a hand line, a sixteen and a twenty-two pound bass. E. W. Currier and a friend caught six nice bass last Saturday. G. Bliss landed four and F. Carroll six on Sunday. On Monday A. M. Cumming caught two bass, weighing respectively ten and twelve pounds. Messrs. Burlingame and Chadwick, two well known Truckee river experts, propose to have their initial try at clam throwing for bass to-morrow.

Bass fishing is rather trying for fly-fishermen until the style and ways of the bass have become somewhat familiar. In fly-fishing a simple turn of the wrist will hook a trout on the light tackle. With striped bass a good, strong and heavy strike is necessary to fasten the hook in the mouth of the fish. It is also necessary to strike quickly; when the slightest indication of a fish at the clam bait or trolling spoon is shown the angler should be prompt in responding with a strong strike.

The Napa Fish and Game Protective Association held a meeting on the 7th inst. They will request the Fish Commissioners to appoint seven deputies to patrol the streams of Napa county. Friday, Lester Drake, Deputy Fish and Game Warden, and George Saunders were at the dam in Wild Horse Valley, and caught the three Kennedy brothers, who were fishing out of season.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

Entries for the San Francisco Kennel Club show close on April 12th.

A string of twenty-two dogs left on the steamer Pueblo this week destined for the northern show circuit. Jack Bradshaw leaves on Sunday by train with his string of dogs for the north.

Prospects are dim for a Los Angeles show this spring. One reason for the postponement is found in an amusing story now going the rounds concerning two prominent and leading spirits of the southern kennel club. One of the principals is a well known Los Angeles real estate broker, and we believe a comparative novice in matters pertaining to doggy affairs, up to the time of the show last October in Los Angeles. The other party concerned, is well known here as an employee in the office of past shows in this city. This individual was a potent influence for a time in Los Angeles and was apparently an active and valued element in bringing about a most desirable and happy state of affairs in southern dogdom, particularly so with the recruits to the ranks, who of course were in need of information of the right sort—and they doubtless got it in wholesale quantities, or we are not good at guessing. After the October show the two fanciers mentioned announced a partnership in the real estate brokerage business. For awhile everything went on swimmingly with the new firm, when, as was anticipated by those whose experience warranted their entertaining pessimistic views, concerning the permanence of the business alliance, or the uneventful and quiet career of the new comer down south, the expected rupture took place recently. Whatever the merits of the case we are not prepared to say, there were, however, accusations and recriminations and several spicy newspaper notices of the row going on. The Los Angeles man claimed that the disturbing element was of the fair sex and that the business was not prosperous enough to stand an increased and strenuous draft on the financial returns of the firm. The other contended that the Los Angeles man was the wrong-doer in many ways. The two had a lively turn-up in the office one day, the freckle faced member of the firm dodged an ink bottle or two, and beat a hasty retreat from the office. Other matters developing shortly afterwards, induced both individuals to take to the woods and stay there, for both of them are non est, despite some little effort by interested parties to find them.

AT THE TRAPS.

The trap shooting attraction at Ingleside to-morrow will be the merchandise shoot of the Union Gun Club. Six events, two of them merchandise, are on the card. All shooting will be squad shooting, known traps, unknown angles, handicaps from 14 to 20 yards.

Phil B. Bekeart, Otto Feudner and Harvey McMurchy left on Wednesday for Kansas City. They will take part in the Grand American Handicap. It is possible they may reach Kansas City in time to see Elliott and Crosby shoot for the Cast Iron medal.

At Alameda Point last Sunday the Empire Gun Club concluded their first shoot of a series of 5 for the blue rock season. This shoot was postponed from the 9th inst., reports Secretary J. B. Hauer, when weather conditions would not permit the carrying out of the entire program. Club members and visiting sportsmen were out in force and two bulkheads were kept busy all day. A. J. Webb, the club's crack shot, had highest score for the beautiful diamond medal which is offered for this season and he also annexed first money and tied C. C. Juster for highest average for the special handicap gun. R. C. Reed made best score in the Sweeney record medal race for the day. The detailed scores for the several events follow:

Ten bird race—Hodapp 7, 8, 9; Webb 10, 9, 8, 9; Dr. Gere 8; Frank 5, 5; Lepoids 6, 7, 6; Robertson 8, 7, 8, 9; Hauer 8, 9, 8; Reed 5, 5, 6, 7; Van Prooyen 5, 4, 6; Cullen 9, 7, 8; Allen 8, 7; Emigh 5, 7; Leavell 8, 5, 9, 8; Harrison 5, 6, 7, 7; Searles 4, 7, 8.

Doubles, 5 sets—Cullen 7, Reed 8, Swales 6, Searles 4, Hauer 6.

Pool race, 15 targets, $1 entrance—Hodapp 9, Leavell 10, Eish 9, Harrison 7, Swales 9.

First money was won by Leavell, second money was won by Swales after the shooting off of the tie between himself, Fish and Hodapp.

Club championship diamond medal race, 25 birds shot at. The scores in this event also classified for a $15.00 purse which is offered monthly by the club, 20 breaks and over constituted first class, 17 to 19 second class, 14 to 16 third class, and below 14 fourth class—Swales 20, Reed 18, Dr. Gere 12, Hauer 13, Baird 22, Juster 13, Fish 21, Leavell 11, Harrison 13, Allen 11, Webb 23, Cullen 18, Searles 18, Robertson 16, Hodapp 22, Lepoids 14.

The different shooters were arranged in different classes according to their scores in the medal race and the $15 purse was contested for under a distance handicap system ranging from 16 to 22 yards. The different shooters, handicaps and scores were as follows, all shooting being at 25 birds, 15 singles and 5 sets doubles:

First Class—Swales 12, Webb 23, Baird 15, Fish 15, Hodapp 12. Webb having highest score in this class took first money, $6, by making the excellent score of 23 breaks from the 22-yard mark.

Second Class—Reed (18 yards rise), broke 17; Cullen (18), 14; Searles (21), 21. The second class money was divided between the three contestants, each taking $1.50, the scores made will count only for the cuff buttons (gold and silver), which are offered as additional prizes in the money match.

Third Class—Mr. Lepoids being alone in this class took third money, $3, but shot out his score in this event from the 16 yard mark, resulting with 11 breaks to his credit, which likewise will be counted in the cuff button distribution.

Fourth Class—Harrison (16 yards rise), broke 10;

Hauer (20), 13; Dr. Gere (16), 13; Allen (18) 18; Juster (16), 14; Leavell (16), 12. Highest scores in this class was made by Allen, winning the money in the class.

Special handicap prize gun. Shot in 10 singles and doubles, 5 sets—Swales (20 yards rise), broke 10; Juster (18), 15; Reed (18), 12; Dr. Gere (16), 4; Hauer (20), 13; Webb (22), 15; Leavell (16), 11; Harrison (16), 13; Lepoids (16), 5; Searles (18), 12. The highest average for the season in this event wins a repeating shotgun. A. S. Webb and C. C. Juster are tied on highest scores for the day in the match with 15 breaks each to their credit.

Sweeney Record Medal—This medal is offered by the donor for the highest score in this event made at any time during the season of five shoots. Contestants are privileged to enter four times at each shoot during the blue rock season. The peculiar conditions of the match are that for each five consecutive breaks the shooter is handicapped two additional yards until the twenty-yard mark is reached, when doubles are shot at until a bird is missed.

Much interest was taken in the race, but owing to the heavy wind that blew across the traps at intervals during the day few of the shooters cared to make any attempt at record breaking, which will explain why more numerous entries were not recorded. The scores in this event for the day were as follows:

Swales 0, Reed 11, Hauer, Leavell 0, Searles 1, Searles 3, Fish 0, Fish 1, Leavell 1, Swales 0, Hauer 9, Leavell 0. Reed had high score for the day with Hauer a close second.

The Golden Gate Gun Club shoot at Ingleside last Sunday was conducted under favorable auspices, weather conditions and a choice lot of birds were both factors in making the sportsmen enjoy the day. Twenty-eight men, club members and guests, faced the traps in the opening event, the club race at fifteen live pigeons. Those who killed their full quota of the birds were G. H. T. Jackson, A. R. Jackson, Harvey McMurchy, W. B. Murdock and C. C. Nauman. The purse given by the club was divided by Murdock, G. and A. R. Jackson and Nauman. Gold bars were won by the five shooters mentioned on the straight scores. In the club race, silver bars, for a run of twelve straight, were won by "Will" Golcher, "Phil" Bekeart, Fred Feudner and Ed Donohoe. In a "miss and out" shoot following, thirteen men entered. On the twelfth round Bekeart, McMurchy, Otto Feudner, Nauman, Murdock and Forster were tied on straights of a dozen birds each. These shooters then divided the purse, thus allowing a new event to be started, in which a number of shooters who were on the anxious seat, after losing one bird, commenced afresh. The five shooters mentioned all won silver bars on the straight run of twelve birds. In a six-bird pool following, McMurchy, George Jackson, C. G. Creyk, a well known Illinois trap shot from Chicago, who had a lenient handicap at twenty-eight yards; C. H. Shaw, A. R. Jackson and "Eg" Forster divided the pool money on clean scores. Dr. McConnell and W. L. Gerstle also made straight scores in this shoot. In another six-bird pool, George Jackson, McMurchy and A. M. Shields killed straight. In this race the shooters who dropped five pigeons were in a 20 per cent division of the pool; they were M. O. Feudner, C. H. Shaw, A. R. Jackson and "Eg" Forster.

A third six-bird pool was shot, Feudner, Shields and Forster dividing the purse. Shaw and Shields tried their skill, after the club shooting, at double birds. A number of guests shot with the club members in the various events. A noticeable feature of the day's shooting was the clever work of E. E. Drake, who is comparatively a novice at trap shooting, particularly live bird work. The best average gun of the day was McMurchy's, who lost but one bird out of forty-three shot at. C. G. Creyk, the Eastern crack, has a showy style of quickly using his second barrel. His rapidity of fire was as unavailing later in the day as it was effective during his first contests. He was a victim of shooter's luck, as he is a very clever artist with a shotgun.

The birds, as a rule, supplied during the day were remarkably good, few pigeons being refused by the shooters. Starter "Dick" Dwyer, who shot as a club guest, dropped several birds that were phenomenally swift. The same distances at which the shooters stood in the club race prevailed in the subsequent matches.

Club race, 15 pigeons, distance handicap, $20 added, 50, 30 and 20% to high guns—

The "Antlers Gun Club" held the first shoot of the season two weeks ago at the Lincoln Gun Club grounds, on Alameda Point. This club is an organization composed of members of the Oakland Lodge of Elks and its officers are: President, Joseph Ghirardelli, Vice-President, Max Schleuter; Secretary and Treasurer, Jack Matthews; Manager, W. B. Jeffrey.

The principal race of the day was the initial shoot for a medal given by J. Col. Ewing. The trophy will be won by the high average shooter in six 25 target scores during the season. Two back scores may be shot up. State Senator Frank Leavitt and Joseph Ghirardelli made the highest scores. The scores were:

First event, 25 targets—Leavitt 18, Ghirardelli 18, J. Matthews 12, Carman 13, Duboise 14, Landon 17.

Second event, 10 targets—Carman 8, Jeffrey 5, J. Ghirardelli 8, Landon 8, Leavitt 5, Ghirardelli Jr. 6.

Third event, 10 targets—Matthews 5, White 4, Brown 6, Carman 4, Jeffrey 5, J. Orr 7.

Fourth event, 15 targets, 5 sets, doubles, 5 singles—Duboise 9, Carman 8, White 4, Landon 12, J. Orr 8, J. Matthews 9.

Those Awful Sea Lions Again.

Cannery men and fishing interests of the North Pacific coast are considering methods for the extermination of the sea lions which infest the salmon and halibut fisheries of the Pacific ocean and annually destroy millions of commercial fish.

Through a study of the habits of the sea lion the rather peculiar fact has been established that they live almost exclusively off the livers of the fish they capture, leaving the rest of the carcass for other denizens of the deep. Manager Sterling of the New England Halibut Company of Tacoma who has given the matter attention, says there are approximately 4000 sea lions on the halibut banks of Northern British Columbia alone, and he estimates that this band of deep sea marauders destroy 3,000,000 fine merchantable halibut every year, each of which would bring $10 in the English market. Though the lions contain a great deal of oil, some of them weighing 2000 pounds, and have thick, waterproof marketable hides, no one hunts them as a profession. The big brutes are easily slaughtered, showing no more fight than a cow, and a man, by keeping himself out of sight and roaring on the beach, can attract a lion within ten yards of him. At night the monsters make a roaring noise at their rookeries that is appalling. Mr. Sterling believes the sea lion is the natural enemy of the halibut, and will in time exterminate them, unless they are exterminated by the Government placing a bounty on their heads.

The above press dispatch is a sample of the specious arguments used time and again to divert public attention from the real cause of the gradually decreasing fish supply, salmon as well as other fish—and that is the innumerable canneries and the extraordinary demand which they have for fish during the canning season. It will be remembered that about one year ago there was proposed a raid upon the sea lions in and around San Francisco bay. The fish packers gave the seals and sea lions a hard name as fish destroyers and desired to fit out a vessel with an armed crew who were to be employed in the slaughter of sea lions at the various rookeries on the California coast. Luckily most of the resorts for these animals were under Government control and permission to carry on the work of extermination was refused, the packing people however gained their point to a certain extent, by diverting public attention from their own wholesale methods of fish extermination to an alleged poacher and destroyer. At one time last year fresh salmon was quoted at 20 and 25 cents a pound in the local fish markets. The reason for this almost prohibitive price to the people who buy fish for food, was, that as fast as the salmon were caught, anywhere from the Carquinez straits to the upper waters of the Sacramento and San Joaquin, they were shipped off in carloads to Chicago.

Scientific investigation has shown conclusively that the seals and sea lions have been undeservedly given a hard reputation. It is the truth that they undoubtedly do catch fish and possibly eat all or some portions of fish caught. The writer of this has often, whilst surf fishing, seen the animals with fish, but that they do the enormous amount of damage alleged, is a question that has been conclusively refuted. The fish find their graves in the millions of tins provided for them by the fish canneries.

The Oryx.

Of all the varieties of antelope which roam over the sandy plains of Africa, the oryx is one of the finest and most sought after by sportsmen. He stands between eleven and twelve hands at the withers, with massive neck and shoulders, beautiful clean legs and well shaped delicately turned hoofs. His horns are long and straight, measuring between 30 and 40 inches on a good bull, while those of the female, though thinner are often of a still greater length. A thoroughbred all over, no wonder that he is hunted as he is, his flesh being the most delicious meat of any of the African antelopes, while his skin, especially that off the chest, is used by the natives to cover their shields and to make their shoes.

The oryx are fond of open ground, preferring low scrub to thick bush, and roam in vast herds over the open plains. Observe them through field glasses and you will see the majority grazing at their ease, some chasing each other, others bolting from one in play, and often in earnest, while on such side of the herd a few watchful females, with heads erect and forefoot on some ant hill observe the surrounding country.

On them rests the safety of the herd, a responsibility which they seem to realize fully, for it is almost impossible, without a fair amount of cover, to get within a quarter of a mile of these wily animals. On the slightest alarm, the female sentries stamp their feet, the whole herd look up, every eye directed at once on the approaching danger, a moment's consultation and they are off. Led by some wary old male, they canter away at a long swinging pace, until they think that they are out of danger. A few miles is nothing to them, and they always like to be on the safe side in leaving their enemy far behind.

Nature has provided them with a skin almost exactly the color of the bush in which they live. It is of a yellowish fawn color relieved on the face and legs by patches of black. Often when looking at them in the heat of the day, when there is a sort of haze over the surface of the plain, these latter black spots and the long slanting black horns with an occasional glimpse of a white belly is all that one can distinguish from the surrounding bush.

From the above short description, it will be understood why the oryx is such a difficult animal to approach, a d what a lot of hard work its pursuit entails.

Standing as they do in open country, one has to commence the stalk about a mile from the herd, then utilizing every scrap of bush or tuft of long grass, with care it is often possible to approach unobserved to within a quarter of a mile. By this time the suspicions of the vigilant sentries are probably aroused. Every eye is turned towards one, and the only thing to do is to lie quiet for sufficient time to allay their suspicions. Perhaps there is an ant-pillar or a clump of bush between you and the herd, which by careful crawling and a judicious sprint you may possibly reach.

Now within three hundred yards of the oryx, there is little hope of approaching nearer. From this point a shot is generally taken. According to the native hunters, sportsmen manage to get in three or four shots before the herd is out of range, and some men have been known to empty their magazines into the retreating beasts, but I will not enlarge on such unsportsman-like performances.

Three hundred yards is a long shot at a vital spot, so the animal more often than not goes away wounded. One has heard the answering thud of the bullet, yet the herd canter off without a single one showing signs of having been hit. One follows them up for a few miles, when the tracks of one is separated from the rest. The animal has evidently headed toward that clump of thorn trees a quarter of a mile on the right, and will be very likely lying down behind it. The tracks lead there straight enough, but on arrival at the bush, the wounded oryx can be seen cantering easily off over the open plain. There is a certain amount of blood on the trail and a few splashes on the bushes through which he passes, here and there some half-digested grass has been vomited up, all tending to show that the poor brute was hit too far back instead of just behind the shoulder. Anxious to put the animal out of pain, one plods along the trail in the hopes that the wounded oryx will have lain down and not be able to rise again. Generally, if there is plenty of cover, one can overtake and finish the animal off after a few miles chase, but sometimes after ten or twelve miles night put an end to the pursuit, and one has to leave the wounded creature to the mercy of lions and hyenas during the ensuing darkness.

Snipe Shooting in China and Burmah.

China, a country consisting to a great extent of well irrigated rice fields, ought to be an ideal country for snipe. For some reason, however, except at the regular period of migration, they seem to avoid remaining for long in this thickly populated country, and prefer to continue their journey southward to the fields and swamps of Burmah and Siam. No doubt the density of the population is sufficient to account for the comparative scarcity of game of all sorts in China. At all times of the year, from early dawn till sunset, the fields are swarming with the indefatigable Chinese cultivators hoeing, ploughing, irrigating. Even when the crops are growing they seem to find plenty of occupation in weeding, and in collecting roots and snails or other edible delicacies.

It is not altogether to be wondered at then that the snipe, who are naturally of a retiring disposition and revel in solitude, avoid the feeding grounds of China and hasten on to the quieter regions of the South.

There is little or no waste land in China, every inch is cultivated if possible. Only occasionally where the land is so low that floods and inundations make the risk of planting it too great, it is allowed to raise its own natural crop of coarse grass and rushes. It is only in such places, and the sedgy margins of the numerous lakes that snipe and wild fowl have any chance of being left undisturbed.

Twice a year, however, about the middle of May and again in September, snipe make up for their absence by appearing in large numbers on their journey between their feeding grounds in the South and their breeding places in the North. At these times they may be found anywhere and everywhere, in fact they seem to prefer the high dry bean crops to the lower lying marsh lands. On their journey northwards they are fat and lazy and often lie very close, but, curiously enough, when they rise one misses the familiar warning chirp, and, in consequence, they have often flown silently away before being observed when walking through a beanfield with the plants two feet high and in full flower. Spring snipe shooting is comparatively easy work. The birds get up more like small owls than snipe, much after the fashion of the "painters" of India and often only flop away a short distance if not fired at.

Spring snipe shooting in the neighborhood of Shang hai is certainly quite a new experience, writes a correspondent of The Asian. One must put away all preconceived ideas of snipe and of likely places in which to find them. One goes out in a comfortable house-boat, which sails or is towed up the numerous canals and creeks, past hundreds of other junks and sampans. On either side of the creek as far as the eye can see, are undulating plains of corn and beans, intercepted by well to do looking farms and villages surrounded by trees and bamboo clumps and with now and then a few acres of mulberry closely cropped to a height of about eight feet. Such is the usual landscape in this part of China. One tires of the endless crops, of the neatly cultivated gardens, of the square-sailed junks and of the independent looking blue bloused natives. One longs instead, for a wild looking deserted marsh teeming with bird life, for the open expanse of water in which can be seen ducks and divers at rest, for the high beds of rushes which may hold great possibilities of sport. One longs even for the useless but picturesque denizens of the marsh, the pond herons, paddy birds and gulls. There is no room for them in China where dwell some 400 millions of human beings.

But to return to the house-boat, which is now moored alongside the bank with a view to trying a fine looking crop of beans. We get out and walk up to the bean field, as if we were walking up partridges in the turnips at home and return to the boat with two couple of great fat snipe, which rose silently in front of us and went away like woodcock in the open. Thus on to another field of beans or rape, the latter looking like a sea of yellow and forming a pleasing contrast to the dark green foliage of the beans and the lighter green of the corn. Shooting from a house-boat is the height of luxury. One carries everything one wants wherever one goes, or rather follows at a very convenient distance. No need for a long walk or ride back in the evening, before a dry change of clothes and a meal can be obtained; he has only to step on board to rest, or lunch or escape a shower of rain. There is never any necessity to go more than half a mile from the boat. Is it possible that some sportsmen miss the hardship and prefer the rougher and more energetic ways of shooting? Perhaps it is. Let me now try and describe how we made a short expedition to one of the above mentioned low-lying waste lands with the hopes of finding some resident winter snipe as well as duck and teal.

Leaving Shanghai towards the end of March, 1900, in a comfortable house-boat, we were towed about 50 miles up the So-chow creek to a small town called So Co Pan. Here the launch left us, and we proceeded southwards along a smaller creek to the Si-tai lake. The wind was against us, so our progress was necessarily slow. Six coolies worked the large single oar in the stern of the boat or "yulohed" her along at the rate of about 2½ miles an hour. As we approached the region of the great lake the whole country became a network of creeks, the banks of which had been built up with the dredgings from the bottom to the height of about six feet. The whole of this land, now so well and carefully cultivated, had been reclaimed from the water. The fields had been raised and the creeks deepened in the course of ages of toil and labor. We could see the process still going on. There were numerous, open sampans, on which stood three men dredging up the mud with what looked like large lining nets. As soon as a boat was full of the liquid mud, up went the sail and away they went to their own particular field, where the mud was thrown out on the bank and allowed to dry before being used as top dressing. It struck us that the fact of there being river mud all over the fields may have been a reason why the migrating snipe so much prefer the highly lying crops of beans and rape. At intervals along the creek were prosperous looking farm houses close to which were cherry trees with the lovely pink blossom in full bloom. In a high tree, overhanging each was the usual magpie's nest, while at the water's edge were as a rule old women washing clothes and nude children playing about. It was only in the villages which we passed that the inhabitants evinced any interest in us. Here crowds of the younger members of the village population used to run along the side of our creek, which was also the main street, shout and laugh at us. Sometimes when going underneath bridges they would throw things down or spit at us. How little they realized here that Peking was in the hands of the barbarians and that their Emperor had fled. It would have been no use to have told them as they would not believe it.

About 10 A. M. on a lovely, cool spring morning we moored the house-boat near what looked like miles and miles of marshy flats extending away to the lake. At last thought we, a really wild part of China, but on closer scrutiny with the glasses we could detect numerous men and children scattered about collecting water snails and digging for fish in the mud holes. Everywhere, too, could be seen the tall ugly sails of the square-nosed junks as they hurried about the creeks. We spent a couple of days tramping over these flats, with a sampan in attendance to ferry us across the creeks. It looked perfect snipe ground, just wet and marshy enough, the grass not too high. In a few patches we found birds fairly plentiful, but altogether sport was very disappointing. The snipe were poor and thin, and when once roused and missed flew a great distance. It was easy, however, to mark them down and then to follow them up in the sampan. Thus out-manoeuvring nearly every bird we saw we could only account for some ten couple a day and a few gargary teal. Out in the open waters of the lake were thousands of duck and teal, but only at night would they venture in, to feed in the creeks. With the exception of a few dabchicks, red-breasted mergansers, white-ringed crows, magpies, a single hen harrier and a white-headed eagle there were no birds to be seen. In a word the place had the appearance of having been shot out, and yet it is seldom that a shot is ever fired there. So much for the winter snipe, let us leave them and return to their fatter and more bulky comrades, the migrating birds of spring. Let us transfer the scene from the beanfields of Central China to the ricefields in the vicinity of Peking.

We arrived at, perhaps, the most lovely spot in China, the Summer palace of Peking, about the middle of May and forthwith proceeded to shoot snipe. The Palace is situated some ten miles north of the city, well away from the smells and dust of that not too savory of places; and consists of a beautiful series of buildings on the side of a rocky hill with a lovely lake at its feet. The buildings are roofed with tiles of Imperial yellow and green, every one of which is in itself a work of art, and the lake is unbanked with white marble. The whole is enclosed by a high wall through which sluices are cut to enable the cultivators of the surrounding district to draw on the waters of the lake for irrigation purposes. Outside the wall all is paddy field and at this particular time the young rice shoots were just being transplanted. For the past fortnight snipe had been plentiful and good bags of ten to twenty couple in an evening had been made by the officers quartered near the Palace. One had not far to go to obtain sport, for snipe were to be found even alongside the house lines close to the barracks occupied by the men. The shooting was very pleasant, one walked along the ridges separating the fields from which the birds rose. The only difficulty was to distinguish snipe from the multitude of sandpipers, redshanks, dunlins, etc., with which the whole place swarmed. Added to this there was always a good chance of peppering one of the Chinamen working up to his knees in the mud and water.

For one short week the sport lasted, the snipe getting scarcer and more fat and lazy every day. By June 1st not a bird was to be seen, even the sandpipers had left for their breeding haunts in the north. A few showers of rain and what had been an ugly expanse of mud became a sea of that beautiful light green peculiar to rice, while even the ridges were covered with sprouting beans. Situated near the lake are many large ponds full of high rushes and lotus plants, which in winter afford cover to thousands of duck, but which now have no other feathery inmates than a few kingfishers and dabchicks, and over which during the month of June might be seen gyrating in the air dozens of those rare and graceful birds "sooty terns."

How subdued the natives of these parts look in comparison with the more truculent inhabitants of the Yangtze Valley. Here they have learnt a lesson which they are not likely to forget. They have realized that at the game of war at any rate the "barbarians" are their superiors. They have seen Peking evacuated by their Emperor and Court, and they see the famous Summer Palace occupied by Sikhs, Italians and British gunners. They treat one with respect as one goes along and get out of one's road with alacrity. The women, too, poor things, flee at our approach, no doubt mistaking us for French or Germans.

One realizes, however, that as soon as the troops are withdrawn, everything will soon return to its normal state. Perhaps the snipe will have a quieter time in the future than they have had during the last year. It is doubtful whether anyone would dare to fire at them within hearing of the dreaded Empress Dowager in the Summer Palace.

Happier was the lot of another sportsman who loved snipe shooting and who luckily was stationed in a district where he was able to indulge his penchant for sport afield with the gun. Some reminiscences in this respect, whereof the scene was laid in Burma, "on the road to Mandalay" possibly, are given in a happy vein below.

My lot is at present cast in a dry and thirsty land where few or no snipe are, so that the rapid approach of the cold weather, whilst it brings back to memory many a good day's sport obtained amongst the long bills in past years, yet makes one wish to change one's present surroundings for a more suitable locality, and somewhat envious of those whose good fortune it is to dwell within reach of jhil and paddy field.

My first experience of snipe shooting in the East was in the land of the Pagoda, the country par excellence for this fascinating sport. At a small station in Upper Burma where I spent nearly three years (I wish I could get back there again!) we used to have most capital sport, from the time the snipe arrived until the end of the cold season. It was often possible to make a very fair bag almost within the limits of the station, but the great fun used to be to make up a party of three or four convivial souls, and proceed for a week end to a place about seven or eight miles out. Here, by the roadside, was a dak bungalow, the half way house between our station, which was the headquarters of the district, and an important police outpost. The bungalow being fully furnished, and well kept up by government for the use of the district officers, made a perfect shooting-box, and all one had to do, when on a few days' recreation bent, was to send out guns, bedding and servants some hours ahead, and to ride out after the day's work was done, arriving in time to get a little sport close by before sunset. Next day, being up betimes, we used generally to visit the numerous tanks, which throughout the cold weather were always frequented by great numbers of duck and teal, and, having bagged as many of these as we would, or could, returned to the bungalow for breakfast, after which we spent the rest of the day in snipe shooting, which of course was the main attraction.

I have somewhere seen it stated that painted snipe are never found in any considerable number in one place, yet, not far from this bungalow there was a long stretch of marshy ground, very rough and broken, with deep pools of water, long grass and rushes in plenty. In this place, every year, painted snipe were more than plentiful. They are poor birds to shoot, though very beautiful to look at, and, of course, for culinary purposes are not to be compared to the snipe proper, so we very seldom visited this piece of ground, or shot them. On one occasion, however, a friend of mine, who had only just come out to the country, shot fourteen couple of painted snipe in an afternoon at this place, and might have trebled his bag had he wished to do so. In India, certainly, I have but seldom seen more than three or four "painters" in one piece of ground, and generally have found them decidedly scarce, so why they should have been so plentiful in this particular marsh has always been somewhat of a puzzle to me.

I remember one Christmas we had some real good sport whilst staying at this place. Two great friends of mine joined me at the bungalow on Christmas eve, and we had just time after they arrived to shoot some duck, as they flighted on to a tank near the house. We concealed ourselves behind some bushes near the water, and had only been waiting a few minutes when the duck began to come in. First of all a few birds singly, and in twos and threes, came up, and some were bagged; then a few minutes passed without any fresh arrivals, and it began to grow dusk, after which the fun was fast and furious, as, apparently quite indifferent to the report of the guns, the duck came swishing overhead in flights of fifteen and twenty at a time, and sometimes many more. As soon as it became too dark to shoot, which was very shortly, we picked up all the birds we could find, some ten or twelve couple and returned to dinner. Next morning was cold and raw, and we let the sun get well up in the heavens before we thought of beginning our Christmas-day sport. However, the important business of breakfast being got over, we started off by about ten o'clock and went to a chain of tanks a couple of miles off to shoot some duck, which, like the Irishman's trout, "simply swarmed." We kept well under cover of a high embankment which bounded the lower end of the first tank we came to, and sent some Burmans, who accompanied us, to go round to the far side of the water and put up the duck. They rose with a "mighty whirring" of wings and came over us, but very high up, so that S. and I, with our twelve bores, could do them no harm. The wily M., however, who was but a very poor snipe shot, had determined to wipe our eyes in the duck shooting line, and had borrowed a double eight-bore from somewhere, as S. and I fired he discharged both barrels of this ponderous piece of ordnance well into the brown of the duck, and brought down about half a dozen at one swoop.

The same sort of performance was repeated at the next tank, to the huge delight of M. and our disgust, whereupon we left him to bombard the duck, whilst we ourselves went in search of the long bills. There was no need to go far, for just below the bund of the first tank was a long stretch of swampy, uncultivated land, in which the snipe lay very thick. Up and down we went for the best part of an hour and a half, and enjoyed as good shooting as one could well wish for. The birds were not too wild, but rose just as one likes them to and in twos and threes, instead of in great wisps, as snipe so often do when plentiful. By the time we finished this bit of ground we had over thirty couple of snipe between us, and among my bag was a jack snipe, which was the only individual of that species I saw, or heard of, in three seasons shooting in this district.

Our next move was to some sugarcane cultivation, where we found plenty of snipe, especially where the ground was thinly planted, and the canes short. I have often noticed how very fond of sugarcane fields snipe are, and have frequently found the birds very thick among the canes, when hardly any could be flushed among the surrounding jhils and paddy fields.

While shooting among this sugarcane I very nearly wounded an old Burmese lady who was working in the field, the shot must have gone very close, for the old beldame rose up in a great hurry with a most appalling screech, she was easily pacified however, and quite understood it was an accident that the shot went near her.

I remember a few seasons ago in India that a friend of mine, while out snipe shooting with me, peppered an old man, who was in the way somehow.

We did not see him until we heard a dismal howl, and found him rubbing his legs which had been struck by only very few of the pellets, so he was more frightened than hurt. In this case the judicious application of a rupee smoothed matters down, and a week afterwards on shooting over the same ground, we found our old friend grinning at the boundary of his field, with most of his relations placed at intervals round the ancestral property, I suppose waiting to be shot and fed!

However, it is not pleasant to pepper the cultivators while shooting over their ground, and with care one should always be able to avoid doing so. Later on in the morning S. and I came across M., who having made havoc among the duck, was, like ourselves, en route to a phoongyi, Kyoung, whither we had sent out our tiffin.

While walking along a paddy bund I met a Burman, looking very pleased, and carrying an enormous rat of some sort: this rodent, he informed me, was going to make him a meal. What will the Burmans not eat? I have known them devour the carcasses of ponies, which had died of disease, and we have seen a keen competition for the half putrid remains of a jungle cat, found lying in a thicket when beating for partridges, so I fancy there is not much that will turn the stomach of these curious people!

Having finished lunch, and had a smoke, and a chat with the phoongyis, we turned homewards, and finally arrived at the bungalow about five in the afternoon, laden with as many snipe and duck as we knew how to dispose of.

That night we three had a right merry Christmas dinner, and the next day after a few hours among the snipe we rode back to headquarters. Since leaving Burma I have had many a good day's snipe shooting, but have never found them in such numbers anywhere I have been in India, as I used to in the land of the Pagoda.

Swine Notes.

So far as is possible the male should always be thoroughbred and it is not best to use a cross-bred male under any conditions.

A solution of a gill of carbolic acid in a bucket of water sprinkled over the floor of the pig pen will be found a good disinfectant.

Be sure that the brood sow is straight and heavy in limb, short in face and nose, heavy in jaw with good heart and flank measurements.

Sows should be in good, growing thrifty condition when bred. They should not be fat nor kept fat after breeding, but growing nicely. Fat sows give weak pigs.

Hogs should always have a sufficient supply of salt, ashes and charcoal where they can help themselves. Keep it in a box under shelter and never let the supply entirely run out. There is no danger of their eating too much, for their own craving will measure that.

The objection to allowing feed to stand before stock all the time is that they will select that which they like best and unless the food is supplied very liberally when the better part is eaten what is left becomes unpalatable and is rejected even before the animal's appetite is fully satisfied, for palatableness is very much a measure of the food likely to be consumed.

When pigs are young, keep the sow in a pen six by eight feet for twenty-four hours. For the first week let the sow run in the pasture, but keep the pigs in the pen. She will go back to them at noon. After suckling she may be allowed to go out in the pasture again in the afternoon. When ten days to two weeks old they can run in the pasture along with the sow. Never let young pigs run in the wet grass.

Profits of a Dairy Farm.

At the annual convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, held January 9th, at Whitby, Canada, Mr. Joseph Gould, of Uxbridge, gave some telling figures from the record of his own herd last year. No. 1 cow gave 7253 pounds of milk; No. 2, 7271; No. 3, 5618; No. 4, 9015 pounds and No. 5, the banner animal, 9359 pounds of milk in the year. These yields were difficult of credence to the meeting, in view of the fact that the average yield in the province is 3000 pounds of milk per cow, but Mr. Gould substantiated them with documentary proofs. He had attained these results by carefully watching the work of each individual animal, and his minimum was 5000 pounds of milk per annum, for a yield of less meant no profit. Feeding with bran was essential every day in the year, and also ensilage. He did not pay any cash for his bran, as he had traded his growth of oats for what his cows consumed, and his crop of corn from seventeen acres gave him 235 tons for the silo, which was all that he required. The result of all this was that on a farm of 110 acres he corned fifty-two head of cattle, bought his stock hogs and fed them, and made last season over and above all expenses $1500 clear profit.

$1000 to the Two-year-old Pacers }
$7000 to the Three-year-old Trotters } AT FALL MEETING, 1905

In the two-year-old trot the winner will receive $1000, the second $500, the third $200, the fourth $100 and $200 will go to nominator of winner's dam.

In the three-year-old trot the winner will get $4500, the second $1500, the third $500, the fourth $200 and $200 will go to the nominator of winner's dam.

In the pacing race $500 will go to the winner, $250 to the second, $150 to the third and $100 to fourth.

Entrance as follows: $5 to nominate April 14, 1902; $10 December 1, 1902; when color and sex of foal must be given. Nothing more till June 1st of year of race, and all foals on which payments (of $10 each) are made December 1, 1902, will be eligible to start either as two-year-olds or three-year-olds or in both years (if conditions that follow are complied with, no payment being due in 1904 from those not wishing to start till 1905. Those expecting to start two-year-olds must, on June 1, 1904, name and describe their entries and pay on each a forfeit of $15, and as many may be named as the owner desires to keep in. Thirty days before meeting those who desire to start in trotting race shall pay $20 on each entry they then keep in, and those who desire to start in pacing race shall pay $10 each on each entry they then keep in, and on pacers $15, must be paid by 7 o'clock on evening before race. Those desiring to start three-year-olds must, on June 1, 1905, name and describe as in the two-year-old event and pay on each a forfeit of $35; thirty days prior to the meeting on each of those who start $35 must be paid, and on starters $70 must be paid by 7 o'clock of evening before the race.

The two-year-old races will be mile heats, best two in three; but the three-year-olds will trot mile heats, three in five.

A distance of horse's money will go to the first horse, but if fewer than three start in a race, those starting and the winner's dam will receive only what each would have received had three been placed. Rules of American Trotting Association to govern.

If a mare proves barren, or slips, or has a dead foal or twins, or if either the mare or foal dies before December 1, 1902, her nominator may substitute another mare or foal, regardless of owner ship; but there will be no return of a payment, nor will any entry be liable for more than amount paid in. In entries, the name, color and pedigree must be given, also the name of the horse to which she was bred in 1901. Send entries to Work of Agricultural Colleges.

Not only in the field of education and instruction have the land-grant colleges rendered service of incalculable value, but the experiment stations have worked directly for the farmer in helping to solve problems of vital and practical interest. The experiment stations have set on foot investigations, revealed the truth, and pointed out the way to rational methods and better agriculture. This work, like the college work, was inaugurated at the expense of the national government, and thus far in the most of states the funds have been derived chiefly from that source. It is now incumbent upon the states to provide funds for work that lies so close to the material welfare and prosperity of the people and to strengthen the facilities for investigation and instruction in agriculture in accord with the present demands.

There is no longer any uncertainty about the attitude of the people toward these institutions or their appreciation of their work. Not only are the farm boys going to college for training for practical agriculture, but about 400 farmers have been at the Iowa Agricultural College recently to attend the special course in stock and grain judging, and 100 more practical and experienced men were there at the same time for instruction in advanced dairy work. The agricultural colleges appeal to the practical man because it helps him in his work, because it "pays dividends in gold."—Oregon Agriculturist.

Locations for Poultry.

Do not have too many fowls. Some enterprising amateur gets an acre of ground, puts on it a large number of fowls, and when the chickens come on in summer all goes well for a time; but about the second or third year a change comes, disease breaks out and many die, so the venture fails; yet a tenth part of the birds might have paid well. Overfeeding is bad, and is all the worse when there is not plenty of exercise. Hens neither lay nor sit well when they are overfed. Another cause of loss is keeping the birds on damp, cold ground. Dampness is liable to, and does, cause many of the complaints from which the birds suffer. Gravelly ground answers best, but other ground with more moisture in it may be made healthy by proper draining.—Pacific Harvester.

Exporting Fine Dairy Cattle.

The Pierce Land and Stock Company of Stockton has just shipped from its Riverside ranch on Rough and Ready island twenty-two head of fine cattle by the steamer Guatemala to Central America, where they are to be used for dairy purposes. There were three very fine heifers among these animals, namely: Star Flower Princess, No. 49,646; Lady Oleaner, No. 48,629, and Frankette Blanco, No. 50,968. There was also a fine young bull sired by Sylvanus de Kol, dam Legal Tender. This company is having a much larger demand for its stock than it cares to supply. It proposes to bring here the coming spring some of the finest specimens that can be found in the best of Eastern herds.

The Eastern merino, which has been bred with a view to crossing out the wrinkles, has evidently fallen down. At the recent annual meeting of the Michigan merino sheep breeders' association, Mr. Wood, the leading merino breeder of that State, said: "I believe we have made a mistake in breeding the American merinos as we have in the past. We have no nut-ton sheep in them. We want a big, plain sheep. We want the sheep that will sell. I have had no home trade for American merinos since 1893 and but little foreign trade."

A Mule's Colt.

A freak was born last week at the ranch of W. G. Grummett, near Grayson. The freak is a mule's colt. Mr. Grummett had a large number of reputable people see the mule for several days past, and all pronounce the maternity genuine. The colt was alive and well to-day, and gives promise of living, though it would be a most rare occurrence if it should be the case. Mr. Grummett will exhibit the freak.—Modesto News.

SEYMOUR WILKES

REG. NO. 0232.

Race Record 2:08 1-2

The Fastest Son of Guy Wilkes

Will make the Season of 1902 at

Lakeville, Sonoma Co., Cal.

SEYMOUR WILKES earned his record in a hard fought race and was a game race horse. The oldest of his get are five-year-olds, and no horse in California can show a greater proportion of large, handsome, strongly built and well-boned colts. They all look alike and in nearly every instance are square trotters. The only one that has been trained is Joe Eviston (3-2:22 in 1901).

SEYMOUR WILKES is by Guy Wilkes his dam Early Bird by Playmail; second dam by Odd Fellow, third dam by a son of Williamson's Belmont, fourth dam by Blackhawk 767. He weighs 1200 pounds, stands 16 hands high and is one of the most symmetrical horses in California. Several of his get are in San Francisco and will be shown to prospective breeders with pleasure.

Terms for the Season, $40. Mares not proving in foal can be returned next year by paying steamer Gold. Pasturage $3 per month. For further particulars apply to THOS. ROCHE, Lakeville, Sonoma Co., or J. W. GREGORY, St. George Stables, 406 Bush Street, San Francisco.

NEIL W. 30371

By GUY WILKES, dam VERONICA 2:29 by Alcona 730; second dam, Fontana (dam of Silas Skinner 2:17, Flora Belle 2:25, etc.) by Almont 33; next dam Fanny Williams by Abdallah 15; next dam by Denmark, thoroughbred.

STAM B. 23444

RECORD 2:11 $\frac{1}{4}$. By STAMBOUL 5101, a trotting and show king; dam, Belle Medium 2:30, a great brood mare by Happy Medium, sire of the great all-around mare, Nancy Hanks 2:04, and other great ones; second dam by the handsome sire Almont Lightning (sire of the dam of Zombro 2:11 and other great all-in-all animals, both on the turf and in the show rings; third dam by that sire of game, sound, handsome animals, Mambrino Patchen 58; fourth dam by that speed producing sire, Mambrino Chief 11; fifth dam by that stylish and long distance racing horse, Mason's Whip.

STAM B. is a fine and substantial upstanding bay, 15.3 hands tall, weighs 1100 pounds, and now rightly ranks among the most promising young sires of the land. That he is now in public service in California is a fact for which breeders may be grateful. He is already proving a sire of speed and gameness, together with size, superb style and high action, transmitting these qualities to every foal regardless of dam. He is acknowledged by all who have seen him to be very near the real and ideal race horse and all-around sire. His racing qualities were beyond criticism, and all close observers know that in his blood are represented the kings and queens of the trotting turf and show rings.

Terms for the Season, $40.

Payable at the end of June, with return privilege. Reduced rates to any one person breeding over three mares. Pasturage for mares, $4 per month. Freight must be prepaid on all mares. Season commences February 1st and ends August 1, 1902. No responsibility assumed for accidents or escapes.

He is not only a great racehorse, getting his record, 2:10, in a fourth heat, but he is a grand individual of rare finish, gentle disposition, best of legs and feet and his get are all of good size, good looks and extreme speed. He is a bay horse 15 $\frac{1}{2}$ hands, weighs 1050 pounds and is standard by breeding, performance and produce.

PISTOL Reg. No. 28884

Sire LANCELOT 2:23, sire of 10 in 2:30, which is more than his half brother, Electioneer, had at same age. Dam PEPEROMIA by Alcantara.

PISTOL 28884, five years old, solid black 15.2 $\frac{1}{4}$ hands, weighs 1075 pounds. One of the hand-somest and best individuals ever brought to California. He is a remarkably well turned horse, gentle disposition, rare intelligence and possesses extreme speed. His colts are universally black, good size, extra good limbs and stylish. He has only one colt that is 2 years old, and they all show great speed.

The above horses will make the Season of 1902 from February 1st, at the

$2000 to the Two-year-old Trotters } AT FALL MEETING, 1904
$1000 to the Two-year-old Pacers }
$7000 to the Three-year-old Trotters } AT FALL MEETING, 1905

In the two-year-old trot the winner will receive $1000, the second $500, the third $200, the fourth $100 and $200 will go to nominator of winner's dam.

In the three-year-old trot the winner will get $4500, the second $1500, the third $500, the fourth $200 and $300 will go to the nominator of winner's dam.

In the pacing race $500 will go to the winner, $250 to the second, $150 to the third and $100 to fourth.

Entrance as follows:—$5 to nominate April 14, 1902; $10 December 1, 1902; when color and sex of foal must be given. Nothing more till June 1st of year of race, and all foals on which payments (of $10 each) are made December 1, 1902, will be eligible to start either as two-year-olds or three-year-olds or in both years (if conditions that follow are complied with) no payment being due in 1904 from those not wishing to start till 1905. Those expecting to start two-year-olds must, on June 1, 1904, name and describe their entries, and pay on each a forfeit of $15, and as many may be named as the owner desires to keep in. Thirty days before meeting those who desire to start in trotting race shall pay $20 on each entry they then keep in, and those who desire to start in pacing race shall pay $10 each; on starters in trotting race $20, and on pacers $15, must be paid by 7 o'clock on evening before race. Those desiring to start three-year-olds must, on June 1, 1905, name and describe as in the two-year-old event and pay on each a forfeit of $35; thirty days prior to the meeting on each of those who start $35 must be paid, and on starters $70 must be paid by 7 o'clock of evening before the race.

The two-year-old races will be mile heats, best two in three; but the three-year-olds will trot mile heats, three in five.

A distance of horse's money will go to the first horse; but if fewer than three start in a race, those starting and the winner's dam will receive only what each would have received had three been placed. Rules of American Trotting Association to govern.

If a mare proves barren, or slips, or has a dead foal or twins, or if either the mare or foal dies before December 1, 1902, her nominator may substitute another mare or foal, regardless of owner ship; but there will be no return of a payment, nor will any entry be liable for more than amount paid in. In entries, the name, color and pedigree must be given, also the name of the horse to which she was bred in 1901.

Send entries to California State Agricultural Society's Harness Stallion Stake for 1905 Reopened.

For the Get of Stallions that made Private or Public Service, Season of 1901, for their Foals of 1902.

ENTRIES FOR STALLIONS TO CLOSE MAY 1, 1902.

The Race to be contested at State Fair in 1905, when Foals are three years old.

Entrance fee for stallions to be the price that they made public service during the season of 1901. All other stallions that did not make public service, entrance fee to be $30. Stallions to be named with the Secretary, May 1, 1902.

All foals that are the get of any stallion entered in this stake to be eligible to be entered on June 1, 1903. Entrance fee $50 each, of which $5 must accompany the entry, with breeding and name, if any, of foal, and a further payment of $13. March 1, 1904, and a further payment of $15 each May 1, 1905, and a final payment of $20 on the first day of August, 1905, and all colts making this payment shall be eligible to start. Starters to be named in writing through the entry box 4 P. M. day before the race.

The California State Agricultural Society to add an amount equal to all moneys paid in by the nominators of the stallions, not to exceed one thousand dollars.

Entrance money paid in for stallions and added moneys shall be divided 60% to the end for trotting colts and 40% to the end for pacing colts. No nominator allowed to start more than one colt in either end.

The nominator of any colts shall on May 1, 1905, then declare as to the trotting or pacing end he desires to start his colts. All moneys paid in on colts transferred to the pacing division shall be segregated and placed to the credit of the pacing stake, and all other payments shall be placed to the credit of the trotting stake.

All payments not made as they become due declares entry out and releases subscriber from further liability.

Hopples barred in both classes. Mile heats, three in five.

Nominator of the sires of the winning colts in each end to receive $250, to be deducted from the money added by the Society and the money paid in as entrance on stallions, balance of the stakes and added money to be divided 50, 25, 15 and 10%.

Right reserved to declare two starters a walk-over, for stakes paid in only.

When only two start they may contest for all entrance money paid in, not heretofore provided for, to be divided 66% per cent to the winner and 33% per cent to the second horse. A horse distancing the field in either class shall be entitled to all moneys paid in and 25% only of the money added by the Society, not heretofore provided for.

Open to all stallions that have made private or public service in any of the following States: California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Idaho, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Nevada and Arizona during the season of 1901.

No entry will be accepted except under this condition: That all disputes that may arise in regard to the conditions or contest of this race shall be settled by the Board of Directors of the California State Agricultural Society, or those whom they may appoint, and their decision shall be final.

Remember, the NEW DATE of Closing for Stallions is MAY 1, 1902.

ABOUT THE CHEEKIEST THING that has been done lately is the entry by an Austrian of the horse John A. McKerron in the European Championship Stake, the entry list for which appears on another page of this journal. Advices from Mr. Devereux, owner of this great horse, are to the effect that no one had authority to make the entry and that he is surprised that anyone should be audacious enough to commit such an act. The man who made the entry is Leopold Hauser, a prominent horseman of Vienna it is said. He is probably one of those personages that imagines he can enter a horse in a race and purchase him afterwards. Such things have been done heretofore, even in this country.

SIXTEEN PURSES OF $1000 EACH make up a pretty attractive program of harness racing for one association to crowd into a four days' meeting, but this is the splendid menu provided by the Glens Falls association of which W. F. Bentley is the energetic secretary. The meeting comes in on the Grand Circuit and opens September 15th. Ten of these $1000 purses are of the early closing variety and are equally divided between trotters and pacers. Entries to these close May 1st. The remaining six purses, three for trotters and three for pacers do not close until August 1st. It is the early closing ones that we desire to call the attention of California horsemen to at the present time. The trotting purses are for the 2:10, 2:12, 2:14, 2:18 and 2:28 classes, and the purses for pacers provide for the 2:08, 2:10, 2:12, 2:14 and 2:24 classes. The first payment is only $5 in any of these classes and is to be made with entry. Horses are to be named July 1st. It is a great program. Don't fail to enter at Glens Falls, as it is always one of the big meetings of the circuit.

YOU HAVE A WEEK to think over the proposition whether or not you will name your mares bred this year in the Terre Haute Matron Stakes for foals of this year, but it should not take you five minutes after reading the advertisement in this issue to decide that an entry in this stake is a good investment. It only costs $5 to nominate the mare April 14th, one week from next Monday, and then $10 December 1st, when color and sex of foal must be given. There is not another cent to pay until the year of the race. You can sleep soundly every night for two or three years knowing that your colt will not be declared out on account of failure to keep up payments. If you race him as a two year old in 1904 there is a small payment or two due then, but if you do not want to start him until he is three, there is nothing more to pay until June 1, 1895. Turn to our advertising columns and read the conditions of the stake. They are about as attractive as could possibly be made.

THUNDER MOUNTAIN RACES is the startling heading over the advertisement of the Inter-Mountain Fair, to be held at Boise, Idaho, October 20th to 25th this year. There are four early closing stakes for harness horses, entries to which close April 15th. These are the Merchants' Stake, $1000, for 2:27 class trotters, the Inter-Mountain Stake, $1000, for 2:18 class pacers, and two stakes of $500 each for three year old pacers and trotters. The Thunder Mountain running stake is $1000 for three year olds and upward, one mile and a quarter, and the Idan-ha running stake is $500 for two year olds at a half mile. Boise, Idaho, is on the North Pacific fair circuit and is the last of the twelve meetings which comprise that circuit. At nearly every meeting on this circuit two stakes of $1000 each are to be given, one for trotters and one for pacers. Racing up north will have a boom this year and big fields and heavy betting are expected to prevail.

A HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS will be hung up by the Montana Jockey Club for its 62 days of racing which will begin at Butte June 21st, this year. There are twelve early closing stakes ranging from $800 to $1500 advertised to close April 15th, one week from Tuesday next. When the racing season closes here at the end of this month the horses that are not taken East will find plenty of racing provided for them at Butte, and as there will be no purse less than $250 and the entrance is free, horse owners will have the opportunity to earn quite a sum before they return to California for the State Fair races. There will also be racing at Helena, Great Falls, Missoula and other points in Montana, making that State a regular summer resort for owners of thoroughbreds this year. See our advertising pages for particulars of the Butte's twelve stakes.

OVERLAND PARK at Denver is getting to be a lively place. Assistant Secretary John B. Williams writes us that Colorado horsemen and others from over the State line are coming in and taking quarters at the track. All are enthusiastic over the prospects for a great meeting. The track is one of the finest in the country since the new coating of soil was put on and horsemen all enthuse over it. The directors and officers are all working hard and intend the horsemen shall carry away with them none but pleasant recollections of Denver.

OREGON'S STATE FAIR this year will be the greatest fair ever held in the webfoot country. The race program is a very attractive one for horsemen, the $2000 stake for 2:18 pacers being the leading feature. Four of the early closing stakes will close one week from next Tuesday. Look them over in our advertising columns and make entries in time.

THE NEW CALIFORNIA JOCKEY CLUB announces that all the stakes next season will have added money except the Burns Handicap, which will remain at $10,000 guaranteed value. It is contemplated to shorten the next season about fifteen days and make the racing of better class than ever.

There were over one thousand entries received for the Kentucky Futurity, which closed last month.

Would Make Things Lively.

Columbus of the Western Horseman throws the following into the distance flag controversy:

"Why all this fuss about the distance flag? Why not add a rule to the effect that the last horse under the wire in each heat shall be sent to the barn, thus doing away with the distance stand?"

That is an original idea and no mistake. At first glance it looks as if this might also be a solution of the vexed question of laying up heats. But what a roar would go up from the driver who after having won a heat should, through a break made by his horse in the second heat, finish last. And suppose that last position was only four or five lengths behind the leader, which might result, as there would be a furious drive by every mother's son of them to avoid being last. We suggest to Columbus that he write to Murray Howe about it and induce the Memphis Association to try it this year. That's about the only association that is willing to take chances on anything really new and novel.

Recent Palo Alto Winners.

Among the Palo Alto breadwinners of the last season that will be found in the new Year Book are Eleata (4) 2:08½, Rowellan (2) 2:15½, Version 2:14½, Adaria (4) 2:17½, Marquesa 2:19½, Ellalee 2:19½, Stewart 2:27½, Anselita 2:29½. These were all Blue Ribbon purchases, and by no means exhaust the list of prizes obtained at recent Cleveland sales. Idolita (3) 2:12, Lucrative 2:13½ and Lunda 2:23½ are three more that come to mind. Many have shown fast, but have not as yet been raced, as, for instance, Juntorio, To Arms, Adlinn, Adrexa and others. Juntorio promises to be one of the sensations of the coming year. No wonder that these annual auctions have become the most popular in America. Buyers are sure of getting what they want. Palo Alto opens the sale as usual this year with a draft of about fifty head, including the entire crop of two year olds.

Englishmen Like the American Trotter.

Mr. Geo. W. Ketcham, at the close of his exhibition tour with Cresceus 2:02½ this year, will take a vacation and pleasure trip to Europe. A Gentleman's Driving Club is now being organized close to London, England, by owners of fast harness horses, in which several of Mr. Ketcham's friends are interested. Horses recently purchased by him in this country for English gentlemen, including Roy M. 2:14½ and Eddie L. 2:16½, will be entered in the contests for the prizes offered.

The taking up of the sport of racing harness horses in Europe by non-professionals will open a new channel for export. Heretofore European buyers have invariably shied clear of geldings, no matter how fast, buying only well bred stallions and mares. The handsome, stylish and fast gelding will now be as much desired.

Following the announcement that August Belmont has been instrumental in having the value of purses run for at the present Bennings meeting increased to $400 each, comes the information that the Coney Island Jockey Club has practically decided to increase the purses of all overnight races to $1000 each and that the Brooklyn Jockey Club will follow suit. This is a convincing argument that racing will enjoy a more prosperous season this year than ever before and turfmen are correspondingly happy over the outlook.

Broodmare, Ballet, Dead.

Ballet, the greatest broodmare in America, is dead at the home of her owner, George H. Clay, proprietor of Balgowan Stud, near Lexington. She was chloroformed recently by the veterinarian, Robert Bryan, who attended Hanover in his last hours. Ballet was 31 years old, one year older than Pocahontas, the greatest of all broodmares at the time of her death. She is the dam of Modesty, Blue Grass Belle, Elizabeth M., Peg Woffington, Busted, etc. Her produce won over $100,000 on the turf in eighty-five races.

Grandly Bred Filly.

Lady Reel, dam of the famous $60,000 Hamburg, foaled on March 31st, at James R. Keene's Castleton Stud, near Lexington, a black filly by St. Simon, the great English sire. Keene paid $11,000 for the mare. The filly is the first get of St. Simon to be foaled in the United States. A full brother of the filly which came from England at the side of the mare, was recently sold to August Belmont for $25,000, the highest price ever paid for a suckling.

Jackson's Napa Soda is sold in every city, town and hamlet in the State.

JOTTINGS.

BILL OF EXPENSE was the very appropriate, though not euphonious, name given his horse by an eastern man who had met with bad luck in his racing ventures, and the same name could be very aptly applied to many a new sulky purchased at a big price at the opening of the training or racing season. I was talking with Kenney, the well known San Francisco machinist and bikeman, the other day and related to him the woes of a trainer friend that had paid for new tires in one month more than his new sulky had originally cost him.

"That's nothing," said Kenney, "the wheels of his sulky were probably badly out of line and naturally the tires wore out from ground friction. I have seen a pair of tires worn out so they were beyond repair with only four miles usage, and I remember that Walter Maben had a new bike one year that cost him ten dollars a week for new tires for two or three months. The bike was a well made one, but the wheels were badly out of line, and until this was corrected the tires would wear out nearly as fast as they could be put on. There are several different ways in which wheels may be out of line, but the one that causes the most trouble is when the fronts of the wheels are closer together than the backs, or vice versa. It is bad enough when the tops of the wheels dish in or out, but the wear that way is nothing to what it is when the wheels dish forward—that is, when they point to the centre."

I wish you would write an article for the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN on "The use and abuse of pneumatic tire sulkies," I said to him.

"Oh, I'm no writer," he replied, "but I'll tell you a few things and you put them down so the boys will understand them."

And this is about the way he said it.

"Pneumatic tire wheels of the two-wheel rig should be so set or lined that they are perfectly true when shafts are strapped in and the driver up. This is most important, as if in any other condition there is a ground friction which wears out the tires and necessarily retards speed, which in a long drawn out race is very important. A tired horse wants to be relieved from all unnecessary effort.

"In my experience of nine years as a bikeman I have always noticed that the successful trainers are very particular to have all the details of sulky repairing attended to by men who understand this particular line of work, while the indifferent trainers will employ anyone to repair their sulkies and be satisfied if the wheels turn round and the tires hold air.

"To be convinced of this, when you visit a race track just go up the stretch a short distance and thus secure a rear view of the sulkies while the horses are scoring. Watch the wheels on the different bikes and you will see them running in all sorts of shapes. A wheel that does not run true adds considerable to the expense account in a year's time in tire repairs and renewals. A good pair of tires should last at least two years and if from track conditions are favorable they should last from three to five years.

"Some of the important points to be looked after in 'conditioning' a sulky or cart are as follows, and what applies to one applies to both:

"The proper 'set forward' of wheels to properly balance sulky when in motion.

"The 'hock-action clearance' construction of shafts should be such as to not interfere with the true line of wheels when strapped to different sized horses.

"The bearings should be the best that can be produced from good material by first class mechanics.

"The ball bearings should be made of best tool steel cups and cones of same material, and they should be made on the 3 point contact principle for easy running and long service. By all means case-hardened machine steel cones and cups should not be used.

"If of the roller bearing type they should be of the best construction and should not be tampered with by every man that calls himself a bicycle repairer. The bearings should be kept clean, well oiled and properly adjusted to get good results. Now there are many things I could tell about keeping a sulky in shape, but the most important of all is to see that the wheels are properly lined up and run perfectly true. I do not hesitate to say that more than half the expense incurred annually for new tires are made necessary by wheels being out of line."

It need not surprise anyone if the roan pacer, Funston, that Sandy Smith took east last year, paces into the 2:10 list on his first start this year. Trainer W. L. Snow of Hornellsville, New York, has Funston in his string at the present time and is naming him in the slow classes down through the Grand Circuit, and as no trainer knows better than Snow just how fast they have to step to win in the big line, he evidently thinks he has a chance with the roan gelding by Dictatus. Sandy bought this horse for a Pennsylvania man last year after seeing P. W. Hodges work him a mile in 2:11, and but for the horse disease which prevailed all over the country last year, and which attacked Funston before he left Pleasanton, the pacer would have done all that was claimed for him. When Mr. Snow was out here last winter he very much desired to purchase the sensational horse, Sir Albert S. 2:08½, but Mr. Layng had a very high figure on him which was a little beyond Snow's limit. Another California flyer that has lately entered Snow's string is Eula Mac 2:17½ by McKinney, that was taken east last year and sold at the Fasig-Tipton Cleveland sale. They say she has grown a great deal, and looks strong and rugged now. I saw her trot a half in 1:04 at Santa Rosa when she was a three year old and thought then that age and plenty of time for play would make a great mare of her. She is said to be showing wonderful speed already this year.

Last year there were a great many horsemen—owners and trainers alike—who were suspended "to beat the band," because they attempted to bite off more than they could conveniently masticate. The large number of big purses and stakes offered by the associations over East are very tempting, but the average horse owner generally finds that his bank account is insufficient to pay entrance fee in them all if his horse goes wrong and is unable to start. The same condition arises when the speed shown in the early part of the season by his trotter or pacer fails to keep the promise of its youth. I would suggest to those who expect to campaign horses this year that they do not attempt to make a clean sweep of every stake on the circuit to which their horse is eligible. In the first place no horse can start in July and race well every week until October unless he meets a class of horses that cannot push him to his limit. If an owner has a trotter or pacer that so far outclasses everything he meets that it is only a jog for him to beat them, he may be able to make a clean sweep of all the first moneys in his class, but otherwise things will be different. Entrance bills pile up very fast when they are not paid, and many a horse is suspended at the close of the year for a larger sum than he can possibly be sold for. The moneyed men of the trotting turf can of course afford to incur a heavy bill of entrance fees, but the man whose capital consists of his horses should be very careful about being too liberal with his entries. It is much better to be satisfied with winning a few of the big purses than to take the chances of being suspended all down the line should your horse go wrong.

The Chicago Horseman advocates the shortening of the racing season on the Grand Circuit, saying that the extreme speed required of horses makes it impossible to get the majority of horses ready by the first of July. This is very true. If the racing associations on the Grand Circuit draw the season out too long they will soon find that owners will refuse to enter all down the line. There are enough horses in training every year to furnish sufficient entries for two Grand Circuits and it would be better for all concerned were the season shortened as suggested and a couple of circuits arranged.

A correspondent of this paper asked several weeks ago where the horse J. J. 2:12½ by Live Oak Hero is now located. At the time we did not know of the horse's present habitat, but have since learned that he is now in service at Boutell Bros.' Stock Farm at Bay City, Michigan, where he stands for a fee of $30 the season. J. J. is registered under the name of J. T. and his number is 31,698. His dam is Ada by Dexter Prince and his grandam by Abbotsford. He was bred by the late L. M. Morse, of Lodi, Cal., and made his record at Terre Haute, Indiana, in September, 1900.

Word comes from New York that Mr. M. E. Sturgis, who started lots of talk among horsemen by paying $20,000 for Dan Patch 2:04½ recently, has now become the owner of Freddy C. 2:14½ by Direct, dam Rosie C. by Duoc Prince. Freddy C. is undoubtedly the fastest piece of horseflesh of his size in the country at the present time, and when the little black devil starts against the 2:15 class pacers over East this year the spectators will think one of those little black cyclone clouds "no bigger than a man's hand" has broken loose. The purchase was made at Seattle last week through Mr. H. H. Lawrence, and the horse has already been shipped to Myron McHenry at New York. Freddy C. made his first start at Sacramento last year in the 2:17 class pace at the Breeders meeting. In the first heat he was so close to Sir Albert S. in 2:11½ with his driver, S. K. Trefry, looking around at the third horse, that the judges felt justified in putting up a new driver, but Freddy C. did not make as good a showing in the second heat and Mr. Trefry was permitted to again mount the sulky. In the third heat of this race Sir Albert S. stepped to his record of 2:08½ with Freddy C. third. Freddy C. was then taken north. At Everett, Washington, he started twice in one week, winning both races in straight heats, pacing to his present record over the half mile track twice during that meeting, and beating such fast ones as Myrtha Whips 2:10½ and Pathmark 2:15½. At Whatcom Myrtha Whips turned the tables on him and beat him in straight heats, the time being 2:15½, 2:12 and 2:13½. He started in one race across the line in British Columbia on a rough half mile track at Hastings. He won as he pleased in slow time, 2:24½ being the best heat. At the Oregon State Fair he won three straight races in straight heats, the best one being his defeat of Myrtha Whips 2:10½, Alta Norte 2:16½ and Al Me 2:15½, when he paced that slow and heavy track in 2:14½, 2:14½ and 2:17½.

Freddy C. is a perfect edition of his sire Direct 2:05½, is perfectly sound, and as one horseman remarked last season, will probably remain so as he is not big enough to hit the ground hard. He is as steady as a clock and has all the qualities of a race horse. He will be expected to pace around 2:06 or 2:07 this year and if no accident happens him will probably do it.

Palmer Clark, the founder of the Horse Review, is one of the best informed horsemen in this country and as he is in the sales business at Chicago, is directly in touch with the market. Here is a recent statement made by Mr. Clark in his column in the Chicago Inter-Ocean: "I have been requested by a friend, who is always willing to pay a good price when he finds what he wants, to look for a four or five year old solid bay mare, with no white marks, about 15½ hands high, a trotter with a record of about 2:16, that is sound, good mannered, and has speed enough to win in her class. My first impression was that it would not be a difficult task, but after three weeks' persistent inquiry among at least a hundred well posted horsemen, I am ready to call for the help of my friends, and am tempted to believe there is nothing of the kind in the country. I was still more forcibly reminded of the scarcity of good horses of all kinds during a trip with a friend through the sale stables at the stock yards last week, where were quartered in the neighborhood of 2500 horses for sale, and we were unable to find a well matched pair of good roadsters or a 15-hand bay gelding, city broken, for a lady to drive, that could show 2:40 speed." The condition of the San Francisco market is very much the same, and horses that fill the bill are as scarce as hen's teeth.

Benefit Days at Emeryville.

Three benefit days have been arranged by the California Jockey Club to be given at the Oakland track during the present month.

The annual Derby day, for the benefit of Fabiola Hospital, has been set for Saturday, April 26th. Once a year President Williams of the California Jockey Club sets aside one day when the entire proceeds of the track are devoted to the benefit of Fabiola Hospital. The management of the day devolves upon the officials of the track, but no passes are permitted on that occasion and the receipts are given to the ladies who so successfully manage the largest hospital in Oakland.

A benefit will be given on Saturday, April 19th, for the family of the late R. B. Milroy, for so many years secretary of the Jockey Club. On this occasion tickets will be placed on sale at the usual rates, but contributors may pay whatever price they please, the balance going to swell the fund for the family. President Williams and D. M. Burns have purchased tickets to the amount of $100 each.

Wednesday, April 30th, will be a benefit for the town of Emeryville, and the proceeds will go toward a fund for building a town hall for the city on the bay shore.

To Buy Yearlings.

Syndicates are said to be forming at Nashville and also at Lexington for the purpose of purchasing thoroughbred yearlings and later, selling them privately at such figures as will produce a good percentage on the investment. At the head of the proposed Nashville syndicate is Madden Winston, a prominent insurance man, and at Lexington is Counselor Bill Brien, who launched the Kentucky Mutual Sweepstakes Association, incorporated last week. Aside from these proposed organizations, several individuals have been advertising for addresses of breeders with yearlings for sale. It is figured that the demand for racing material for 1903 will be greater than the supply, and prices higher than ever. Also that some breeders are not in a position to hold their yearlings until June and September sales, and would sell them now for less per head. The buying of yearlings is a lottery at all times, but many good judges think there is a really good chance to make money along these lines.

Will Be in Hot Company.

The California pacer Sir Albert S. 2:08½ by Diablo 2:09½ that was the undisputed champion of the Pacific Coast last year, starting six times and winning every race in three straight heats, pacing the slowest in 2:13 and the fastest in 2:08½, will go East this year to meet the pacers in the 2:09 class. While Sir Albert S. did not meet any horses last year outside of Freddie C. 2:14½ that are to be considered as Grand Circuit 2:10 class material, he beat 2:10 three times during the season and did it so handily each time that there are many here who are firm in the conviction that if he is called upon this year to pace in 2:04 he will do it, and his owner believes he can pace very close to two minutes whenever he is right on edge. The first of the races in which he is entered this year, the entries of which have been announced, is the $3000 purse offered for pacers of the 2:09 class by the Cleveland Grand Circuit meeting. These entries closed March 15th and there were twenty-three horses named in this race. A perusal of the list will show that Sir Albert S. will meet a very "warm" lot of pacers. The record horses are as follows:

Sir Albert S. 2:08½ by Diablo.
 Lou Vaughn 2:09½ by Reflector.
 Captain Sphinx 2:08½ by Sphinx.
 Terrace Queen 2:09½ by Valpean.
 Dandy C. 2:09½ by Andalusia.
 Fred the Kid 2:08½ by Kassel.
 Cambria Maid 2:08½ by Hal Dillard.
 Newton Boy 2:10½ by Venture.
 Sophia 2:09½ by Anderson Wilkes.
 Sphinx S. 2:08½ by Sphinx.
 Amokin 2:11½ by Ambassador.
 Louisa G. 2:08½ by Alclayone.
 Tonita F. 2:11½ by Keeler.
 Dan R. 2:08½ by Tasco Jr.
 Maggie Hubbard 2:11½ by Dick Hubbard.
 Salem 2:09½ by Pretender.
 Fred S. Wedgewood 2:08½ by Fred S. Wilkes.
 Winfield Stratton 2:13½ by Saraway.

The green pacers that are named in the purse are a high class lot, viz.:

Direct Hal by Direct—trial of 2:06½.
 Beauseant by Bow Bells—trial of 2:07½.
 Velvet Rose by McKinney—trial of 2:11.
 Dandy Chimes by Chimes—trial of 2:07.
 Cousin Madge by Brown Hal—trial of 2:08.

Of the record horses there are none that showed the form displayed by Sir Albert S. Each and every one of them was beaten during the season in much slower time than his record, and the majority lost more races than they won.

Direct Hal, the son of Direct 2:05½, owned by the Hamlins, to whom Ed Geers sold him for $10,000 more than a year ago, is the best known of the green horses named in this race. He has never started in a race, but if all the stories told of him are true, he should be one of the sensational pacers of the year. Beauseant, son of Bow Bells, is another pacer of which much has been written, but he failed to make good last year, starting but once and being distanced in the first heat of his race. If all the horses named in this 2:09 race should start at Cleveland, Sir Albert S. would be compelled to meet five horses that have faster race records than he, and four green ones that have paced faster trials than he is credited with, but if he shows the form he had last year he should be able to be close to the front in every heat even though the time be 2:05 or better.

Determined to Be Just.

George Starr, the well known reinsman, whose fund of stories is as inexhaustible as it is amusing, told one recently on a well meaning German citizen who acted as starting judge at a meeting down in Pennsylvania. When the first heat was called, the starter planted his ample "equator" over the rail of the stand and for a moment hesitated as to the means of assigning the horses' positions.

A local driver was in the race and the starter settled matters by calling him over and telling him to let the boys decide the positions among themselves. The "local," with true horseman's tact, selected the pole for himself and was fortunate enough to win the heat. When they lined up for the second the "local" of course had the pole. When they scored down once the fair-minded German called him to the stand and in an irate voice, said:

"George, don't act like a d— hog. You had the pole the last time. Now you give it to that man with the green cap, who came in last."

During the month of April SUNSET LIMITED will leave San Francisco for New Orleans every Monday, up to and including April 21st, at 4:50 P. Matinee at Bakersfield.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—The Bakersfield Driving Club held a matinee March 16th which was a great success. The rains had put the track in fine shape and good time was made.

The first race was a free for all with four starters. The contest was between the trotter Richmond Chief 2:14½ and the pacing mare Edna R. 2:11½. Mr. Conklin drove his mare to victory in the first heat easily in 2:18, but in the second heat, Mr. Toll, the driver of Richmond Chief caught him napping and beat him out in 2:19. The third heat was a contest all the way and at a whipping finish. Edna R. managed to win by a neck in 2:19. Mr. Breden's Si S. was third and Mr. Spear's H. W. fourth.

The second race was not as closely contested as the first but was an interesting contest. It was won by Mr. G. Bevin's Lompoc in straight heats, with Mr. Fogarty's Robin second, Mr. Conklin's Harry Gates third and Mr. Fox's John, fourth. The time was 2:33, 2:35.

Edna R. has been bred to Richmond Chief this year and is thought to be now with foal. There have been sixty mares booked to Richmond Chief this season. The Bakersfield fair and race meeting this fall will make the horsemen open their eyes when they see the crowd that we can turn out here. It will be the banner meeting of the circuit, and as our track will be in fine shape good time will be made over it. The purses will be generous and every favor possible shown the horsemen. Tell the boys all to get ready to race at Bakersfield in October. Yours,

Errors in the Year Book.

The compilers of the Year Book are getting lots of back-handed compliments, mostly from those who have had very limited experience in compiling pedigrees. Much of the blame for the delay in getting this work before the public is due to secretaries of trotting tracks. Many of those secretaries fail to require those who enter horses at their meetings to comply with Rule 6 of the National Trotting Association. Section 3 of that rule is as follows:

It shall be distinctly stated whether the entry be a stallion, mare or gelding, and the names of the sire and dam, if known, shall be given in all cases, and when unknown, it shall be so stated in the entries. If this requirement as to pedigree is not complied with, the entry may be rejected, and when the pedigree is given, it shall be stated by the member with the publication of the entry, and if the pedigree or record of a horse be falsely stated for the purpose of deception, the guilty party shall be fined, suspended or expelled.

This rule should be strictly enforced, but many secretaries overlook the matter. The compiler then has to write the secretary, asking the name and address of the party making the entry. After learning that fact he must write the owner of the animal. In some cases the owner is too busy to reply promptly, or the letter of inquiry is mislaid, so that it is a long time before the facts as to the breeding can be ascertained.

The recent Year Books may contain a greater number of errors than were found in the earlier, for the same reason that white sheep eat more hay and grass than black ones. We think, however, that such well posted horsemen as have compared them will agree that the ratio of errors is actually less in the late works than in the earlier ones.—Am. Horse Breeder.

Selecting the Stallion.

The breeding season is now well begun in this local ity. The old question, "To which stallion shall I breed my mares?" bobs up serenely once more, says an exchange.

It is impossible to give specific answers for each locality, but it is possible to lay down a few general rules that may be told in short order. In the first place breed to a horse typical of his breed in size and in every other way, and one that is suited to the mares in question. Then select the one that is best bred. These two pieces of advice go without the saying. Moreover, never mate a mare with a stallion that has loathsome, dirty sores on his legs, no matter whether they are on hoof-heads, ankles or hocks. Do not permit your mares to be covered by a horse that when ready to work does not seem to be "quite right." Careless and untrained grooms have spread disease and great loss broadcast through communities by not properly caring for their stallions. Do not breed to a horse that is lame unless the cause thereof is known to be merely passing in its nature and quite recent. Look carefully for curbs, spavins, ring-bones, side-bones and all such unsoundnesses and when found pass up the horse with a milky eye, no matter what may be said as to the cause. Do not breed to a blind horse, or any horse that has a small piggy eye. Select one with the sort of eye that may be knocked from the head with the proverbial club without ever touching a bone.

Look well to the feet, reject soft, spongy hoofs, low heels, and hard, upright, boxlike walls. Straight pasterns mean early unsoundness as a rule; reject them. If when coming out of his box the horse begins to whistle, lead your mare away; roaring is directly hereditary. Avoid the horse with the narrow, dish face and the ear laid back to hear what is being said behind him. It is none of his business. Then take a look at the owner, his premises, groom and outfit. If he does not think enough of his customers to keep everything in tip top shape pass him up also. Much more might be said on this subject. Reject the stallion that comes from his box as though walking on eggs. If he cannot pick himself up and go down the road like a horse he is not the fellow to patronize.

Take a little time and give thought to this matter of selecting a stallion. Remember that once you get your mare entangled with a poor or unsound stallion it takes you at least a year to get out of the trouble and then there is the farther loss of the decreased value of the colt to be borne. Pay a reasonable fee, on the ground of "live and let live." Do not patronize the first "poacher" that drives around and solicits your mares at anything from a feed of oats to $5 each. If his horse's services are not worth more than that they are not worth one cent, let alone four or six quarts of good oats. You would take it hardly if on driving your carload of swine to market the dealer told you he could not take them because someone else had come in from a distance and offered him a similar quantity of "long-noses" at $1 per cwt. less than you wanted. You would think that this dealer with whom you had neighbored for years ought to patronize his home market first, would you not?

And another thing. Always remember that if a mare is not worth breeding to a good stallion at a living fee she is not worth breeding at all and ought not to be allowed to perpetuate her inferiority. If a poor mare is bred at all she should be mated with the best horse available of her kind. But the poorest are usually mated with the poorest and that is the reason why we can sell so many warriors to John Bull at a range of $65 to $90 at six to eight years old—not the cost of production, all things considered. There is no shortage of the supply of that sort.

Good Grooming Pays.

There is no season of the year when good grooming of horses does not pay large dividends in actual dollars and cents, but the returns from intelligent care of the equine skin are perhaps larger at this debatable period than at any other in the whole twelve months. Be the reason what it may in each particular case the fact remains that few horses receive as careful grooming in cold weather as they do in warm. Now they are shedding or beginning to shed their long hair and if they are not granted an adequate measure of assistance and the dirt, dandruff and dead hair removed the horses will not thrive as they ought. Take a horse that is commencing to get rid of his winter coat; hook him up and drive him until he is just warm enough to show a slight dampness on the outer hair. Then unhook him, shove him back in his stall and see what he will do. He will rub and wrestle himself into all sorts of shapes in the effort to get that coat of his stirred up and loosened and if he does not obtain relief he is liable to rub the entire stall to the ground. Then most likely he will get a threshing for meanness. So far from meanness, though, this horse is showing a vast deal more sense than his master. He knows that his old coat ought to come off about this time and he is merely trying to do what nature tells him he ought to do. By all means help the horses to get rid of their winter coats, but do not hurry the process too greatly. It is not right to go savagely at the hair with sharp curry-comb and yank and pull and tear the hair out in bunches. The hair which is ready to fall away will come easily. If the strongly-rooted hair is pulled out the skin will be made sore. Similarly with grooming. When the old hair has been gotten rid of for the day brush out all the dirt from that which is left. Remember also that hardly any two horses ought to be groomed just alike. Grooming is healthy for the horse in that, besides removing dirt and dead matter, it promotes the rush of the blood to the vessels that are closest to the outer skin, and in that way draws added nourishment to it and enables the skin to properly perform its many and complex duties in the equine economy. But there are skins and skins on horses, and the grooming that will just suit one will drive another crazy in a short time. In other words the skin of the horse must at all times be kept clean, especially so at this time of year, but judgment must be used in cleaning it.—Breeders Gazette.

Last Friday at Memphis Ed Geers drove the green pacers, Direct Hal and Dandy Chimes, a couple of miles around 2:20, and stopped the trotter, The Jeweler by Athanio, a mile in 2:27.

Comparison of Leading Trotting Families.

The evolution of the trotter toward the two-minute goal with many nowadays is not considered a matter of blood lines at all, but rather of methods of training and paraphernalia, including fast tracks, light sulkies, etc. Still, the study of the leading families affords highly interesting statistics, all going to show that there is no infallible combination of blood forces that will produce speed to a certainty, while showing at the same time there are certain bloods that do so with more uniformity than others. Alexander's Abdallah, Electioneer and George Wilkes are the three leading sires of Hambletonian, and of course that means the greatest progenitors of speed.

In making a comparison of these I was, however, struck with the dissimilarity with which all these acquired their greatness.

In the first generation Electioneer sired Arion 2:07½, Sunol 2:08½ and Palo Alto 2:08½, race trotters of the first water, and in this and subsequent generations this family has held a majority of the world's records.

In the case of George Wilkes, his progeny either near or remote has but rarely secured world's records, and his fastest immediate progeny was Harry Wilkes 2:13½, yet his descendants in the 2:10 list outnumber all the other sons of Hambletonian combined.

With Alexander's Abdallah, from which line the Much Truth in This.

[Western Horsemen.]

There is altogether too much talk of a lack of opportunities among owners of trotting-bred horses. It has been going on ever since the writer can remember and long prior to that date. An owner of a stallion may be found placing himself and his horse in the "excuse column." He laments the fact that his horse has never had the opportunity of proving his inherent greatness; that the class of mares bred to him were always inferior; that the owners of colts and fillies sired by his stallion never developed them; that everything had worked against his horse from the day he brought him from "old Kentucky, so far away," and the man's whole life is spent in lamentations. Another owner, referring to same subject, declares that if his stallion had been afforded opportunities such as were given Nutwood, Belmont, Guy Wilkes, etc., that he would now have those stallions smothered in the race for popularity. Still another laments the lack of recognition given his stallion and ascribes it to the fact that he is poor in purse. Had his horse been owned by Stanford, or some other wealthy man, he would now rank with Electioneer, Red Wilkes, Onward, Pilot Medium, etc. As it is, he is not known outside the voting precinct in which his owner resides. These are only a few of the memoranda found in the systematically boosts his horse; talks trade whenever the opportunity presents itself, buys a good mare now and then to help the cause along, patronizes the journals devoted to his particular line of breeding, and does not begrudge another stallion owner the success that has come as a result of similar efforts. One great trouble with stallion owners is that too many of them persist in believing that "trade should seek the horse," rather than the "horse seeking the trade." They set back upon their dignity and solemnly declare: "Here is the horse. Patronize him if you care to, or leave him alone. It makes no difference to us. He is destined to become great and some day you will wish that you had realized that fact." The stallion grows old, his owner finds the crowd passing by on the other side, other stallions are being liberally patronized, other men are realizing a profit from their energetic methods of soliciting trade, but no one cares for the horse that has been neglected by its owner, and he proves a failure through lack of "opportunities."

Pistol a Private Stallion.

Mr. B. S. Krehe, of San Jose, writes us under date of April 2d, that he has withdrawn his stallion Pistol by Lancelot from public service and will only breed him to a few of his own mares this year. We believe Mr. Krehe will have Pistol trained for a record. Alecyo world's champion has come, the situation is again entirely different. The study of blood lines is one of the most interesting that could be imagined, and I venture the assertion there never was an owner who came into possession of a fast or well bred horse who commenced to examine his pedigree, but became fascinated by the search for information on the subject, which is one of the principal charms of the business.—Palmer Clark.

The only sulky made that can be lined on the race track is a McMurray and the only tool needed is a monkey wrench, and the material and mechanical construction cannot be surpassed. Price right. Coast Agent, Keaney Mfg. Co., 531 Valencia street, S. F. *

"Stallion Owner's Excuse Book," and there is absolutely nothing to the entire list of whys and wherefores. Lamentations never boosted a stallion into a prominent position, and they certainly will never keep him there.

Such talk is only another form of playing for sympathy. Intelligent determination and persistence will eventually bring success to any well bred trotting stallion. The better the horse and the more thorough the methods used to boost him, the greater the success achieved. In the first place, there must be something in the horse. His blood lines should be of the best, and by this we do not mean length of pedigree, for many a stallion can boast of a long number of standard crosses, and yet not one of them prolific; not one of them fashionable; not one of them tracing to families that have achieved success in the stud, upon the track or at the sale ring, unless too far removed to be of any present value. No one can boost such a horse into prominence; the history of the light harness horse proves this. A successful sire may become famous, but it is impossible for any stallion to become successful unless his owner applies himself to the task. Nutwood was successful long before he became famous. No really good sire is first famous and afterwards successful. A young stallion may attract favorable attention, but if his owner neglects to furnish him the opportunities that are obtainable he will never become successful.

Opportunities are plentiful, but are not lying around promiscuously. They must be searched for, and the progressive owner of a well bred stallion goes a-gunning for opportunities at all seasons of the year. He

2:10, the other stallion, will be in the stud as advertised. While Alecyo stands at $100 the season, it should be remembered that the cost of service fees when breeding to a first class stallion is not so much to be considered as the probable cost to develop the produce. As everyone knows who has had any experience in this line, to train a colt for two, three or four years before he is ready to go to the races costs very often more than the horse is worth, but when a colt comes to his speed early and is ready to race almost as soon as he is thoroughly broken to harness, the cost is very little, and one has a more valuable colt and one that will readily sell for a good price. Alecyo's colts are all possessed of early and extreme speed. Mr. Krehe tried to purchase one or two to bring to California and the lowest price he could get on any of them was $1000 for a two year old filly at Worcester, Mass. The following is an extract from a letter received by Mr. Krehe from the former owner of Alecyo:

CUMBERLAND HILL, R. I., Mch. 12, 1902.
MR. B. S. KREHE, Dear Sir:—Tell your patrons to Alecyo 2:10 that his get are large, rugged, sound and bulldog race horses, and that they bring good money. I don't know of one I can buy for $500.

Yours truly,
FRANK E. STEVENS.

Death of The Bard.

The noted English stallion The Bard is dead. In 1886 The Bard, Ormonde and Minting were considered the greatest three year old colts ever produced in England. His progeny last year won $140,000.

Strike!—if they don't give you Jackson's Napa Soda

Notes and News.

Enter in the Stallion Stake.

Several programs will be announced this month.

Cleveland received 111 entries to her five early-closing events.

The Speedway and Amateur Reinsman of New York, has suspended publication.

There are a total of 423 horses at the Village Farm, according to the last catalog.

Texas has a larger number of horses than any other state, with a total of 1,125,000.

Readville got 171 entries in her six early closing purses—surely a handsome showing.

John Splan thinks Dan Patch 2:04½ will beat the 2:01½ of his sire, Joe Patchen, this year.

Indianapolis is to be honored with the first public appearance of Cresceus, 2:02½, for the season.

C. L. Crellin's mare Anita, now being worked at the Pleasanton track, paced a mile in 2:16½ one day last week.

Sir Albert S. 2:08½ has been entered in the $3000 purse for 2:09 class pacers offered by the Cleveland association.

Name your stallion in the Special Harness Stallion Stake offered by the California State Agricultural Society. Entries close May 1st.

The four year old brother to Boralma 2:07, owned by Dr. McCoy, Kirkwood Park, Del., has been entered in some of the early closing events. His name is Pan-Michael.

A pair of good roadsters, one a pacing mare, the other a trotting gelding, together with buggy and single and double harness are offered for sale. See advertisement.

Nora McKinney 2:16½, that good mare which Farmer Bunch campaigned last year, and is considered a sure 2:10 prospect, has been added to Millard Sanders string at Pleasanton.

Albert H. Merrill of Danvers, Mass., the well known New England starting judge, has been engaged to give the word at the Grand Circuit meeting at Glens Falls, N. Y., September 15 to 19.

Cherokee Prince 2:18, son of Dexter Prince, will make the season of 1902 in Carson Valley, Nevada. His colts in California are uniformly large and good looking horses and have speed.

The compilers of the new Year Book evidently forgot that Peter Stirling reduced the world's record for trotting geldings to 2:11½ last year, as they still credit Who Is It 2:12 with the championship.

A gentleman, who has no time to drive, offers for sale, through our advertising columns, a very stylish and handsome bay mare 16½ hands high, city broke. The figure asked is a low one—$300. See advertisement.

Director Gillespie of the Redding association was in town this week. He says there were 5000 people in attendance one day at the Redding meeting last year, and the crowd will be duplicated during the fair this season.

The $16,000 Massachusetts for 2:12 class trotters has eighteen nominations, among them one from C. E. Clark, who will start Sue 2:12½ if she is all right. Sue is now in line to win $12,500 in two races by coming first in each.

Representatives of the Monterey and the San Benito agricultural associations will meet at Salinas next Tuesday to consider the matter of dates, speed program, size of purses, etc., for the fairs to be given by the two associations next fall.

Bell Boy 2:19½ was burned to death, Election Bel 2:24½ by St. Bel, died near Nashville a few weeks ago. St. Bel is dead and Electric Bell passed away a few days ago at Gettysburg, Pa. Bell Boy, St. Bel and Electric Bell were all out of Beautiful Bells.

Scott Hudson has a very promising young trotter in his stable at Lexington in the roan filly, Belle Alcy (2) by Adbell 2:23, dam Lady Alcy 2:13½, by Mr. B. S. Krehe's stallion, Alcyo 2:10, that is now in service at San Jose. She is entered in a number of rich stakes.

Glanders recently necessitated the destruction of the Oregon pacing mare Alme 2:15½, by Memo—Babe Leore, by Altamont. She was eight years old and made her record last season at Spokane, Wash., and was bred and owned by Amos Wilkins of Coburg, Ore.

C. A. Durfee had a chance to double his money on his colt by McKinney 2:11½, out of Elsie by General Benton, that was foaled January 30th, but he declined with thanks. A full brother to this colt that died at Palo Alto was said to be the fastest thing of its age ever seen on the farm.

There are at least a half dozen trotters and pacers in the string being worked by Sandy Smith at the Spreckels Farm at Aptos that are Grand Circuit material. Sandy will show speed when he reaches Cleveland with these horses that should lead buyers to bid lively on them.

The Kings County Fair have claimed the week of September 15th to 20th for its fair and race meeting. Hanford held one of the best fairs given in California last year, the attendance being very large. The association will try to make the fair of this year a still greater success.

G. E. Smith is working a few horses at the Petaluma track. He has a green pacer that is showing speed of a high order for the work he has had and will be ready to go down the line if there are any purses offered. Mr. Smith says the track is in very good condition at present.

Jerre O'Neil has declared his opinion to the effect that Royal R. Sheldon 2:04½ has as much speed as anybody's pacer. Royal R. Sheldon won three races, all his starts, last season, defeating Connor, Indiana, Edith W., The Maid, Hal B., Bonnie Direct, Dumont, Riley B. and Hetty G.

Henry S. 2:12½, the Michigan bred gelding, by Goldstone, who was a much touted M. & M. possibility of 1900, and a good trotter until he broke down, is to be trained again. He was not raced last year, but is now being named in some of the early closing 2:12 classes on the Grand Circuit.

E. C. Seary of Findlay, Ohio, has purchased the fashionably bred stallion Oakwood Prince by Dexter Prince, sire of Eleata 2:08½, etc., dam by Electioneer, and after a short season will race him for a fast record. The dam of Oakwood Prince is full sister to Sphinx 2:20½, Egotist 2:23½ and Electrite 2:28½.

The sum of $5000 was paid last week by Ball Brothers of Versailles, Kentucky, for the prize saddle stallion Montgomery Chief, a son of Bourbon Chief, he by Harrison Chief 3841, sire of the dam of Will Kerr 2:07½. Montgomery Chief is five years old and has beaten everything he has met in the show ring.

It now looks as though there would be no intermediate class for pacers at some cities in the Grand Circuit between the free for all and the 2:06 and 2:07 class. If this should prove to be the case Dan Patch 2:04½ will be forced to line up with Anaconda 2:01½ and Prince Alert 2:00½, Coney 2:02 and Searchlight 2:03½.

Axtellion's record of 2:14½ was rejected by the American Trotting Register Association, not because the horse did not earn it, but because his name was omitted from the program on the day on which he made the effort. Just a day or two previously Axtellion trotted a mile in 2:15½ under rule, and that record stands.

Is your stallion a young horse that has not yet made a record in the stud? Name him in the Special Harness Stallion Stake offered by the California State Agricultural Society, which closes May 1st. If one of the get of your horse should win the stake it will be an advertisement that will bring him many mares the following spring.

Sandy Smith, who will go to Cleveland in a few weeks with the Spreckels horses consigned to the Cleveland sale, has received a commission from a couple of Eastern trainers to purchase two carloads of the best California hay. Sandy says he will select the Pleasanton variety and if they can't win with it their horses are no good.

Eastern farm horses, the chunky-made, thick fellows from 1100 to 1250 pounds, are in more active demand in Buffalo, N. Y., than the oldest member of the trade there can remember. Such sell at from $100 to $125 with larger chunks at proportionately higher figures. A load of chunks to average 1500 pounds went out last week at $150 per head.

It is intimated that Senator Horace White, Syracuse, N. Y., is the purchaser of Maud Maxine Maxwell, the three year old California bred filly by Boodle 2:12½, and which is said to be a very fast trotter. The Senator is one of the leading members of the matinee club at Syracuse, and it is probable that he bought her to drive in amateur events.

Mr. A. C. Nash, of Oakland, has purchased from C. L. Crellin a very handsome and stylish three year old mare by Charles Derby. The mare has shown great speed for a youngster and is one of the best dispositioned animals ever on the Pleasanton track. Mr. Nash will leave her in J. M. Alviso's care for a time and then use her on the road.

Azmoor 2:20½ is being well patronized at Sacramento, having been bred to 17 mares already and there are six more booked thus far. He bears his twenty years of life so lightly that Vet Tryon says visitors rather doubt his word when he tells them Azmoor's age. He can still step a very lively clip when exercised on the track and can show all his old time speed for a quarter.

George H. Ketcham will soon begin training at the Toledo track. He will begin with a stable of eight. Of course the great Cresceus is the most important of the bunch. He will be jogged on the local track, occasionally being given a fast mile to limber him up for the flights against time later in the season. The others are Aldine Medium, with a mark of 2:15½; The General, a green trotter by Birchwood; Redwood, an untrained performer by the same sire; Crescent Route, a son of Cresceus, with a mark of 2:24½; Tamerlane, a pacer, with a record of 2:24½, and a green horse by Robert McGregor out of Princess by Princeps.

Dewdrop Basler by Robert Basler 2:20, foaled April 2d, a bay filly by Zombro 2:11. The filly is large and lusty looking, marked with a star and the right hind foot and pastern and left hind foot white. She is entered in the Breeders Futurity and Mr. R. O. Newman, her owner considers her good enough to commence figuring on right now.

Assistant Secretary John B. Williams writes us from Denver that a very large number of friends and members of the order gathered at Elk's Hall in that city last Sunday afternoon to pay respect to the late Johnnie Blue who was a member of Lodge No. 7, B. P. O. E. His remains were buried in Elks' Rest at Riverside cemetery. The Episcopal service was read by the Rev. Charles H. Marshall, also a member of that lodge.

Secretaries of associations holding membership in the National Trotting Association who want to be sure about not transgressing the new rule which prohibits racing after sunset, should secure a copy of the Chicago Horseman of March 18th, as it contains a table which gives the sunset hour in every part of the United States and Canada for the entire year. It will be handy to post in the judges' stand with an index finger pointing to it.

P. J. Williams has a new advertisement of his stallion Monterey 2:09½ in this issue of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN which we ask all breeders to read carefully. Mr. Williams has one of the greatest young stallions in America beyond a doubt and the colts by Monterey will be dropping into the extreme fast lists as soon as they are old enough to start. Walter Maben has one at Los Angeles that is considered a regular crackerjack.

Frank Colby, a well known Detroit trainer, suffered a heavy loss last week, his stables together with seventeen horses and colts having been destroyed by fire. Among the horses burned were Red Royal 2:24½ by Red Wilkes, Harry P. 2:23½ by Judge Wilson, The King 2:26½ by Sphinx, Maiden Queen 2:13½, a pacing mare, and several others with records. Harry P. and The King were considered good enough for the M. & M. this year. The total loss will foot up $30,000.

It is said that Andy Welch will try to arrange a great wagon race for amateur reinsmen as a feature of the Fourth of July trotting meeting at Oakley Park, Cincinnati. He hopes to bring together Lucille 2:07, driven by C. K. G. Billings; The Monk 2:08½, driven by Fred Gerken; John A. McKerron 2:10, driven by H. K. Devereux; Lord Derby 2:06½, driven by E. E. Smathers, and another fast horse driven by Julius Fleischmann, the Mayor of Cincinnati. The Queen City of the South will practically inaugurate the Grand Circuit.

Scott Hudson has a most formidable stable at Lexington. The recent additions to his string include Chanute 2:26½, out of the dam of Janie Shelton 2:13½; Twinkle 2:13½, by Mercury, and Willie Glen 2:11½. These with Audubon Boy 2:06, Hawthorne 2:13, Don Riley 2:10½, Kanawha Star 2:14½, Baron Bell 2:18½, Grace Arlington, trial 2:13½; Tertimin 2:24, Orrin B., trial 2:08½; Cash, Jr., 2:20, and others will keep Hudson and his assistants busy enough when the working season comes. Hawthorne and Audubon Boy have only recently been taken up, and the trainer has no fault to find with them.

The particulars of Johnnie Blue's death as given by the Denver News are as follows: He had just finished jogging the horse Leigh Crawford, and after telling the stable boys that the colt seemed to pull him a good deal, he sat down on a chair apparently exhausted. He suddenly collapsed and fell off the chair before the boys could get to him. "Never mind, boys," he said; "I feel a little weak, but I will be all right in a little while." Dr. H. J. Allen was called and tried to relieve the dying horseman, but all hope was soon given up, as he commenced to sink gradually. Half an hour after he left his sulky he was dead, in the arms of Ed Connelly.

Mr. P. W. Bellingall of Oakland has sold his handsome and fast roadster gelding by Knight, sire of Anaconda, to Presiding Judge Murphy of the California Jockey Club, and the horse has been turned over to Budd Doble to drive until Mr. Murphy leaves for his home in St. Louis. This gelding is a bay, a high headed and bold going fellow and could take a record below 2:20 if trained. His dam is by Secretary, son of Director, second dam thoroughbred mare by Hubbard, third dam by Lodi, fourth dam by Billy Cheatem and fifth dam by imp. Glencoe. Here is a pedigree that the editor of the American Horse Breeder could write a page article on without exhausting the subject. Mr. Bellingall has been the boss of the road since he has been driving this horse and Judge Murphy will be able to ride well in front at St. Louis, no matter how hot the company.

The Brighton Beach Trotting Association has secured as an attractive special the Horse Review's stake of about $8000 value, for trotting foals of 1899. This has usually been decided in the West. Never has it been brought off east of Buffalo. It is second only to the Kentucky Futurity as a turf fixture of national importance and leading breeders are all anxious to win it with scions of their best sires. In it will be Oxford Boy 2:20 and Gracie Eldred 2:17, the rivals of the Kentucky Futurity, two year old division, who had a bitter battle at Lexington last October. George W. Leavitt's Todd, public trial half in 1:06½ last season, and a mile in 2:21, is another who, if eligible, will make the cracks step well toward 2:12 to defeat him. The entries are numerous and include not a few as yet to make their first start or appearance in public. It will be a red hot race, one of the biggest betting events ever witnessed and will supplant one or the other of the "Boralma Specials" very ably.

HIDALGO'S GOSSIP.

LOS ANGELES, March 31.

We are having hot weather here, just now, in the sunny South. As yet there is no smoke from burning timber and the blue and gray Sierra Madre looms up in sterile grandeur above the ever green valleys of the Santa Ana and San Gabriel. Scores of heavily laden tally-hos through the roads leading to Santa Anita and intermediate spots that are likely to interest the tender-foot; and the electric cars that run down to the seaside at Redondo and Santa Monica are crammed with tourists from every State in the Union.

A fair number of trotters and pacers are being handled at the local track and there are wonderful yarns told of a green trotter that can go away down into the small "teens" and is yet eligible to all the classes of the coming season. He has the blood of George Wilkes, through Wilton; and that of Sultan, through Del Sur, so he should not be deficient in staying quality, as his more remote crosses are of Rifleman and Woodburn, two of our best early importations of thoroughbreds. Did you ever look over a lot of modern bred trotters and pause to reflect how much more quality they exhibit than did the trotters of forty years ago? The only trotters of the pioneer era that showed much quality were Glencoe Chief 2:32½ and May Queen 2:29. The latter was a mare brought out here in 1864 by John B. Gallar, otherwise known as "Agony Jack," from his squealing voice. She became the property of Col. P. A. Finnegan and he presented her to James C. Flood, of the bonanza quartette, in return for which Mr. Flood gave Mr. Finnegan some "pointers" on Consolidated Virginia that brought the liveryman well up towards the slender circle of millionaires. Whether May Queen ever produced anything equal to herself in quality or speed, or whether she ever had a foal at all, I never knew.

Glencoe Chief was a gray gelding with the hardest set of legs I ever saw on a horse. He could always beat Jim Barton 2:32 if the heats were broken; and unless I am very badly mistaken, he once won a ten-mile race at Sacramento in thirty five minutes, with the lines lying on his back, for he was over two hundred yards ahead of his nearest competitor, Bell Ringer; and the last two miles were done in 10:39, so you can see he was merely jogging at the finish. Glencoe Chief was the property of Capt. Stephen Card, who drew a subsidy of $1000 per month from the old California Steam Navigation Co., for letting his little boat, the Martin White, lay up against the Yolo bank opposite Sacramento. But when the railroad people got hold of the boats, they cut off all subsidies and poor old Card died in the most abject poverty.

Another very handsome horse in early days, though he came here at least seven years later than Jim Barton and Glencoe Chief, was Fleet, a bobtailed black horse brought out across the plains in 1884 by Capt. Ben Harris. The Captain trotted him one good race at Sacramento and then sold him to General D. D. Colton. Colton matched him and Jim Barton against Honest Anee and Latham, but could not win the match. It was in that race that Harris Covey drove the greatest heat I ever saw trotted by a double team. Anee and Latham won by the shortest of necks in 2:40, after Covey's team had been at least 250 yards behind at the half mile. Fleet came out of that race all right but caught cold in San Francisco shortly afterwards and died about four weeks after landing in the Bay City. I shall always believe that the three greatest road horses I ever saw were Dan Rice by Dewey's Kentucky Hunter; Calvin Kellogg's Mountain Boy (a winner in Oregon under the name of Jim McDonough) by Vermont, and this same horse, Fleet, whose breeding is wholly unknown to me.

Those were the days of great trotting races and great sport on the road coming home. The track was called Shell Park and located about fifteen miles from the Plaza. It was on a marsh not far from Millbrae, a place which (so Bierce says) signifies "the voice of a thousand jackasses." Mr. D. O. Mills, who owns the place, evidently begs leave to differ with the astute Ambrose. How many a time in coming back from that track I have taken the old county road over the sandhills, to avoid the pell mell rush of passing teams along the San Bruno drive along the bay shore. The horses of that day have long since died and most of the men have followed them.

The horses of that day had not much quality but most of them could trot fast on the road and stay like a mother-in-law. The trotters of to-day are more elegantly turned and a great deal faster. Now take McKinney, for instance. He is a very masculine looking horse but not very handsome, and yet, while most of his sons are quite plain looking (mind you, they are built all right to go the route) his daughters are exceptionally beautiful. About three years ago Mr. C. C. Hastings held a sale at Agricultural Park, where the veteran, Noyes, furnished the eloquence of the occasion. Among the offerings were two McKinney fillies, four and five years old. A. W. Christy from Milwaukee, if I remember right, bought them separately at something less than $900. When he came to pay for them, he said, "Well, they may beat me for speed with these two mares but I will knock them all out for style and good looks." And I agreed with him for they were two beauties. And the same applies, though in a less degree, perhaps, to all that famous horse's progeny. I have yet to see a McKinney mare that is not handsome above the average.

The question that therefore arises in my mind is, does speed beget quality or in anywise lead up to it? It certainly cannot come through any other agency. The clean, hard limbs of the modern American trotter as compared with the bushy fetlocks and gummy hocks of the trotters of fifty years ago, cannot well escape the survey of old race goers like myself. Sultan's descendants show this trait in every line of their anatomy, but his sire, The Moor, was full of thoroughbred blood and the blood of American Eclipse, at that. In Kentucky, they breed a thoroughbred mare three or four times to a thoroughly tried racing sire; and if she fails to drop a good selling plater to any of the four matings they back her up to a trotter. So far the results have been good.

In this State we were fortunate enough to have old Belmont for a foundation. He trotted in 3:05 to a skeleton wagon, driven by Patrick Green, who was as much surprised as any of the spectators and said he could have driven him at least three seconds faster only he feared the consequences of a break. From the daughters and granddaughters of Belmont and his three sons—Owen Dale, Langford and Ben Lippincott—have come some very useful trotters, if not absolutely top-notchers. I sincerely hope that McKinney may be spared for a long life, as his get are not only race trotters and not obliged to go out for "tin cup" records, but his daughters are about the handsomest and most stylish mares I have ever seen in harness. The modern American trotter is a "thing of beauty" in most cases. Mr. Lopez was the first to call my attention to the fact, one day when we were examining Stamboul at Mr. Hobart's place; and said he would pass for a thoroughbred almost anywhere. Therefore let us hope that his good son, Stam B., may never be emasculated for the sake of a few giddy seasons on the speedway of Manhattan.

Judge Stratton Fatally Injured.

Our readers will read with sincere regret the sad and fearful ending of the recent horse-breeding venture of Judge Irwin Stratton at San Bernardino in this State. In our issue of March 22d there appeared an article from the pen of our occasional correspondent, "Alcantellum," giving the particulars of the removal of Judge Stratton from Wichita, Kansas, to this State, the jurist having chosen San Bernardino because of its excellent school facilities and also because of its advantages as a place to breed horses. He brought with him the stallion Norlin by Norval 2:14½, dam by Onward; also a stallion of the famous Hal family of Tennessee. The following dispatch from San Bernardino gives an account of a fearful and fatal accident that befel Judge Stratton and Norlin last Wednesday:

SAN BERNARDINO, April 2.—Judge Irwin Stratton, a prominent horseman recently from Wichita, Kas., was fatally injured in a collision here this afternoon with a car of the San Bernardino Traction Company and a Southern Pacific train, and Stratton's horse Norlin was instantly killed. Stratton had come here with a long string of blooded horses, and this afternoon was exercising Norlin, driving along E street. At a point in the road the tracks of the two railroad companies parallel and both cars were northbound and were racing each other. Norlin became frightened at the noise, and just as the two cars were abreast of Stratton his horse leaped across the trolley track and was thrown in front of the Southern Pacific train, and for over forty feet the horse and sulky were carried, wedged in between the tenders of the two cars, both tracks being less than six feet apart. Stratton was still conscious when brought to this city, but he is frightfully mangled and has sustained internal injuries which the physicians state will result fatally. Norlin was one of most famous stallions of Kansas and was valued at $3000.

During the month of April SUNSET LIMITED will leave San Francisco for New Orleans every Monday, up to and including April 21st, at 4:50 P. M., via San Jose, Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, El Paso, San Antonio and Houston. Direct connection with trains for New York. Secure full information from any Agent Southern Pacific Company.

On a hot day drink Jackson's Napa Soda lemonade and be refreshed.

How to Lay Out a Race Track.

A HALF-MILE TRACK.—For a half-mile track draw two parallel lines 600 feet long and 452 feet and 5 inches apart. Half way between the extreme ends of the parallel lines drive a stake; then loop a wire around the stake long enough to reach to either side. Then make a true curve with the wire putting down a stake as often as a fence post is needed. When this operation is finished at both ends of the 600-foot parallel lines, the track is laid out. The inside fence will rest exactly on the line drawn and the track will measure one-half mile, three feet from the fence. The turns should be thrown up an inch, or an inch and an eighth to the foot. The stretches may be anywhere from 45 to 60 feet wide.

ONE MILE TRACK.—For a mile track draw a line through an oblong center 440 yards in length, setting a stake at each end. Then draw a line on either side of the first line, exactly parallel with and 417 feet and two inches from it, setting a stake at either end of them. You will then have an oblong square 440 yards long and 834 feet and four inches wide. At each end of these three lines set stakes. Now fasten a cord or wire 417 feet and two inches long to the center stake of your parallelogram and describe a half circle, driving stakes as often as you wish to set a fence post. When the circle is made at both ends of your parallelogram you will have two straight sides and two half circles, which, measured three feet from the fence, will be exactly a mile. The turns should be thrown up an inch and an eighth to the foot.

Dan Patch has a Level Head.

Myron E. McHenry, the Grand Circuit trainer and race driver, jogged the $20,000 pacing stallion Dan Patch 2:04½, back and forth over the upper stretch of the Speedway yesterday, says "Percy" in the New York Sun of March 29th, and but two or three recognized either the great trainer or Mr. Sturgis' unbeaten pacer. Dan Patch looks 150 pounds heavier than when raced on the Grand Circuit all last season. He wore an open bridle, harness free from ornamentation and without a breeching, no boots or paraphernalia, and to sit and look at him pacing along at a four or five minute gait one would have to stretch his imagination to fancy that he is the one pacer looked to for a mile in a race this season in two minutes. He is a second edition of his noted sire, Joe Patchen 2:01½, as regards his docility, and though he encountered automobiles and what-not on the way to the Speedway, so level headed and intelligent is he that Mr. McHenry says he scorned them as beneath his notice. Not once was he inclined to start up, though he jogged about five miles during the exercise hours.

Fatal Quarrel at Haggin Ranch.

William McCormick, a well known trainer of thoroughbred horses on this Coast, while under the influence of liquor, last Wednesday at the Rancho del Paso, shot and killed a stableman named Thomas Cullen. McCormick and Cullen were friends and no cause is known for the deed other than the caprice of a drunken man. McCormick was in the employ of Theodore Winters for many years and prepared El Rio Rey, Yo Tambien and other famous horses for their races. Both men were unmarried.

Friends of Mr. Edward S. Hedges, well and favorably known to all trotting horsemen through his connection with their enterprises, will be grieved to learn that he has at last been obliged to retire from business. Despite the loss of his eyesight Mr. Hedges has kept at work, under increasing difficulties due to various physical troubles, until very recently; but now he is absolutely incapacitated for further effort, and his friends are trying to collect a fund to make him comfortable at least for a time. Subscriptions may be sent to W. D. Grand or F. M. Ware, American Horse Exchange, New York, and it is hoped that such responses may be prompt and liberal. Mr. Hedges is well known as the secretary, etc., of the old Fleetwood Park Association, and was associated with the late Mr. W. B. Fasig under the name of Fasig & Co. Of late years he has conducted trotting sales at the American Horse Exchange, and was always active and energetic in advancing the interests of all customers and of the trotting bred horse.

"A Tip From Am. Express Agt."

Mr. George E. Tarbox, Agt. Am. Ex. Co., Harrison, Me., writes March 28th: "Please send me $30.00 worth of Quin's Ointment. A bottle sent me last June did the work by removing a large puff from Gambrel." This is the general experience of all users of Quin's Ointment. For curbs, splints, spavins, wind puffs and all bruises or enlargements on horses or cattle, use Quin's Ointment. Price, one dollar delivered. Address W. B. Eddy & Co., Whitehall, N. Y., if you cannot obtain from your druggist.

READVILLE TROTTERS PARK, Mass. March 23, 1893.
DR. S. A. TUTTLE, V. S. Dear Sir:—I have used your Elixir for the past ten years, in the diluted form for a leg and body wash. I consider it the best wash for keeping horses from sores up. Horses done up with witch hazel or any other wash I ever used.

For the European Championship.

The race for the trotting championship is not valuable from a monetary standpoint, but it is the racing event of the year, attracting more attention than all other European harness races combined. Each year the result is watched for in America also, with almost as keen interest as our most classic stakes. The European Championship Stake is annually trotted at the Baden-Baden track near Vienna about August 15th and is on the American plan, mile heats to harness best two in three. On March 1st entries closed for the contest of next summer, and nineteen entries were received as follows:

Derby Lass 2:14, blk m by Charles Derby-Hey Dey by Copperhead.
Gayton 2:08½ by Allerton-Lucy Wilton by Wilton.
Caid 2:07½, br h by Highwood-Nikita Cossack by Don Cossack.
Princess Nefta 2:15½ by Prince Warwick.
Maurine 2:13½, b m by Hinder Wilkes-Sally B. by Lever.
Athania 2:10, br h by Junio-Athalie by Harkaway.
Bonnatella 2:10, b m by Rostock Cossack-Jule B. by Woodford Mambrino.
Wilburn M. 2:27½ by Wilton-Rose Leyburn by Onward.
Contralto 2:10, ch m by The Conqueror-Red Rose by Jester D.
Neeretta 2:09½, blk m by Neernut-Bess by Nutford.
Allison Bismont, b h by Bismont-Prairie Queen by Prairie King.
Greenbrino 2:10½ b h by Woodbrino-Jennie by Kohinoor.
Bertha Lee 2:13½, blk m by Senator Rose-Ripple by Gambetta Wilkes.
Away 2:15½, ch m by Ambassador-Wilksie by Hambletonian Wilkes.
Helen A. 2:17½, b m by Eagle Bird-Blue Bells by Governor Sprague.
John A. McKerron 2:10, b h by Nutwood Wilkes-Ingar by Nutwood.
Paul H., b h by Quartermaster.
Axmere 2:13½ blk h by Axtell-Nemesis by Nutwood.
Henrietta 2:12½, blk m by Idol Gift-Haroldia by Harold.

A greater field of horses could not have been looked for in America. A name that will strike the American first, and will cause no end of comment, is the entry of the Cleveland stallion, John A. McKerron 2:10. He was not named by the owner, H. K. Devereux, but by Leopold Hauser, a well known turfman of Vienna, who purchased several noted trotters in this country. The Europeans have done little buying in this country since 1900, but the entry of McKerron may mean another onslaught upon our market. The list of entries contains the names of every great trotter now in training in Europe from Caid to the stallions Paul H. and Allison Bismont that have no American records. Caid has proven himself one of the greatest race horses on the other side. He has won the championship, has beaten the best two mile record, and by the Europeans is called the best trotter they now have. Athania is almost his equal, in fact, it was this Village Farm cast-off that won this race last year. Greenbrino is considered one of the toughest the Europeans ever bought. Axmere has been most successful also, and it has been said by the driver of Caid that if less is made of this son of Axtell through the meetings of this month and April than last year he will be one of the contending horses next August. Wilburn M., although his American record is only 2:27, has trotted the Baden-Baden track in 2:10 4-5 in a race. Bonnatella is also famous as a European winner, but Gayton, Contralto and Neeretta, have so far won practically nothing. The race for the European championship is always trotted in fast time. Last year Athania trotted his winning heats in 2:09 9-10 and 2:10½. In 1900 Caid trotted his fastest winning heat in 2:10½, while in 1899 Que Allen trotted a heat in 2:08 2-5, which still stands as the European trotting record.—Chicago Horseman.

Anent Fake Sales.

Much has been written and said regarding some of the sales recently reported made, at a Kentucky sale in which a noted horse was run up in the bidding into the thousands, and when the truth was known it was found that the horse had not been sold at all, but still remained in the same hands. The Kentucky Stock Farm speaks as follows regarding these fake sales:

"The importance of maintaining a reputation for fair dealing can not be over-estimated in horse selling. Nothing so injures the industry as fake sales, nor does anything so quickly breed distrust in the public mind. The obligations of buyer and seller should be as strictly adhered to as in any other business, and those of the agent or auctioneer are even more sacred, for to them the buying public looks for protection. The fact that an animal is not sold when bid upon reflects discredit on both seller and salesman, unless some satisfactory explanation is made. The public is suspicious, very, and once a breeder or a salesman receives the stigma of having acted in bad faith the harm done is soon manifest. The honorable way is for an owner to place a reserve bid on his property, for in this way the bidders know whose money it is they are bidding against, and the owner only having one bid the buyer is not defrauded. But to advertise for sale an animal and allow it to go through the sale with the usual accompaniment of oratory and bidding from stool pigeons and those of honest intent is farcical and most injurious to the management of the auction, as well as for all concerned. Buyers are not eager to attend sales where unfair methods prevail and the public can hardly be expected to submit tamely to the practice of by-bidding without a protest, for as is generally the case the real owner is known, and when a horse is put up and bid off by an outsider who claims to be acting for a friend, and the horse at once returned to the former owner just cause for criticism arises. The auction mart is the legitimate place for disposing of horseflesh, and there should be the same confidence in such transactions as in any other business."

Broodmare Sires.

There are stallions which have always been credited with being great progenitors through their female progeny, such as American Star, Pilot Jr., Mambrino Patchen and his half-brother, Kentucky Clay, etc., but this idea is fast becoming only a reminiscence. It will be seen by the appended table that Nutwood heads the list, and as he also heads the list of sires of speed the force of the old contention is lost at the very first comparison. George Wilkes, the next in the list, adds to the argument, if any such is necessary, as he has been regarded as a progenitor through the male line.

The list appended gives all sires whose daughters have produced fifty or more standard performers, that is, horses with trotting records of 2:30 and pacing records of 2:25 and better.

What will strike the reader most is the regularity with which the sons and grandsons of old Hambletonian appear. Indeed, if these were eliminated but six sires would be left.

The Saddle-Bred Saddle Horse.

Rarely is a case more tersely and convincingly stated than is this indictment against the thoroughbred as a saddle horse, made public by Mr. Charles L. Railey, whose winnings with saddle horses at the prominent Western and Eastern shows easily class him as the most successful saddle horse educator in the country:

"Much was said and written about fixing the type of saddle horse at the National Horse Show last fall, many contending that the English expert had thrown no light upon the subject by its awards at the Garden. The Rider and Driver quoted the Englishman as leaning towards the thoroughbred as the best type, but since it takes many other qualities, characteristics and graces, besides conformation, to round out the saddle horse the query becomes pertinent: Can these be found in the thoroughbred? My answer is, no; and for many reasons:

"First, he is of too hot a temper, having since his creation been trained and taught to do but one thing—that is, go (run); therefore under restraint he frets, fumes, yaws his head; then one's ride for pleasure or exercise becomes a work of labor.

"Second, The thoroughbred fills the eye to look at from the ground; on his back he is all wrong; his neck is rigid and cannot be flexed into good form; as a rule he is higher over the hips than over the withers, which gives the rider a sense of pitching forward or riding down a hill, as it were. He has but little flexion of the knee and hock, and this close-to-the-ground action on the walk or trot causes him to trip more frequently than any other breed of horse. In a life experience I do not recall one high class saddle horse that was strictly a thoroughbred. I have bought many beautiful specimens of the thoroughbred and tried faithfully to develop a saddle horse, only to find disastrous failure in each instance. The Kentucky breeder long ago realized that the thoroughbred horse was the foundation from which to build for fineness of head and neck, obliquity of shoulders, texture of coat, quality of bone and fluted leg, and while retaining these qualities, add to them a higher carriage of head, more action, a more docile temperament, and from this idea was evolved the saddle-bred saddle horse of Kentucky. There is no question but that the far-sightedness of the Kentucky breeder produced the most beautiful horse known in all the world."

This comes from a man who is himself a breeder of thoroughbreds and who races a few each year, so that no possible animus can be charged. It is merely a statement of facts known to every man who has ever taken the trouble to acquaint himself with the subject. Rarely has such success attended the efforts of breeders bound together in endeavor by a common ideal as has characterized the work of the organized breeders of the American saddle horse. All this talk of establishing a type of saddle horses in this country is mere waste of words. A half century of breeding for a specific purpose has established a type. Our best markets years ago recognized that type and bought it at the highest prices ever paid for saddle horses. Only those who come new to the game or a few Rip Van Winkles in the horse world are unaware of this fact. Mr. Railey has ample reason for saying: "I shall continue to develop and exhibit this type—it dominates the show ring, commands the top price, gives satisfaction."

The organizers of the American Saddle Horse Breeders' Association who through thick and thin have stood out sturdily for the type have laid users of saddle horses under a burden of enduring obligation to them for their systematic efforts to preserve, purify and perfect the blood on which this great horse, the handsomest in the world and the most intelligent, is founded.—Breeders' Gazette.

I can't seem to count fer it,
'Cos in April every year,
A homesick feelin' takes me—
Jes' git right out o' gear.

Git thinkin' of the old home
Up where I was born.
An' how the game-cock rooster
'Used to wake me in the morn.

Seem to see the cherry trees
Burstin' into bloom;
Almost smell the fragrance
Of the hyacinth's perfume.

Wond'rin if the honey bees
'Ligt to business soon;
Thinkin' if the trout brook
Sings the same old tune

Oh, the dancin', ripplin' trout brook!
An' then I jes' git wishin',
'At business was in Halifax,
An' time 'ud come for fishin'!

"The fish ladder which is supposed to allow fish to pass up the American river over our big dam here has been taken away, and there is no chance for the spawning fish to pass the dam," said one of the employees of the Folsom Prison to a Record-Union reporter last Saturday.

"There is one good feature about the absence of the fish ladder, and that is, the convicts will have lots of fish to eat. It's tough on the fish, because when they run up against the dam they are corralled, but it's a feast for the convicts."

The Hazard Powder announcement on page 14 is a reminder to sportsmen that those goods are still on the market and made for all kinds of shooting.

The Trout Season Opens Auspiciously.

Not for many seasons past has there been in our streams—the Coast and interior waters easy of access from this city at least—such general and satisfactory good luck as the fraternity of anglers have had this week. In Marin county the Paper Mill and its tributaries have been found full of fish. The fishing here has been principally bait fishing, although the fly was used to advantage. It is estimated that over 1000 fish were taken in those waters on the 1st inst. Some of the steelhead were big fellows, eight and nine pounders, caught in the tide water pools, where they had been recuperating after spawning and on their way to the ocean again. The fly-fishermen, as a rule, caught the small sized fish, the fingerlings in almost every stream seemed to have an abnormal appetite for the fly.

The old favorite Pieta creek is somewhat high but full of fish. Two country lads caught 300 fish there Tuesday. Jake's creek, a tributary, is in splendid shape for fly-fishing; the red spinner, black goat and coachman are the best lures at present. Vassar creek is also in good shape. Messrs. Hines and Street caught a splendid lot of fish there on Tuesday. Reports from Sonoma, Nicasio, Ignacio and other nearby streams are enticing.

Many anglers easily caught the limit, 50 trout, in the Santa Cruz stream daily this week. The San Gregorio and La Honda from the lagoon up, contain plenty of good sized fresh run fish. From the junction of the two streams, E. Bartley fished out 75 trout ranging from six inches to two pounds in size. The other streams and lagoons in San Mateo county are also reported full of fish.

Some good baskets of fish have been taken out of the Llagas since the season opened. In fact it would be easier to mention fishing waters that were unfruitful than otherwise so generally good has been the opening days of the present season.

A goodly number of anglers enjoyed the first day of the season despite the rain. Many ladies were on the streams and they were also most successful in landing the speckled denizens of the waters.

The glowing reports anent the trout waters that have been going the rounds during the week have given an universal spread to the fishing fever and it is safe to predict that every angler who can get away to-day and to-morrow will be on the streams indulging in the sport.

The catching of big fish has in it something that is attractive, else the pursuit of the land-locked salmon in most waters would not be so keenly sought after. There is nothing exciting, claim some anglers, in lolling in a nicely cushioned boat or canoe and being pulled up and down the feeding grounds, while a heavy laden sinker keeps the bait and 150 feet of line far down below the surface of the lake. A heavy drag, and you know you've struck a fish. For a minute or two, perhaps a little longer, there is some real excitement before the fish is got into the boat. Then the same old business of trolling for another goes on. How much better, and how much more exciting, to wade down a swift running stream, casting your fly here, or switching it there, sometimes landing a three-quarter-pounder on a thread-like line; sometimes losing one a little bigger that madly rushed down the stream, almost running between your legs, finally getting away before the slack could be reeled in. That's sport indeed, and that's fishing. Trolling is fishing, but it's not the sport compared to the other.

Oroville Rod and Gun Club Organized.

A number of prominent Oroville sportsmen met last week at the U. S. Hotel for the purpose of taking steps to form a gun club. After the matter was thoroughly discussed, much enthusiasm being displayed over the project in hand, an organization was effected to be known as the Oroville Rod and Gun Club, and the following officers were elected: President, J. W. Godfrey; Vice-President, C. W. Putnam; Secretary, U. M. Damon; Treasurer, W. J. Schneider; Trustees, W. W. Will, A. King and August Johnson. The following committees were appointed: Finance, U. M. Damon, A. Boetsch and Roe Derby; Constitution and By-Laws, Roe Derby, Ray Frost and W. J. Schneider.

A great deal of interest was displayed in the meeting, over fifty members signing the roll. Steps will be taken at once to purchase traps, bluerocks, etc., and prepare for future sport.

The club will endeavor to have all the game laws enforced and to secure the protection of game at all times. They will also have the surrounding country stocked with Chinese pheasants.

Fred Gilbert of Spirit Lake, Ia., on the 28th inst., won the match for the "Sportsmen's Review" trophy, and now by this win takes absolute possession of that cup. The contestants were Gilbert, J. A. R. Elliott and W. R. Crosby of O'Fallon, Ill. Gilbert and Elliott tied on 47 out of 50, Crosby losing four birds. In the shoot-off at 10 birds, Elliott lost his first, second and sixth, Gilbert killing 10 straight. The race was at 50 live birds.

The Brannock bill to prevent trap shooting at live birds was passed by the Ohio House on March 28th without opposition. The bill provides a heavy penalty for violation of the statute for the prevention of this alleged and particular cruelty to animals.

Grand American Handicap.

The largest gathering of sportsmen in the history of trap shooting took place this week at Kansas City; where the tenth Grand American Handicap at live birds was held. In the principal event there was 493 entries, of which number 456 shooters started in the shoot for the Grand American trophy.

This annual trap shooting event is a strong indication of the great and increasing popularity of the sport of pigeon shooting. The first Grand American Handicap was held in 1893 at Dexter Park. The winner had to drop his bird within 21 yards of the trap to score. There were four ties on 23 birds. R. A. Welch, 28 yards, won the trophy. N. E. Money, 28 yards, was second. The next shoot, 1894, was held at the same place, there being 54 entries and 54 starters. Two straights only were made at this shoot, T. W. Morfe, 28 yards and Captain Money, 30 yards. On the shoot off Morfe won, the score was 12 to 10 birds. Willard Park, larger and more commodious, was the scene of the shoot in 1895. There were 61 entries, 58 of whom started, three straights were made; in the shoot-off, J. G. Messner, 26 yards, won on 10 straight. J. A. R. Elliott, 33 yards, won second money at this meeting. In 1896, Elkwood Park, New Jersey, was selected for the shoot. Out of 109 shooters entered, 105 started. No straights were shot at this G. A. H. meeting, there were eight ties on 24 pigeons; in the miss and out shoot off, O. R. Dickey, 29 yards, won first on five straight. S. Glover, 30 yards, was second high gun. In 1897, at Elkwood Park, T. A. Marshall, 28 yards, was the winner on the only straight score. Nine men tied on 24 birds each, but there was no shoot-off for second place. There were 146 entries and 135 of the shooters started. Again at Elkwood Park in 1898, 207 sportsmen entered for the G. A. H. shoot, 187 of them faced the traps. It will here be noticed that the increase in entries in six years was considerable. Nine shooters made straight scores of 25 birds each. E. D. Fulford, 29 yards, won the trophy on 23 straight in the miss and out tie shoot-off. G. W. Loomis, 28 yards, was runner-up.

The year following, 1899, 278 shotgun experts entered the lists at Elkwood Park, of which 262 shot up in the main event for the trophy. There were six straight scores of 25 pigeons each. The tie shoot off, miss and out; was won by T. A. Marshall, 29 yards, who killed 33 straight, giving him the honor of twice winning the principal annual trap shooting event with the sportsmen of the United States and Canada. C. M. Grimm, 29 yards, was second high gun. In 1900, the shoot was conducted at Interstate Park, Long Island, where a perfectly appointed trap shooting ground was constructed, a commodious club house, an underground system of traps, etc., possibly one of the best fitted up grounds for trap shooting in the world. The entries for the Grand American numbered 224, of which 212 shooters faced the traps in the main event. Eight shooters killed straight, H. D. Bates, 28 yards, won on the miss and out tie shoot with 34 straight. J. R. Malone, 28 yards, won second place. Last year 222 shooters paid first forfeit, of these, 200 shot out the main race for the G. A. H. cup. E. C. Griffith, 28 yards, was one of the 22 straight scores and won out on the tie miss and out with 18 straight. J. L. D. Morrison, 29 yards, was second high gun. This shoot was also held at Interstate Park.

The meeting this year, by reason of prohibitive legislation against live bird shooting, necessitated a change of location for holding the shoot. After mature consideration the Interstate Association selected Kansas City, Mo., for the meeting. That this was a popular move is evidenced by an entry list of 493 shooters who had designs on the trophy, the $1500 guaranteed money and entrance money which swelled the total purse to over $12,000. Of the original entrants in the main event 456 started on Wednesday morning. At the end of the first day 143 wing shots had secured eight straight. At the end of the first day six of the past G. A. H. winners had lost one or more birds, they were: H. D. Bates, of Ridgetown, Ont.; O. R. Dickey, of Boston; E. C. Griffith, of Pascoag, R. I.; E. D. Fulford, of Utica, N. Y.; T. W. Morfe, of Queens, L. I., N. Y., and Tom A. Marshall of Keithsburg, Ill. This will bring a new man out as the possible winner. Among the other experts who lost one or more birds in the principal race were M. O. Feudner, Fred Gilbert, Jim Elliott, W. R. Crosby. Among the clean scores on the first day were J. E. Vaughn, now of Bakersfield, and S. R. Smith, of Riverside, this State.

Three ladies, Miss Lillian Smith of this State, "Annie Oakley" and Mrs. S. Johnson of Minneapolis, each missed enough birds to put them out in the race for the trophy. They may, however, easily be in the money division. Twenty-six straight scores were enrolled at the close of the second day's shooting.

On the opening day of the meeting, in the Kansas City sweepstakes at 12 birds, 87 entrance, 30 yards rise, out of 369 entries, 36 shooters killed straight and divided $2581. Among the winners was Harvey McMurchy. Otto Feudner and Phil B. Bekeart each lost one bird, dead out, in this event. On the second day of the shoot, in the Nitro Powder handicap, 16 birds, $10 entrance, out of 419 entries 82 killed straight. Otto Feudner was one of the winners, as was S. R. Smith, of Riverside, and J. E. Vaughn, of Bakersfield. McMurchy lost a bird dead out, so did Bekeart, whose hard luck seemed to stay with him.

Sacramento sportsmen are now on the qui vive for their annual snipe shooting. Will Smith and R. Helms went afield last Saturday afternoon and bagged twenty-two snipe. The birds are becoming fairly plentiful in the swamps around the Union House, and will afford good sport from now on.

The birds are now on the way to their northern breeding grounds.

Sacramento Tournament.

A blue rock shoot, open to the shooters of Northern California, will be held at Sacramento, under the auspices of Messrs. Kimball and Upson, on May 17th and 18th.

The championships for live birds, held by Mr. Bailey of Willows, and for blue rocks, by F. M. Newbert of Sacramento, will be competed for, as well as the six-man blue rock team shoot trophy now held by the Chico Gun Club.

In addition to these events, there will be over $500 shot for in other events, which will all be class shooting.

New grounds have been fitted up at Agricultural Park, where the street cars pass every ten minutes, and all conveniences possible will be made for those who attend.

This tournament being held during the week of the Street Fair, will insure reduced rates as well as increased attractions.

AT THE TRAPS.

The California Wing Club live bird shoot for April will be the only local trap shooting attraction at Ingleside to-morrow.

The Tufts-Lyon medal in the shooting tournament at Santa Barbara on March 30th, was won by Gus Knight, who broke 45 out of 50 birds. The next shooter W. M. Stancer, Jr., broke 44.

Saturday and Sunday were ideal shooting days. Until late Saturday evening the popping of guns was almost continuous. The local marksmen held their own with the visitors. The two highest scores were made by Gus Knight, Jr., of Santa Barbara, and Louis Breer of the Tufts-Lyons Arms company of Los Angeles. Each broke 149 birds out of 175.

Among the visitors who took part in the tournament were: T. H. Parry of the Limited Gun club of Indianapolis, Ind.; Louis Breer of the Tufts-Lyon Arms company of Los Angeles; E. L. Blanchard of the Los Angeles Gun club, and John Seehorn of Manvel.

The Capital City Blue Rock Club shot at the Kimball & Upson grounds, Sacramento, last Sunday. The weather conditions were perfect. H. J. Vetter made twenty-five straight in the club shoot, the initial straight made on the grounds. He was, however,

Palm 19, Weldon 12, Blair 15, Just 21, Newbert 21, Brown 18, Contell 16, Root 14, Vetter 12, Weber 12, Wittenbrock 23.

Syndicate Formed for Trap Shooting in New Jersey.

New York wing shots and others interested in live bird shooting which recently has been made unlawful in New York State, have been in Trenton during the past week negotiating with the Directors of the New Jersey State Fair Association for a lease of the buildings and grounds of the association in the outskirts of that city, upon which the Inter-State Fair has been held for some years, and it has now been learned that plans are being made to establish the largest and most complete shooting grounds in the country at the fair grounds, and to make Trenton the headquarters of the live-bird shooters, not only of New York and Philadelphia, but of the entire country.

A syndicate of wealthy sportsmen is backing the movement, and a company to be called the Inter-State feet from him. Wolff says it was an immense fellow with shining tusks and short snout.

With lowered head the fierce animal charged. Wolff discharged both barrels of bird shot from his shotgun in the very face of the infuriated beast and then sought safety in the limbs of an oak tree above the reach of the boar. Humme was attracted to the scene by the cries of his hunting partner, and, as he had a rifle, he shot the boar through the head as it stood looking at the man it had treed. The hunters show the tusks to substantiate their story.

Bench Show Notes.

The following communication will be of interest, no doubt, to many of our readers who are interested actively or as a lover of the dog, in the bench show of the San Francisco Kennel Club this month:

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 2 1902.

EDITOR KENNEL DEPARTMENT:—The following classes have been added to our premium list, to wit: One open class for Newfoundland dogs and bitches, and the King Charles classification has been extended by adding one puppy, novice, limit and open classes to Prince Charles dogs and bitches.

In addition to the "specials" announced in the premium list, the Ladies Kennel Club of America offers: The Islip Challenge Cup, donated by H. B. Hollins, Esq., for best Collie belonging to a member of the Ladies Kennel Association. The Harbor Hill Challenge Cup, offered by Mrs. Clarence H. Mackey for best Pointer bred and owned by member of L. K. A. Sporting Spaniel Produce Plate for best Spaniel bitch with two of her get, conformation and quality of pups alone to be considered. Open to all Spaniels, excepting Toys. The Lands Point Challenge Cup for best St. Bernard owned by member of L. K. A. The Cairnmuir Challenge Cup, offered by G. M. Carnochan for best wire haired Fox Terrier owned by member of L. K. A.

Mr. R. Williamson, of New York, offers a silver trophy for the best Pomeranian. The Philadelphia Kennel Association offers four of its medals for the best St. Bernard, for the best English Setter, for the best Poodle and for the best Field Spaniel in show. Besides this Messrs. Shreve & Co., W. C. Leavitt and many others have offered cups, the conditions for competition will be published in your next issue.

There will not be a single breed which has not a rich donation of "specials," and I take these means of expressing my gratitude to all those that have so handsomely contributed to our show, and thus make same an assured success, and I wish to express to them the high appreciation of our patronesses and the directors of our club as well as my own.

Entries close on the 12th, to which I call attention, and I trust that every dog fit to enter will be at our show.

Yours truly,

L. A. KLEIN,

Hon. Manager and Secretary of the 6th Annual Dog Show of the S. F. Kennel Club.

The list of judges for the San Francisco show as published in the premium list, will be John Davidson, of Monroe, Mich., who will pass the ribbons out in Great Danes, Mastiffs, Bloodhounds, St. Bernards, Newfoundlands, Russian Wolfhounds, Deerhounds, Foxhounds, Chesapeake Bays, Pointers, Setters, Irish Water Spaniels and Beagles. E. M. Carnochan, of New York, smooth and wirehaired Fox Terriers. Major J. L. Rathbone of San Francisco, packs of Hounds. Hon Ho Yow, Imperial Chinese Consul General at San Francisco, Japanese, Pekinese Spaniels, Sleeve Dogs, Chows and other Oriental breeds. Dr. George W. Clayton of Chicago, Ills., Collies, Field and Cocker Spaniels, Dalmatians, Poodles, Bulldogs, all Terriers (except Fox Terriers) Dachshunds, Pugs, Pomeranians, Spitz, Toy Terriers, Blenheims, Ruby and King Charles Spaniels, Italian Greyhounds, Esquimaux and miscellaneous breeds. Mr. Pat Reilly will probably be selected to judge Greyhounds. Mr. Reilly is a thorough leashman and has the support of the California Coursing Committee and confidence of coursing men.

Mr. John Davidson will also judge all breeds at the Seattle show, April 9th to 12th. Mr. E. Davies of Dowdney, B. C., who officiated at Oakland in 1900, will judge all classes at Victoria this week. For Portland, Mr. Fred Mansell of London will preside in the ring over all classes. Mr. Mansell may be considered now as having made the record long distance trip in the capacity of a judge of a dog show. Upon arriving back in London he will have traveled over 14,000 miles.

Entries for the Seattle show closed on the 3d inst. Mail entries postmarked on that date will be recognized. Two strings of over thirty local dogs, taken north by Messrs. Bradshaw and Blithe, will, we are pleased to write, be shown at Seattle and Portland.

From recent reports it is anticipated that the Seattle show this year will be far ahead of any previous show in the enterprising Sound city.

A liberal list of cups, trophies, medals, cash and special prizes should induce a big entry.

The California Coursing Committee will arrange two Greyhound stakes, to be run at Union Coursing Park. These events will be open, without entrance fee, to all the coursing dogs which will be entered at the bench show. It is anticipated that nearly 100 Greyhounds will be benched.

Entries for the Portland show close on the 9th inst. Mail entries posted on that date will be recognized. The Portland club anticipates a large increase over the number of dogs benched in 1900.

Entries have already been made for the April show to an unusual and most encouraging extent thus early.

Victoria show opened on Thursday and will close to-day.

followed shortly by Mr. Herold with a similar score. Both gentlemen were the recipients of congratulations on all sides. Frank Newbert and "Parson" Upson left their shooting eyes downturned, and in the early events were "has wases," but later rounded into form and redeemed themselves. The supply of blue rocks ran out and prevented the shoot continuing until dark.

While a goodly number of the scores evidence goose eggs, it must be taken into consideration, says the Record-Union, that Sunday was a kind of an "egg" day on general principles, even the rabbits' nests, according to tradition, being filled with them on each annual recurrence of the day, so the array of ciphers is easily accounted for.

The scores of the principal events were the following: Club shoot, twenty-five targets—

Tales of the ferocity of the wild hogs in this state are narrated from time to time with more or less hair raising details, the latest story of an adventure where in the wild pig took an active part comes from Keswick. R. M. Wolff, proprietor of the Hotel Keswick relates a story of having been attacked and treed by a wild boar recently while hunting in the region of Buckeye, on the east side of the Sacramento river, where there are known always to be a few wild boars. In company with Louis Humme he was out after squirrels and rabbits. The hunters separated shortly afterward and Wolff encountered the boar. The animal surprised him by snorting shrilly when only a few

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

Another Niola Daddy litter is attracting the attention of Fox Terrier fanciers. J. B. Martin's Golden Sunshine recently whelped three dogs and a bitch puppy—all nice looking ones and were getting on well at last advices.

J. L. Cunningham will send his Great Dane bitch Juanita to Montebello Kennel; to be served by the crack harlequin Montebello Caesar. Mr. Cunningham has been the foremost breeder of Great Danes on the Coast for some years past and has won over forty blue ribbons and a number of specials with dogs he has bred and shown.

We are in receipt of a communication from Mr. Charles L. Griffith, of Pleasanton, in which he notes an opportunity for the purchase of a high class black Field Spaniel. This dog, Wealdstone Monarch, was whelped in August, 1900, and has already made a good stud record. His bench record is good; he won first novice and limit, Philadelphia, 1901; first limit and National Challenge trophy for best bred American, for best in the show, Providence, 1902; first limit and reserve winners and challenge trophy with his dam, New York, 1902. He defeated a class of twelve in the New York show. Further particulars can be had by addressing Mr. Griffith.

On the subject of "Field Spaniels, good and bad," "Moorman," a well known kennel writer, expresses his opinion that a good deal of the badness in the latter type of Spaniels is due to the fact that too many of them are broken and too few trained. "A Spaniel's natural temperament," he says, "is so buoyant, its tendency to riot so inherent, and its courage so generally pronounced, that in bringing it into trim for work with the gun, the system of breaking in (to employ a bad term for want of a better) should rather be the leading of it into proper ways than the overcoming of its natural sportive spirit. Many Spaniels possess extremely individual natures. Two of a litter, alike in everything else, even sex, will show up exactly opposite in the field, and therefore where two of a litter vary so oppositely, how much more may various specimens of a breed share in contrary peculiarities, and in that more or less nervous temperament so rarely absent in well bred sporting dogs. Thus it is that when the young Spaniels are first entered, each individual dog and bitch should be studied, and those tendencies which are favorable to a well trained dog's character be assiduously fostered and encouraged, whilst those less in request be, as it were, assiduously trained out. In the main it may be readily affirmed that more Spaniels are spoiled by beating and rough handling than by anything else. Amongst a certain class that infamous old saw about a Spaniel, a wife and a walnut tree, has had a good deal to do with the treatment meted out to this breed of dogs. Beating has been and is administered for trivial offenses and for sins of omission. Spaniels are wonderfully spirited and courageous dogs, they will work to the last kick, and then because they tire and apparently shirk, it frequently occurs that chastisement or threats are their portion, whereas a little rest or encouragement would prove successful when the former failed in effect. It is so usual, too, for the best dog to be worked almost to death, the others being held in useless reserve, so that when the superior one tires, as tire he must in a long day's work, and the reserve is called up, the mere spirit of emulation shows up, and the tired dog forgets its weariness and dashes into covert again. There is, therefore, more to be done in this direction by schooling a dog by kindness, encouragement and incitement than by use of whip or cuss words."

Care of Dogs.

A story came to us not long ago of a gentleman who never had a case of distemper in his kennels but once. The dog that had the disease was an eight-months old puppy and the curious thing is this, that he had never been beyond the grounds, not even into the road, for a single moment from his birth. He had ranted and played in a paddock, but he could not have kissed a dog through the fencing, for there was first a wooden fence, then a thick hedge, and next the road an iron railing. Contagion, therefore, is out of the question. The riddle is this: How did he come by it, if it be true, as some believe, that distemper is a contagious disease, and cannot possibly arise spontaneously? Well, it may and it may not be. Anyhow, the disease is infectious as well as contagious, and if a healthy puppy about its teething time slept in the same room with one suffering from distemper, it would doubtless become infected, although the two could not get any ways near to each other. This puppy may have inhaled the breath of a dog in distemper even through two fences and a hedge.

There is not the slightest doubt that flies and especially blue bottles, will carry the poison of contagious diseases, perhaps even rabies itself, from kennel to kennel. This is no reason why we have always recommended perfect cleanliness of dog dishes. It is a good plan, if you can spare the time, to wait and see the dogs finish their food, or make your hired man do so, then remove the dishes at once to have them washed up.

Cleanliness, fresh air, exercise, and scientific disinfecting will keep all kinds of dog diseases at bay. If you are careless or overcrowd, or keep in cold, damp, dark kennel, it is impossible your dogs can be strong, any more than grass grown in a cellar can be green. A weakly dog or bad doer is a prey to all kinds of vermin or microbes. He is plagued with fleas and lice and parasitical skin complaints. If he has lice he is bound soon to have tapeworm. This weakens him still more, and being in a low condition he is just in a fit state to imbibe the poison of infectious or contagious ailments, or if exposed to cold he falls a victim to bronchitis, pleurisy, or inflammation of the lungs.

Quacks, stable loafers and some handlers all pretend to cure distemper, and they make a bit out of it; but they don't cure it. Besides they can't even diagnose it. They will call a common cold, distemper, and thrust their brutal medicine down the poor beast's throat, and when he gets well, in spite of their rule-of-thumb cruelty, they crow over it.

Suppose one afternoon you find your dog moping and ill and refusing his food, and you give him a couple of pills; next day you find him well and hungry. You naturally jump to the conclusion that your pills—prescribed by some quack, perhaps—cured him, and you register a vow never to be without those pills. No scientific medical man would admit such reasoning.

Here is the truth. Your dog was ill and he had pills, and next day was well, but—

The pills may have cured him.

The pills may have done neither good nor harm. The recuperative powers of Nature may have set the dog on his legs again.

Your pills may have actually done the dog harm, and Nature cured him in spite of this.

It isn't policy, therefore, to put too much faith in medicine for the cure of any complaint. Even in ordinary ailments we must seek out the causes and try to remove these, while at the same time we are combating the distressing symptoms themselves.

But distemper is caused by a specific poison in the blood. Call this disease germs if you like. They find sustenance in the blood and vital organs, as it were, and when they have used that up—at the expense and great suffering of the animal patient—they die, and the dog gets well. But the presence of these disease germs give rise to the peculiar symptoms of distemper. They attack at first the mucous membranes of the nasal organs. The nose becomes dry and hot, the eyes somewhat bloodshot, and water drops freely from the nose. This subsequently becomes purulent. There is loss of appetite, with perhaps a little shivering and jorking of the ears, which, by the way, in bad cases may end in St. Vitus Dance, or a mild form of it. This often continues for life. The dog has one limb that trembles, or his neck jerks, and he can't keep it still. In mild and well-cared for cases the trouble may not last more than a week or two, but in every case—and this is diagnostic—there is emaciation. In bad cases the lungs may be attacked. We have to treat for that. The liver may become affected; again our attention must be directed to that. Kidneys suffer also, and sometimes the brain.

You must see then that distemper if neglected in its early stage may become a very terrible complaint, and its complications many, its sequelae, if the dog gets well, quite distressing.

As we cannot cure the disease, it is a matter of warmth and nursing with medicines such as milderer spirit, sweet spirits of nitre, etc., to reduce the first fever, if the temperature be high; but never give tartar emetic, as the old timers used to do.

A dose of castor oil at the very beginning, with a little laudanum in it, may do good. But no harsher aperient must be given, for this might incite bowel inflammation, far too common a complication.

The warmest, driest bed possible should be allowed. The dog may be almost buried in straw, but the kennel door should be kept open yet a draught avoided.

You should take temperature from day to day, and as long as it is over 100 degrees give nothing but good milk and arrowroot. Cold water as much as the dog chooses. Rest him all that is possible. Give green grass, if he will take it. Keep everything around him perfectly clean, and with a little sponge, dipped in water reddened with permanganate of potash, wash his eyes and nose three times a day. Keep the forehead wet with violet vinegar and water. When the temperature becomes lowered, eggs may be given, with beef tea and a little shredded raw meat. But continue the arrowroot, or change to cornflour well boiled.

Cough is perhaps best treated with syrup of squills, tincture of hyoscyamus, and spirits of sweet nitre.

Diarrhoea with the ordinary chalk mixture of the shops, each dose containing a few drops of laudanum. When he regains his appetite, feed well, but not roughly. A quinine mixture will now do good, and a little port wine thrice daily. Extract of malt will pull him round more quickly than even codliver oil. Take him out for exercise for several days on a leader, for he must not run till he regains flesh. It would not be a bad idea to send for Dr. Glover's book on dog diseases, which upon application is mailed to any address gratis.

Now, as to the more serious complications we shall not say a word, because, on the whole, we do not believe any layman could treat them.

Train Your Own Dogs.

[ED. F. HABERLEIN.]

To possess one or a brace of thoroughly trained bird dogs is the ambition of every field sportsman. How many of your acquaintances are the possessors of such a brace? But few, very few indeed. A well trained dog, endowed with the necessary natural qualities for a first class field dog, commands a price—a sum which cannot usually be expended by the average sportsman. Many are the disappointments, also, of more pecuniary fellow-sportsmen who expend large sums for so-called broken dogs in the expectation of obtaining an exceptionally fine worker—which such dogs, probably, really are when handled by their trainer, who, through constant association during course of training, became acquainted with the dog's peculiarities and capabilities, and is, therefore, able to enforce implicit obedience and to obtain work of the highest order such dogs are capable of.

The new owner, though, must, in consequence of an abrupt change of handlers, encounter obstacles usually not anticipated. It must be borne in mind that no two dogs perform alike, nor do any two men handle gun and dog and conduct themselves alike in the field, and the more contrary dog and master happen to be, the greater the confusion—usually to the detriment of the dog. A dog and its trainer become accustomed to each other's peculiarities through association, and work in harmony conducive to pleasure for both. If the sportsman purchases a puppy and sends it to a trainer to be fitted for field shooting, selects a trainer of repute and agrees to pay a reasonable sum for such service, the chances are that upon having the precious young dog returned, it will be found just as stated above—unaccustomed to the new handler, hence unfit for work actually capable of when handled by its trainer.

The time is past when one who undertakes to train a dog is contemptuously looked down upon. Moreover, the antiquated methods of so-called dog breaking of years ago are no longer in vogue. In these good old days it was deemed necessary to starve and brutally beat a helpless puppy till nearly dead and scared out of its wits, supposing that a liberal quota of lashing were a requisite to inculcate accomplishments, and the more the last were used the quicker advancement would be made. We older chaps look back with horror to the time when we sat upon slab benches in the old log hut called the school house, while the would-be "teacher" stood over us with a hickory with which he ardently endeavored to inculcate an "education." At the present time our children betake themselves to school with a characteristic buoyancy—anticipating pleasure in the pursuit of their studies under guidance of efficient tutors. The dog is a sensible animal and possessed of reasoning powers. If treated fairly and kindly, he will be delighted in obeying your orders.

The prevailing supposition that all that is required to become the owner of a really fine field dog is to purchase a puppy of some noted strain of bird dogs, which, after it has attained the proper age, can be taken afield and worked in a satisfactory manner on game, without having first been given any schooling, is a delusion. A dog inherits natural qualities, such as nose, speed, range, staunchness, etc., but not a particle of the desirable accomplishments of his progenitors, acquired by judicious training, is inherited; they must be taught to each individual dog in one or another manner. To-day that is done by neither treating the dog brutally nor in a manner calculated to be vexing to the trainer; instead, it is conducive of pleasure both to trainer and pupil in progressing step by step in systematic manner. True, training is an art, which also requires inclination, judgment, controllable temper and love for the dog, but, instead of the task training a dog is usually supposed to be, it leads to unforeseen pleasures and a satisfaction which can be obtained in no other way than by training your own dog.

A number of those who read these lines will sigh and think: "Oh, that's all very well, but I'm getting along in years and couldn't bother with a dog." There may be a growing predilection for complacency and the agreeable companionship of acquiescently-idle chums and the least amount of physical exertion compatible with the routine of business; but, you have a hobby—field shooting, and your forehead is wrinkling in perplexity because you have no dog—the last one purchased proving a failure similar to predecessors, and you are dubious as regards others offered. Your friend, though, with whom last year you were out, is the possessor of just such an animal as would be your delight, and, too, he trained that dog himself. Why, then, not do likewise? There are really but few men who would actually not have the time necessary for fitting his own dog for field work: Half an hour per day devoted to the puppy for a time, and that, too, at home, would suffice. By conducting the work systematically and in a common-sense way, patience will be supplied the amateur trainer by the pleasures derived as the pupil progresses step by step to the admiration of his master.

Supposing you had obtained a puppy, as best suits your fancy, of some approved strain of bird dogs, procured an up-to-date treatise on training, the same as your friend had, which imparts detailed instruction in clear, concise and comprehensive form, and followed its systematic teachings, you will sally forth, accompanied by your amiable pupil, with anticipation of pleasure such as only the proud possessor of an efficient, obedient dog can enjoy and fully appreciate. You know "Sport," by your own efforts, has become implicitly obedient to the slightest commands—a mere snap of the finger suffices to order him on and gleefully he bounds away in search of game; by a simple wave of the hand he is guided in the course desired; as he strikes scent and warms up to his work your blood tingles joyously; with head erect "Sport" stands at point, with quivering nose, rigid, in an inspiring attitude; you know he is true to point and will not frustrate your chance for a kill; a warning shout "steady—steady!" is unnecessary, hence you approach calmly but in rapt and sanguine expectancy; passing a few paces ahead of "Sport" you flush the birds and dexterously the little hammerless is manipulated—pip! peff!—a double is scored. "Sport," though now relaxed, stands unmoved and eagerly awaits your signal by hand to "fetch." Tenderly, one by one, he brings the birds, sits upon his haunches before you and awaits the lowering of your hand whereon to place the game, whisking merrily as an expression of joy. A complacent smile perches upon your countenance, and, after gently patting "Sport" upon the head as reward for good behavior, the hunt proceeds.

Aye, by all means, train your own dogs, advocates the author of "The Amateur Trainer."

A Lively Fight With a Montana Grizzly.

The Hon. J. H. Harris, famous in Montana as a cattle king, hunter and raconteur, has had perhaps as many thrilling and hair-breadth escapes as any one in the west. Here is the story of an experience that he had in the early days in the Highwood mountain, as Mr. Harris himself tells it:

"It was in the fall of 1875, when Johnny Carruthers, a young fellow named Shaw and myself were hunting deer and elk for their skins. We got a dollar for a deer skin and about $5 for an elk hide. Besides being royal sport there was just enough danger from the Indians in it to add zest, and then we made good wages.

"We were camped on McDonald's creek, where Murray's ranch is now, and early one afternoon I started out toward the mountain on horseback. I approached a canon in the mountains having very steep sides, whose mouth opened upon a wide, marshy flat covered with willow clumps. As I drew near the mouth of the canon I saw a huge grizzly rooting upon the mountainside. He was so busy turning over the flat rocks with his nose to find bugs and tender roots that he did not notice my approach. I dismounted behind a bunch of willows and tied my horse with a 60-foot saddle rope in order that she would have a chance to eat a little grass during my absence.

"Taking my rifle, I then advanced until I was directly upon the bear. I was in the bottom of the canon, and knelt down and fired at his heart. The bear dropped flat, and then commenced rolling toward me down the mountainside. Every foot increased the velocity with which he came tearing down toward the rocks. As he was coming directly toward me, I stepped up on the opposite slope a few feet to avoid being crushed. He landed in the bottom of the ravine in a confused heap, and before I had time to think he rose up on his hind feet directly in front of me, and, snarling and growling, he raised his huge forearms straight in the air and glared at me. My fright was such that I swung my gun around and fired without aim. In fact, the bullet went so wide of his head that it broke his wrist, which was at least a foot away. Immediately he sprang at me, growling horribly.

"My feet were incased in moccasins, and I was able in those days to run like a white-tailed deer. I had to run seventy-five yards down the side of the canon to its mouth, and every leap the bear made he slid almost to my feet. When, however, we reached the flat, he being handicapped by his broken foot, I easily outdistanced him. I think that in the 150 yards across the marsh I beat him at least twenty-five.

"Startled by the two shots and by the growls and running of the bear, my horse had come toward me as far as her rope would allow. I don't know how I reached the saddle, but I think I leaped up into the air and came down astride.

"Forgetting that the horse was tethered to the willow tree by a 60-foot rope, I urged her to her full speed. Almost at once she was well under headway, and by the time she had run the 120 feet she was running like the wind. Of course, when she came to the end of the rope she turned a complete circle in the air, and I was thrown at least forty feet. My gun went one way and I another.

"The grass was long, perhaps two feet high, and I had only to crawl a few feet to get over a little washed-out basin. Here I knelt, and, catching my breath, watched the bear. When I looked at him he was standing on his hind feet watching the mare. He was evidently puzzled at the new turn of events. He did not understand that performance. Almost as soon as the mare got to her feet she bolted between the bear and the willow clump, and as she passed the bear he made a lunge at her with both fore feet, but owing to his broken wrist he was only able to reach her with one claw, and with this he pulled out a great hunk of hair from her tail. She kicked him fair in the chest with both feet, and again ran to the end of her tether. The bear made for her again, and as she passed him he scratched her badly on the hip.

"The wound by this time was evidently telling on him, for he rose to his hind feet, looked around in the most puzzled way as though something had been lost, and then started to limp on all fours to the mountain side and disappeared in a clump of pine."

The Caddis and Gammarus as Fish Food.

It is from the "caddis" or "case" bait that such old favorites as the cinnamon, the caperer, alder, sedge, etc., flies come, and the caddis is a remarkably interesting creature. Let me say, and one worth careful observation. On the vivification of the ova, the little creature proceeds to build itself a habitation, which it does from materials lying immediately around it, such as pieces of stick, leaves, gravel, straw, wood, etc., and all this is cemented tightly together and held in its place by a natural silk gum secreted by the creature, which hardens immediately. From the ungainly and deliberate movements of the caddis this is a matter of time, but when finished the whole somewhat resembles a black-headed little Indian papoose bound up in its inflexible cradle of wicket work. The caddis attaches itself very powerfully to the inner end of the case by means of two very strong hooks, and it requires some exertion to pull it out. Just previous to the emergence of the fly we find that the entrance to this case is hermetically sealed, or at any rate, it is waterproof. Whether the caddis previously takes up a certain amount of air which, as it slowly assumes a fly form, becomes greater until sufficient to carry it to the surface, I do not know; but certain it is the caddis always is seen to rise spontaneously, and this is the usual method with the alder fly.

The appetite of the caddis is enormous. It devours both vegetable and decayed animal debris. I took out the shell of a broad bean which had been thrown in the water one morning, and it was filled with caddis and gammarus. All fish, without distinction, seem fond of caddis. A "grubbing" trout will consume dozens, shells and all, in the course of the day, but I notice that the "caddies" are generally the larvæ of the cinnamon and alder flies.

Ten years ago I do not suppose a dozen people used the little fresh water shrimp (Pulex Gammarus) as a hook bait. Truth to tell very few do so now. It is a favorite bait with me, however, especially for perch or trout. When you can find trout gorged—as I have done repeatedly in early season—with these lively little fellows, I think it is but a rational deduction that, if properly used, they would make good hook baits. Having verified this, I can say that the largest only should be used, and two may be impaled on a small-sized hook—the size of the bait will regulate this—and the tackle used ought to be of the finest. I ordinarily employ my fly-rod and the finest drawn gut, throwing the little gentleman as a fly, or perhaps more like a worm with Stewart's worm tackle, always up stream. From a little stream in Hertfordshire I took twenty-two fish in one afternoon two years ago with this identical bait, when they would not make the ghost of a movement toward a fly.

Of course, everybody knows this little creature, and how like the ordinary Pulex irritans it is in shape. Its voracity is also, perhaps, equal to its relative, though it is not given so much to actually blood-sucking. I have placed a few large ones before now in a clean tumbler of water, and watch how they circle round and round in the effort to discover the limits of their confinement—for, being denizens of running water, they are impatient of stagnant, which impatience, indeed, seems to render them cannibalistic. Still, they may be kept a long time in a globe or aquarium, as I have experienced, providing a fair supply of fresh raw meat or fish, with an occasional green bean husk, be given them. In a fish breeding bed I would counsel their extinction, for they are enemies to all young fish life. The best way to catch the fresh water shrimp is to place a gauze net in the stream, and lift the stones and gravel with a rake a little distance above. In some streams, especially those flowing over a gault formation where insect life is not plentiful, I should unhesitatingly recommend the introduction of both caddis and the "shrimp." Some ten years ago I stocked a newly made pond on a gentleman's estate in Sussex with these insects and roach, and carp, dace, chub, etc., and I hear they all did and are doing marvelously well. There can be no doubt that the colonization of fish food is almost of as great importance as that of fish.

Another little crustacean of almost equal value as food for fishes is the so-called water woodlouse (Asellus aquaticus). Its form is, as its name implies, very much like the crustacean of the land or slater woodlouse, but its movements are very slow and its habits dirty in the extreme. If there is any vegetable or animal refuse at the bottom of the water the waterlouse is sure to be in it, clogging up its fourteen legs with mud and filth until the really wonderful organs of its breathing, etc., are unrecognizable. Eels consume large quantities of these creatures, and until I found out under the microscope I was for a long time undecided as to what the accumulation of excrement I occasionally found in eels could possibly be the remains of—

Written guarantee with every bottle, given under our seal and signature, constructed solely to convince, satisfy and protect you fully. We know positively "Save-the-Horse" will absolutely and permanently cure any of the cases for which it is indicated, and for that reason guarantee is made all your way.

"Save-the-Horse" marks an achievement remarkable and unparalleled in medicine. It is the crowning success of ten years' research and experimenting in the treatment of the products of inflammation.

The potent, unfailing power of "Save-the-Horse" lies in its concentrated, penetrating, absorbing properties. It cures by penetrating to the seat of the injury or disease, producing a physiological change, absorbing all inflammatory exudate and producing a healthy, normal condition of the parts without any deleterious effect on healthy bone or tissue.

Bottle contains sufficient to effect a cure in any ordinary case. We have only two cases on record in two years where the second bottle was required to produce a cure.

Irish American Bacon Making.

Irish bacon and hams have such a reputation in England that the product of no other country, with the possible exception of Denmark, can compete with it. Its excellence is, of course, attributed, in a great measure, to the breed of hogs and the methods and materials used in feeding, but the manner of curing it has also a great deal to do with it. The bacon as made in the Green Isle is milder and does not have that extremely salty taste which is characteristic of most pork packed in America. But as it is consumed shortly after it has come from the smokehouse, it can be cured with a milder taste than it is possible for our farmers and packers to cure it, for the latter may not be put on the table for a year or more after it is made, and as a consequence must have more salt in the pickle. An Irish friend, who was employed by a farmer who made the production of fine bacon and hams for the London market a specialty for several years, alleges that a great portion of the famous Irish bacon was made from pork from the United States, Canada and other countries. According to his statement, the pork was shipped to dealers in the larger cities in a mild pickle. These dealers had their customers among the bacon producing farmers, who would buy it and cure it according to their own process and ship it to England as prime Irish bacon. The usual process employed in preparing bacon in Ireland is to take five ounces of sugar, four ounces of refined saltpetre and eight pounds of salt to every 100 pounds of pork and dissolve it in water, making a brine that will float an egg. To this brine add one ounce of cayenne pepper. Place the meat in the cask and pour the solution over it. If the bacon is intended for immediate consumption it is taken out of the brine at the end of three weeks and smoked. If to be kept any length of time it is allowed to remain in the pickle six weeks before being smoked.

VERY STYLISH FOUR-YEAR-OLD BAY mare, with black points, 16½ hands high, weighs between 1150 and 1200 pounds. City broke. Perfectly sound and all right in every way. Price $300. Address "C," care of BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN.

Beef Prices Still Rising.

CHICAGO, April 2.—An advance of one-half cent per pound on dressed beef went into effect at the Stockyards to-day when all the packers responded to the repeated advances that have taken place in the last week in cattle on the hoof. To-day's top price for cattle, $7.50 per 100 pounds, is the highest April price since 1882. Hogs sold at a record price for the year, $7.05.

Right at the end of last month an auction sale of stallions, mules and jacks was held in Tarkio, Mo. Mules, among which were a great many yearlings, commanded from $150 to $377.50 per pair. Stallions sold from $300 to $805 each and jacks from $150 to $350 each.

Alfalfa should be the preferred soiling crop for the dairy cow in summer and the popular roughage in winter. The man who can grow four or five tons to the acre need not concern himself about other summer feed during July, August and September, so far as the cows are concerned.

Veterinary Pixine

After Blistering, VETERINARY PIXINE is the very best application that could be indicated. It absorbs all inflammatory exudate and hastens the reparatory process. Will heal the most severe cases without scar and prevent loss of hair.

AS A PREVENTIVE.

If a light application of VETERINARY PIXINE is used before speeding, driving in wet, muddy or slushy weather, or in the snow, your horse will never have speed cracks, scratches or grease heel.

FOR HOOF.

It will keep the hoofs healthy, soft and in perfect form.

FOR SORES, ETC.

VETERINARY PIXINE heals collar and saddle galls, hople chafes, abscesses, inflammatory swellings, sores and all skin disease. In cases of emergency it is invaluable.

This penetrating, stimulating, soothing, absorbing, antiseptic, healing ointment heals from beneath the surface by disinfecting the parts, subduing the inflammation and stimulating healthy granulation, not by drying and scabbing.

Here's a Sheep Record.
James Buckingham, of Oronogo, Jasper county, Mo., has established a record in sheep breeding that will set all competitors a lively pace to merely approach, let alone equal. Mr. Buckingham had a bunch of lambs on the market Friday that sold for $6 25, the highest price in a year or more. The lambs were all Shropshire and well bred. Last spring Mr. Buckingham's forty-three ewes dropped a total of eighty-five lambs. In this bunch there were seven sets of triplets, twenty-eight twins and eight singles. Mr. Buckingham lost six head by death and killed two for his own personal use. This left seventy-seven head, which he marketed Friday. They averaged 103 pounds. Not only were these lambs remarkable as coming from prolific ewes, but they also made a feeding record for themselves. When sold here they were as fat as butter, yet the whole bunch of seventy-seven head had not consumed more than twenty bushels of corn since their birth. Mr. Buckingham allowed them to run on the fall on wheat and other pasture and gave them twenty bushels of corn to put them in marketable condition.—Kansas City Drivers' Telegram.

SEYMOUR WILKES REG. NO. 0232.

The Fastest Son of Guy Wilkes

Will make the Season of 1902 at

Lakeville, Sonoma Co., Cal.

SEYMOUR WILKES earned his record in a hard fought race and was a game racehorse. The oldest of his get are five-year-olds, and no horse in California can show a greater proportion of large, handsome, strongly built and well-boned colts. They all look alike and in nearly every instance are square trotters. The only one that has been trained is Joe Eviston (3-2:22 in 1901).

SEYMOUR WILKES is by Guy Wilkes his dam Early Bird by Playmail; second dam by Odd Fellow, third dam by a son of Williamson's Belmont, fourth dam by Blackhawk 767. He weighs 1200 pounds, stands 16 hands high and is one of the most symmetrical horses in California. Several of his get are in San Francisco and will be shown to prospective breeders with pleasure.

Terms for the Season, $40. Mares not proving in foal can be returned next year by paying steamer Gold. Pasturage $3 per month. For further particulars apply to THOS. ROCHE, Lakeville, Sonoma Co., or J. W. GREGORY, St. George Stables, 408 Bush street, San Francisco.

RECORD 2:11 $\frac{1}{4}$. By STAMBOUL 5101, a trotting and show king; dam, Belle Medium 2:20, a great brood mare by Happy Medium, sire of the great all-around mare, Nancy Hanks 2:04, and other great ones; second dam by the handsome sire Almont Lightning (sire of the dam of Zombro 2:11 and other great all-in-all animals, both on the turf and in the show rings; third dam by that sire of game, sound, handsome animals, Mambrino Patchen 58; fourth dam by that speed producing sire, Mambrino Chief 11; fifth dam by that stylish and long distance racing horse, Mason's Whip.

STAM B. is a fine and substantial upstanding bay, 15.3 hands tall, weighs 1100 pounds, and now rightly ranks among the most promising young sires of the land. That he is now in public service in California is a fact for which breeders may be grateful. He is already proving a sire of speed and gameness, together with size, superb style and high action, transmitting these qualities to every foal regardless of dam. He is acknowledged by all who have seen him to be very near the real and ideal race horse and all-around sire. His racing qualities were beyond criticism, and all close observers know that in his blood are represented the kings and queens of the trotting turf and show rings.

Also, as the official records show, 51 per cent of the entire purse won with Parkers; 37.5 per cent of all the guns winning money were Parkers; and 34.6 per cent of all guns entered were Parkers, which proves that the Parker is unquestionably the most popular and "reliable" gun in the world.

THE SOUTHERN COAST CIRCUIT, an idea that has emanated from the fertile brain of Secretary Merry of the Hueneme district association, will in all probability be a reality before long, and official announcement of the same, with purses and dates, made through the columns of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN. Nothing has been done by any district secretary in California this year that will help the districts in the proposed circuit as much as this action of Secretary Merry. The proposition is to form the districts of Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, Monterey and San Benito counties into a circuit to be known as the Southern Coast Circuit, to agree together upon dates, purses, etc., and to join together in advertising the same. It is the same plan that is so successfully followed in the East, and cannot help but be a great success here. The attempts heretofore made to arrange a circuit for the entire State, thus placing the smaller districts on the same footing with the larger ones, and trying the impossible feat of arranging dates to suit everybody, have failed and always will because of so many diversified interests and conditions. There can be two or three or more of the smaller circuits held at the same time in California each year without interference in any way with a successful outcome of each and all. The fairs of the southern counties are never attended by people from the northern districts outside a few horse owners, and there are horses enough to fill the programs of several meetings held at the same time, provided the places where the meetings are held are widely apart. Twelve or fifteen years ago the Northern Circuit and Southern Circuit were held during the same months and horse owners and others were greatly benefited. The crowds that patronize the smaller district fairs are almost entirely local and this organization of local circuits will create interest arouse local pride and be beneficial all around. We suggest to the Southern Coast Circuit Secretaries that they get together as soon as possible and announce purses. It will encourage more owners to train horses and lead to larger entry lists if the official announcements are made early. Success to the Southern Coast Circuit and its promoters and patrons.

IT ONLY COSTS $15 to carry a nomination in the Terre Haute Matron $10,000 stake from the date of entry until the foal is three years old, and you will not have to tie a lot of strings on your fingers to remind you of the dates of payment. It costs five dollars to nominate the mare and ten more when the foal is named and described. This is the entire sum until the year of the race. If you wish to race the colt as a two year old there is a small additional fee required to make him eligible to start, but if not, he can go till three years old without costing a cent for additional payments. It will increase the selling price of colts to have them staked, no matter whether they are sold as yearlings or as two or three year olds; and we take this occasion to remind horsemen that the Terre Haute $10,000 Matron closes on Monday next, April 14th. Send the name of your mare, and the horse she was bred to this year, to Secretary Chas. R. Duffin, Terre Haute, Ind., enclosing a postal order for $5 and you will be in line to win the big stake.

A SPLENDID SALES MART is the new quarters of Mr. William G. Layng's Occidental Horse Exchange at 246 Third street in this city. By leasing the Fulton Stables at that location, Mr. Layng has secured a new and commodious entrance to his former premises which were reached only through a narrow entrance on Tehama street. The premises are now in the shape of an L and Mr. Layng will conduct a boarding stable in connection with his auction and sales business. He has room for 200 horses, many elegant box stalls, a fine tan bark ring and large enclosure where horses can be exercised. He will make the keeping for sale of fine trotters and business horses a feature of this new venture, and the central location will make the boarding department very popular. The appointments of the sale ring and the accommodations for spectators are being greatly improved and will doubtless be appreciated by the public.

MONTANA'S BIG RUNNING MEETINGS will be held at Butte and Anaconda this year, beginning June 21st. There will be 62 days racing and no purse less than $250, to which entrance will be free. Twelve rich stakes ranging in value from $800 to $1500 are advertised to close with Lou Frank, Secretary, at Butte, on Tuesday next, April 15th. The particulars and conditions will be found in our business columns to-day. This is the last call and owners who intend racing in Montana should not forget the date of closing

DON'T FORGET that the entries for harness events at the big Thunder Mountain race meeting at Boise, Idaho, this year, close April 15th, Tuesday next. The North Pacific Circuit will furnish twelve weeks of racing, closing at Boise October 25th. If you are not a winner by that time it is only a short trip over to the famous Thunder Mountain mines, where big strikes are being made, and where you may be able to dig out enough money to buy the best horses in the country.

ENTRIES CLOSE TUESDAY NEXT for four stakes to be trotted and paced at the Oregon State Fair in September. The Greater Salem Stake of $2000 for 2:18 class pacers is the leading feature, and the Capital City Stake of $1000 for 2:24 trotters is the next in importance. There are two stakes of $500 each, one for the three year old trotters, the other for three year old pacers. Read the conditions and make your entries. The Greater Salem Stake is the only big stake thus far advertised on the Pacific Coast for this year.

GLENS FALLS Grand Circuit meeting advertises in our columns sixteen $1000 purses for a four days' meeting. Entries for ten of these purses will close May 1st, and for the other six August 1st. Read the conditions and send in your entries to Secretary W. F. Bentley in time.

MINNESOTA'S Great Western Circuit Meetings will be three in number. The first is at the Minnehaha track and under the auspices of the Minneapolis Driving Club. It opens July 1st, lasts four days and is followed by the meeting of the St. Paul Driving Club at Hamline track, which has the dates July 8th to 11th. The horses will race through other States and return to Hamline for the Minnesota State Fair in September. There are $1000 and $1500 purses galore at the July meetings and a feature of the fall meeting is the $5000 trotting purse for horses of the 2:21 class. The full program of these meetings appears in our advertising pages to-day. There are purses to the amount of $46,200 hung up at these two tracks. Entries to the July meetings close June 16th and to the fall meeting July 1st.

A BIG AUCTION SALE of forty or fifty head of trotting, road and draft stock from Mr. Henry Pierce's Yerba Buena Stock Farm, in Santa Clara county, will be held at the Occidental Horse Exchange in this city about the middle of next month. At the same time a consignment of fifteen head of high class trotters and broodmares from the celebrated Santa Rosa Stock Farm will be sold. These horses are all good individually and otherwise and among the trotting bred ones are some grandly bred mares and geldings with speed of a high order. Full particulars will be announced soon and catalogues issued giving descriptions and pedigrees.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE, at its session next winter, could not do a better thing than pass a stringent law making the selling of pools or making books on races unlawful except within the enclosures of places where the races are run. This would put a stop to the schemes of establishing poolrooms at places like Sausalito and Colma, which are a great detriment to any community and do much to bring racing into disrepute.

SEATTLE'S RUNNING STAKES, four in number, are attractive features of the racing program to be given by the Kings County Fair Association, of which Mr. A. T. Van De Vanter is secretary and manager. Entries to the Seattle Derby, $1000, and the Ladies Plate, $600, close May 1st. Entries to the Kings County Selling Stake and the Fair Association Handicap, $600 each, close August 1st. Full particulars and conditions will be found in our advertising columns.

GOOD TIMES are here for horse breeders, and good horses bring good money. Mr. J. Malcolm Forbes recently sold two yearlings by Bingen 2:06½, one for $1500, the other for $2000. When untried yearlings, which are an unknown quantity no matter how richly bred, sell for such figures, the good old times are certainly with us again. Let all strive to keep them here by breeding to the best stallions that are standing for public service.

A First Class Training Track.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—Your paper is a guardian, guide and mentor for horsemen and therefore anything for the benefit of horses and owners will surely be welcome to your columns.

There is much in the choice of tracks in the training and fitting of horses for a campaign of racing. A good safe track means good feet, sound legs and lung development to carry a horse to the end of every mile in a many heat race. If the track is springy and elastic a horse can be worked at a high rate of speed with safety to his feet and legs, which can't be done on a hard, inelastic track. Half the horses which fall by the wayside and are retired from their preparatory work are the victims of hard and unyielding footing. There are a large number of horses training around San Francisco bay, some on fairly good tracks but more on footing which is unsafe for a high rate of speed. Many of the latter go wrong, to the loss and disgust of otherwise good patrons of speedways and racing.

Alameda has a mile track, as you so well know, that is built of the finest sedimentary silt, which possesses to a remarkable degree firmness and elasticity. It is the unanimous verdict of horsemen of the East and Pacific Coast that there is no other track in America which combines the possibility of such high speed development with absolute safety to legs and feet. In connection there are miles upon miles of firm road and street drives, which relieves the poor horses from the monotony and drilling of the daily round and round of the track.

Within easy reach there are roads of hill and dale, which give muscle and lung work, so necessary to the future racer. Near the track there are numbers of stables with commodious box stalls. Feed and bedding are cheap, and men can be boarded at reasonable rates. The track is only 30 minutes from the foot of Market street, giving city horsemen the privilege of seeing their horses frequently with little loss of time from business.

Of all the horses trained on the Alameda track for the past half dozen years not one can be recalled that has broken down in work. Monterey 2:09½ took his work here and showed a mile in 2:08½. Much Better 2:07½ was fitted and developed on this track. Phoebe Childers 2:10½ was never so good in training as here. She was trained here and trotted to her record in her first race and returned here and worked a month, showing a mile in 2:07, which she was never called upon to show in her races afterward. Sir Albert S. 2:08½, the unbeaten, is a product of the Alameda track, which was never so good as this year. It is fast, safe and handy.

JOTTINGS.

DEXTER PRINCE was foaled at the once celebrated Stony Ford in New York State twenty-three years ago, but so lightly have those years rested on him that on seeing the handsome stallion in his paddock to-day at Mr. A. B. Spreckels' beautiful Aptos Farm one would not guess his age at more than half its actual sum. I saw him last Saturday for the first time, and while I had expected to see a "good looking" the grand proportions of the son of Kentucky Prince were a revelation. Dignified and docile, with a head that expresses great intelligence, and a form that denotes power and endurance in every line, he is about as near the ideal sire as one would expect to see at the head of a stock farm that is breeding for the market. He is a large horse with good bone and powerful muscles, and a strong back that shows no signs of swaying with the weight of years. His dark bay coat looks bright and healthy and his well rounded body gives evidence of good digestion. Allowing for the "toning down" that age invariably brings, one would select him on his looks as a sire of quiet, perhaps sluggish horses, instead of the upheaved, fast and nervy kind that so many trainers find difficult to handle. An inspection of the young horses by him at Aptos has convinced me that the brain of the trainer rather than the brain of the horse has been the cause of much bad acting of the Dexter Princes. They are a nervy, high strung lot and no mistake, but kind treatment and good sense in their management makes them great race horses, as they are not only fast, but game as the proverbial pebble and have the endurance of the four-mile thoroughbred, while there is a larger proportion of good sized, good boned, handsome trotters among them than has been produced by any sire in California to my knowledge. The consignments sent East in recent years from the world renowned Palo Alto Farm have been remarkable for their size and good looks and the Dexter Princes have been prominent in these annual shipments to the Eastern salesrings. This year the Aptos Farm will make its first direct shipment and of the 24 head consigned to the Blue Ribbon sale at Cleveland all will be by Dexter Prince and Cupid, a son of Sidney that is acquiring a great reputation as a sire of speed.

Just three months ago "Sandy" Smith, known from Maine to California wherever there is a salesring or a trotting track, went to Aptos to get these horses ready for the sale. Some of them were unbroken, many had been running out for two years, while a few had been worked a little a year previous. They were all sound and in good flesh, however, as all the stock at Aptos Farm invariably is, and Sandy pulled off his coat and went at them.

"Get them gentle, keep them sound, brush them enough to teach them a little speed, and get them to Cleveland in good shape for the buyers to begin training if they so desire," were the instructions given Sandy and he is following it out to the letter. He has given them road work until they are now pleasant drivers and not afraid of any of the usual sights, including steam cars. He brushes them eighths and quarters on the half-mile track at the farm, and has found that many of them have racing speed. No bandages are used on their legs, and there is not a wind puff or a pimple to be seen. No side poles, heavy toe weights, hobbles or any such appliances are used, but each and every horse is being trained to go naturally and easily at the gait that best suits it. He has twenty-two trotters and two pacers in the string and both the pacers are great prospects. There are at least a half dozen trotters that show speed of Grand Circuit quality already, and a couple that will be 2:10 performers this year with ordinary luck. This is not boasting but a conservative statement.

There is a five year old chestnut mare by Dexter Prince out of Point Lace that is a handsome individual and a very fast natural trotter. She is large and rangy with the pretty head and neck one sees on a thoroughbred. She was broken and worked some as a three year old but has been running out for a year or so and has grown into a big fine mare. I saw Sandy hitch her to a high wheel Fraser cart last Saturday and after jogging a couple of miles, brush her an eighth of a mile in 16 seconds without company, or whip or anything else to urge her except a "hike" as he passed the little crowd at the wire. Here is a mare that is worth $5000 according to the way trotters are selling over East at the present time. She is a square line trotter, needs no boots or weights, perfectly level headed and gentle and a 2:10 trotter as sure as she lives. What a road mare she would make, and a race mare too, as she has the best legs and feet I ever saw and will go five heats or more if necessary. Her dam, Point Lace, is by Antevolo 2:19½, a member of that great Electioneer-Columbine family, her second dam Martha by Speculation was an own sister to that game race horse Crown Point 2:17½, and her third dam by Geo. M. Patchen Jr. This mare trotted her eighth in 16 seconds so easily that I am certain Sandy will be able to show a quarter with her in 32 seconds at Cleveland next month, and if she could be worked another month a mile in 2:15 would be within her reach there.

A six year old full brother to this mare is a very handsome black and is fast, as an eighth in 17 seconds handily done gives evidence of. He is clean gaited, and a high headed, handsome fellow, and while gentle and good mannered is only just learning what speed means, as he has never been worked with that end in view until consigned to this sale.

A full brother to the fast mare Czarina 2:13½ is much larger and heavier than she and is a bold going, strong trotter that will attract much attention when he reaches Cleveland and is shown at the track. He will take a faster record than his sister, as he has a more level head. He has shown an eighth in 16 seconds already and did it so easily that the boys at the Aptos ranch are very sweet on him and are predicting great things for his future.

If some trainer that understands his business gets hold of the five year old filly by Dexter Prince out of Lilly S., the dam of Venus 2:11½, he will have a trotter that few can head on the race track or speedway. She is a handsome thing, bay with black points, and one of the sweetest gaited mares I have seen for a long time. She is high strung, full of gimp and one of the anxious kind, that wants to trot and can trot very fast, but is a little touchy and could be easily spoiled. Sandy is as quiet with her as a mother with a sleeping sick baby and talks to her like a lovesick widower to a sixteen year old girl. He drove her three miles that morning and though the mud caused by a light rain struck her often, he managed to keep her on her feet while she brushed an eighth in eighteen seconds. She has as much style as a show ring hackney.

A big black gelding by Dexter Prince out of Satella by Aptos Wilkes stepped through the stretch of the track in eighteen seconds and surprised us all, as he is such a big fellow. He is muscled on the cart horse plan, and could pull a surrey without distressing him any. As he is a very quiet and gentlemanly gelding, his burst of speed made us all open our eyes when Sandy turned him loose.

When he came out with a big black pacing mare by Dexter Prince out of Emma S., the dam of Psycho 2:16½, there was a look on Sandy's face that said, "Here's something extra good," and when he began moving her up there was no doubt of it. "I'll drive her a quarter in 30 seconds when I get to Cleveland," said he, and I think he will keep his word. This mare is seven years old and a handsome, powerful animal. She was so growthy when young that Mr. Spreckels would not have her worked, and she has run out most of the time until this year. She does not wear a boot and has such a clean open gait that she will never lead them. No better gaited one ever struck a track. An eighth in 16 seconds seemed play for her. She has a good level head and does not pull a pound. She'll do for the races this year.

The only other pacer in the whole bunch is a chestnut four year old by Cupid 2:18 out of Gracie S. 2:22, the dam of Dione 2:07½. She was broken as a two year old and then turned out to enjoy herself in the Aptos pastures for two years. Sandy got her up last January and no one ever saw a green mare swing off into a more natural pace than she showed the first time he took her to the track. She don't know what trotting means and it is hard for her to even walk at the diagonal gait. She wears no boots, and never makes a break. A quarter in 35 seconds can be shown by her already. She'll do for a race mare and will get a low record.

I was rather unlucky in the choice of a day to visit Aptos as a drizzling rain fell in the forenoon, making the track heavy and much fast brushing out of the question. I only saw seven or eight horses speeded, and while Sandy may have shown me the best he had in the shop in the way of speed, he assured me that there were many in the stalls that were just as fast. I made a tour of the stalls and can truthfully say that a handsomer lot of horses were never stabled on one farm. They are all clean limbed and in good order and will make a sensation at the sale if they meet with no accident going over and manage to escape disease and other ailments. Sandy is pardonably proud of them all, and well may he be, as there is not a sick or an ailing one in the entire lot.

While the Aptos Stock Farm has a very high class lot of mares and has bred them to Dexter Prince and Cupid, it has never sent out each year a regular campaigning stable. Mr. Spreckels has so many interests to look after that he has not found the time to employ a regular trainer to get a string ready for the races each year, although there was plenty of good first class material to work on. It is true that the young trotters have been taken up and broken each year and given some work on the pretty half-mile track at the farm, but they have usually been relegated to the road or sold at private sale to parties who did not care to race them. Every once in a while however there are trotters that show such speed that Mr. Spreckels has had them raced, and they invariably get low records. Hulda 2:08½, Dione 2:07½, Venus II. 2:11½, Czarina 2:13½, Psycho 2:16½ and others are among those of the Aptos representatives that have won fame for the beautiful farm on Monterey bay. In this consignment to be sent to Cleveland there will be more than one future 2:10 performer and it will be perfectly safe to predict several additions to the 2:15 lists of Dexter Prince and Cupid will develop from among the twenty-four head.

I never saw as great a proportion of good looks and speed in one string in any of my tours of inspection in California. While it is as certain as fate that were these horses owned by some of the big Eastern farms there would be touting blasts blowing from every quarter of the compass where a turf scribe was located, I fully believe that Mr. Spreckels has the right idea when he says that he wants every buyer to feel when he begins to work those purchased from Aptos, that he has a better and a faster horse than was represented by the auctioneers. He desires every animal sold to be in perfect health, sound as a dollar, and in the best possible shape on the day of the sale, so that they will be ready to begin working for the track or the speedway the following day, and be able with proper handling to improve rapidly and continuously. Buyers who get such horses will be anxious to get more of the same kind the following year, and the reputation of Aptos Farm will not be injured.

The broodmares on the Aptos farm are a splendid lot of matrons. Quite a number are descendants of the old mare Jenny by Bull Pup, the dam of Hulda 2:08½, Gracie S. 2:22 and Gus Spreckels 2:30. Gracie S. died last year. She is the dam of Dione 2:07½. Her full sister, Emma S., is the dam of Psycho 2:16½, and another full sister, Lilly S., is the dam of Venus II. 2:11½. These mares are all by Speculation 928. A list of the broodmares whose produce are consigned to the Cleveland sale are as follows:

Satella by Aptos Wilkes (full brother to Hulda 2:08½), dam Ashcat's Daughter by Speculation.

Lurline Wilkes by Guy Wilkes 2:15½, dam Ashcat's Daughter.

Neonta by Steinway, dam Caroline by Yosemite 4906.

Lilly S. (dam of Venus II. 2:11½) by Speculation, dam Jenny by Bull Pup.

Point Lace by Antevolo 2:19½, dam Martha (own sister to Crown Point) by Speculation.

Emma S. (dam of Psycho 2:16½) by Speculation, dam Jenny by Bull Pup.

Miss Valensin (dam of Czarina 2:13½) by Valensin 2:23, dam Humming Bird 2:30 (dam of Hummer 2:18½) by Tecumseh.

Lady Aptos, thoroughbred mare by Lodi, dam Key, stone by Lapidist.

Princess Louise by Dexter Prince, dam thoroughbred.

Susie Wilkes by Aptos Wilkes, dam Erminie by Abbotsford.

Corinne by Director 2:17, dam Young Ashcat by Speculation.

Keystone II. by Speculation, dam by Lapidist, thoroughbred.

Fanny Ford by Abbotsford, dam thoroughbred.

Of the above mares, those that are represented in this consignment by more than one foal are the following: Lilly S. 2, Emma S. 3, Point Lace 4, Satella 2, Neonta 2. All the others one each. The horses will leave Aptos May 1st and will arrive in Cleveland about five or six days later, probably being taken off the cars at Ogden for a short rest. When they are shown on the track there they will fulfill all the promises that have been made for them.

■ Taking her ease in a five-acre paddock adjoining the training track last Saturday, alternately cropping the luxuriant grass and looking over the fence at the young things that were being given their daily work, was the once reigning queen, Hulda 2:08½, whose campaign on the Grand Circuit is still fresh in the minds of horsemen. She is due to foal within a few days, having been bred to Dexter Prince last season. It was a great pity her foal by Searchlight 2:03½ died, as it was one of the handsomest of youngsters and had every promise of being a fast one. There is a four-year-old son of Hulda's now at the Aptos Farm. His name is Cronje and he is by Cupid 2:18. Cronje is a blocky built fellow that looks as if he could trot any number of heats without tiring, and is just beginning to show an inclination to trot fast. He looks more like his sire than like his dam, but as both are of the blocky order many see a resemblance to Hulda in this bold little stallion. Sandy says that Cronje will trot close to 2:15 next year, and perhaps he will. I hope so, at least, as he is the pride of the farm and will be retained for the stud; but I'll make a guess right now that Hulda's coming foal, if he has luck, will beat the best record Cupid's son makes. I may be a very poor prophet, but I think that Cronje will sire several that will get a faster mark than ever he himself acquires. The reason is that he is not built just right to be an extremely fast performer, in my opinion. He is bred right for a sire, however, and has very strong individuality and a will of his own. Bred to rangy mares he will get speed of the extreme order and do it with great uniformity, while his colts ought to be of the rugged, game, resolute, do-or-die sort. He has never served a mare yet, but were he my horse his entry into stud duties would be early and I would have great faith in his future.

More Good Mares to Barondale.

Barondale 2:11½ is getting a very high class lot of mares during this, his first season in California. Among those booked to him during the past week were the following:

Lady Nutwood 2:34½ (dam of Ned Thorne 2:11½, Lady Grosvenor 2:27 and Nutgrove 2:32) by the great Nutwood, dam Lady Mac (dam of Zero 2:30, two-mile record 5:02). This mare was booked by Mr. C. X. Larrabee and is the third mare sent by him to Barondale this year.

Mr. James Duncan, of Salinas, has booked his mare Cecino (half-sister to Cecilian (2) 2:22) by Mendocino out of Cecil, dam of two in the list, by Gen. Benton.

Mr. R. M. Whidden, of Santa Clara, sends his mare Susie K. 2:24½ by Brown Jug 21,985, son of Nutwood, first dam Lady Benton by Gen. Benton. Susie K. is a full sister to Col. Benton 2:14½.

Dr. Boucher has booked his great mare Miss Logan 2:06½, dam of Harry Logan (4) 2:12½ and of Bert Logan, a 21 months old colt by Colbert 2:07½ that was first put in harness on the 5th of January this year, and on Monday last stepped an eighth in 17 seconds. As this colt is by the next to the fastest of all the sons of Onward 2:25½, the stallion that has more in the 2:10 list than any horse living or dead, he will bear watching in the future. Miss Logan should have a fine foal by Barondale.

Five of the best mares sold at the January Palo Alto sale in this city have already been booked to Barondale, which is an excellent showing for a newcomer to make.

Ventura Again to the Front.

BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—The Directors of 31st District Ventura County Agricultural Association at their meeting on the 4th inst., voted to hold their annual fair and race meeting at Ventura about August 6th when a good racing program will be offered with liberal purses. It is our desire to have a coast circuit consisting of Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, Salinas and Hollister. The weather will be cool and pleasant, the horses will reach Woodland and the State Fair in good condition for racing. About two hundred horses are in training in Santa Ana, Los Angeles and Hueneme. These horses can begin at Ventura and go on up the Coast, having a pleasant time and raking in a few purses on their way up. If this arrangement can be made, a large entry list will be the result. Please give us your opinion, and oblige

T. H. MERRY,

Secretary 31st Dist. Association, Oxnard, Cal.

[The Coast Circuit should be a great success and will doubtless have the endorsement and patronage of all the horsemen in that locality as well as many from outside the territory included. By closing the circuit before the State Fair all will have a chance to race at the Sacramento meeting. The more of these local circuits arranged the larger number of horses will be trained and raced in California, and the harness horse industry will be greatly benefitted. We hope to see this "coast circuit" an annual feature of the California fairs.—ED. BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN.]

Altivo 2:18 1-2 Dead.

Altivo passed away at Palo Alto Stock Farm April 5th. He was a bay stallion foaled 1890 by Electioneer 125, dam Dame Winnie thoroughbred daughter of Planet. He was a full brother to Palo Alto 2:08½, Paola, Lone Pine 2:18, Gertrude Russell 2:23½, and half brother to Big Jim 2:23½. He was a dead game race horse and his races in 1894, when a four year old, proves it. In the Horseman Stake at Detroit, July 17, 1894, he was 10, 7, 4, 4, 5, in 2:16½, 2:15½, 2:15½, 2:17, 2:17. Four days after he won the Consolation Horseman, $9000, was 1, 2, 1, 1, in 2:18½, 2:18, 2:18½, 2:19½. I have been informed by Mr. Andy McDowell, who drove Altivo in his races, that he was the gamest horse he ever drove, a grand epitaph to inscribe on the tablet marking the grave of the full brother to Palo Alto.

RIO ALTO.

Bad Teeth Make Side Reiners.

Captor 2:09½, at present in Mr. C. K. G. Billings' string at Memphis, is looked upon by many well posted horsemen as likely to give the wagon trotters a hard tussle for honors in this season's amateur events. Last fall Charles Marvin certainly had a great trotter in the son of Electric Bell, but no one excepting Marvin appreciates the work and study required to make him the horse he was. In his first starts in 1900, he was a disappointment and his redemption came as a surprise to those who saw his rather remarkable performances at Oakley, Lexington and Memphis. Captor was a 'side-reiner' of the worst sort and in order to straighten his head and neck Marvin had to resort to an outfit of appliances which made Captor's headgear resemble the fixings of an ancient knight armed for battle. His head was reefed to the top with a heavy strap, but despite it Captor still inclined it sideways and pulled on one line. Some trainers would have despaired, but Marvin dies hard and his genius enabled him to make a reliable trotter out of a subject most any other trainer would have abandoned. But now things have changed. The jewelry has been thrown away and Scott McCoy is driving Captor handily with an overcheck and plain bit. A tale goes with this transformation.

In Mr. Billings' New York stable a valuable coach-horse was daily growing thinner and for a time the veterinary failed to find the cause. A veterinary dentist—Dr. Reilly of Providence—finally found the trouble to be in his grinders, which when treated caused no further trouble and the horse soon got fat. Previous to this Mr. Billings had sent a dentist to Memphis to look his horses over and that gentleman reported all to be in good condition after his visit. Dr. Reilly's work, however, had pleased him so much that he sent him to Memphis to re-examine the cracks there. When Captor was examined the dentist remarked that he would bet he was a side-reiner. McCoy told him that his guess was a good one and asked how he found it out. The dentist showed him Captor's teeth, two of which had small cavities in the outer shell and at the roots were badly decayed and ulcerated. After the filling process, which ensued, was ended, Captor was tried and found to be a changed horse. He drives like another trotter and shows no indication of favoring either rein. Without doubt many side pullers are troubled in the same way as was Captor, and a careful examination of their teeth will perhaps show the cause and save the trainer many heart-aches.—Marque in Horse Review.

Mr. Stice's New Purchase.

BROOKFIELD, Mo., Apr. 4, 1902

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—Dear Sir: I have recently purchased the Rose Hill Stock Farm at this place. Rose Hill Farm has long been noted as the home of many fast trotters and pacers, as its former owner, Mr. J. O. Crandall was one of Missouri's most extensive breeders of the light harness horse. The farm contains 240 acres of the finest blue grass land, and is one of the best equipped farms in the State. The residence and training barns are situated on Rose Hill overlooking the city of Brookfield.

Among the broodmares at Rose Hill are Nellie M. 2:10½ in foal to Heir-at-Law 2:05½; Jessie C. 2:10½ in foal to Sir Charles 2:10½; Wayside 2:21 in foal to Sir Charles 2:10½; Flora Little 2:23 in foal to Sir Charles 2:10½ and several other standard mares in foal to the same horse.

Wayside 2:21 is the dam of the sensational pacer Sweetheart 2:15½, the fastest three year old in California to-day. I have a full brother to Sweetheart coming two year old, which is very promising. Wayside also has a yearling by Direct 2:05½ which we think is a regular crackerjack. My other colts by Direct are doing well, and give promise of a high rate of speed.

One of the favorites of the farm is Nellie Colbert, a coming two year old by Colbert 2:07½, dam Nellie M. 2:10½, and I expect her to be as fast or faster than her sire. She is entered in the Horse Review Stake of 1903. I expect to add several record mares to my farm this Spring, and hope by judicious breeding to continue the success that has heretofore attended Rose Hill Stock Farm. Respectfully,

A. G. F. STICE.

During the month of April SUNSET LIMITED will leave San Francisco for New Orleans every Monday, up to and including April 21st, at 4:50 P. M., via San Jose, Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, El Paso, San Antonio and Houston. Direct connection with trains for New York. Secure full information from any Agent Southern Pacific Company.

Little Thorne 2:07½ was sold at the Splan auction in Chicago, March 26th, for $725. Richard Lorenz of Chicago was the buyer.

On a hot day drink Jackson's Napa Soda lemonade and be refreshed.

Sir Albert S. 2:08 3-4 Will Go East.

Wm. G. Layng has leased the racing qualities of his champion pacer Sir Albert S. 2:08½ to the Santa Rosa Stock Farm and he will go East in May in charge of Millard Sanders, who will race him through the Grand Circuit along with the three great trotting mares Dolly Dillon 2:07, Anzella 2:10½ and Bonsilene 2:14½. With a quartet of such good ones Mr. Sanders expects to maintain the prestige of Santa Rosa Stock Farm and add to it new laurels on the Grand Circuit.

Mr. Layng had already entered Sir Albert S. in several races to which he was eligible and these will be transferred to the present lessees of the horse. The races in which Sir Albert S. has been entered as stated by Mr. Layng are as follows:

Detroit, July 14, 2:09 class.....	$3000
Cleveland, July 21, 2:09 class.....	3000
Columbus, July 28, 2:09 class.....	2000
Buffalo Aug. 4, 2:08 class.....	2000
Hartford, Sept. 1, 2:09 class.....	3000
Pamlico, Sept. 8, 2:09 class.....	5000
Empire City, Sept. 15, 2:09 class.....	5000
Readville, Sept. 26, 2:09 class.....	2000

Here are eight purses and there are several more at Cincinnati, Brighton Beach, Terre Haute, Memphis, Lexington and other points which have not yet closed, and the son of Diablo will probably get an opportunity to race for stakes worth $50,000 all told before he has finished the racing season and is ready to come home.

An item going the rounds of the Eastern papers states that when W. E. Snow was out here last winter he saw Sir Albert S. Mr. Layng tells us that the papers have been misinformed, as when Mr. Snow came to see him the horse was not at his stable and Mr. Snow did not have the pleasure he anticipated. As Mr. Snow has entries in some of the races in which Sir Albert S. will start this year however, Mr. Layng says that he will have a chance to see the son of Diablo and can probably do so without "rubbering."

Monterey Directors Meet.

[Salinas Journal, April 8th.]

The Directors of the Monterey Agricultural Association, District No. 7, held a meeting yesterday afternoon at the office of Winham Bros. There were present: Directors J. D. Carr, H. S. Ball, J. A. Trescony, J. B. Iverson, T. J. Field, C. Z. Hebert, William Sables and S. N. Matthews.

There were also present from the Hollister district, Directors R. I. Orr, Col. William Higby and Al Wilson. These gentlemen were invited to be present to consult with reference to the dates, program, etc., that would be mutually agreeable to the two associations.

A proposition in writing from Hueneme, District No. 31, to form a Southern Coast Circuit, was read and discussed. The associations and the dates proposed are as published elsewhere in these columns. The proposed plan was approved by the directors of this association and also met with the approval of the Hollister directors, except that the latter preferred not to take the date just before the State Fair, as they prefer not to clash with Woodland, but to take the date that Salinas would otherwise have had.

Secretary J. J. Kelly was instructed to communicate with the secretary of the Hueneme Association and endeavor to perfect the formation of the proposed circuit.

The speed program committee were given further time and the meeting adjourned until Tuesday, May 6th.

Minneapolis for 1902.

The Minneapolis Riding and Driving Club is an association formed this season and is made up of the prominent business men of the Minnesota metropolis, R. F. Jones, President of the Great Western Circuit, being Secretary and Treasurer of the new club.

Mr. Jones has for many years conducted meetings over different northwestern tracks and is unquestionably well qualified for his position and this season, backed with ample capital and a most liberal program, should certainly meet with good success.

The Minneapolis track is a turf track, constructed by the veteran track builder, Seth Griffin, and is as good as lies outdoors. Stables and other accommodations are superior and the program provided for the July meeting of 1902 is of the most liberal order. All classes are made best two in three, except the Derby, which is a two-mile dash for 2:30 trotters for a purse of $1500. Eleven other races are on the card and six of them are for $1000 purses, the remainder calling for $600 each. $2000 reserved for specials and $1000 is offered for the show ring. All purses are guaranteed and the winners will be paid at the wire.

Examine the ad in this issue for full details.

Mr. J. C. Bray, who recently shipped a carload of roadsters to Montana, took with him a black saddle horse which he purchased from Mr. Frank Donahue, of Pleasanton.

The Abbot and Lord Derby Matched.

In New York last Saturday Secretary Charles A. McCully, of the New York Trotting Association, secured the signatures of Owners John J. Scannell and Elmer E. Smathers binding a match race at three in five to harness between the rival Village Farm bred trotters, The Abbot 2:03½ and Lord Derby 2:06½, same to be decided at the coming summer meeting at the seaside track, the date preferred being August 14th.

Messrs. Scannell and Smathers appeared promptly at 4 o'clock and with Secretary McCully retired to a table to discuss matters. I was decided best to waive the distance flag, inasmuch as last season's great special between The Abbot and Cresceus resulted in one glorious finish, then subsequent disappointment because of The Abbot's bad behavior. Both horses are bad actors when off their strides and this waiving of the distance guarantees to the race-going public three heats at all events, consequently there will be added interest in the great event. The stake money is $10,000, divided $7000 to the winner, $3000 to the loser.

Both trotters were bred by C. J. Hamlin at Village Farm; no one other than Ed Geers has ever as yet raced either. Lord Derby was considered even superior to his former stable mate by the elder Hamlin up to the time he was auctioned and each horse is owned in New York by a le ding turfman. The Abbot cost Mr. Scannell $26,500 during the November sale of 1900, earned in a very few starts last season $21,500 and at the very end of his campaign trotted a losing King, while Lord Derby is by Mambrino King from Clarabel by Almonarch. Singularly each of the trotters matched yesterday is already matched with Thos. W. Lawson's noted gelding Boralma 2:07, for $10,000 a side. The Lord Derby-Boralma race is to be decided at Charter Oak Park on the last day of August. The Abbot vs. Boralma affair has not as yet been definitely scheduled, but A. J. Welch has assurance that it will be trotted over one of his tracks, Oakley or Charter Oak.

It was agreed between Messrs. Scannell and Smathers that no meeting of the two great trotters will be arranged prior to their match at Brighton Beach, consequently a veritable treat seems in store for local enthusiasts. More of real rivalry obtains as between Lord Derby and The Abbot than between any two trotters to-day before the public. Geers would rather win with The Abbot here in New York, where last season his favorite was disgracefully distanced, than any other race he possibly could be engaged to drive.

Clipping of Horses.

The use of the clippers on horses in the spring of the year is growing in popularity every season. At that time the horses are shedding their long winter coats and naturally their systems are not in as good condition as when that operation has not been begun or when it is over. The natural shedding of the long hair is inclined to debilitate the animal to a certain extent and this inclination is increased by the extra Care of Horses.

William Lanigan, better known as "Pud," driver of Engine Company No. 12, Philadelphia Fire Department, stationed at Manayunk, is a thorough horseman of the Hiram Woodruff type, thinks more of a horse's comfort than his meals, and has literally been raised with the equines since his sixth year. For the benefit of the members of the Fire Department and all others who have charge of horses, he has submitted the following rules for their care and treatment:

Feeding—Sieve the oats well; shake all dust from the hay, which should be as much as the animal will eat. Give soft feed three times a week, mixing a little cake meal each time. A change of diet is preferable. If off his feed, examine his teeth, and at the last resort call in a vaterinary.

To prevent sores and prevent diseases—Scald the bit well every morning. Sponge out the mouth, nostrils and eyes; wash the head with cold water and clean thoroughly, especially the flanks and fetlocks. Sore shoulders can be prevented by keeping the collar or tick clean. If sores appear, raise or lower the draughts on the harness, run long breast straps and keep him close to his work.

Never strike with the whip before speaking to the animal. Do not discard the breeching in heavy hauling or much backing, as sore necks will be the result. Drive with the lines, not with the pole. Carry your own bucket and sponge. Never put blankets on a horse until he has steamed out. Walk them around heat at Memphis against "time" in 2:04, the fastest heat he trotted during the season. In early summer he was sick and never regained his former brilliancy. He has been carefully wintered at Memphis and his trainer considers that he has in every way entirely recuperated and stands a chance to regain the championship even.

Lord Derby cost Mr. Smathers $10,500 in November last at a Garden sale and went into the string of George W. Spear, Mr. Smathers' trainer, who has wintered him very carefully and considers him in every way eligible to meet all comers during the season. He came out in 1900, securing his maiden record of 2:11½ at Cleveland, and won hands down at the Empire City meeting two heats each in 2:07. Later he showed fractions at nearly a two-minute gait, but was given to seeming unsteadiness. At Readville, in a match with Cresceus, he trotted a half in 1:00½, and forced the champion out in 2:06 after a bad break. At Brighton Beach Lord Derby won the $10,000 free-for-all trot after losing a heat to The Monk in 2:09. Mr. Spear roaded him all winter over the speedway and shipped in February to Memphis, where he is being keyed up for his season's races over the same track where Geers has The Abbot and other stars in active training. To date neither has trotted a workout faster than 2:25, but each has shown all of his old time brilliant brush speed.

There is general interest in this notable special inasmuch as it is to be a test of the Village Farm's premier sires—Chimes vs. Mambrino King—The Abbot being a son of Chimes from Nettie King 2:20½ by Mambrino call for fuel by the animal's system if it so happens that he must work hard or to the sweating point while the shedding process is going on. It is an extreme strain on a horse to stand wet with sweat for hours, using up the fuel in his food consumed to dry off his hide when it ought to be going to repair the waste of tissue occasioned by the work of the previous day and the other work the system must do. The removal of this long and partially dead hair with the clippers enables the skin to dry off in a very short time and permits the food to be used for the proper purposes. Besides this when a horse is clipped in the spring he is not half so apt to catch cold for the reason that he may, no matter how warm he is, be dried off in a few moments and then be put comfortably to bed for the night. Naturally, too, a horse that is clipped can get along on somewhat less grain than the one that must stand half the night with his skin wet and therefore in great discomfort. Further still, the horse that is clipped looks better than the one that is allowed to get rid of his dead hair the best he can. The latter always looks a bit "patchy," give him the best care you may, while the fellow that is clipped looks smooth and dapper and can be much more easily groomed. Intelligently used the clippers are a great boon to horses and horsemen in the springtime. Care must, of course, be taken to see that the newly clipped horse is not exposed to heavy drafts or extreme changes of temperature without adequate blanket protection when still, in or out of the stable.

American Trotting Register Association.

CHICAGO, ILL., April 5, 1902.

BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN: At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the American Trotting Register Association, held April 2d last, the following were elected Directors for three years: Samuel Baker, Chicago, Ill.; David Bonner, New York, N. Y.; D. W. Brennenman, Decatur, Ill.; A. J. Caton, Chicago, Ill.; A. G. Danforth, Washington, Ill.; J. Malcolm Forbes, Boston, Mass.; F. E. Perkins, Providence, R. I.; Frank Rockefeller, Cleveland, O.; D. D. Streeter, Kalamazoo, Mich.; C. W. Williams, Galesburg, Ill.—all being re-elections except D. W. Brennenman, who takes the place of W. A. Sanborn, deceased.

A dividend of 6 per cent on the capital stock was ordered.

The Registrar was directed that hereafter the application for registration, in addition to showing the white markings, if any, of an animal, must give location of all curls, whorls or cowlicks.

A full report of the meeting will be printed and mailed to stockholders and others later.

Very respectfully,

J. H. STEINER, Registrar.

On a hot day drink Jackson's Napa Soda lemonade and be refreshed.

Notes and News.

Geo. H. Ketcham has reduced Silver Bow's stud fee to $50.

Over 1500 entries were made to the $11,000 Hartford Futurity.

Coney 2:02 is in training again and promises to be as fast as ever.

Petaluma citizens will make a bid for the Breeders meeting this year.

Foreigners are trying to buy the great New England colt Todd by Bingen.

George H. Ketcham will race the colt Crescent Route 2:24½ by Cresceus this season.

The British government is still sending about 13,000 horses to South Africa every month.

Geers thinks 2:03 will be about the correct figures to put after Shadow Chimes' name this year.

Grace Hastings 2:08 has a colt by Hardwicke, a son of Directum, and has been bred to Metallas 2:11.

There are $1000 purses for all classes on the Minnesota Great Western Circuit advertised in this issue.

M. E. Sturgis contemplates changing the name of his recent purchase, Freddy C. 2:14½ to Prince Direct.

Pastoria (dam of Johnny Trouble 2:15) by Judge Salisbury 5872, has been bred to Zombro 2:11 this year.

Anyone wanting a very handsome young buggy mare should see the one advertised for sale in this issue at $300.

Eddie Rice says if he does not sell Anaconda 2:01½ pretty soon he will send him to Ed Geers if this noted trainer will take the horse.

The two year old sister to Nico 2:08½ is said to be a beauty. Titer says she will make a great trotter, as she has a great turn of speed.

Alaska, a sorrel mare by Woolsey (full brother to Sunol 2:08½) died at Los Angeles last Wednesday. She was in foal to McKinney 2:11½.

Jessie McEwen 2:12½, that at two years old paced a half mile in 1:00, the last quarter in 29½ seconds, has been bred to New Richmond 2:08½.

W. L. Snow thinks he has a good prospect for the 2:15 classes in Pauline G. 2:15½, by Commoner. She showed a mile in 2:10 over a half-mile track last fall.

Los Angeles Driving Club members propose having a big parade of trotting stock at their next matinee. The stallions in service at Los Angeles will be paraded.

Rajah is again in Mr. Welch's string at Pleasanton. Mr. Goodall has used this fast pacer on the road here in the city all winter, and he is in fine condition to begin work on.

Harry K. Chittenden of Denver recently purchased the pacing mare Lottie Smart 2:08 for $1050. Frank Loomis is handling her and will take her East to the races this year.

Santa Rosa should get in line and give a good harness meeting this year with bookmaking barred. It has as fine a climate and as fast a track as there is on the Pacific slope.

Dr. Pitzer 2:12½, docked and gelded since his purchase for show purposes last November for $9000, is now being educated by Tichenor & Co. for the sphere in which he is expected to shine.

Remember the Special Harness Stallion Stake advertised by the State Agricultural Society, and name your stallion by the 1st of May. Write to the secretary about it and he will send you blanks.

In trotting horse circles over in Oakland it is rumored that the price paid by Judge Murphy of the California Jockey Club for the bay gelding by Knight that he purchased from W. P. Bellingall, was $1500.

The Boralma-Lord Derby match race will take place at Hartford on the second day of the meeting. The Futurity is carded for the first day and the Charter Oak for the third day. The Hartford track has been greatly improved this spring.

Santa Rosa Stock Farm will send about six well bred horses to the Blue Ribbon sale at Cleveland. The racing stable under management of Millard Sanders will go East in the same car as the sale horses during the early part of May.

A gentleman is in this city who wants a trotter eligible to the 2:30 class and a pacer eligible to the 2:25 class. The former must be capable of trotting in 2:20 and the latter be able to pace in 2:15. The gentleman has the cash, and will pay fair prices, but wants to make no trades or dickers of any kind, and the horses must be able to show what they can do. See the advertisement.

If four of the mares by Directly 2:03½, at Shultshurst Farm, Portchester, N. Y., will produce a foal each, the average speed inheritance of the youngsters will be exactly 2:07½. The mares are: Sunland Belle 2:08½, Kitty R. 2:08½, Laurel 2:09½ and Susie T. 2:09½.

Ed. Geers is entering the bay stallion Dandy Chimes quite extensively in the stakes for green pacers. He is a big fellow, gaited like Star Pointer, and is a brother in blood to Shadow Chimes 2:06½, being by Chimes out of Persis, sister to Charmer, the dam of Shadow Chimes.

Elsie, the great broodmare which Mr. Henry Pierce of this city purchased at the Palo Alto Stock Farm sale last January for Dr. H. F. Hamilton of Boston, has been bred to the Santa Rosa Stock Farm's stallion L. W. Russell by Stamboul 2:07½ out of By By by Nutwood.

A handsome son of James Madison 2:17½ is offered for sale by an advertiser in West Berkeley. He is well bred and a sure foal getter, kind and gentle to halter and in the stud, but has never been broken to harness, therefore is offered very cheap. See advertisement.

Suel Harris of Marysville, recently sold to Mr. Wilson of Sacramento, a handsome large mare by Lochinvar 2:20½. The mare stands over sixteen hands and is a grand looker, besides showing lots of speed. Five hundred dollars was the figure at which the transfer was made.

Hannah Price, dam of Lesa Wilkes 2:09 and five others in 2:30, by Arthurton, recently foaled a chestnut colt by Advertiser 2:15½. Owing to her advanced age Hannah Price was not sold with the balance of Gen. Tracy's stock and is still the property of the eminent Brooklyn lawyer.

Sixteen foals, ten of them colts, had arrived at the Baywood Stud this year up to Monday last. They are all by Green's Rufus and a particularly fine looking lot of youngsters. The farm recently sold a pair of carriage horses for $3500 which were a very high class pair with perfect manners.

Tom Marsh is working Boralma 2:07 at Dover, N. H., and already giving slow repeats to him. He looks better than at any time since his racing began, it is said, and has been wintered in splendid shape. If he meets no set backs or sickness it is thought that he will give a good account of himself in his great match races.

Governor Gage has appointed the following directors for the Napa District Agricultural Society: H. H. Thomas, F. W. Bush, C. D. Falconer, Geo. Berry, R. D. Taylor, A. H. Brown and D. E. Osborne. The board will soon announce a program of races for its fair this year and proposes holding one of the best fairs on the circuit.

Miss Logan's colt by Colbert 2:07½ is now 21 months old. He was given his first lesson in harness last January and on Monday last paced an eighth in 17 seconds on the San Jose track. Miss Logan is destined to be a great broodmare, as she already has one, Harry Logan, that has a four year old record of 2:12½. She will be bred to Barondale 2:11½ this year.

The chestnut mare Hyita, who trotted second to Axtello three times at Readville, July 2, 1900, in 2:15½, 2:15, 2:15½, is lame, and her owner, Mr. James McClenahan, will breed her. Hyita is by Dexter Prince (son of Kentucky Prince and Lady Dexter), dam Helena 2:11½ by Electioneer, and has been timed a mile in 2:13½. It is a pity that she cannot be trained.

Sir Albert S. 2:08½ was sent to Millard Sanders at Pleasanton last Friday, and will be campaigned in the Santa Rosa Stock Farm string this year. His first start will probably be at Detroit, as he is entered in the $3000 2:09 pace there. It is a very warm lot that he will meet, the entries being almost identical with those of the Cleveland 2:09 pace, which were published in these columns last week.

Mr. D. M. Shanks of Washington, who formerly owned Diodene 2:10½ the Diablo mare that raced on the North Pacific Circuit last year and was sold this winter at Chicago for $2500, is in California on a business trip. Mr. Shanks says the North Pacific circuit gives every promise of being very successful this year and a large entry list is expected by each and every association on the circuit.

Mr. C. E. King of College City, writes us that his mare, Dolly Grigsby by Clarence Wilkes, foaled April 6th, a bay or brown filly by Diawood 2:11. It is eligible to the Breeders' $6000 Futurity for the produce of mares bred in 1901. The Diawood colts are showing up well, being large, handsome, and good solid colors. Mr. King bred sixteen of his own mares to Diawood last year and will get fifteen colts.

A supplement containing corrections of the errors in the Year Book is to be issued. Now is the time for those who are finding fault with the way the pedigree records of their horses are printed in the book to write to Secretary Steiner and give him all the necessary and correct information in regard to the matter. Those who fail to do this should not complain if the supplement fails to correct the errors.

Historic old Point Breeze, the scene of many a hard fought turf battle, was put up at auction recently and was purchased by Anthony A. Hirst, a lawyer of Philadelphia, for $41,600. The Philadelphia Driving Club sent a delegation to the sale, and instructed them to bid as high as $41,000 on the property. It is to be hoped that the club can make some arrangements with Mr. Hirst whereby they can lease the track for a term of years, or at least have the use of it this season.

The owner of Anaconda 2:01½, is trying to arrange with Ed. Geers to take the "Snake horse" into his stable and campaign him this season. If he succeeds the Village Farm will have a free-for-all candidate that will not be outclassed by the others in that division, for, judging from Anaconda's showing last year, he is one of the fastest pacers on the turf. Geers likes a pacer and he likes to figure in the great events on the turf, hence he may conclude that he has a vacant place in his stable for just such a horse as Anaconda is.

If all the California horses entered in the Chamber of Commerce $5000 stake for the 2:24 class pacers start in the race, there will be a decided Golden State flavor to the big event. Among those entered are Tribby by Direct, owned by Mr. Juan Gallegos of Mission San Jose; Velvet Rose by McKinney, owned by J. C. McKinney of Titusville, Pa.; Funston by Dictatus, owned by A. Kaul of St. Marys, Pa.; Thornway by Steinway, owned by Col. J. C. Kirkpatrick of San Francisco, and China Maid by McKinney, owned by Consul General Ho Yow of China.

There was never as good an opportunity to buy a lot of well bred trotting mares at low figures, as is offered by Hon. Jesse D. Carr, of Salinas, at the present time. He has a large number that he must get rid of, as he is in his 87th year and wants to close out all his stock. Any man with the cash can get these mares at his own price, and if he is short of cash just now approved notes will do. Mr. Carr wants to close out his horse interests, and there are many great bargains to be had. Anyone who will buy these mares and breed them to good stallions can make money on the investment.

O'Brien & Sons, at their repository corner Golden Gate avenue and Polk street, are supplying trainers and owners with the very latest in Toomey bikes and carts. They recently sent to Geo. A. Davis at Pleasanton one of the new light Toomey jog carts, the first one of the kind ever seen on the Pleasanton track. It is a beauty and cannot be excelled for strength and lightness. The firm sent to Pleasanton this week a 33-pound bike sulky of the Toomey 1902 model, which was purchased by Capt. Matson of this city and sent to his trainer to be hitched to a Direct trotter that will pull it inside of 2:15 this year.

Frank Herdic, the veteran poolseller, speaking of betting men he has known, said: "I regard E. E. Smathers as the biggest plunger in the world. Can he out-bet Lawson? Well, allow me to remark that he can drive Lawson and the two Hubingers out of the ring. He tried to get the Hubingers to bet him $50,000 against $100,000 that they could not name the winner of the M & M., last year, and he will bet $1000 bills just as soon as most men will bet dollar bills. Aud, win or lose, he is just the same. He is the easiest loser I ever met in my life."

Hambletonian Wilkes has been bred to quite a number of well bred mares this year and has a very respectable number booked. The son of George Wilkes never looked better in his life than he does this spring. Green Meadow Stock Farm has Jack Garrity employed and he is now jogging Robert I., Maggie N. and Rose, all by Hambletonian Wilkes, on the roads, which at present are about as good as the majority of tracks to jog on. On the 1st of May Garrity will take these horses and a pacer called Adonis to the San Jose track to get them ready for the California circuit. They are all for sale, but will be raced unless a buyer comes along and takes them.

Breeding and size, as well as good looks and prospective speed, are represented in a filly that made her first appearance last Tuesday morning at Brown & Brandon's ranch near Petaluma. Mr. R. S. Brown measured her when she was able to stand up and she was just 42 inches high. She was sired by Meridian 2:12½, he by Simmocolon 2:13½ out of Sidane by Sidney 2:19½, second dam Addie S. by Steinway 2:25½. The dam of the filly is Cornelia by Cornelius, he by Nutwood 600, out of a daughter by Echo, second dam by Speculation. The dam of Cornelia was the thoroughbred mare Priscella by Thad Stevens, second dam Elisa by Norfolk, third dam May Wade by Woodburn, etc. In this filly's veins is the blood of Hambletonian 10, through George Wilkes, Strathmore, Volunteer, Speculation, Echo and Nutwood, with strains from Mambrino Patchen, Miss Russell and other great producers, backed up by the blood of such great thoroughbred race horses as Thad Stevens, Norfolk, Woodburn, Lexington and others. It should be a great combination. The filly was bred by D. S. Frasier of Napa.

The Zombros are just cutting dust at Los Angeles and the horsemen there are all talking about them. Zombroyette, three years old, out of Silver Bell by Silver Bow 2:16, an Occident Stake candidate, stepped a mile last Monday in 2:21½. We have heard of but one three year old in the United States working so fast up to this time. Lord Kitchener, a five year old, stepped a mile in 2:25, and his full brother, two years old, trotted a quarter, Tuesday, in 38 seconds, while another Zombro two year old made a quarter in 40 seconds. Gold Coin, the four year old in W. G. Durfee's string, worked a half in 1:12, and P. M. Hodges drove his Zombro five year old filly a mile in 2:20, and back in 2:20½. Walter Maben stepped Julia M. by Zombro, a mile on Friday of last week in 2:18½, last half in 1:06½ and then drove Italia, the winner of last year's Occident Stake, a mile in 2:19. There are at least five Zombros at the Los Angeles track that can beat 2:20, and the showing made is most creditable to McKinney's great son. His season will end June 1st, when Zombro will be taken to Salem, Oregon, for the balance of the year. Mr. Beckers has already bred Zombro to twenty-five mares at Los Angeles.

The only sulky made that can be lined on the race track is a McMurray and the only tool needed is a monkey wrench, and the material and mechanical construction cannot be surpassed. Price right. Coast Agent, Keaney Mfg. Co., 531 Valencia street, S. F. *

The Oldenburg Coach Horse.

The ancient home of the Oldenburg Coach horse, says an exchange, lies in North Germany, in that part of the grand duchy of Oldenburg bordering on the Baltic sea, where it is known to have been bred continuously for at least a period of three hundred years. At the accession of Count Anton Gunther to the ducal throne in 1603, large studs even then existed in the country, and the count himself, who was a great lover of horses, encouraged breeding to such an extent that in 1664 he had as many as 1200 horses on his stud farms. It fails to be recorded, however, that after a long life devoted to horse breeding an unfortunate fire occurred at the count's castle, which occasioned the destruction of all his memoranda and stud records, otherwise the pedigree of many horses of the present day could doubtless be traced back to the year 1600. After the count's time but slight interest was taken in horse breeding by the authorities till 1820, when the ducal ministry of that time appointed a committee to institute a system of registration, which continued in force down to 1897. In that year a law was passed which had for effect the merging of the State system of registration in that of an opposition stud book which had been established some time previously, the rules regulating entrance into the official stud book having been found irksome to a great degree. The association brought into being as a consequence of this law may be styled in English as the Oldenburg Coach Horse Breeders Union, and under the new methods of management continued prosperity for the Oldenburg breeders may be confidently anticipated. At the great world's horse show at Paris in 1900 the union had forward for competition some very fine specimens of the breed, a pair of which—one a first prize, gold medal and championship winner—were acquired by Sir Walter Gilbey, and now grace that gentleman's very fine collection of horses.

The aim of Oldenburg breeders, especially since the introduction of government inspection eighty years ago, has been to produce a fine, big, weighty horse, free yet graceful in movement, and elegant and attractive in general appearance. With regard to color, the prevailing shades in the breed are bay, dark bay, or black, chestnuts and grays being seldom seen. The breed on the whole is considered very robust, the general upbringing and treatment being highly conducive to this result. In the summer months the young stock are pastured out day and night and are consequently subjected to all the changes of a seaboard climate—heat and cold, mists and heavy rains, besides frequent high winds and storms. In winter the feeding is of good hay, oat and bean straw, with an allowance of oats. There is also to be said in favor of the Oldenburg horse that it is an easy feeder and can be kept in good condition on comparatively poor provender. The great markets of these horses are held every spring at Rodenkirchen, Oldenburg and Jever, these places being eight hours from Berlin and three from Hamburg.

Horse Market is Healthy.

An evidence of the extremely healthy character of the general horse market may be found in the price brought by the gelding Roy M. at the Splan sale held last week in Chicago. For this gelding with a record of 2:14½ the sum of $6250 was obtained at auction, and for the trotting mare May Allen 2:09½ only $2800 was bid. The gelding has a record of only 2:14½, as stated, yet he brought more than the mare which is a member of the most select of the speed circles. This fact is that which indicates the excellent condition of the demand. Roy M. got his mark last season on a half-mile track. It is not known that he can beat it very much, but he is in other ways a most desirable trotter and it is generally understood that he was bought by Geo. Ketcham to go to Walter Winans, the wealthy American who made so much money railway building in Russia and then settled in England to enjoy it while yet in the heyday of his youth and vigor. If the demand for trotters and pacers was merely for the racing tool it is likely that May Allen would have out-sold the gelding, but she did not and that she did not shows that the chief use of the American national horse is not as the tool of gamblers and turfmen, but as a contributor to the actual pleasure of those who have the money to make it possible, in its change of possessors, for the breeder to gain a competency for himself. It is the custom of some apparent authorities to decry the American national horse as the tool of the gambler, and of use for nothing but to make speculation possible, but the fact is that no greater untruth was ever told.—Breeders Gazette.

Aristocrat is the name of a green pacer owned at Village Farm that Ed Geers is naming in the slow pacing classes this year. He is said to be very fast. His sire is the California bred horse Athanio 2:10, now one of the European star trotters.

A Grandly Bred Colt for Anstralia.

Superintendent F. W. Covey of Palo Alto was in the city Monday last, making some of the preliminary arrangements for shipping the consignment of colts and fillies from the farm to the Blue Ribbon sale at Cleveland. While here Mr. Covey informed us that the farm will soon ship to Mr. William Bouick Veers of Melbourne, Australia, the bay two year old stud colt Marocino by Mendocino out of Aerolite by Palo Alto 2:08½, second dam Manette, dam of Arion 2:07½. The negotiations for the sale of this colt were begun with Mr. Veers last year, and have now been consummated. Marocino is one of the most grandly bred young stallions ever foaled on this farm where more champions have been produced than on any farm in the world. Hissire, Mendocino 2:19½, is by Electioneer, the greatest sire of trotters the world has ever known. Mendocino's dam Mano, is a producing mare by Piedmont; second dam Mamie, producer of four in the list, by Hambletonian Jr.; third dam the thoroughbred mare Gilda by imp. Mango. Mendocino is bred according to the late Governor Stanford's theory and is one of the grandest young sires the farm has ever produced. He is already the sire of Idolita 2:12, Monte Carlo 2:14½ and Monbells 2:23½. The dam of this two year old colt that will soon make the trip to the antipodes, is a young mare foaled 1891 and has had but three foals, the oldest being a filly by Dexter Prince that was sold from the farm some time since. The second dam is the famous Manette by Nutwood. Manette produced the great Arion 2:07½, whose two year old record of 2:10½ has never been approached by a trotter, and who is now considered one of the coming great sires of America, having already sired Nico 2:08½, and fourteen more in the standard list.

Mr. Veers has selected a young stallion that will be the most valuable addition to the breeding ranks of Australia ever sent from these shores.

Sweet Marie Trots in 2:12.

At a matinee held by the Los Angeles Driving Club last Saturday, Mr. William Garland drove his recent purchase Sweet Marie by McKinney, a second heat in 2:12, thus giving this handsome trotting mare a new matinee record. The race was a friendly match with Mr. Edwin Earl's pacer Sweetheart. The Los Angeles Herald thus describes the race:

"On the second scoring for the first heat they got away on even terms, Sweet Marie having the pole. At the first turn she drew slightly ahead, but did not show daylight. At the first quarter, which was made in 33½, Sweetheart had overcome this trifling advantage. Immediately after passing the quarter Sweetheart went in the air, losing about 100 yards before regaining her feet. Mr. Garland eased Sweet Marie until Sweetheart was within good striking distance and, as they turned into the stretch, a pretty finish seemed more than possible. The pacer was still unsteady, however, and broke again shortly after straightening out for the wire. Sweet Marie came in unextended in 2:18."

"The second heat was evenly contested. Throughout neither horse making a skip in the entire distance. Scoring up rapidly they got away in full stride and on even terms. The pair traveled like a team to the half mile when Sweet Marie went to the fore and maintained her lead to the wire. Coming down the stretch under a hard drive Sweetheart made a gallant but unavailing effort to overhaul her fleet adversary. The time by quarters was 33½, 1:05, 1:39 and the mile in 2:12, the last quarter being trotted in thirty-three seconds. This establishes a new matinee record for Mr. Garland's speedy mare."

The St. Paul Driving Club.

W. G. Carling, a gentleman of solid financial standing, is at the head and front of the St. Paul club this year and with ample support and assistance promised by the business men of the Saintly City Mr. Carling has prepared a most entertaining card for the meeting which follows the Minneapolis dates in the Great Western Circuit. With a view to attracting the best campaigners out early in the season, St. Paul and Minneapolis united on a program making all heat races best two in three and nearly doubling the purse offerings of all previous years. The St. Paul meeting will be held over the State Fair course at Hamline, Minn., and there is but a six mile drive between it and the Minnehaha course at Minneapolis.

Readers will find full information regarding each meeting on another page.

During the month of April SUNSET LIMITED will leave San Francisco for New Orleans every Monday, up to and including April 21st, at 4:50 P. M., via San Jose, Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, El Paso, San Antonio and Houston. Direct connection with trains for New York. Secure full information from any Agent Southern Pacific Company.

News From the North

[Portland Rural Spirit.]

W. L. Whitmore brought down a carload of drivers from his Mayview farm last week and is selling them on the market here.

Thos. S. Griffith has withdrawn his green pacer J. P. Adams from sale and placed him in John Lance's stable to be trained for the races.

Geo. Peringer has entered his trotter Mt. Hood 2:20½ in the Grand Circuit. He will make his first start at Denver in June, going from there on East.

H. H. Helman says the business outlook for his stallions Boodle, Oro Guy and Alton B. is very good. Quite a number have booked their mares to one or the other of these stallions, and no one ever goes away from the stable without leaving an order.

John Pender has taken the Jones family to the Fair Grounds. He left this week with Capt. Jones, Oliver Jones, Bessie Jones, Gipsy Jones and Black Rascal and will be located at the Fair Grounds the balance of the season, where Capt. Jones will be kept in the stud. The rest of the youngsters taken are all sired by Capt. Jones and Mr. Pender requests and cordially invites all prospective breeders to call at the Fair Grounds and see this family of Jones before breeding elsewhere.

J. B. Stetson of Boise, Idaho, writes: "I am glad to report that our fair ground plant is being rushed right along. The track survey is completed and the buildings on the old ground are nearly torn down. Contracts will be let this week for the grading of the track and in fact every thing will be pushed to the front. The old track has been put in fairly good shape for early work and we are starting the horses up a little already. I have just received a Nebraska bred mare that has the ear marks of a good green trotter. She is by Pelleteir, son of Lord Russell, and her dam is by Counsellor 2:21 by Onward. She is a very racy looking brown mare with a good way of going."

Geo. E. Peringer was in Portland this week and says the horses at Pendleton are stepping along some this spring. The weather and track up there has been ideal for early training and the boys have some of their stables ready to race. Mr. Peringer has in his stable, in charge of A. E. Heller, Mt. Hood 2:20½; a green trotter by Westfield; one by Bhodoker, and a green pacer by Hambletonian Mambrino. James Erwin is working on the same track, Ollie M., (2) 2:19½; Starkey 2:15½; Oregon Sunshine, three year old pacer by Bonner N. B.; a green pacer by Chehalis; two green trotters and the two year old Easter Ana entered in the $1500 stake at the Oregon state fair. B. F. Swagart of Heppner, has a lot of two and three year old runners on the track, which he is training for the North Pacific circuit.

Mr. Lawson's Experience.

Writing to the American Horse Breeder, Mr. Lawson says: "It may be of interest to your readers to know the result of my effects in securing four Ponce de Leons and Dare Devils. It certainly was both interesting and instructive to me, as it demonstrated beyond question that there is profit in breeding, provided you breed right. My advertisements seemed to have been read by the owner of every son and daughter of both stallions, of which there are about fifty or sixty, and when I was through negotiating I found it was impossible to buy four young Dare Devils at any price I considered reasonable. I was willing to pay, and, in fact, offered $12,000, or an average of $3000 apiece, but could not secure them for less than $20,000."

"Does this prove the American trotting industry is in good condition or not—$3000 apiece for four unmarked two and three year old trotting horses with only their individuality and breeding to base prices on? Well, I was obliged to give it up, although I could have secured two fair specimens, one at $2500 and one at $3000, but it was necessary for me to have four to show for the herd prize."

"I was more fortunate with Ponce de Leons, solely because Mr. Daly's death threw a number of yearlings and two year olds into the open market last fall, and their buyers, having had no opportunity to test their speed, could not refuse good profits. I bought six in all, three in a bunch from John C. Kinney, and it goes without saying I was obliged to pay pretty stiff prices—prices which would enrich any breeder if he could secure them for a few years, and I would not have your readers run away with the idea that I paid any more than was necessary. They can judge when I say that one of my offers of $3500 and another of $3000 were refused for two two year olds, the holding price of their owners being $5000 and $7500. You will make no mistake, Mr. Editor, if the Breeder continues to ding it into the heads of its readers that there is profit in trotting horse breeding if you breed right."

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE

The two mile race at Oakland on Saturday was won by Nones, the horse that ran second in the Burns Handicap (and who should have won it) beating Siddons, the winner of the Thornton Stakes at four miles, run three weeks previously. The time was 3:28, just a second slower than Newton's race at Chicago in 1895, but Nones was just the same age as Newton and carried a much heavier rider. Really the best race at that distance is that of Carbine (by Musket) for the great Melbourne Cup of 1890, for he covered the distance in 3:28½, with 145 lbs. on his back and in a field of 39 horses, a fact not to be overlooked by intelligent turfmen. The second horse in that race was High-born, a six year old gelding, with 98 lbs. up; and the third was the St. Leger winner Corneze, three years old, with 105, all of which details only serve to show the accuracy of the handicap. Carbine is now owned in England, where his sons and daughters are getting their full share of the public plunder. Mr. Edward Corrigan has recently imported two of his daughters into America.

I do not think the owner of Siddons, who came second at Oakland on Saturday, can have any excuse to offer for his defeat. He was in receipt of 7 lbs. from the winner, of his own age, and it is impossible that he could now be sore from his big race of three weeks ago, for he was never fully extended at any part of that effort. I do not presume to dictate, but I do believe that if the Oakland track would cut down the Burns to $5000 and make the Waterhouse a $10,000 race, just as the Burns Handicap now is, with a provision that it should be run between the 10th and 20th of March, they would have twice as big a crowd as went over to see the Thornton Stakes run and a much better contest for the money. I do not seek to dictate to any man of Mr. T. H. Williams' experience in racing but merely offer a suggestion for what it is worth, believing that he will be thankful for it, whether he adopts it or not. The Melbourne Cup was established in 1866 and in all the long years that have lapsed since 1872, the smallest field that has started for it was 22. Ten years ago I begged Mr. Brewster to revive the Washington Park Cup and make it a handicap, but he said he would have a Board of Directors to fight, if he did; and so the thing "died a-bornin'," as the gentleman from Pike would say.

It is getting to be a very hard question to answer, as to which is the best two year old in California. Some say Sylvia Talbot, some Maxine, Some Orfeo and others the oft-beaten Deutschland. Also also has good claims in that direction, but on Saturday he was beaten by Honiton, a moderately good colt, at even weights and Deutschland came third. I am glad I was not at the poolroom that day, or I should have backed Deutschland. He is bred just to my own liking, being by imp. Sain (than whom there is no better bred horse in America, if as good) out of Denfargilla by old blind Onondaga, who was the only stallion between 1875 and 1900 to have to his credit the winners of 170 races in a single season, except Sir Modred, whose get won 211 in 1894. The next dam is by Buckden, son of Lord Clifden, the St. Leger winner of 1853; and if Buckden had not died comparatively young, Capt. Cottrill would have broken every bookmaker between the Gulf of Mexico and the North Pole. The next dam was by Jack Malone, who beat Fanny McAllister in the fastest race of two-mile heats ever run south of the Ohio river, in 1862, when the war clouds hung over the land, and the next is Vesper Light by Child Harold. She produced Vandalite by Vandal; and Vandalite won both the Dixie and Breckinridge Stake at Baltimore, being the only horse to win both, as the winner of the Dixie had to put up a 5-lb. penalty in the Breckinridge, a task to which such cracks as Monitor and Hubbard were unequal. There were twenty odd stallions imported into the United States last year from England, some of which I have a great fancy for and others not so much. But, if "you hear my gentle voice," I shall never go over to England to purchase a stallion while I can find an American horse whose breeding suits me as well as that of Deutschland, the property of Monsieur Barrenbard de Schreiberio.

I bought some books the other day from the widow of an old friend now deceased. Among them are six volumes of the English Sporting Magazine from 1829 to 1835, both years inclusive. They are devoted to field sports as much as to racing, but there are portraits of Margrave, St. Giles, The Colonel, Cadland, Glaucus and no end of cracks of that period. The handsomest one in the lot is The Colonel, from whose male line came the great Abercorn, the best horse I ever saw; and next to him comes Glaucus, who won the Ascot Cup (2½ miles) at 2 o'clock and the Eclipse Foot (3 miles) on the same day and both of them in a common canter. Yet Glaucus is a horse of whom nobody sees any mention in modern pedigrees. I looked at his picture and then called to mind a remark of the late Hon. James White, of Australia. He said: "My dear sir, we breed race horses every year, but we only breed sires two or three times in a century." No better proof of his wisdom can be found than the history of that same horse, the big and beautiful Glaucus.

There is talk of a race meeting here during Fiesta week, but I am like the man whom old Captain Noah offered to take aboard of the Ark, "I don't think it will be much of a shower." The truth is that, while our city is full of Eastern tourists and all our hotels crammed to the verge of suffocation, the class of people who come out here as climate refugees and wait for the Fiesta before going home, are not race-going people by any means. They all come from the States of the Upper Mississippi Valley and are eternally hunting up bargain counters. That's not the kind of people to patronize the "sport of kings," or render it profitable. A baker with whom I have done more or less business in the past eight years, tells me that there are seventy-two restaurants in this city serving meals at fifteen cents, as against forty-seven in 1900. You never saw such a lot of "barbaric yawps" as some of these Kansas and Nebraska people are. They had an automaton piano player in one of the Broadway music stores, one day last week and the police had to come along and drive the people away from in front of the window where they stood and stared like so many stuck pigs. For a while it blocked the whole sidewalk and crowded passers-by into the middle of the street. Racing at Los Angeles will never pay, if it has to depend upon the patronage of that element. The managers of our local racetrack are pretty well aware of that fact and hence, if they give an Agricultural Fair in September next, they will content themselves with that and small blame to them. Improvements at Brighton Beach.

Brighton is to have one of the handsomest, best appointed and most commodious club houses that can be boasted of by any race track between the Atlantic and the Pacific. Only two weeks ago President Engeman made public the plans for a new field stand which will be second to none on the Metropolitan Circuit. Last week he gave out plans for a club house which is to enhance the beauty of the always popular course by the sea. The new club house will be chaste in design and will be calculated to please the best patrons of the sport in which Brighton has played such a prominent part and to which it has contributed so much—in money and in sport.

In this new turf home nothing that can contribute to the comfort of race-goers or the convenience of horsemen and jockeys will be lacking. It will have a frontage of 100 feet and will occupy a location just east of the grand stand, with which it will be connected by an elevated walk so that its patrons may pass from the grand stand with ease and comfort. It will be three stories in height and will be situated so that the occupants of its broad double decked veranda may have a good view of every race run. The offices of the association, with well lighted rooms for owners and trainers and jockeys, will be on the first floor. On the second floor there will be a large cafe and reception room with a sloping veranda which will accommodate 500 persons, and on the third floor there will be well appointed parlors and dining rooms with the numerous comforts which will go to make an afternoon's outing enjoyable for the wives and sisters and daughters of the men who may have the privilege of wearing members' badges. Adjoining the jockeys' room will be a large pool with a shower bath and the whole will be finished in tile and Italian marble. The interior will be finished in hardwood throughout.

On the ocean side of Brighton's new home there will be a large porte cochere, with a stairway direct to the second floor for the convenience of those who may drive to the course. The total cost of the improvements planned will amount to $65,000. The contract for the building of the club house has been given to Daniel Ryan, of Brooklyn, who will break ground this week. Mr. Frank Quinby is the architect.

The new club house, with the site of a new paddock which is under consideration, will permit President Engeman to wipe out the old offices and also to fulfill a long cherished design of landscape decoration, which will make the approaches to the grand stand and club house most attractive.

President Engeman does not propose to stop with the erection of a new field stand and club house, although these improvements would make the new Brighton, founded and built by him, well nigh complete. He has in mind a paddock which will be a model and the plans for which will be completed shortly. The new Brighton, which will be in readiness for the opening of the twenty-fourth annual meeting on July 5th, will be a revelation to race-goers.

Tiverton a Great Road Horse.

The bay trotter, Tiverton 2:23½ by Galileo Rex, owned by Mr. A. B. Gwathmey of New York, is now considered one of the greatest of the speedway horses. The New York Evening Telegram of March 27th thus describes a scene on that celebrated speedway on the day before:

Mr. A. B. Gwathmey and his bay trotter, Tiverton, by Galileo Rex 2:12½, were the most prominent winners at the speedway yesterday. Many have expressed the opinion from time to time, that Tiverton was really the standard bearer in Mr. Gwathmey's stable and that he was a very formidable candidate for the speedway championship should the owner decide to enter the lists. The performances of the gelding yesterday certainly justified the opinion that he can hold his own with any trotter that has so far appeared this season.

Tudor Chimes 2:13, with the trainer, John Howell, up, worked two heats with Tiverton, but was not prominent at the finish of either. Mr. Howell explained that he did not get away in either brush in position to make a race. Later Tiverton was started against the brown trotter Kingwood 2:17½, driven by George A. Coleman, but when the battle waxed warm Kingwood lost his balance. Then J. J. Timmins, behind Harry Davis 2:26½, joined in with Tiverton, but he never got within a length of the leader as the two neared the finish.

Mr. John F. Cockerill, behind Swift 2:15½, was among the late arrivals, and he promptly tackled Mr. Gwathmey and his champion, only to be added to the list of beaten ones. Swift got away like a winner, and at the quarter mile post he was still leading. When Mr. Gwathmey called on Tiverton for more speed the response came promptly, and soon the two horses were on even terms. Mr. Cockerill worked hard to turn impending defeat into victory, but Tiverton came with a rush at the finish and won by fully a length.

A Promising Pair of Fast Ones.

Mr. Frank Work of New York, who has always taken pride in double harness performances, has put Black Robert 2:13½ and Peter Stirling 2:11½ together, and Mr. David Bonner, who has driven them a number of times, is of the opinion that they will make a great pole pair. Peter Stirling, who won the Kentucky Futurity last October in 2:13, 2:11½, 2:14, is a chestnut gelding, with level head, and he has grown considerably during the winter. He is by Baronmore 2:14½ son of Baron Wilkes and May Wagner by Strathmore) out of Medio by Cooper Medium (son of Happy Medium), she out of Topsey by Mambrino King, and she out of a daughter of Grey Eagle, the four-mile race horse. This is stout breeding. Black Robert is a black gelding, 7, by McRoberts (son of Robert McGregor) out of Medio, dam of Peter Stirling 2:11½ and Marbel 2:14, and he has a race record of 2:13½. He also is well behaved on the road, and has as much speed as his distinguished half brother. As both geldings have good mouths and are gaited alike, the probabilities are that Mr. Work will be able to show a very fast mile with them to pole before the close of the season.—Turf, Field and Farm.

The Fillin' o' the Creel.

Come a' ye men o' business,
 Tho' trade is dull in toon,
 I ken a thing to charm awa'
 The wrinkle and the frown

Just tak' your rods and go
 To the stream ye ken so weel;
 An' your troubles ye'll forget
 When fillin' o' the creel.

I ken that competition's keen,
 And strikes are muckle ill;
 An' what if prices wunda rise—
 Be sure that troutie will.

So tak' your rods and go—
 Fling the ledger to the de'il;
 For we've gotten other fish to try
 When fillin' o' the creel.

I hear that things about the State
 Are ookin' verra queer
 An' we'll hae a change o' game laws
 Just in anither year.

Let them pass what laws they like,
 An' nae sorrow shall we feel,
 If they donna hinder wi' their jaws
 The fillin' o' the creel.

Folks say we're ga'an to hev a war
 At the dog show verra soon,
 An' muckle's the fearfu' earthquakes
 To blaw us to the moon.

But we trust they'll gie us time
 To wind anither reel
 And hae anither bout, my lads,
 At fillin' o' the creel.

Doon on the streams o' Monterey
 May-day invites the huckle fly—
 In Santa Clara waters feerty mickle fish,
 Bids the angler brothers lie.

So tak' your rods and go
 To streams ye cast so weel,
 Where a twa dozen gude fish
 Is a fillin' o' the creel.

Then pass the jorum round, my boys,
 We'll hae anither drain;
 And speed the hours when we shall meet
 And fish the streams again.

So take your rods and aff
 To the streams I needna' name,
 Where many pleasures wait us—
 Where the willow creel is hame.

Fish Lines.

Louis Smith, a Napa angler, numbered among his catch on the 2nd inst., a trout measuring sixteen inches long. He caught most of his fish near the "Trancas."

The season opened favorably at Reno, Nevada. Last Friday many fine catches were made and all the anglers reported the river in fine shape for fishing. Big trout from the lakes are now running in large schools.

Rector canyon must be a good trout stream this year. Thursday, April 3d, John Jacobs and John Saunders, two Napa sportsmen, caught 182 of the speckled beauties from its waters. The fish averaged six inches in length and were fat and fine.

San Gregorio and La Honda creeks are reported to be swarming with fish. On Wednesday and Tuesday of last week two anglers caught 150 fish near Kiefer's on the La Honda. Seven of these fish weighed eleven pounds, the largest one measured over eighteen inches in length.

One thousand trout in two days is the phenomenal record made by a quartet of fishermen on Smith's creek, near Mount Hamilton, this week. The party consisted by William Kerr, John Geoghegan, Walter Kerr and John French of San Jose, and they returned on the 5th inst. from their outing. This is the largest catch made in Santa Clara in many years.

In the large mess of fish were many magnificent specimens of trout. According to the fishermen Smith's creek is teeming with trout. They were the first on the creek.

Trout fishing is reported good in all the streams of the county, due undoubtedly to the large numbers planted in recent years and the protection afforded the streams by the Fish and Game Protective Association.

Many Petaluma anglers were on favorite streams on the opening day. Sport promised well until the rain came at an early hour and spoiled the fishing.

Nearly all of the anglers say that every stream showed evidences of having been fished for weeks. Numerous evidences of recent lunches and well beaten paths in the soft earth along the streams told the tale.

Captain Fred Walker took forty-six fair sized fish out of Novato creek.

Dr. George Lovejoy and F. Peters brought in twenty-three. M. Giacomini and E. A. Allen brought in twelve from Carriger creek. Mr. Allen hooked a young salmon which broke his rod and put him out of commission for the rest of the day. J. E. Warren, of San Francisco, brought in three fish and gave them away. E. E. Drees caught a cold. C. F. Northrup got a soaking and no record could be obtained of his other catch. J. Smith brought back nine trout. Messrs. Sneed and Palmer landed eleven at Nicasio creek. C. Johnson's catch was not recorded. Scores of anglers whipped the streams, but indignantly denied that they were out.

A representative delegation of Napa anglers were on the brooks and streams throughout that vicinity the first day of the open season for trout. Unfortunately for the fishermen but not so for the fish, the weather was unpropitious and the water was too high for many large catches. The anglers also state that although the trout are long enough they seem to be unusually thin and "poor" for some reason or other.

A party consisting of Lester Drake, Channing Mansfield, T. A. Bell and Robt. Little, went up to Sage canyon. Between them they extracted 191 members of the finny tribe from their cool retreats.

L. E. Johnston and Walter West fished about the lower end of Sage and caught fifty-six between them. The heavy downpour of rain interfered greatly with their day's sport.

Lyman Chapman and Chas. Levansaler are reported to have hooked 27 from the stream in the Napa redwoods.

W. G. Thompson and Herbert Sawyer got 26 out of the Chiles creek.

Jake Breitenstein didn't go so far from home. He fished from the mouth of Napa creek up a little ways and had a basket of 18 large ones to show for it.

Jack Callinan whipped Dry Creek and induced 18 trout to come home with him.

The angler is by many a very much misunderstood individual, particularly so by those who do not believe that a decent drink is part of an angler's outfit, and in this, it must be acknowledged that errors creep into the minds of many in that connection. They are not wanting who assert that anglers draw on their imagination for their fish and on whisky for their imagination; the error has actually found lodgment in the realms of art, as the following instance will prove: James Markland, who will leave this city for Nome next month where he will open a public house, ordered among other attractive articles he proposes to take with him, an elaborate work of art for the adornment of his prospective barroom. The artist in due time finished the picture and this week sent it to Butler's symposium. The painting was at once hung in a conspicuous place and submitted to the critical view of the wholesale district sportsmen and many others who were invited to be present at its uncovering. When the work of art was disclosed it was found to represent an angler in full fishing costume—corduroy suit, wading boots, a cast of flies around his hat, over his shoulder a basket and rod case, in his left hand a landing net and in his right hand a full sized whisky bottle, nearly empty. Markland was somewhat surprised, and said: "I've seen others do it, but surely an angler doesn't go up and down a stream with a bottle of whisky in his hand!" The painter replied severely, "Doesn't he? Well, all I can say is that you have never seen some of the real anglers on the Paper Mill."

Net Fishing Prohibited in Marin County.

An ordinance was passed by the Marin County Board of Supervisors on Thursday which prohibits net fishing or the use of seines in Petaluma creek and Paper Mill creek above Point Reyes. This law will virtually prohibit net fishing in the streams of the county. This necessary enactment will meet with the approval of every sportsman in the State. It is now possible that a long continued abuse will be put a stop to ere some of the most enjoyable trout streams in the State are ruined by poachers.

Paper Mill Notes.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8, 1902.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—The hundred and one anglers who visited the Paper Mill creek on the opening day, April 1st, will never forget the pleasures they enjoyed. Trout, and big fellows at that, were in great evidence. On the return trip everybody had fish, not an empty creel from that perennial famous fishing stream. It was immaterial at what station along the line the angler alighted, he got fish. Such sport has not been enjoyed in ten years. Trout ranging from a quarter pound fish to ten pounders, were taken in great numbers in the tide waters near Point Reyes station. Many fish were also hooked and then lost on account of defective tackle.

When fishing for steelhead trout in our Coast streams it should always be remembered that the chances of hooking on to a big fish the first few weeks of the season are good. The angler should therefore, be at all times prepared with good tackle. Money generally is a secondary consideration where good sport is anticipated, then why not have good tackle. It is just as easy to have a strong leader as a poor one, and in the end much more economical.

In the White House pool tidewater near Point Reyes, the last stop on the Paper Mill creek, Messrs. Butler and Battu, two well known anglers, who have been fishing for the past twenty-five years, regret exceedingly that they did not pay more attention to their tackle, preparatory to going to Point Reyes for the opening day. They each lost three fish, big ones they were. Had they given the proper attention to their tackle, their long experience and angling abilities would have stood them in hand and the novices who were out for experience and information would not have left the fishing grounds disgusted.

The following Saturday one hundred anglers again whipped the Paper Mill with varying success and on Sunday morning another hundred followed, making about 200 anglers to some eighteen miles of fishing grounds. Providence, however, was unkind both to angler and trout, a heavy rainstorm came on about 8:30 Sunday morning and continued all day, much to the discomfiture of the sportsmen, who had to hunt cover and keep out of the wet until train time. A few however braved the storm and got a good drenching for their temerity, and no fish. By the time the train pulled out from Point Reyes the Paper Mill creek had risen about a foot and was the color of pea-soup, which condition will stop the fishing for a few days. It is a question now which is greatly disturbing the anglers whether the fish have gone up stream, remained in the pools at Point Reyes or returned to the ocean.

It is very unusual to have such a severe storm the first week of April in California.

The following sportsmen have signified their intention of visiting Point Reyes to-day and to-morrow, believing that the fish have remained in the pools, from which so many fish were taken on the opening day: John Butler, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Wyman and friends, Frank Marcus, Dr. W. E. Brooks, J. B. Kenniff, Frank Maskey, Louis Homier, James Watt, Bert Spring, Frank Dolliver and Charles Precht.

"JOCK SCOTT."

Grand American Handicap.

The winner of the Grand American Handicap proved to be Mr. H. C. Hirschy of Minneapolis. One of thirty-three straight in the main event.

Hirschy not only won the Grand American Handicap, but including the miss and out, he placed to his record a score of seventy-eight straight birds for this event, and a grand total of 102 for the week, having grassed everyone since the tournament began on Monday morning. When Hirschy killed his last bird his fellow shooters swarmed around him and bore him from the field on their shoulders.

The handicap winner is a short, rather thin young man and in sporting parlance a great "jollier." Hirschy is a clever wood engraver and has the stock of his Smith gun carved into all manner of fanciful designs. He formerly traveled for the Hazard Powder Company, but of late he has been representing the Hunter Arms Company on the road. Hirschy formerly made a practice of traveling all over the north-west to the various tournaments and he was a welcome visitor wherever he might care to go—a genial sportsman, a good loser and a good fellow generally. All who know him are glad he won the handicap.

Harvey McMurchy and Phil Bekeart, who both arrived in town on Thursday from Kansas City, are jubilant over the wins of the Smith gun, the three high guns in the main event being of that make.

Weather conditions put the local men out of shooting form. McMurchy shot straight in the Kansas City Handicap. He had sixteen straight in the main race and was the last man to shoot on Thursday when he missed four birds straight—Mac could not see his birds it being too dark. This was indeed hard luck. Feudner was one of the straights in the Nitro-Powder Handicap. Phil Bekeart made a clean score on the last day in the Missouri Handicap event at twelve birds. J. E. Vaughn of Santa Ana did some good shooting also, being straight in several of the minor races.

The Colusa Blue Rock Shooting Club held their first shoot Friday, April 4th. They chose sides and shot one team against the other. The first match was at ten birds per man and resulted as follows:

A. Ahlf 4, T. Harrington 5, B. H. Mitchell 1, J. M. Jones 4; total 14. J. H. Porter 5, M. E. Phillips 6, W. M. Harrington 9, E. C. Barrell 0; total 20.

The next match was at five birds each as follows: A. Ahlf 5, J. H. Porter 5, W. M. Harrington 3, J. M. Jones 0; total 13. T. Harrington 4, M. E. Phillips 5, W. B. DeJarnatt 4, Dr. Cason 2; total 15.

W. M. Harrington did the best individual shooting, breaking nine out of his first ten targets.

AT THE TRAPS.

The Antler Gun Club of Oakland held a shoot at Alameda Point last Sunday. The main event of the shoot was the first of four 25 target races for the J. W. Matthews Cup. The scores made were the following:

Club match, 25 targets—
Leavitt, F. W.	10111	10101	10111	10111-18

The California Wing Club live bird shoot on Sunday last was conducted under most adverse weather conditions. Rain and a heavy wind played havoc with a number of scores. So heavily did the wind blow that several pigeons which were killed were carried by the wind for over forty yards and dropped dead out. Tail-enders, after being stopped, would be blown back by the severe southeaster to the 26-yard peg in front of the traps. Will Golcher killed a bird that under any other circumstances would easily have dropped near No. 2 trap, but instead was blown in by the wind and dropped exactly into his hands.

In the regular monthly club shoot at twelve pigeons, W. J. Golcher, C. A. Haight and G. H. T. Jackson shot straight scores and divided $45 of the club purse and the regular monthly cup trophy or its equivalent in value. Ed. Donohoe, C. C. Nauman, Dr. A. M. Barker of San Jose, P. J. Wands, H. Justus, "Slade," Jos. J. Sweeney, A. M. Shields, C. C. Nauman, Ed. Donohoe, Dr. A. T. Derby and N. H. Neustadter each scored eleven pigeons and divided the remaining portion of the purse. After the regular club shoot an eight bird pool race was shot out. C. A. Haight, George H. T. Jackson and J. M. Wheeler each killed the score limit neatly and cleverly. In a fifteen bird pool, Jackson was again high man with a score of fourteen birds. Five shooters indulged in double bird shooting after the foregoing race. But one straight score in the first race at three pair of pigeons, Dr. Barker getting both birds each time. The traps are loaded with two pigeons instead of one when they shoot "doubles" at Ingleside. The principal scores made on Sunday are the following:

A communication from Secretary Wm. Mersfelder reports that the opening shoot at blue rocks of the Millwood Gun Club was held at their new grounds at Manzanita, Sunday, April 7th; heavy winds and rain prevailed all day and consequently made shooting very difficult. The club badge, which is to be contested for at 25 birds each month, is a perpetual prize, being won only from month to month. It was won Sunday by W. H. Price. The John K. Orr silver cup is to be contested for at six monthly club shoots, 25 birds, high gun stepping out each shoot and at the expiration of six months or at close of season high guns will shoot off. We have a full membership of twenty-five members and a waiting list of six more. The scores in the badge and cup matches were respectively as follows:

E. Moldrup 18 (badge), 24 (cup); E. L. Head 15-16, S. C. Nash 17-23, E. A. James 10-w, F. B. Turpin 15, A. L. McLeod 10-w, Charles Kewell 15-20, R. H. Van Norden 15-20, W. H. Price 19-22, J. Newlands 12-w, C. Ashlin 20, W. L. Arnold 17-24, W. Mersfelder 17-22.

The tie between Arnold and Moldrup was shot off at five birds, Arnold winning on a straight, Moldrup lost his last bird.

The Fresno Gun Club members on March 30th indulged in both a live bird and blue rock shoot. In the first pigeon race at 10 birds, Judge St. John, O'Neil and George Stone killed straight; Holdscaw, D. Dismukes and Frank Fanning, 9 each; Nelson and Delehanty grassed 7 each.

In the second event at 12 birds, George Stone killed 11, Frank Fanning 10, Holdscaw and Dismukes 9, and St. John, Nelson and Delehanty 8.

The regular blue rock shoot shows the scores as follows:

Fanning 14, 18, 19, 16, 12, 19; St. John 17, 16, 16, 16, 16; Dismukes 17, 17, 14, 17, 17, 17; O'Neil 17, 18, 16, 20, 16, 17, 21; Delehanty 16, 17, 16, 19, 17, 15, 21; F. Nelson 12, 10, 18; Holdscaw 13, 15, 17, 16, 15, 14; Lewald 2, 8; George Stone 15, 13, 16, 14; Schluster 13, 14, 12; J. Wotton 12; Bradley 15, 15; Eilert 13, 10, 11, 17; Collier 16, 13.

A practice shoot of the Chico Gun Club took place at the race track grounds Sunday afternoon, despite the fact that the rain was falling in torrents a greater portion of the afternoon. There were present besides several members of the club, six members of the Oroville club, Messrs. Godfrey, King, Demon, Johnson, Frost and Will. All but the latter took part in the shooting. The scores made were as follows, the first number given being the number of blue rocks thrown for each and the latter the number broken:

Godfrey 70-37, King 60-46, Damon 70-48, A. Johnson 70-57, Frost 50-54, G. Johnson 80-69, Brooks 50-42, Richmond 60-47, Loshbough 70-52, McManus 30-21, Wagner 30-9.

Bench Show Notes.

The San Francisco Kennel Club announces a class for Toy Poodles to form a part of the Poodle classification. The following specials have been added: a trophy donated by some one, who wishes to remain unnamed, for the best dog owned and exhibited by a lady. The Philadelphia Dog Show Association offers one of their medals for the best St. Bernard, the best English Setter, the best Field Spaniel and the best Poodle in show. A cup, furthermore, is offered for the best Great Dane to be judged by two of her get, and to be won three times before becoming the property of one exhibitor. Also a cup for the best Cocker Spaniel whelped in the year previous to being exhibited, and the same to be won three times before becoming the property of one exhibitor. This means that for the coming competition all dogs born in 1901 are eligible, while next year all those born in 1902, and so on, will come in competition. The program for the show has been arranged as follows: Mr. G. M. Carnochan will judge Fox Terriers at 11 A. M. on Wednesday; at 2 P. M. Dr. George W. Clayton and Mr. Davidson will begin with their respective classes. At 8 o'clock P. M. the Team/Class competition for the best team of four of any one breed will be judged by all the judges in conjunction. On this evening also, the first performance of Professor Clark's trained dogs will take place. Thursday morning, Mr. Clayton and Mr. Davidson will continue judging their respective classes. At 2 P. M. judging of Greyhounds will take place and will continue for the entire afternoon. At 8 o'clock P. M. Thursday the Hon. Ho Yow, Imperial Chinese Consul General, will judge Oriental dogs, and Major J. L. Rathbone will judge packs of Foxhounds for the Redeisheimer cup, offered by the president of the Pacific Kennel League. Professor Clark's dogs will perform in the afternoon and evening. On Friday, at 11 A. M. there will be another performance of Professor Clark's dog circus for the children particularly, while at 3 P. M. in the afternoon, judging for the special for the best dog owned and exhibited in the ring by a lady will take place. After this all the judges and the guests of the club will be treated to an automobile ride through the Park, Cliff House, the beach, Presidio, and other points of interest in San Francisco. The Locomobile Company of the Pacific Coast will furnish vehicles. At 8 P. M. the judging of Greyhounds in competition for the President's cup offered by Mr. A. B. Spreckels and the Kent cup offered by the president of the Canadian Kennel Club for the best two Greyhounds in the show will take place. For Saturday a grand parade of all prize winners will form the afternoon attraction besides the trained dogs, and at 8 P. M. the distribution of cups and medals to the prize winners by the patronesses will be the main attraction. After this an auction sale of the original posters contributed by San Francisco artists for the benefit of the Charity Fund, of which posters a most interesting collection has been delivered to the officers of the club, will close the Sixth Annual Dog Show of the San Francisco Kennel Club.

We learn that Mr. G. M. Carnochan and Mrs. Carnochan and Mr. A. P. Vredenburg, the Secretary of the American Kennel Club, left New York on the 10th inst. They will go, first, to Seattle as the guests of Mr. Redelsheimer, the President of the Pacific Kennel League, thence to Portland where they will attend the Portland Kennel Club Show, and will reach San Francisco on or about the 21st inst. It is also understood that Mr. Fred Mansell from London, England, who is judging at Portland next week, will be a visitor at this Show. At all events the courtesies of the San Francisco Kennel Club have been extended to him.

Entries to the Portland Show closed on Wednesday.

Entries for the Sacramento Show close on May 6th.

Victoria Bench Show.

The show in Victoria last week is claimed to have been the most successful ever held in that city. Some 200 dogs greeted the fanciers when the exhibition opened on the 3rd inst. for a three day show under P. K. L. rules. The attendance during the show was good, we believe the Victoria Kennel Club came out on the right side of the ledger.

The judging commenced on Thursday at 2 o'clock. Mr. E. W. Davies, now of Chilliwack, filled the arduous position of judge with general satisfaction.

Not a great many representatives of the larger breeds were benched, there being but one Mastiff and one St. Bernard in the show, but both were good specimens. For some reason the St. Bernards, which in former years were well represented, seem to have dropped from favor, or those owning them are not showing. There were more Great Danes, among them being a beauty, Major, owned by Mrs. Robert Duns-muir. Major, although little more than a year old, is a splendid looking animal. There was but two Greyhounds, and the same number of Chesapeake Bays, while the best Pointers were from across the line. The English Setter men, though, if they were not satisfied they must be hard to please. There were 49 of these dogs benched, and a fine lot they were, coming from every city of the Coast, some of them valued at thousands of dollars. But with all the competition, the Victoria dogs took the majority of the prizes, that city now having some of the best dogs of this breed on the continent. Among the visitors were Doc Hick, the great field trial dog, owned by John Considine of Seattle, valued at $5000, and R. M. Palmer's Rodfield Lad. The former is only on exhibition, but Mr. Considine had two entries for the field trials class. Some disappointment was expressed at the decision of C. Minor not to enter Roy, Gladys and Zola Montez in the show, as competition with the former would have given the owners an idea of the standing of their dogs among the American cracks with which he has competed. Two of Zola Montez' pups were winners in the puppy bitches class.

The sprightly Fox Terrier came next in point of number entered, and among them 11 visitors from San Francisco. There were 36 Fox Terriers in the show.

A fair lot of Irish and Gordon Setters were benched, also Irish Water, Field, and Clumber Spaniels. The Cocker, however, were numerous and a finer lot could not be seen in the largest shows. They came from as far south as San Mateo, Cal.

There were some good Collies shown, but this breed does not seem to be as popular as it was a few years ago. Of terriers there were Bull Terriers, Boston, Irish, Scotch and Bedlington Terriers; some Black and Tans, including a bitch with a litter; Beagles, Sheep Dogs, Malamoots and several in the miscellaneous class.

A great deal of interest was taken in the judging, when the winning dogs in each class came together to compete for the special prizes. Most of these went to the other side of the line, but the Victoria dogs held their own fairly well, and a few of the principal prizes remain at home. Lady Howard, Thomas Plimley's famous English Setter, for example, captured the cup for the best Setter of any breed in the show, also the cup for the best English Setter and that for the best English Setter bitch. Another notable win was that of Mrs. Bradley-Dyne's Ch. Loyne Ruffian, a Scottish Terrier, who won the cup for the best terrier of any breed in the show. This is particularly satisfactory to the owner, as the little Scot-man had some of the best Fox Terriers on the Coast to compete against.

The winners of the prize offered handlers for the greatest number of dogs brought to the show, were T. J. Blithe, who won $15 for the largest number of dogs from California; E. J. Willis, $15 for the largest number from Oregon, and C. H. Sweetzer and George Tinto were awarded $15 for the largest number from Washington, having 24 and 23, respectively, and a dispute arising as to whether one dog from Vancouver handled by Mr. Sweetzer being included in the count, the club decided to give both a prize. Mr. T. J. Blithe won the prize of $10 for the greatest number of dogs exhibited by one handler, having the California string under his care. In all there were 88 dogs from Washington, Oregon and California. All the handlers expressed themselves well satisfied with the treatment they received from the judge and the club.

The officers of the club this year are:

President, Hon. D. M. Eberts, M. P. P.; Vice-president, J. W. Creighton; Hon. Secretary, T. P. McConnell; Hon. Treasurer, T. Plimley; Hon. Superintendent, F. Turner. Bench Show Committee, W. F. Practice With the Shotgun.

It has often been remarked that such and such a person will never make a shot, and certainly, in many instances, without a little help and judicious advice the shooter's development is necessarily slow; but, given moderate eyesight and a thorough determination to practice, it is within the power of almost everyone to become a moderate, if not an expert, exponent of the art.

To commence with, a good, in fact, an excellent plan is to follow the method employed in the army and practice the aiming drill, which may be indulged in in one's own dining-room if necessary, taking for targets such things as picture nails, etc. This will accustom the novice to bring the gun up to the shoulder in alignment with the object aimed at, and it is surprising what benefit may be derived from this apparently simple mode of procedure.

Having practiced thus for several days (not for lengthy periods at a time), then a good plan is to stand with the back towards the object to be aimed at, and, turning quickly, endeavor to bring up the gun correctly. When further advanced a good method is to hang a small ball or bullet to the end of a string, and follow it with the gun while swinging to and fro.

After considerable care and time have been expended in this practice, there is no doubt that the novice, on making his first appearance at a blue rock shoot, will have acquired a certain confidence and will be able to make a creditable show with slow birds; and while on this subject of slow birds it is as well to call the attention of captains of clubs to this fact, and suggest that there are not sufficient opportunities for the new comer to practice at anything but the highly strung traps used in competitions by the crack shots and first class men. The fact of introducing a few traps of moderate strength for the use of novices would be found a great boon, and would greatly enhance the reputation and membership of such clubs.

Having acquired say a moderate proficiency with slow-going birds, then the fully strung-up traps should be approached. The result will be, no doubt, somewhat disappointing, for misses will be frequent. The reason, of course, is simple enough, for as the rapidity of the flight is increased, so the velocity (or shall it be said want of velocity) of the shot has to be allowed for. Therefore, the shooter who begins practicing at rapid birds, notwithstanding that he may appear to be shooting perfectly straight, will find the shot very much behind the object aimed at.

This allowance, or leading the object aimed at, necessary to counteract the flight of the birds with the velocity of the shot, is the very essence of the art of shooting. Leading can only be learned through practice, but the common failing is not to allow enough, and it can be taken as an invariable rule that five-sixths of the birds that are missed are so missed on account of sufficient allowance not having been made, the shooter shooting more or less behind the object aimed at.

The shooter now, after considerable practice—considerable practice, mind, as the art is not to be acquired without—will no doubt have obtained a proficiency which at one time looked to be hopelessly out of his reach. He will then seek for further fields to display his prowess, whether it be at the whirling quail, the dodgy rabbit or the wily pigeon, and if he should prove himself a good man at the mud saucers, he need have no fear in taking his place in the field with perfect confidence in his ability to hold his own and add his full share to the spoil at the end of the day; for it has been found that the man who is able to shoot blue rocks in first class form is certainly not likely to be thought a duffer in the field. The royal road, however, to shooting, after having mastered the theory of allowance, or leading, is practice, and nothing but practice.

The Bursting of Barrels.

Sportsmen cannot help being keenly interested in the investigation of the cause or causes of gun barrels bursting while in their hands. Barrels do burst with them occasionally, sometimes at the breech and sometimes at the muzzle, and from a variety of causes other than flaws in the metal. Obstructions, for instance, may by carelessness become fixed in the tubes, resulting in bursts without any fault that can be put upon the maker's shoulders. An overcharge of explosive in the shells again also leads to bulging or bursting of the barrels owing to the excessive pressure thereby generated. Burstings at the breech must be occasioned either by flaws or by great overcharges of powder, and undoubtedly the majority of bursts nearer the muzzle are caused by obstructions which may arise in the barrels by an accidental filling of them up in course of a day's shooting with mud, sand, snow, or even undischarged portions of the wadding or, where a cheap and poorly made shell becomes loosened from the metal base and remains in the barrel. There are many things, then, besides flaws that may lead to the bursting of barrels, for which gunmakers cannot properly be regarded as responsible, and it may be added that it is rather unreasonable to expect them to defray the expense of new barrels, where the old ones have given away under a much severer strain, however occasioned, than they were ever built to stand. Sportsmen should reflect that the proving of their guns in terms of Government or other regulations at the time of their manufacture should be held to have relieved the makers of all further responsibility for their reliability, especially under exceptionally severe strains. Such strains, as have been noted, may be caused either by over-loading or by obstructions setting up abnormal pressures in perfectly sound barrels. But with all our information as to the action of nitro-compounds when carefully and properly loaded, we are still greatly in the dark as to the effect of careless loading of these explosives. In the millions of shells fired every season there are certain to be found occasionally the results of momentary neglect in loading, which may cause abnormal pressures in the chambers and perhaps further up the tubes. The chambers may be able to withstand pressures that would be very dangerous indeed further along the barrels, and particularly near the muzzles. A pressing question here forces itself to the front by the inquiry whether abnormal muzzle pressures can be produced by any possible system of loading, careless or otherwise. We are not prepared to say that they cannot. A well-known authority states that excessive ramming of nitro compounds into the shells may compress them into an almost solid mass, with the result that ignition merely explodes a few of the grains of powder nearest the primer-hole, and forces the unexploded grains and the shot along the barrel, where they subsequently explode with sufficient force to burst the gun near the muzzle. It is possible that such a result might occur with a soft-grained nitro, but the ramming would have to be very hard indeed that could sufficiently compress the hard-grained smokeless powders now manufactured in this country, to give any such unfavorable result.

"SAVE-THE-HORSE"

—TRADE MARK—

SPAVIN CURE.

Actually and Unconditionally Illustrates the Power and Value of "Save-the-Horse." POSITIVELY AND PERMANENTLY CURES

BONE AND BOG SPAVIN, RINGBONE, CURB, THOROUGHPIN, SPLINT, CAPPED HOCK, WEAK AND STRAINED TENDONS, WINDPUFF, AND ALL LAMENESS.

Note Our Claim—"It Is Infallible."

Work horse continuously if desired. "Save-the-Horse" cures without scar, blemish or loss of hair.

Contains no Arsenic, Corrosive Sublimite or other form of Mercury or any ingredient that can injure the horse.

Chronic and seemingly incurable cases in the advanced stage that have been fired two or three times and given up as hopeless, positively and permanently cured.

"Save-the-Horse" marks an achievement remarkable and unparalleled in medicine. It is the crowning success of ten years' research and experimenting in the treatment of the products of inflammation.

The potent, unfailing power of "Save-the-Horse" lies in its concentrated, penetrating, absorbing properties. It cures by penetrating to the seat of the injury or disease, producing a physiological change, absorbing all inflammatory exudate and

STALLION FOR SALE CHEAP.

ALLEGRO dark bay stallion by James Madison 2:17 1/2, dam by Paul's Abdallah, second dam by Geo. M. Patchen 3:1. ALLEGRO is a very handsome horse and a sure foal getter. Has been in the stud, but never broke to harness. Stands 15.2 and weighs about 1200. Can be seen at my place.

EUGENE POLICA, West Berkeley

FOR SALE.

VERY STYLISH FOUR-YEAR-OLD BAY mare, with black points, 16 1/2 hands high, weighs between 1150 and 1200 pounds. City broke. Perfectly sound and all right in every way. Price $300. Address "C," care of BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN.

Nothing is more encouraging to the breeders of improved livestock than the rapid increase of high grades upon the Western ranges. Less than twenty-five years ago it was the exception to find pure bred bulls at the head of the great beef herds of Colorado, Montana, Wyoming, Arizona and Texas, but to-day the big rancher who does not have all the way from 20 to 200 blooded Hereford, Short-horn or Angus bulls is away behind the times. The wisdom of this course is apparent in the splendid range steers now going to the markets. Probably the marking of the Hereford, the characteristic white face, is more common than any other, but whatever the breed used the result is the same—quicker maturity, a higher grade of beef, a greater percentage of marketable meat and greater profits in the business.

There are in the United States 1,871,252 goats, of which Texas contains the largest number, an aggregate exceeding one-third of all the country. New Mexico contains the next largest number with a total of 322,136. Exclusive of the kids less than one year old, only a portion of the goats are for mohair or goat hair, hence only 454,032 fleeces are reported, weighing 961,228 pounds of unwashed fiber. The total value of the mohair is $267,864.

SCRATCHES, GREASE HEEL, MUD FEVER, HOOF ROT, AND SPEED CRACKS

Cases where ulcerations extend with transverse cracks which open at every step and often bleed, no matter how complex, aggravated, deep seated or chronic, if treated according to directions as given on circular with every box, positively cured with

VETERINARY PIXINE

After blistering, VETERINARY PIXINE is the very best application that could be indicated. It absorbs all inflammatory exudate and hastens the reparatory process. Will heal the most severe cases without scar and prevent loss of hair.

AS A PREVENTIVE.

If a light application of VETERINARY PIXINE is used before speeding, driving in wet, muddy or slushy weather, or in the snow, your horse will never have speed cracks, scratches or grease heel.

FOR HOOF.

It will keep the hoofs healthy, soft and in perfect form.

FOR SORES, ETC.

VETERINARY PIXINE heals collar and saddle galls, hopple chafes, abscesses, inflammatory swellings, sores and all skin disease. In cases of emergency it is invaluable.

This penetrating, stimulating, soothing, absorbing, antiseptic, healing ointment heals from beneath the surface by disinfecting the parts, subduing the inflammation and stimulating healthy granulation, not by drying and scabbing.

California State Agricultural Society's Harness Stallion Stake for 1905 Reopened.

For the Get of Stallions that made Private or Public Service, Season of 1901, for their Foals of 1902.

ENTRIES FOR STALLIONS TO CLOSE MAY 1, 1902.

The Race to be contested at State Fair in 1905, when Foals are three years old.

Entrance fee for stallions to be the price that they made public service during the season of 1901. All other stallions that did not make public service, entrance fee to be $30. Stallions to be named with the Secretary, May 1, 1902.

All foals that are the get of any stallion entered in this stake to be eligible to be entered on June 1, 1903. Entrance fee $50 each, of which $5 must accompany the entry, with breeding and name, if any, of foal, and a further payment of $10, March 1, 1904, and a further payment of $15 each May 1, 1905, and a final payment of $30 on the first day of August, 1905, and all colts making this payment shall be eligible to start. Starters to be named in writing through the entry box 4 P. M. day before the race.

The California State Agricultural Society to add an amount equal to all moneys paid in by the nominators of the stallions, not to exceed one thousand dollars.

Entrance money paid in for stallions and added moneys shall be divided 60% to the end for trotting colts and 40% to the end for pacing colts. No nominator allowed to start more than one colt in either end.

The nominator of any colts shall on May 1, 1905, then declare as to the trotting or pacing end he desires to start his colts. All moneys paid in on colts transferred to the pacing division shall be segregated and placed to the credit of the pacing stake, and all other payments shall be placed to the credit of the trotting stake.

All payments not made as they become due declares entry out and releases subscriber from further liability.

Hopples barred in both classes. Mile heats, three in five. Nominator of the sires of the winning colts in each end to receive $250, to be deducted from the money added by the Society and the money paid in as entrance on stallions, balance of the stakes and added money to be divided 50, 25, 15 and 10%.

Right reserved to declare two starters a walk-over, for stakes paid in only.

When only two start they may contest for all entrance money paid in, not heretofore provided for, to be divided 66 2/3 per cent to the winner and 33 1/3 per cent to the second horse. A horse distancing the field in either class shall be entitled to all moneys paid in and 25% only of the money added by the Society, not heretofore provided for.

Open to all stallions that have made private or public service in any of the following States: California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Idaho, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Nevada and Arizona during the season of 1901.

No entry will be accepted except under this condition: That all disputes that may arise in regard to the conditions or contest of this race shall be settled by the Board of Directors of the California State Agricultural Society, or those whom they may appoint, and their decision shall be final.

Remember, the NEW DATE of Closing for Stallions is MAY 1, 1902.

QUINN'S OINTMENT FOR HORSES

stands at the head of all veterinary remedies. Such troubles as Spavins, Curbs, Windpuffs, Splints, Bunches have no terrors for a horse if the master keeps and applies Quinn's Ointment. All well known horsemen speak of it in the highest terms:

Miller & Sibley of Franklin, Pa., owners of St. Bel, brother of late Bel Boy, write, "We have used Quinn's Ointment with great success and believe it fulfills all claimed for it. We cheerfully recommend it to our friends." For Curbs, Splints, Spavins or Bunches it has no equal.

WM. G. LAYNG IS IN THE LEAD.

Owing to the demands of the public that I board and keep fine trotters and business horses for sale, I have leased the premises known as the Fulton Stables, 246 Third street, and connected it with my well-known place, the Occidental Horse Exchange, and will hereafter conduct the entire business under the latter name.

I have room for over 200 horses, the finest of stalls, all on the ground floor, where special attention is paid their sanitation and ventilation. The large area of ground space, 120x250 feet, gives me plenty of room for keeping horses in any manner desired, commodious box stalls, fine tank ring and large enclosure to exercise horses in. A splendid entrance on Third street (the busiest in San Francisco) and another on Clementina street in the rear, give me opportunities for the reception and delivery of horses and vehicles unequalled by any one in San Francisco.

The fame of the Occidental Horse Exchange for holding auction sales of all kinds is world wide and I intend to hold sales in the same manner as heretofore, with this exception: I will accommodate more horses and have the sales pavilion fitted up better than heretofore. I have sold horses for the following, to whom I respectfully refer breeders and owners: A. B. Spreckels, Prince Poniatowski, Charles Kerr, W. O. B. Macdonough, Edw. Corrigan, E. J. Baldwin, Oakwood Park Stock Farm, Palo Alto Stock Farm, Brentwood Stock Farm, Papinta Stock Farm, Santa Rosa Stock Farm, J. Naglee Burk, Bellota Stock Farm, Sonoma Stock Farm, Wm. Murray, W. S. The Fastest Son of Guy Wilkes

Lakeville, Sonoma Co., Cal.

SEYMOUR WILKES earned his record in a hard fought race and was a game race horse. The oldest of his get are five-year-olds, and no horse in California can show a greater proportion of large, handsome, strongly built and well-boned colts. They all look alike and in nearly every instance are square trotters. The only one that has been trained is Joe Eviston (3-2-22 in 1901).

SEYMOUR WILKES is by Guy Wilkes his dam Early Bird by Playmail; second dam by Odd Fellow, third dam by a son of Williamson's Belmont, fourth dam by Blackhawk 767. He weighs 1200 pounds, stands 16 hands high and is one of the most symmetrical horses in California. Several of his get are in San Francisco and will be shown to prospective breeders with pleasure.

Terms for the Season, $40. Mares not proving in foal can be returned next year by paying $10 additional. Mares can be shipped direct to ranch, via steamer Gold. Pasturage $3 per month. By STAMBOUL 5101, a trotting and show king; dam, Belle Medium 2:30, a great brood mare by Happy Medium, sire of the great all-around mare, Nancy Hanks 2:04, and other great ones; second dam by the handsome sire Almont Lightning (sire of the dam of Zombro 2:11 and other great all-in-all animals, both on the turf and in the show rings; third dam by that sire of game, sound, handsome animals, Mambrino Patchen 58; fourth dam by that speed producing sire, Mambrino Chief 11; fifth dam by that stylish and long distance racing horse, Mason's Whip.

STAM B. is a fine and substantial upstanding bay, 15.3 hands tall, weighs 1100 pounds, and now rightly ranks among the most promising young sires of the land. That he is now in public service in California is a fact for which breeders may be grateful. He is already proving a sire of speed and gameness, together with size, superb style and high action, transmitting these qualities to every foal regardless of dam. He is acknowledged by all who have seen him to be very near the real and ideal race horse and all-around sire. His racing qualities were beyond criticism, and all close observers know that in his blood are represented the kings and queens of the trotting turf and show rings.

Terms for the Season, $40.

Payable at the end of June, with return privilege. Reduced rates to any one person breeding over three mares. Pasturage for mares, $4 per month. Freight must be prepaid on all mares. Season commences February 1st and ends August 1, 1902. No responsibility assumed for accidents or escapes.

PEDIGREE IN PART.

Sired by SIDNEY 2:19½, sire of 17 in the 2:15 list, 7 better than 2:12, 3 better than 2:10, and Lenna N. 2:05½ (champion record), and 96 in the charmed circle. Battle dam of Monterey, is by that great sire of broadmires, Com. Belmont 1840 son of Alexander Belmont 61, sire of Nutwood 2:18½, Barona, his second dam, is by Woodford's Mambrino 2:21½, and his third dam, Miss Gratz, by Alexander Norman 25, sire of Lula 2:15; fourth dam by Gray Eagle, thoroughbred. His blood lines are of the choicest, and his wonderful speed has justly come to him. He is a grand stallion to look at; he has size and conformation to make him what he is—a king among stallions. His first crop of foals two years old now, are very promising, as Walter S. Maben writes me as follows:

"I worked the Monterey two-year old to-day, March 26th, a half in 1:15, first quarter in 0:40½, last eighth in 17 seconds, so you see he can step some and has but little work. He can trot faster than any colt I ever saw and do it easier."

Maben also writes that the Monterey colts are all fine, big, good-looking colts, and look to him (Maben) to be the real thing for stake winners. It will not be long before the breeders will be breeding to Monterey at a much larger fee than his present price. One thing is sure, it is hard for a stallion to work himself up without the support of the breeders, and yet I don't think that the cranks can keep him down, for if he reproduces himself the foals will be of such high class that the public cannot overlook them. Nowadays colts must be game to win big purses, and on this score I am on top, and speed also. Monterey will make this season, 1902.

132,000 Deaths from this alone.

One special danger menaces those who live well, who can use champagne and fine liquors, and that is Bright's Disease. Posted clubmen understand this so well that many have tests made every few months. Others drink nothing but dry wines. But still the deaths reported from Bright's Disease and Diabetes are increasing at a fearful rate. The last census reports show that since 1890 the increase has been nearly fifty per cent and that the deaths in the United States alone from above causes and diseases growing out of them last year reached the enormous number of 132,000.

Hence the importance of every clubman knowing this one fact, viz.: That Bright's Disease and Diabetes are now positively curable in about 87% of all cases. The Fulton Compounds are now saving the lives of hundreds, and will, when better known, save the lives of thousands who are now with little hope.

Palo Alto Stock to be Sold Off
San Francisco Examiner.

Palo Alto Stock Farm, famous the world over is soon to be developed. The farm is owned by Mrs. Stanford, widow of the late Senator Stanford, and is situated in the city of Palo Alto, California.

There are 210 horses at the farm, which will be disposed of at public sale. One of these will be held at Cleveland in May, one at New York in the summer and the last in Sacramento next September. The horses are the trotting and running get of well known sires and dams.

Some twenty-three aged mares are to be taken care of as long as they live. The mares include May Osborne, Wild Flower and Beautiful Bells. The last is thirty years old. None of the others is under twenty years.

In 1892 the late Senator Leland Stanford purchased the old stock farm, which was then known as the Palo Alto Stock Farm. He was a lover of the horse. The farm was managed by him until his death. It never paid a profit. Stanford was a great horseman and a great breeder. In the breeding of trotting stock the farm has a better record than any other similar place in the world. And in the breeding of the runner Palo Alto has taken a high rank.

Senator Stanford obtained some of the best English stock. By the crossing of the runner and the trotter there was developed in the latter a strain of warmer blood, which improved speed and form.

Palo Alto Stock Farm is said to show a wrong balance on the ledger of over $1,000,000 since its inception, twenty-five years ago.

Since Senator Stanford's death the farm has not been so prosperous.

Much of the celebrity of the farm is due to that great stallion Electioneer, who died in December, 1890. Stanford bought him in New York State, and one of his get, Arion, was sold as a two year old to Malcolm Forbes for $135,000. Electioneer was the sire of Sunol, who made the once famous record of 2:08 1/4. Robert Bonner bought Sunol for $11,000. Other great sons and daughters of Electioneer were Arion, Bellflower, Bonita, Bell Boy and Carrie C. Adbell, the champion yearling trotter whose record still stands, was also bred by him.

Palo Alto as a breeding place for running horses ranked very high. Racine bred there, was the first horse to run a mile in 1:40 in a race. He was campaigned in the East by T. H. Williams Jr. and is now in the stud in Maryland. Flambeau also held a high place as a racehorse and a producer of racehorses. His son, Crescendo, was as good a two year old as was ever bred in California.

The land now occupied by the stock farm will be added to Stanford University grounds.

The above article appeared in The Examiner of Wednesday, March 5, 1902, page 5. It is not only misleading, but is the result of the writer being so misinformed that he has written an article that will, in the opinion of horsemen, I hope, seem ridiculous, and will when facts are shown, prove to the public at large that the writer intended to do an injury or else wrote the article from his own imagination and did not go to the proper authority to learn the true and existing status before and after the passing away of the late Senator Stanford, a man who did more for the advancement of the light harness horse than any other in America.

In the first place the management issued orders to Superintendent Frank Covey to dispose of the blooded stock. In the second place there are not twenty-three, but twelve mares, to be taken care of as long as they live. In the next place the name of one to be retained is Mary Osborne, not May Osborne. It is also said, in the article mentioned, that the farm was managed and sustained regardless of expense, this is an error, and during the lifetime of Senator Stanford, from the inception of Palo Alto Stock Farm to the time of his joining the silent majority, everything necessary for the development of speed was supplied, but the same business methods were conducted that always were part of his success in life, his belief that the best in the end was the cheapest; the result of his achievements in the breeding of both trotter and runner have proved the intelligence of his judgment.

The statement that Palo Alto Stock Farm never paid a profit, in a technical sense may be true, but in the horse world there must be many things taken into consideration regarding its success as a breeding farm and the intention of its founder. It was not to make money that Senator Stanford created Palo Alto, but to produce the best and fastest horses in America, the result of his ideas of breeding and development. How well he accomplished this the records of the trotting and running turf show conclusively. The fact that he had bred the world's champions, yearling, two, three, four and five year olds, the champion stallion, the champion mare and the world's champion trotter, also the champion running horse of America, was worth millions to the great master mind who has given to California and the world, so much in memory of his beloved son, Leland Stanford, Junior, that he has endeared himself in a memorial that will live forever. Had he been a man seeking money for his life's study in his great love for the horse, would he have refused the fabulous sums he had been offered for Advertiser, Palo Alto, Truman, Electricity, Hinda Rose, Fred Crocker, Amigo, Rowena, and many other trotters and the thoroughbreds, Racine, Flambeau, imp. Gorgo, Flirtation, and other thoroughbreds, amounting way up in the hundreds of thousand dollars. No price large enough to tempt him to part with Palo Alto 2:08 1/4, the stallion king. His desire to keep them is evidence enough that his venture was not to make money but to carry out his ideas in regard to breeding and the development of extreme speed.

The statement that it never paid a profit is a broad assertion for a writer to make, who, to the best of my knowledge, never knew the intention of Senator Stanford, nor inspected the records of Palo Alto Stock Farm. It is not a fact that "Palo Alto Stock Farm is said to show a wrong balance on the ledger of over $1,000,000.00," and the error should be corrected at once. The next sentence reads: "Since Senator Stanford's death the farm has not been so prosperous." I wonder where the writer got his information; it must have been from an unwritten work known as "mental inaccuracy," for to be not so prosperous in nine years, and to lose over a million in sixteen years, would mean that in the nine years the loss would be greater than over a million, and the books fail to show any such shortage; on the contrary show a total revenue from sales of horses alone of $411,762.00. If the writer on the sale of Palo Alto stock will look up the Christmas Horse Review of 1899, he will find a recapitulation of the revenue producing mares of Palo Alto that will not only astonish him, but make him feel as if he had pulled the string at a badger fight in San Antonio, Texas.

Regarding the trotting department, the naming of the mares Elaine, Wildflower and Beautiful Bells, that are to be kept, and the assertion that in the breeding of trotting stock the farm has a name more noted than any other place in the world, are the only true statements made by the writer whose article is headed: "Palo Alto Stock to be Sold Off."

Palo Alto was famous in 1892, before the passing away of the master mind who created it, having held the world's records for yearlings, two, three, four, five year olds, mare and stallion, an achievement never before accomplished by a stock farm in the world, and never will be repeated. The same year held the American record for running horse 1:39 1/4, by Racine, and not 1:40 as written by the writer of "Palo Alto Stock to be Sold Off."

Since the passing to rest of Leland Stanford Palo Alto has been very prosperous, having produced the greatest money winners on the circuit, and producing many trotters that have gained both race and world's records. The great race horse Azote 2:04 1/4, Eleata (4) 2:08 1/4, the largest money winner of 1901; Idolita (3) 2:12, the greatest money winner of 1899, winner of the Horse Review $30,000; Palita (2) 2:16, the unbeaten two year old of 1895; Expressive (3) 2:12 1/4, the greatest racing three year old of all time, 12 wins out of 16 starts; Limonero (3) 2:15 1/4, winner of the Stallion Representative Stake $5000, at Lexington, Ky., in 1894; Rowellan (3) 2:15 1/4, winner of the Horse Review Stake $6000 in 1901; Altivo (4) 2:18 1/4, winner of the Horseman Consolation $9000 in 1894; Adbell (1) 2:23, world's champion yearling; Serpol 2:10; Aria (3) 2:16 1/4, the unbeaten three year old of 1894; Palatine (2) 2:23, the unbeaten two year old of 1893. Helena 2:11 1/4, Peko 2:11 1/4, Betonica (3) 2:10 1/4, Avena (2) 2:19 1/4, Bonibel 2:17 1/4, the great stake winner of 1893. Iran Alto (4) 2:12 1/4, Wild Nutting (p) 2:11 1/4, Laurel 2:13 1/4, Lucrative 2:13 1/4, Minnie B. 2:15 1/4, Marston C. (3) 2:19 1/4, Sweet Water (2) 2:26, Nordeau (3) 2:17 1/4, El Rami (4) 2:14, Adabella (2) 2:25 1/4, and many others as the records will show, casting to the winds the article written by a misinformed writer on a subject that he places before the public, an undesired blow to the greatest stock farm in America.

The mention of sales in the article is not correct; the next sale will be in Cleveland, O., in May, 1902; the second in Sacramento, Cal., September, 1902, and the third in New York, in November, 1902.

F. W. COVEY.

The Horse Famine.

When Col. Berry in 1898 predicted a horse famine before we could raise more horses, many dealers laughed at the idea and thought that out of our fifteen million horses we could always find plenty of good horses. Now these dealers, with men scouring the country, are unable to find half enough good market horses to supply their trade, while the export buyers find but few horses suited to their markets, and such a thing as a carload of horses coming in from the breeder to the commission men is unheard of these times. They must get out and buy their horses to sell or they do not get them. There are regular shippers who are constantly buying and fitting horses for market. They all report horses scarce, hard to find and still harder to buy, and but very few high class horses can be found. This horse famine must last until the young horses and colts have been bred since horse breeding began again. There is a great revival of horse breeding throughout the Western States, especially of draft and coach horses. Every draft mare in the country is now carefully bred to a good draft stallion, and the imported Coach stallions are bred to trotting bred mares, and the good prices are encouraging the farmers and horse breeders to get into market as soon as possible to supply the eager demand of our city markets for fine horses.

During the month of April SUNSET LIMITED will leave San Francisco for New Orleans every Monday, up to and including April 21st, at 4:50 P. The Developed Sires.

[Chicago Horseman.]

Few are there who do not remember the wide discussion of ten years ago that related to the superiority of the non-developed over the developed stallion, as a sire of extreme speed. One who would to-day contend that racing sapped the vitality of a stallion to an extent to impair his usefulness as a sire will find by the records that he has not a foot to stand upon. When the controversy took place no trotting stallion in the 2:15 list had sired a 2:15 trotter, in fact it was not until 1894 that a stallion gained that honor. In that season there were no less than three which joined this select list, the first being Edgardo 2:13 1/4 by Rumor, Keeler 2:13 1/4 by King Rene and Norval 2:13 1/4 by Electioneer. Now there are sixty-five trotting stallions in this list, and with few exceptions it contains the name of every stallion which has reached the age to have a foal old enough to enter the 2:15 list, or which has had the opportunity to sire 2:15 speed. It cannot be overlooked that two of the earliest 2:15 trotting stallions, Phallas and Maxie Cobb, are still unrepresented. Of the stallions in the 2:15 trotting list that have sired 2:15 trotters, it is to be noted that fifteen are in the 2:10 trotting list, three of which have in turn sired 2:10 trotters, while two others have sired 2:10 pacers. Allerton is the only stallion that has sired both trotters and pacers and of the fifteen 2:10 sires he leads in point of the greatest number of 2:10, as well as the greatest number of 2:15 representatives.

Of the horses represented in the list, Wilkes Boy leads, having produced four 2:15 trotting stallions that are sires of 2:15 speed. Six others, Allerton, Electioneer, Baron Wilkes, Red Wilkes, Simmons and Jay Bird have each sired three. The table following contains the names of all 2:15 trotting stallions which have sired two or more 2:15 performers, either trotters or pacers.

First honors go to McKinney, who has a total of eighteen in the list, Allerton, Norval and Axtell following in the order named. Quite the feature of this table is the fact that three of the four were fifteen years or under in age when the last campaign closed. Perhaps the most important fact developed by this compilation is the honor that goes to the dead champion of trotting stallions, Palo Alto 2:08 1/4. He is the only 2:15 trotting stallion that has sired a 2:15 trotter that in turn has produced a 2:15 trotter, Palo Alto being the sire of Iran Alto 2:12 1/4, in turn the sire of the trotters Dr. Frasse 2:12 1/4 and Thomas R. 2:15.

Fair at Chico.

The question as to whether or not a district fair would be held at Chico this year, was definitely settled Saturday last at a meeting of directors held in that city. There were present at the meeting President Lusk and Directors Geo. Daniels, B. Cussick and A. L. Nichols and Secretary A. G. Simpson. After a brief discussion it was unanimously decided by the directors that a fair should be held, and the date was fixed for the week beginning August 18. This will bring the Chico fair just one week ahead of the date claimed by Marysville.

The only sulky made that can be lined on the race track is a McMurray and the only tool needed is a monkey wrench, and the material and mechanical construction cannot be surpassed. Price right. Coast Agent, Kenny Mfg. Co., 531 Valencia street, S. F.

BLUE RIBBON TWO-YEAR-OLDS.

THIRTY-SIX TWO YEAR OLDS bred and reared at Palo Alto Stock Farm are to be placed on the cars the 28th of this month and whirled away across the mountains and plains to Cleveland, where they are to be sold at auction to the highest bidder. There were 48 in the original consignment, but just before the list was made out for the catalogue distemper made its appearance on the farm and a carload had to be cut out, as they are not in condition to ship, and Palo Alto Stock Farm, even though it is closing out, sends no sick or ailing horses to any sale.

I saw these youngsters last Saturday, as beautiful and perfect a day as this region of perfect days ever produced, and making all allowance for the surroundings and the many kind attentions shown me by Superintendent F. W. Covey, I can truthfully say that such a band of two year olds I never before saw. They are the largest, handsomest, best gaited and soundest lot of youngsters ever headed for a sale, and if they do not arouse an enthusiasm among the Eastern horsemen that will lead to larger prices than have been obtained for several years past at the Palo Alto sales, then my estimation of the judgment of those horsemen is at fault.

It must be taken into consideration that the rainy season has been wetter than usual this year. The colts were on the track but five days during February and nine days in March, owing to the almost continual downpour, so that they are not as far along as usual and speed has not been made as fast as in former years. James Thompson, the well known trainer, who has had the handling of the colts, reached the farm in January, and until April did not find much time to drive. But in spite of all these drawbacks, the youngsters show that the speed bred for is there and can be shown, while for size, form, soundness, good feet and legs, style and manners there was never yet thirty-six two year olds in training at the farm that could equal them. It is a pity that just as the acme of breeding according to the plans of the late Senator Stanford has been reached, that the farm must be devoted to other purposes. For, if the Senator's theories and practices could be continued, right here at Palo Alto the two minute trotter would certainly come and it may be that it has already been produced though not yet developed.

It is impossible in the space allotted this article to speak of each and every colt seen, but a few will suffice and they are not the pick of the bunch by any means.

Medion by Mendocino is a two year old that should be a horse show winner as well as a fast trotter. He is a bay and one of the handsomest colts I ever looked at. His dam, Clarion by Ansel 2:20, took a four-year-old record of 2:25½. Clarion's dam was Consolation (the dam of Utility 2:13 and Clarion 2:25½) by Dictator. The next dam was by Norman 25, the next by Mambrino Chief 11, and from there on there is thoroughbred blood for generations. Three thousand dollars was offered for Medion last week by an Eastern visitor to the farm, but as the colt is consigned and catalogued the offer was refused. Palo Alto Farm never withdraws a well horse from a sale after he is once catalogued. Medion is a trotter, as he shows more conclusively every time he is hitched up.

A few days before my visit the proprietor of Grattan Stock Farm, and owner of the stallions Grattan 2:13 and Cecilian (2) 2:22, was at Palo Alto. Superintendent Covey was having the colts led out for his inspection, and as one was taken from the stall said:

"This is Sweet Princess, a two year old by Dexter Prince out of Sweetheart by Stamboul."

"See here, Mr. Covey, I'm a horseman, and you must be mistaken. That filly is nearer four years old than two," was the reply.

But Mr. Covey was correct and while Sweet Princess in every look, action and gait has the appearance of a grown mare, she is only one of Palo Alto Farm's two year olds, whose size and good looks have excited astonishment and admiration whenever they have been led out for inspection.

Princess Elden is the appropriate and euphonious name given a full sister to last year's winner of the M. & M. and the largest money winner of the circuit, Eleata 2:08½. She is more promising than her sister was at the same age, and is one of the most perfectly gaited trotters ever seen on the farm. She is staked to something like $60,000 worth and with good management should earn a goodly share of this neat sum.

Lauracino, one of Mr. Covey's happy combination names, is by Mendocino out of Laura Drew, the dam of Freedom 2:29½, the first yearling to beat three minutes. Lauracino is a bay with four white feet and one of the handsomest of the handsome.

Menrosa is another well named and well staked filly. She is by Mendocino, son of Electioneer, out of Atalanta, full sister to Beautiful Bells. In looks, size, color, action and disposition she is the counterpart of that great member of the Electioneer-Beautiful Bells family, the lamented Hinda Rose, first foal of Beautiful Bells, with a yearling record of 2:36½, two year old record of 2:32 and three year old record of 2:19½. Beautiful Bells had eighteen foals and not one was similar in looks to Hinda Rose, but here is a filly by Electioneer's son and out of the Bells' own sister that is an exact counterpart. Explain, if you can, why this filly should look nearer like Hinda Rose than any of her own sisters or brothers, even though she has very much the same blood in her veins.

Mr. Thompson was driving during the day a filly that attracted considerable attention from all who stopped at the track to see the colts worked. It was Goldress, a brown two year old by Dexter Prince out of Carrie C. (dam of Carmelito (2) 2:32 and Carolita) by Electioneer. The well known horseman, James Golden, has purchased two of Carrie C.'s produce at Palo Alto sales and turned them over at a good profit. Superintendent Covey has named this one Goldress out of compliment to him and says James will want her when he sees her move.

There are eighteen of the thirty-six two year olds entered in the rich futurities of 1902 and 1903 as follows:

COLTS BY MENDOCINO (3), 2:19½.

1. Marocino, bay, dam Aerolite (half sister of Arion, 2:07½) by Palo Alto 2:08½.
2. Medion, bay, dam Clarion (4) 2:25½ (half sister of Utility 2:13, etc.) by Ansel 2:20.

FILLIES BY DEXTER PRINCE.

3. Princess Elden, brown (sister of Eleata (4) 2:08½, largest winner of 1901.
4. Lucie, brown (sister of Lucrativa 2:13½).
5. La Rose, bay, dam Bell Bird (1) 2:26½, daughter of Electioneer and Beautiful Bells.
6. Manzita, brown, dam Manzanita (4) 2:16 (champion trotter) dam of Sweet Water (2) 2:26.
7. Princeborn, bay, dam Mary Osborne (3) 2:28½, out of Elsie (dam of 5) daughter of Elaine (4) 2:20 champion trotter.
8. Goldress, brown, dam Carrie C. 2:24 (dam of Carmelito C. (2) 2:32, and Carolita) by Electioneer.
9. Sweet Princess, bay, dam Sweetwater (2) 2:26, by Stamboul 2:07½, out of Manzanita (4) 2:16. Sweetwater is the dam of Adabella (2) 2:19½.

FILLIES BY MENDOCINO (3) 2:19½.

10. Menrosa, brown, dam Atalanta, sister of Beautiful Bells 2:29½, greatest of broodmares.
11. Menoco, bay, dam Rebecca, dam of Bernal 2:17 and four others, etc.
12. Lauracino, chestnut, dam Laura Drew, dam of Freedom (1) 2:29½, champion trotter, etc.
13. Naza, bay, by Nazote 2:28½ (brother of Azote 2:04½), dam Gertrude Russell 2:23½, sister of Palo Alto 2:08½, etc.
14. Azula, bay, by Azmoor 2:20½-Sylla Barnes by Whips 2:27½.

GELDINGS.

15. Grove N., bay, by Mendocino (3) 2:19½-Lady Nutwood, dam of Ned Thorn 2:11½, etc.
16. Exquisite, chestnut, by Mendocino (3) 2:19½-Esther, dam of Expressive (3) 2:12½.
17. Nazomont, chestnut, by Nazote 2:28½-Rosemont (dam of 3), daughter of Beautiful Bells 2:29½.
18. Wildos, brown, by Dexter Prince-Wildmay 2:30 by Electioneer-Mayflower 2:30½.

All of the above are engaged in the Kentucky $20,000 Futurity, and all, with the exception of Nos. 5, 9, 14 and 18, are in the Terre Haute Matron Stake of $10,000. All are in the Horse Review Stake, and Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 8 are also eligible to the Hartford $10,000 Futurity. There are six eligibles for the Kentucky Stock Farm Purse, viz., Nos. 1, 2, 5, 12, 15 and 16.

It is useless to tell of the quarters and eighthes worked thus far by these youngsters as they have not had the opportunity to show even a part of the speed that is in them, but when they reach Cleveland and are shown on the track buyers will be able to see for themselves whether they are great prospects or not. Palo Alto Farm has sent forth many great stake and race winners every year, but I venture the prediction that there will be a greater proportion of money winners and low record holders come from this consignment than has ever yet been attained by the colts from the farm.

A day at Palo Alto, with Superintendent Frank Covey, is something to be long remembered. Mr. Covey has been at the great farm, man and boy, nearly twenty-five years, and knows every horse of the four or five hundred on the place by name and pedigree. He never passes one without a word of greeting, and it is a pleasure to see the older ones respond to his salutations. Carefulness is the first duty impressed upon every employe and one never hears loud talk or angry words addressed to the horses. The Electioneers are noted for their good dispositions and gentle manners, and when one sees the way the members of this family of great horses are handled at Palo Alto, the question arises: Would not the descendants of some other sires have better reputations if they were handled in the same way? Senator Stanford bred for size, good looks, good dispositions and speed. He accomplished his purposes and now that the equine trees of his theory and practice are just beginning to bear their choicest fruit, it is a pity to see the order given that the great orchard must go to make room for something else. But the dispersal of Palo Alto horses will create opportunities for horsemen that they should not overlook. There are colts to be sold that will outbreed Electioneer with the same opportunities, and there are fillies to go that may beat the wonderful record of Beautiful Bells, greatest of all broodmares. Those who attend the sales of Palo Alto stock during this year and have the money to bid on the horses offered will be lucky, as no such chance will occur again, and the loss to this State of the country's greatest breeding farm will be a gain to the individuals who secure some of the blood that has made history for Palo Alto that will live as long as civilization. VETERINARY DEPARTMENT.

CONDUCTED BY

WM. F. EGAN, M. R. C. V. C., F. E. V. M. S.

Subscribers to this paper can have advice through these columns in all cases of sick or injured horses, cattle or dogs by sending a plain description of the case. Applicants will send their name and address that they may be identified.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—I would like to consult your veterinarian as to a bony enlargement on an Anteo stallion I own. I bought this steed from a corral in which he had been running for five years. I was too anxious to make speed on our hard country roads. Pretty soon I noticed that the ankle joints in front, to the horse's front feet were enlarged. Last winter I blistered the ankles twice with beniodide of mercury. I think the enlargements went down some. It does not interfere with the horse's action, but I would like to be able to remove these blemishes if the veterinary act will enable me to do so.

Bony enlargements in the region of the pastern, when they do not interfere with the action of a joint, or extend to the coronet, do not generally lame.

When the exostosis is of long standing, and perfectly hard and "set" it is very difficult to remove.

Repeated blisterings with beniodide of mercury blister is about as good a treatment as you can adopt.

Avoid concussion caused by fast driving, which tends to keep up the irritation that started the formation.

Running on soft ground or slow exercise on soft ground is better for him than standing in a stable after the inflammation resulting from the blister has disappeared.

Bony enlargements of this kind tend to disappear in time, even without treatment, and for this reason old horses that have been running at pasture or worked moderately, rarely have exostosis on their legs.

The veterinary act does not interfere with a man treating his own horse. It is mainly to protect the public from a class of men that go about pretending to have veterinary knowledge, and through ignorance or deceit defraud the horse owner and injure the animal that he treats.

I have a yearling colt that has just developed a thoroughpin and spavin on one of its hocks. The colt has always been well fed. Would you, through your paper, suggest a treatment, and with proper treatment do you think it can be removed?

The colt being young, unless the thoroughpin and spavin be very large, and the joint injured in some way, I consider that nature, with the assistance of a few applications of tincture of iodine, will in time remove the enlargement.

Paint the enlargement with tincture of iodine once every three weeks and leave the colt run in a large pasture night and day.

If the colt be taken up at night he will probably hurt the hock in galloping about when let out every morning, especially if the place be small and he has to turn frequently in his play.

When left out night and day he soon gets over the novelty of it and will not be so violent in his play.

A Good Mare to Cresceus.

Geo. Fox, of Clements, Cal., has decided to send his filly Silpan to be bred to Cresceus 2:02½ and she will leave in the car with horses consigned to the Blue Ribbon sale at Cleveland this month. Silpan is by Silver Bow 2:16 out of Kitty Fox by Pancoast, second dam by Dictator, third dam by Mambrino Time, fourth dam by thoroughbred Paddy Burns, fifth dam by Copperhead. Cresceus will have no better bred one than Silpan sent to his court this year.

A very handsome mare, over sixteen hands high, sound, young and city broke is offered for sale at a great bargain. Apply to "C" this office.

Notes and News.

Colusa's fair will open August 11th and continue five days.

Dan Patch 2:04½ is 150 lbs. heavier than he was last year.

Coney 2:02 is at the Kirkwood, Del., kite track for spring training.

Thomas W. Lawson's entries for the Boston horse show number 135.

Bessie Bonehill 2:05½, after raising a couple of foals, will be trained this season by John Dickerson.

They say The Aristocrat, five years old, by Athanio, in Geers' stable, can pace as fast as Direct Hal.

The starting judge, Frank Walker, has engagements for all but three weeks of the coming racing season.

Cresceus will be taken to the Cleveland track July 1st to begin active training for his exhibition tour.

John Kelly will have a full sister to Directum Kelly 2:08½ in his string this year. She is called Phyllis Kelly.

There is a seven-year-old brother of Dare Devil 2:09, called Helvetia, that is a pacer and is to be trained this season.

The Kentucky Futurity has 1415 entries of which California sent forty-four. Twenty were from Palo Alto Stock Farm alone.

Hulda 2:08½ has a daughter by Dexter Prince. It arrived at Aptos Farm last Sunday evening and is already the pet of the place.

Bert Webster worked the pacing two-year-old chestnut colt by Steinway out of Nola by Nutwood a mile in 2:23 last Saturday at Pleasanton.

Andy McDowell is regularly jogging the following: Major Greer 2:13½, Aggie Medium 2:12½, Betsy Tell 2:20½, Paul Revere 2:07½, Wilkie Redback 2:13½.

Miss Logan 2:06½ worked a very handy mile in 2:15 at San Jose this week and seems to be a very much improved mare so far as behavior is concerned.

One of the greatest prospects in the Malcolm Forbes string, which Henry Titor is training, is a filly by Bingen 2:06½ out of Vina Belle 2:15½ by Nephew.

Beauseant, the pacer that has trialed in 2:07½ but will start in the races this year without a record, is called the handsomest horse in training at Memphis.

The fast green pacer Prince D., in W. L. Snow's stable, is now owned by A. H. Miller of Buffalo, he having purchased C. R. Bentley's half interest in the horse.

Mr. Gallegos' little black mare Trilby by Direct that is entered in the slower class pacing events on the Grand Circuit, worked a very easy mile in 2:17 at Pleasanton last week.

Johnny Dickerson will probably have Anaconda in his string this year. If he has luck with the snake horse a record of two minutes ought to about mark the son of Knight for life.

Mr. C. K. G. Billings has recently purchased the bay stallion The Admiral 2:07½ that raced successfully in 1900 and is well entered in the 2:08 classes this year. The Admiral is by Be Sure 2:06½.

It looks as if there will be three or four circuits going on at the same time in California this year, which will not detract in the least from the success of the smaller meetings, as they will be widely separated.

Thos. R. 2:15, that good son of Iran Alto that "Farmer" Bunch campaigned in California last year, may be sent East this season to try conclusions with the trotters in his class. He ought to shade 2:10 this year.

President Heald and Secretary Kelley of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association went to Fresno yesterday to confer with the citizens there in regard to holding a meeting of the association at the Fresno track.

G. McK. Bevan of Bakersfield is as happy as a boy with a new toy. His mare Neice by Pangloss foaled a bay or brown colt by Vasto March 20th, and he has visions of stakes won and records made that would put Cresceus in the shade.

Second hand bike sulkies and carts for sale. Bike wheels made to order and repaired. McMurray bike carts and sulkies kept in stock. Pneumatic rigs called for and repaired. Kenney Bicycle Company, 531 Valencia street, San Francisco.

Charles Griffith drove Rect 2:16½ a half mile in 1:04½ at Pleasanton one day last week. Rect is a most pleasant horse to drive and will make a sensation at the Cleveland sale if he keeps right. He should be one of the high-priced ones of the sale.

George Davis has sold his handsome pair of Charles Derbys to E. H. Vance of Oakland for $1200. They are chestnuts, full brother and sister, five and six years old respectively, and are not only stylish but fast. They are out of a mare by Guy Wilkes.

The $7100 gelding, Sagwa 2:13½, has been fired in a front leg from fetlock to knee, and is jogging sound in it. Last year he was set pacing and was timed a heat right close to 2:10 in a race. No knowing but Sagwa may turn out better than expected, if he stands the "prep."

Geo. F. Stickle of Angels Camp is the owner of a colt by Silver Bow 2:16½ out of Grace, the dam of Daedalion 2:11, Creole 2:15 and Eagle 2:19½ by Buccaneer, that Ed Lafferty is training at Pleasanton, that is one of the handsomest colts in California, and a sure trotter.

If a stallion is healthy and vigorous, don't be afraid to breed to him just because he is old. The old "hero of the homestretch," Robert McGregor was 22 years old when he was mated with Mabel by Mambrino Howard, and she produced Cresceus 2:02½ the following year.

John Ott, of Pacheco, writes that his stallion Sidmore has been bred to 31 mares to date and has quite an additional number booked. The many handsome and fast colts by Sidmore owned in Contra Costa county are helping to bring him a large patronage this year.

A gentleman who is looking for a 2:15 pacer states that nearly all the horses shown him so far have been too fast, as they are guaranteed to go three heats in 2:10. As the guarantee is not guaranteed he thinks the speed is a little too great for the money he is willing to pay.

Josiah Stoddard of Boston, inventor of the steam piano, is dead and his body is to be cremated. If all these infernal machines could be gathered and cremated with him, every horse owner that ever tried to drive near a circus procession would say: "Peace to their ashes."

Dolly Dillon 2:07 is working so nicely for Millard Sanders at Pleasanton that he is confident she will return from her Eastern campaign this year a good winner for the Santa Rosa Stock Farm. She worked a mile in 2:15 last Saturday, coming the last quarter in 31½ seconds.

Reports from the East are to the effect that The Abbot 2:03½ is showing so much improvement over his last year's form that horsemen are already calling him the 2:02 trotter of 1902. It is said that he can fairly fly in his brushes and that he is ready and anxious to go fast at all times.

Cyrus Lukens, an Eastern turf writer, made the wonderful discovery that a mare's first foal was her best and printed a list of first borns to prove it. When the editor of the Horse Review got through dissecting the list it looked like a punctured tire that had been run over by a track harrow.

The peculiar prices for service fees for his stallion that Thomas W. Lawson has adopted are, for Ponce de Leon 2:13, for a limited number of approved mares, $200, or $100 if he has option to buy foal at one year old at $1000; Dare Devil 2:09 at $150, or $100 with the option for a yearling at $1000.

Name your stallion in the Special Harness Stallion Stake which closes May 1st. Don't neglect this. One of your horse's colts may be the crackerjack three year old of 1905. If his sire is not named in this stake the colt may not be raced and your horse will lose much that is rightly due him as a sire of speed.

C. Z. Hebert of Salinas, owner of the trotting stallion Bruno 2:16½ by Junio, has offered a stake of $100 for the foals of 1903 sired by his stallion. The entrance fee is $5 and is to be added to the stake. Money is to be divided 60, 30 and 10 per cent. The race is to be trotted in 1905, when foals are two years old.

Mr. A. B. Spreckels took his friend Grove Ayers down to the Aptos Stock Farm last Saturday to see "Sandy" work the trotters and pacers that are consigned to the Cleveland sale. Both gentlemen were greatly pleased with what they saw, and say that the twenty-four head are all in fine shape and working well.

The produce of Lena N. 2:05½ and Sunol 2:08½, both with foal to The Earl 2:17, have been nominated in the Kentucky Stock Farm Purse for foals of 1902. The Earl 2:17 was sired by Mambrino King, dam Princess Royal 2:20 by Chimes; second dam Estabella (dam of Heir-at-Law 2:05½, etc.) by Alcantara, and was bred at Village Farm.

Mr. D. M. Shanks, of North Yakima, Washington, visited Oakwood Park Stock Farm this week and looked at a pacer by Steinway out of an Electioneer mare that is one of the fastest green ones in California. Mr. Shanks drove him a quarter in 30 seconds on the farm track and then offered $2000 for him. The price asked is $3500 however.

James Quinn, Jack Gibson, John Callan, Mike Costello and other well-known California trainers are all located at Kapiolani track near Honolulu, and have strings of harness horses at work for the big annual meeting to be held June 11th. Quinn still has Waldo J. 2:08 in his string, Callan is training Edna G. Costello has Directress and Violin, and Gibson is working Wayboy, the chestnut by Strathway that is touted as a probable breaker of the Island record. Charles David, known to all old California horsemen as "Dutch Dave," is with Gibson.

Mr. C. L. Griffith of Pleasanton will ship his string of horses to the Blue Ribbon sale at Cleveland on the 26th instant. He has room in his car for a few more horses. If there are any persons desiring to ship a horse East at this time it will be to their advantage to write Mr. Griffith immediately.

The most valuable trotting foal of the season in Kentucky arrived last week at L. V. Harkness' Walnut Hall Farm. It is full brother to the double futurity winner Ferenno 2:10½, being by Moko, dam Hettie Case by Simmons, grandam Rosa Sprague dam of McKinney 2:11½, by Gov. Sprague. The youngster very much resembles its famous sister.

It is becoming a rather common occurrence for colts to be foaled on moving railroad trains. One day last week while the stallions and mares of C. W. Williams were on the train en route from Galesburg to Lexington, two of the mares dropped foals. One of the mares is by Red Wilkes and the other by Bow Bells. Both foals are by Allerton, and came straight and all right.

The second payments of $20 on each entry in the 2:12 and 2:18 class trotting and the 2:08 and the 2:14 class pacing purses of $2000 each and $40 in the 2:24 class trotting and the 2:24 class pacing purses of $5000 each, offered by the Buffalo Driving Club, will be due on April 20th. Don't neglect to make these payments to John B. Sage, Secretary, 668 Ellicott Square, Buffalo, N. Y.

Brayton Ives, who now owns Extasy 2:10½, will breed her to Kellar 2:16½ this year. She recently dropped a bay filly by Prodigal 2:16. Extasy made her record of 2:10½ pacing as a two year old, and then gained a trotting record of 2:11½ in the fourth heat of a race when a three year old. Kellar 2:16½, the horse with which she will be mated this year, is by Allerton and took his record as a three year old.

A four-in-hand team was sold at Lexington last week for $5000. This is the first time that a four-in-hand was ever prepared and sold by a Kentucky dealer. The wheelers are a five and six year old by The King, son of Harrison Chief, and the leaders are five year olds by Simmons Boy and George Simmons, both out of mares by Harrison Chief. They are chestnuts in color and perfectly matched.

After giving his new trotting mare Phoebe Childers 2:10½ one trial on the speedway, John F. Cockerill, the president of the Road Drivers' Association, decided to make a broodmare of her. She proved to be as fast as a bullet, but her manners were so bad that Mr. Cockerill would neither drive her himself nor sell her to anybody else for speedway driving. She is to be bred to James Butler's famous trotting sire, Direct 2:05½.—Trotter and Pacer.

The Governor of Kentucky has vetoed the anti-horse docking bill passed by both houses of the Legislature and sent to him for signature. Much pressure was brought on the Governor by a certain element to make the bill a law, but he declined, saying that he thought the men who insisted on having docked horses ought to be punished rather than those who make their living by catering to a trade they do not establish and have no power to change.

Scott McCoy is giving the pacer Little Boy a great deal of attention with the expectation of beating the world's record with him. This horse, like all the rest has wintered well, and is big and strong. McCoy can't see why with careful preparation he will not be able to pace in at least 1:58. He has speed enough to carry him a quarter over good footing close to 27½ seconds, and it is a certainty that no other fast pacer in the world can carry his brush as far as Little Boy.

Good prices have been refused for two horses consigned to the Blue Ribbon sale at Cleveland. An offer of $2500 was made Mr. Spreckels two weeks ago for the five year old chestnut mare by Dexter Prince out of Point Lace by Antevolo, and an Eastern visitor to Palo Alto Farm made an offer last Friday of $3000 for the handsome two year old colt Medion by Mendocino out of Clarion 2:25½. Both these offers had to be refused, as the horses were consigned and catalogued.

Mr. C. A. Harrison, the well known Los Angeles horseman and hotel keeper, who sent his mare Little Maid back to Toledo to be bred to Cresceus, at the same time set a price at which he would dispose of the mare. Mr. Ketcham took Little Maid out during the sleighing season and was so pleased with her that he mailed a check for the amount to Mr. Harrison, and said she was the fastest show horse and one of the pleasantest drivers he ever saw. Little Maid's filly by Del Norte that Sam Casto is training at Portland is a very fast one.

In quoting the statement made in this paper that Flying Jib was driven a quarter at Pleasanton recently in 29½ seconds, that entertaining writer, "Volunteer" of The Horse Review, says: "Flying Jib is spoken of as being 'in his fifteenth year.' It is just ten years ago since he appeared on the turf and set the record for green pacers at 2:05½, where it remained until Bonnie Direct lowered it to 2:05½, eight years later. At that time I addressed a communication to Flying Jib's trainer, Mr. George Starr, inquiring his age, as he is not recorded in the Trotting Register. I have the answer, in Mr. Starr's own handwriting, that 'the Jib' was then eight years old. As a consequence, he is now eighteen, and not fifteen, years of age. It will hardly be disputed that his feat of pacing a quarter in 29½ seconds at eighteen is one of the most marvelous ever accomplished and certainly without a parallel in pacing history."

Mile vs. Half Mile Track.

BRENTWOOD, April 12, 1901.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—We, the Directors of Agricultural District 23, have under consideration the question of building a half mile track. In your next issue of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN will you please give us an article on the question of half mile tracks. Would like to have all the information you can give us on the question. About how many acres it would take. If they are a success in the East. If a record made on a half mile track holds good under the National Association rules. Also your own ideas on the question. I think an article on this subject would be read with interest by many of the Directors of the smaller agricultural associations, as the cost of maintaining a mile track comes quite heavy on the association where the appropriation is small and the attendance not very large. Trusting that this will not be troubling you too much. Yours sincerely, ROBT. WALLACE.

In reply to the above we will state that in our opinion many of the smaller associations in California could hold more profitable meetings if their tracks were half mile instead of mile ovals. Not that a half mile track is to be preferred to a mile track for training or racing, but solely for economic reasons. A good half mile track is, however, better to train and race over than a poor one that is a mile in circumference. The spectators enjoy racing as well and perhaps more over the shorter track as they get a closer view of the race and greater enthusiasm almost invariably results. But to the questions propounded by our correspondent:

If the track is laid out according to the plan usually adopted and which was published in this paper in the issue of April 5th, about twenty-five acres of land will be required to allow space for track, grand stand, stalls and other necessary buildings. The inside of the oval would be 1052½ feet long and 452½ feet wide. The track should be as wide as can conveniently be worked and if sixty feet all around and eighty feet on the homestretch it would be a better track to race on than many narrow mile rings. Many half mile tracks are but 45 feet, widening to 65 feet on the stretch.

Yes; half-mile tracks are a success in the East. Some of the largest crowds seen at the races there are at the half-mile tracks. The celebrated track at Goshen, New York, is of this character and such horses as John R. Gentry 2:00½ and Star Pointer 2:01½ have raced over it. The pacing record for a half-mile track is 2:04½ and the trotting record 2:09½.

Records made on a half-mile track are the same as records made on a mile track as far as the National and American Trotting Associations are concerned and will be accepted and recorded when made according to rule.

Here in California, in the interior counties especially, water is expensive, as the long dry summers cause the tracks to dry out so that a great deal of sprinkling is necessary to keep them in proper shape for training or racing. That a track one-half mile in length will only require one-half the water a mile track will, is a self evident proposition. One man with one team can easily do the sprinkling, harrowing, scraping and other work necessary to keep the shorter track in condition, while he cannot possibly attend to a mile track properly. Few associations in California can afford to hire two men with teams to look after their race tracks and as a consequence a majority of them are seldom in good order after the first of June.

If an association has patronage sufficient to pay all expenses and keep a mile track and the grounds in proper shape the year round, we would say have the track that length by all means, but if it requires a very strong annual effort to make the receipts equal the expenditures, and as often happens the balance is frequently on the wrong side of the ledger, we would advise building a half-mile ring. By making it sufficiently wide, with an extra width to the homestretch, throwing up the turns and keeping the entire track in first class order, your association can make its track popular with horsemen for both training and racing.

The 2:10 Sires.

[Chicago Horse Review.]

In these days of extreme speed, when to win with any degree of certainty through the Grand Circuit, a trotter or pacer must be able to beat 2:10, the breeder who aims to produce horses of Grand Circuit quality must of necessity patronize those sires that have produced, with regularity, the class of horse necessary for a trip through the Grand Circuit. Though for the time being the breeder may content himself with the thought that he is producing winners on the minor circuits, he is looking forward to the future when he can bring out a winner able to hold his own with the best on earth. And as the production of one 2:10 performer does not necessarily insure permanent fame to a sire, the breeder will find the following tables of some aid in determining the relative merits of those sires that have produced 2:10 speed uniformly—the crucial test of a stallion's greatness.

The first table shows those stallions that have produced three or more 2:10 trotters and proves conclusively that, age considered, the Village Farm stallion, Chimes, son of Electioneer and Beautiful Bells, stands at the head of all stallions, living or dead, as a sire of extreme trotting speed. As the table shows, and as must be conceded, in point of numbers Onward stands at the head, he having four 2:10 trotters, while Chimes has but three. But Onward is nine years the senior of Chimes, and the average record of the three credited to the Village Farm stallion is nearly three seconds faster than the average of Onward's four. No stallion ever sired three such trotters as those credited to Chimes, all being champions of their day. The Abbot 2:03½ still holds the world's record for trotting geldings, the world's wagon record of 2:05½ and the world's record for six year old geldings, and formerly held the trotting record for all ages, the world's four year old trotting gelding record, 2:11½, and the race record to wagon, 2:12½. Fantasy (4) 2:06 still holds the world's record for three year olds, the world's record for four year old fillies, 2:06, and the world's record for five year old mares, 2:07, the record for the fastest four heat race and several minor records. The Monk (4) 2:08½, the last of the trio of great trotters sent out by Chimes, set the record for four year old geldings at 2:08½, and still holds the race record to wagon, 2:10.

It will be seen at a glance that Chimes is by several years the youngest stallion represented in the list. Wilton, who stands second in this respect, is four years his senior, the others being from five to sixteen years older.

It will also be noted that in point of average speed Mambrino King, formerly at the head of the Village Farm stud, and a stable companion of Chimes until his death in 1899, stands second to Chimes, his three 2:10 trotters having faster average records than three by any othersire, Chimes only excepted. As the majority of the youngsters on the Village Farm combine the blood of these two sires—the two greatest sires of extreme trotting speed that ever lived—it is not to be wondered at that the fame of that establishment is added to each season.

SIRES OF THREE OR MORE 2:10 TROTTERS

Year Foaled	Stallion.	No. in 2:10	Average
1875	Onward.....	4	2:08½
1884	Chimes.....	3	2:05 5-6
1872	Mambrino King.....	3	2:07 5-6
1868	Electioneer.....	3	2:08½
1879	Guy Wilkes.....	3	2:08 5-12
1879	Pilot Medium.....	3	2:08½
1877	Alycone.....	3	2:09 1-12
1874	Young Jim.....	3	2:09 1-12
1880	Wilton.....	3	2:09½

The following compilation contains the names of all sires of five or more 2:10 performers, either pacers or trotters, and again Chimes stands well in the lead in point of average speed. Onward, with nine performers to his credit, four trotters and five pacers, outpoints Chimes in numbers, and Brown Hal, with seven pacers and no trotters, leads him in point of average speed. But considering Onward's nine years' seniority and the fact that Chimes' seven have faster average records, and leaving Brown Hal out of the question by reason of his performers being pacers entirely, Chimes stands pre-eminently at the head. His seven 2:10 performers average faster than seven by any other sire, Brown Hal excepted, and again Mambrino King comes in second place. Baron Wilkes, two years the senior of Chimes, is credited with seven, two trotters and five pacers, but is surpassed by Chimes in number of trotters and point of average speed.

SIRES OF FIVE OR MORE 2:10 PERFORMERS

Year foaled.	Stallion.	Total in 2:10	Trotters.	Pacers.	Average of lot	Average of Trotters.	Average of Pacers.
1875	Onward.....	9	4	5	2:08 5-18	2:08½	2:08 1-10
1884	Chimes.....	7	3	4	2:07 1-7	2:05 5-6	2:08 1-8
1872	Mambrino King.....	7	3	4	2:07 3-7	2:07 5-6	2:08 7-12
1882	Baron Wilkes.....	7	2	5	2:07 6-7	2:09½	2:07 1-5
1879	Brown Hal.....	7	0	7	2:08 11-14		2:08 11-14
1875	Altamont.....	7	2	5	2:08 2-12	2:09½	2:07½
1875	Bourbon Wilkes.....	6	2	4	2:08 23-24		2:08 23-24
1880	Wilton.....	5	3	2	2:08 3-5	2:09½	2:06 7-8
1881	Gambetta Wilkes.....	5	2	3	2:07½		2:07½
1876	Aleutars.....	5	5	0	2:07 10-20		2:07 10-20

Measured by any standard based on the 2:10 list, it must be conceded that Chimes stands at the head of all sires. The coming season will undoubtedly place him still further in the lead. Four of his 2:10 performers are in training and are expected to lower their records, while others are expected to join the number.

Don't Waste a Year's Time.

Mr. E. E. Winnie, prominent horseman at Waterloo, N. Y., writes: "Find enclosed $1, for which send a bottle of Quinn's Ointment. About three years ago I had a valuable three-year-old colt that sprung two large splints on the inside of each fore leg. For a year I used all remedies, and even the best veterinarians experimented, until his legs got in bad shape. I saw Quinn's Ointment advertised and secured a package, using according to directions, and in three months' time his legs were as clean as your hand. I have now another case which I think your remedy will bring out all right, as I know what it has done." This is only continued of what we are receiving every day from horsemen all over the United States. For curbs, splints, spavins, windpuffs and all bunches on horses or cattle, use Quinn's Ointment. Price $1, by mail or express prepaid. Address W. B. Eddy & Co., Whitehall, N. Y., unless you can obtain it from your druggist.

A Call on Monterey 2:09 1-4.

OAKLAND, April 14, 1902.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—On Sunday last I thought I would take a run on the electric cars to San Lorenzo and see Monterey, the champion of California, and Pete Williams and his wife on their new fruit farm. So, accompanied by my wife, we journeyed on such a day as only California affords to her children—a golden day. People afoot, in carriages, on bicycles, passed us, or we passed them, many of the wayfarers laden with the poppies—golden flowers, fit emblems for a golden State. All the orchards were in bloom—with blossoms—the promise of fruit for the coming year.

It was 3 P. M. when we reached San Lorenzo. We found the chestnut Monterey quietly grazing in a grass grown paddock. Yours truly, setting his fifty years behind him, vaulted o'er the opposing fence and expatiated to the partner of his joys and sorrows in this wise:

"See, wife; what a back—straight as a table from the withers to the setting on of his tail. What driving power—it makes the horse look like a quarter horse." Soliloquizing to myself I said: "What quarters, what lower thighs, what gaskins." Letting my eye run forward from the point of hip I saw how close ribbed up he is. Two fingers would fill the space between the point of the hip and the floating ribs. A good deep barrel to hold the heart and lungs, those furnaces in which the fires burn to furnish speed. Monterey has speed to burn—a quarter in 29 seconds, a half in 1:01½—needs no comment from me. A dozen watches timed Monterey in one of his Eastern races a miles in 2:07 flat.

Carrying my scrutiny forward to Monterey's shoulders—they are massive—stand out in bold relief. Low in the withers, shoulders sloping backward into the continuity of the back. A good flat neck, surmounted by a bony sensible head. Fair, full, calm eyes look inquiringly at me. Thin, pointed ears, the indicators of the horses's mind, played to and fro inquiringly.

I was unduly interrupted in my musings by the partner of my life saying: "Stop looking at that horse; look at me! We'll be late for that car. Go see Mr. Williams. We must get back to Oakland."

So all too short was our visit. We had to refuse Mrs. Williams' invitation to dinner, and promise to come again to get Lady Fallis when she was ready to be sent home. We said good-bye and ran to catch the bob-tailed car which never waits for those who come a little late. EL VIELLO.

Sale of Silver Coin 2:16 1-4.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN: Mr. William Durfee has sold the bay stallion, Silver Coin by Steinway, to William Loftus of Fullerton, California, at a price well up in the four figures. Silver Coin is one of the finest looking stallions ever seen on a race track and from a breeding point of view hard to compete with, being by Steinway, one of America's best sires. His dam Jennie Mack 2:09 by McKinney 2:11½; his second dam Leonore by Dashwood. Leonore is the dam of Dr. Book 2:10½ and Miss Jessie 2:13½, two trotters that were always hard to beat. Silver Coin was the three year old pacing champion of 1901, taking a record of 2:16½ which no three year old pacer was able to break. Mr. Durfee has worked him a mile in 2:13, last half in 1:03½, and yesterday the writer timed him an eighth in 14½ seconds. Mr. Loftus is to be congratulated on having purchased such a stallion and the breeders of Southern California should show due appreciation and encourage Mr. Loftus in his new enterprise.

Mr. Durfee states that Silver Coin is ready to race, that he is one of the best headed and gamest stallions he ever drove and that were it not for the fact that he has a great many green horses, no man's money could buy Silver Coin. Here's best wishes to his new owner. Yours truly, C. A. HARRISON.

Death of Bon Bon.

Mr. C. L. Griffith, of Pleasanton, has suffered a great loss in the death of his great broodmare Bon Bon, dam of Bonnie Direct 2:05½ and Bonsilene 2:14½, by Simmons. She died foaling a colt by McKinney, having been ruptured internally and bled to death. The colt gave promise of coming on all right, having been placed with another mare, but it was found dead the next morning. A history of Bon Bon and a photo-engraving of her appeared in this paper in the issue of February 22d, this year.

The remains of the late William B. Fasig, which have been in the vault at Brewster, N. Y., since his death at Bennyscliffe Farm, were removed to Cleveland, O., recently and interred at Lake View Cemetery.

MANY DATES ARE CLAIMED for harness meetings in California this year, as will be readily seen by referring to the list published in the first column of this page. No less than seventeen associations have claimed dates so far and there are several important points yet to hear from. By next week the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association will have announced one and perhaps two meetings and will advertise its purses at the same time. Not owning a track this organization is unable to make as early announcements as its Directors would wish, having to arrange its dates so as not to conflict with any of the district fairs. There is a probability that after the San Jose meeting which is to be held July 3d to 5th, the horses which race on the main circuit will be taken to Petaluma for a meeting about the last week in July, thence to Vallejo Aug 4th, to Napa Aug. 11th, to Woodland. Sept. 1st, to State Fair at Sacramento two weeks, Sept. 8th to 20th, and thence to Oakland, Stockton, Fresno, Bakersfield and Los Angeles. The Southern Coast Circuit comprising the districts of Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, Monterey and San Benito counties will begin August 6th and close September 6th. A Northern Circuit will begin at Colusa August 11th, thence to Chico August 18, and end at Marysville August 30th. It may be that Wil-lows will enter this circuit and open it August 4th. Red Bluff, Redding and Yreka, the three principal districts in the extreme northern part of the State have decided to join with two or three districts in the southern part of Oregon and arrange a circuit. They have already claimed dates. All these circuits will doubtless announce purses before the end of this month. There will be plenty of racing in California this year.

THE STALLION STAKE will be the talk of the Coast when it is decided for the first time at the State Fair at Sacramento in 1905, and the three year old that wins it will not only earn a big pile of money for its owner, but bring a big lot of credit and reputation to its sire and dam. This is the first stake of the kind ever inaugurated for trotting colts and fillies, and it promises being one of the most popular. There were 35 stallions named at the date of the first closing on February 15th, but owing to an almost general misunderstanding as to the eligibility of this year's foals the stake was re-opened and the date of May 1st set for closing. There should be no less than fifty and there should be two hundred stallions named in the stake, as there are that number standing in the States and Territories of the district, whose owners can well afford to pay the entrance fee. When the stallions are named, it will make every foal of 1902 sired by them eligible to the stake. The California State Agricultural Society will add $1000 to the stake, and there is not a particle of doubt but it will be by far the richest as well as the least expensive stake ever trotted for in California.

COMMON SENSE was used by Secretary Horace Wilson and the managers of the Empire Club of New York in the settlement of a difference in dates between the association and the New York State Fair. When the Empire Club fixed its date for the week of September 8th to 13th, it came into conflict with the State Fair folks, who had already claimed that week. As Empire track would have drawn all the best horses, the State Fair association induced the Legislature to pass a law prohibiting any trotting meetings to be held on mile tracks anywhere in the State during the same week as the State Fair. This looks like a law that is clearly unconstitutional, as the Empire Club receives no State aid, but instead of making a fight Secretary Wilson took another date, and made satisfactory arrangements with the Pimlico track to give up its dates for that week. There will be no conflict of date, on the Grand Circuit and the Empire Club will hold one of the greatest meetings ever held in New York State.

A FUTURITY STAKE EVENT is given in Russia for trotters, and is competed for by youngsters on the ice the winter that they are coming four year olds. The 1902 event took place there January 31st. The value of the stake was about $12,000 and there were seven starters, four half-bred Americans and three pure-bred Russians. The winner was young Alvin, driven by William Caton; the second horse was Armand, also a son of Alvin 2:11, the old "Canadian king." The other half-bred American that got money was a filly by Good Gift, son of Electioneer, the horse that Senator Stanford sent to the Czar of Russia as a present.

THREE GREAT MEETINGS are to be held in Minnesota this year and they will be a part of the Great Western Circuit. The first will be at the Ha-Ha track near Minneapolis. It opens July 1st, and entries close June 16th. The second opens July 8th at Hamline with the same date for closing as the Minneapolis meeting. The third meeting is held later in the year at Hamline, September 1st to 6th being the dates, and entries close July 1st. There are $1000 purses for everybody at these meetings. For full particulars see our business columns this week.

FOUR RUNNING STAKES, one of which is worth $1000, the other three $600 each, are offered by the King County Fair Association of Seattle. The Seattle Derby and the Ladies Plate will close May 1st, the other two August 1st. There is no longer any doubt but Seattle will hold one of the greatest meetings ever held in the northwest. If you intend to race through that circuit you should not forget to enter in these stakes.

THE YOUNGEST SIRE of extreme speed was Direct 2:05 1/4, that had Directly (2) 2:07 1/4 to his credit at nine years of age. Happy Riley at the same age was the sire of Riley B. 2:06 1/4 when the latter was five years old. McKinney 2:11 1/4 at twelve years of age was the sire of Coney 2:07 1/4 and Jenny Mac 2:09. Diablo 2:09 1/4 at the same age had produced Clipper 2:06 and Sir Albert S. 2:08 1/4.

A BREEDING FARM for thoroughbred horses, modern in all its appointments, is to be established by the firm of Burns & Waterhouse in Sonoma county, a tract of land comprising about two thousand acres having been recently purchased for that purpose. Col. Burns and Mr. Waterhouse are both enthusiastic lovers of the sport of kings, and have expended large sums of money in their racing and breeding ventures. It is a matter of much satisfaction to these gentlemen that their stallion Altamax by imp. Maxim out of Altitude by Alarm, is proving a successful sire, and though but eight years of age he is already the sire of quite a respectable list of colt winners, several of which give every prospect of being high class stake horses. He will be placed at the head of the Sonoma county farm and with a number of mares of the choicest breeding there is little doubt of his future success under the able management of this popular firm. May Messrs. Burns & Waterhouse realize their fondest hopes in this breeding venture.

A BENEFIT is to be tendered to the family of its late Secretary, Robert B. Milroy, by the California Jockey Club to-day. With characteristic generosity the officers of this association decided to give the entire gross receipts of the day for this worthy purpose and upon announcement that those purchasing tickets were not limited as to the price for the same, a number have been taken at $100 each, and one brought $250, while a very large number have been sold at prices ranging from $50 to $5 each. The benefit thus tendered the family of a faithful and popular employe will be a substantial one.

ATHALIE, the great broodmare by Harkaway, and dam of Athanio 2:10, Athavis 2:18 1/2, Athadon 2:27, Athablo 2:29 1/2, owned by Geo. Warlow of Fresno, dropped a filly by Strathway 2:19 last Tuesday, and two days later Charles E. Clark, the well known Fresno horseman, made an offer of $500 for her, which was accepted. A partial payment was made on the spot, with the proviso that the balance should be paid when the filly was weaned, if she was able to stand up at that time. She is a lusty, healthy filly now and Mr. Clark is highly please with his purchase.

SECRETARY JACKSON, of the California State Agricultural Society, called at this office this week while in the city and reports a splendid outlook for a most successful fair this year. The increased values in horses and the greatly renewed interest taken in breeding will doubtless make the entries in the premium and racing classes much larger than usual this year. There will be several new features introduced at the fair in September that will add much to the pleasure of a visit to that excellent annual exhibition of our State's resources.

AN INTERCHANGE OF DATES for the Grand Circuit meetings of Cincinnati, Ohio and Terre Haute, Ind., has just been perfected from those assigned by the Board of Stewards in January last. Cincinnati dates will be September 29th to October 4th, and Terre Haute, September 22-27. Horsemen having entries at these meetings should make a note of this change.

Answers to Correspondents.

H. B.—Gen. McClellan 144 is registered in Volume 3, of the American Trotting Register, as follows: "Chestnut horse, foaled 1855, got by a horse that worked in a six-horse team at Pike Station, Wayne county, Ohio, called North Star; dam a small chestnut mare weighing about nine hundred pounds, that was called a Morgan and had a Frenchy appearance." In Volume 4, which is the first volume in which the stallions are numbered, he is described as "by North Star, pedigree untraced, dam untraced." He was brought to California in 1861, and sired three with standard records. Four of his sons produced standard speed and eight of his daughters produced 9 in the list.

Good Prices for Orloffs.

S. & F. Berg, carriage-horse dealers of Berlin and Moscow, recently brought to New York twenty-eight carriage-horses of the Orloff breed, all dark brown or dapple grays. They were sold at auction and averaged $1025 each. The New York Times says: A fair crowd of horsemen interested in breeding carriage-horses attended the offering, and bids were fast and large, but the actual sales made were not announced because of the wish of M. Betz, who imported the horses. One pair of horses nominally brought $6400, but the name of the purchaser was withheld, and later the same horses were offered again. From the bids made it seemed that an average of above $1000 a pair was made for all the stock. The secrecy concerning the purchasers' names was said to be due to some agreement Mr. Betz had made when he shipped the animals from Russia.

On a hot day drink Jackson's Napa Soda lemonade and be refreshed.

Great Winners But Not Great Sires.

The Turf, Field and Farm "glances over" the results of the important American turf events with a view to the fact that very few of the winners of them have developed into great sires. Making allowance for the element of chance in the development of a sire's reputation, the lack of favorable surroundings causing many of them to die failures no matter how choice their breeding or great their racing prestige, the editor concludes nevertheless that the percentage of great sires among the winners of the most valuable fixtures of the American turf is small. The inference is that it is unnaturally so.

The American Derby, one of our most valuable races, was inaugurated in 1884, and was won by Modesty, the only filly that ever won it. Volante by Grinstead was the second victor, and he is credited with a number of winners. His best was the campaigner Laureate, whose record as a handicap horse is good, but not sufficient to place his sire in the first distinguished circle of stallions. Silver Cloud, another son of Grinstead, was the next winner, but he died in 1886, the year of his victory. C. H. Todd, the next in succession, was a rank outsider, and so far as is known, is still an outsider in breeding annals.

In 1888 Emperor of Norfolk captured the prize and has to his credit a number of good, useful horses. He is now 17 years old, and his showing last year as a sire of two-year-old winners was very highly creditable, having to his credit Cruzados, considered now one of the best three-year-olds of the year, and a prominent which his breeding, racing prestige and opportunities gave ground to expect of him. He is, however, far from a failure, though he would not stand on a par with Hanover, Hindoo or horses of their type. Among his best get were Maid of Harlem, Beau Ideal, Poetess, and Song and Dance. Exile was the third winner of the Brooklyn, and though a great racehorse his record as a sire is not sensational, yet Agitator, Forget and Irish Reel were good breadwinners. Castaway II. was never prominent, but Tenny, with David Tenny, Miss Tenny and a few other good ones to his credit and three winning two year olds last season, is worthy of mention. Judge Morrow and Diablo are little known as progenitors. Dr. Rice, with Frank Rice, a good two year old of this season, is promising, and being comparatively young in the stud, has a future before him. The other winners, Hornpipe, Sir Walter, Howard Mann, Ornament, Banastar, Kinley Mack and Conroy, have yet to be tried. Among the foregoing classic winners there are none of exceptional merit as sires, but as above stated the later winners have yet a chance and some of them may be recorded as great in the future history of the turf. It will be interesting to continue this research through some of the other prominent events.

Captain Hackett Wins at Last.

[Sacramento Record-Union, April 13]

The horse Captain Hackett, owned by John Batcher of this city, broke his record yesterday and won a race. Since Captain Hackett started in his first race he broke, and was passed by Baby Button, in the back stretch Monroe B. went to pieces and dreamed it was a running race. Entering the stretch Silver Bee, who was footing it fast, went into the air again, and at the finish they came under the wire with Baby Button in the lead, Fred Ames second, Silver Bee third and Monroe B. fourth. Time 2:22. Later in the season, when the horses all get in condition, a different tale may be related, as Silver Bee's two breaks were disastrous.

The third event, with four starters—Queen of Bavaria, owned by George H. Clark and driven by Walt Tryon; Captain Hackett, owned by John Batcher and driven by Frank Wright; Candy Joe, owned and driven by William Trust, and Polka Dot, owned by Vet Tryon and driven by William Lampert, was as interesting and closely contested a race as has ever been driven on this track.

Captain Hackett cut out the pace from the start and footed it in the lead to the finish. Candy Joe pressed him hard to the three-quarter pole, with Polka Dot close up. The Queen, who was acting badly, trailing. There was a pretty contest down the stretch, with the Queen coming fast on the outside. Hackett would not be driven off his feet, however, while the others went into the air, and they came under the wire in the following order: Captain Hackett, Queen of Bavaria, Candy Joe and Polka Dot. Time, 2:26.

The last race showed three starters—Bobby Dobbs, owned and driven by Jay Wheeler; Canny Scot, owned and driven by John Morrison, and Arrow, owned by Daniel Flint and driven by William Lampert. Bobby Dobbs was a surely bad one; he would neither trot nor pace, and when they were sent away he galloped the entire distance. His improper actions affected Canny Scot, who repeatedly followed his evil example, and Arrow, who was trotting flat and paying no attention to the antics of the field, proved an easy winner, Canny Scot second and Bobby Dobbs, who came under the wire in a furious gallop, third. Time, 2:42.

The track was rough and slow, and the north wind was not conducive to speed or a large attendance, but the grand stand was fairly filled, and the paddock was thronged with carriages and sightseers. In fact, there was a larger attendance than is usually seen at the State meet when only harness events are slated on the day's card.

Two Grandly Bred Youngsters.

[Haywards Journal, April 12th]

The first colts foaled in 1902 by Educator arrived within the past week, and if speed and breeding count these two newcomers have a right to face the best in America. The dam of the first is Hulda by Guide 2:16 by Director 2:17. The second dam was Alice R. by Naubuc, sire of the dam of Directly 2:03, third dam by Geo. M. Patchen. Hulda, the first dam, is one of a very few that ever stepped a half mile over the Pleasanton track in one minute, which she did as a two year old. Getting injured prevented her from being raced. This colt is inbred, being by Educator by Director, and the dam is by Guide by Director.

The dam of the second colt foaled is Elcie by Silver Bow 2:16, second dam is Addie S. by Steinway, third dam was Aldane, fourth dam was Winthrop Girl, fifth dam was Arnold Mare by Chieftain 7:21. The following dams were thoroughbreds. This colt through inheritance has a right to become a champion, being by Educator, a half-brother to the ex-champion Directum 2:05, which is still the four year old trotting record. The dam of this colt is by Silver Bow 2:16, a half-brother to Cresceus 2:02, the present champion trotting stallion of the world. Both colts are side-wheelers, and are owned by M. Henry, who has leased Hulda again for the seasons of 1902 and 1903 and will breed her again to Educator. Elcie is owned by Mr. Henry, who has her foal entered in the Breeders Futurity. All who have bred mares to Educator are breeding again, which speaks well for the value set upon his colts by their owners.

Neernut's Dams.

Dr. Hammond, the handsome big pacer by Chas. Derby that is in Will Welch's string at Pleasanton, is out of Clytie II., the dam of Neernut 2:12. John Mackey, superintendent of the Rancho del Paso, once owned Neernut's third dam, a mare by Williamson's Belmont, and says she once held the world's race record for a ten mile race, and that he drove her a mile in 2:38 in 1870, hitched to a buggy with a man as heavy as himself on the seat with him. Dr. Ruggles of Stockton says he drove Neernut's second dam, Clytie by Whipples' Hambletonian, a mile in 2:20 as a three year old to a cart. The following winter Clytie picked up a nail and was never able to race. Up to date 32 mares have been bred to Neernut at Los Angeles this year, and many more are booked, among them Grace McK. 2:21 and Una K., both by McKinney 2:11.

ROBERT I., Green Pacer by Hambletonian Wilkes-Anna Belle 2:27 1-2.

candidate in the American Derby of this year with 15 to 1 quoted against him. Considering the fact that Emperor of Norfolk's stud career has been confined almost exclusively to the Santa Anita matrons of his owner, E. J. Baldwin, he must be classed as a sire of more than ordinary merit. In view of his age, there is yet a chance for him to add to his laurels. The next in order, Spokane, whose opportunities in the stud were limited, has to his credit some useful horses, but nothing of the sensational order, his best being Spirituelle. The next two winners, Uncle Bob and Strathmeath, were geldings. Carlsbad was the winner of 1892, and last year had one winning two-year-old. In 1893 Boundless was the winner, and the race was worth $49,500, the most valuable Derby ever won. He sired Boundlee, and last year had to his credit three winning two-year-olds. Rey el Santa Anita was the next winner. He spent some time in England, and since his return to California he had out last year three winning two-year-olds. Pink Coat and Sidney Lucas are still on the turf, and Robert Waddell, the winner of last season, is a gelding. The winners of the last ten years still have a chance, and to class them failures now would, of course, be premature.

The Brooklyn Handicap was inaugurated in 1887, and the first winner was Dry Monopole. He was a good racehorse and well bred, but got in a "pocket" and never extricated himself as a sire. It would be fair to say that in the stud he had practically no chance. The Bard was the second winner, and while fairly successful as a sire he has not taken the position has gone 157 heats and never headed the bunch before. Horsemen who have snapped the watch on him state that in his early career they have seen him work out in 2:19 and then come fourth in a 2:28 heat. Now, at the initial matinee of the Sacramento Driving Club, with Frank Wright holding the ribbons and traveling in fast company, Captain Hackett shakes his hoodoo and wins handily, making the circuit on a slow track against a north wind in 2:26.

In the opening race of the matinee Charles S. was scratched, and after Toots, driven by C. W. Paine, and Rainbow, driven by W. Tryon, had scored for a long time without getting away, owing to the bad acting of Rainbow, the horses went to the stable. When they made their appearance the second time Dutch John, owned and driven by W. J. Irvine, joined them, and they got away in a good start. The bad actor, Rainbow, took the lead from the start and was never headed, winning in 2:28, Toots second and Dutch John third.

The second race brought out the fast ones with four starters—Monroe B., owned and driven by Frank Ruhstaller, Jr.; Baby Button, owned and driven by Frank Wright; Fred Ames, owned by George H. Clark and driven by Walt Tryon, and Silver Bee, owned by W. O. Bowers and driven by William Harris. This was a great contest. Fred Ames led to the half with Baby Button on his wheel, Monroe B. next, and Silver Bee, who broke on the first turn, coming fast.

The pace became too warm for Fred Ames, who Rajah Breaks the Record.

Those who visited Pleasanton last Saturday saw Will Welch drive Rajah, the pacer owned by Harry Goodall of this city, a quarter in the wonderfully fast time of 28½ seconds, breaking the track record for the distance. Rajah has been at the track but three weeks, Mr. Goodall having used him on the roads here all winter and it looks as if he might get a very low record this year in Welch's hands. He was bred at Oakwood Park Stock Farm, is by Chas. Derby out of Edon by General Benton, a mare bred by Senator Stanford at Palo Alto Stock Farm. Edon's dam was the famous old thoroughbred mare Emma Robson (dam of Emaline 2:27½, Emma R. 2:28½ and Rowena 2:17, as a two year old) by Woodburn, second dam Lady Bell (sister to Ben Lippincott) by Williamson's Belmont, third dam Puss by Lance, son of American Eclipse.

Rajah was foaled in 1897 and was worked some as a three year old by the late T. E. Keating, and was in James Thompson's string that went East last year, having been entered all through the Grand Circuit. He got off as soon as he crossed the mountains and did not win a heat although he started six times. He is now a five year old.

Several of those who held watches on him last Saturday made the time 28 seconds, but Welch's own watch showed 28½ seconds and there is no doubt but Rajah went that fast.

Spokane Nominations.

The following nominations have been received in the early closing stakes at Spokane, Wash. The stake offered for three year old trotters did not fill:

The Chronicle Stake, $500, three year old pacers, 2:30 class—T. H. Brents, Walla Walla; D. M. Shanks, North Yakima; Lou Childs, Spokane; H. W. Peel, Spokane; E. F. Bean, Spokane; Conway Bros., Seattle; Lute Lindsey, Spokane; John Campbell, Pendleton; Chas. Gifford, Lewiston, Idaho; Chris Simpson, Portland.

The Hotel Stake, $500, 2:24 pace—A. Douglass, Ellensburg; N. K. West, La Grande; E. Blazier, Vancouver, Wash.; E. R. Clark, Lacey, Wash.; W. D. Story, Park City, Mont.; D. M. Shanks, North Yakima; Fred Brooker, North Yakima; D. C. McNabb, Spokane; John Lance, Spokane; T. S. Griffith, Spokane.

The Breeders' Stake, $500, 2:20 trotters—G. B. McCauley, Spokane; G. E. Peringer, Pendleton; E. C. Payne, Spokane; W. D. Story, Park City, Mont.; L. Zimmerman, Portland; D. B. Stewart, Spokane; John Lance, Spokane; T. S. Griffith, Spokane; W. W. Butler, Spokane; H. H. Helman, Portland; A. T. Van De Vanter, Seattle, Chris Simpson, Portland.

Some Past History.

Of the eleven trotters that were added to the 2:10 list in 1901 only four started the season with records better than 2:12; three had records better than 2:15, and not so good as 2:12; two had records better than 2:30 and not so good as 2:15, and two had no records at all. Those of the latter class are Eleata, that trotted to a record of 2:08½, and Captor, that went into winter quarters with a mark of 2:09½. The greatest reduction of record shown by any of the newcomers to the list was May Allen, that lowered her previous mark of 2:25 to 2:09½, a reduction of 15½ seconds, and All Right is next, having reduced his record 10 seconds, from 2:19½ to 2:09½. The best showing made by the green class was by Eleata 2:08½, Captor 2:09½, Country Jay 2:10½, Col. Cochran 2:10½ and Neva Simmons 2:11½. These trotters not only distinguished themselves by taking fast records, but are numbered among the largest money winners of the past season. Eleata is not only the fastest green trotter of 1901, but was, all things considered, the best race mare seen on the Grand Circuit last season.

Board of Review Meeting.

An adjourned meeting of the Board of Review will be held at the Murray Hill Hotel, New York, N. Y., at 10 o'clock A. M., on Tuesday, May 6th, 1902. All communications intended for the consideration of the Board at the May meeting must be forwarded to the Secretary not later than April 22d.

Two and Half Bottles Did It.

WAUSAU, NEB., March 13, 1902—P. O. Box 347.
—Dr. B. J. Kendall Co., Enosburg Falls, VT.—Gentlemen: You may remember I sent for your book, "A Treatise on the Horse and His Diseases," about a year ago. At that time I was using your Kendall's Spavin Cure on a Bone Spavin of about eighteen months' standing. I used two and one-half bottles and now there is no Spavin, not even a bunch. You may use my name among your testimonials, if you wish. Yours truly, D. E. SEGER.

Last year, from May to November, 97 trotting meetings were held in the State of New York.

Jackson's Napa Soda is sold in every city, town and hamlet in the State.

California Horses at Buffalo.

John B. Sage, Secretary of the Buffalo Driving Club, has issued a neat pamphlet containing the entries to the early closing events of the club's Grand Circuit meeting to be held in August. In the $2000 Niagara 2:12 trot Gazette 2:11½ by Gossiper, and Sue 2:12½ by Athadon are entered. In the $2000 Queen City 2:18 class trot we find the following Californians named: Eula Mac 2:17½ by McKinney, Black Bart 2:17½ by Hero, Lauretta by Norris, Rubato by Steinway, Elmore by Azmoor, The Roman 2:18½ by McKinney and Cozad by Fred S. Wilkes. The $5000 Electric City 2:24 class trot has among its entries Zephyr by Zombro, Elmore by Azmoor, Ben Liebes and Coronado, both by McKinney, Petigru by Kingward, Bertina and Red Light, both by Directum, Lauretta by Norris, and Rubato by Steinway. In the $2000 Iroquois Hotel Stake for 2:08 class pacers, Sir Albert S. 2:08½ is the only California horse entered, but in the $2000 Empire State Stake for 2:14 class pacers there are several, as follows: Black gelding by Chas. Derby-Directress, Prince Derby by Chas. Derby, Silver Coin by Steinway, and Velvet Rose by McKinney. The little black pacer Prince Direct, formerly Freddie C. 2:14½, is also entered in this race. In the Frontier Stake, $5000 for 2:24 class pacers, the entries from California are Trilby by Direct, Velvet Rose by McKinney, China Maid by McKinney, Thornway by Steinway, Domino by Rect, and Rector by Rect. The Golden State makes a good showing in the Grand Circuit entries this year. Let us hope it will be well represented among the winners.

Hazel Kinney 2:09 1-4 Booked to Zombro 2:11.

UNIVERSITY, April 15, 1902.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—I see by the Turf, Field and Farm that Hazel Kinney 2:09½ is booked to Cresceus 2:02½. It is all a mistake, as she was booked to Zombro 2:11 over a month ago. She foaled a nice bay filly Monday morning last by Neernut 2:12½ and will be bred to Zombro next week.

Col. Mayberry's fast Zombro filly worked a mile last Friday in 2:17½, stepping the first half in 1:07½. She can 2:15 right now.

Julia M. by Zombro will leave here soon for Cleveland, to be sold at the Blue Ribbon sale. She can trot in 2:15 easy. Willard Stimson refused $3500 for her on Sunday. She will show those at the sale enough speed to bring $5000, as a quarter in 31 seconds will be within her reach if she don't get off making the trip.

Walter Maben paid Joe Desmond $300 for a weanling filly by Zombro that looks very much like her sire. Walter has it broke to drive and says it is the fastest thing of its age he ever sat behind. It is entered in all the stakes on this Coast. Mr. Desmond also sold two others to Mr. Henderson of the Coney Island Baths for $600. Both fillies by Zombro.

BECKERS.

Date for the Cup Race.

The following letter has been sent to all the clubs and parties interested:

The deed of gift governing competition for the Amateur Driver's challenge trophy (Boston Cup) provides that competition for it shall be held sometime between the first of September and the fifteenth of October. The race this year will be held over the Cleveland track under the auspices of this club. It would seem wise to have the exact date of this race fixed soon, and to this end will you kindly say what date would seem best to you? Please bear in mind the fact that pleasant weather and plenty of daylight is needed to make such a day's sport successful, and that here on the Lake we cannot expect good weather, and our days grow very short after the fifteenth of September. So far as these conditions are concerned this club would prefer the matinee to be held as early as the middle of August. We will try and fix a date satisfactory to the majority of people interested.

Yours truly,

H. K. DEVEREUX.

The Horse Saved Them.

An Indiana couple en route to a minister's house to be married were forced to drive across a long stretch of bottom land, covered with several feet of water. The buggy was upset and the occupants thrown out. The young man held his sweetheart in his left arm while he cut the harness, freeing the horse from the buggy. The lovers then held on to the horse's tail until shore was reached, a distance of nearly a mile. Think what might have happened if these lovers had started to the minister's house in a horseless carriage! There would have been no horse's tail to hang to, and instead of being happily married their bodies would now be resting under April's verdant sod.—Kentucky Stock Farm.

News From the North.

[Portland Rural Spirit.]

A. T. Van De Vanter, secretary of King County fair association writes us that all the early closing stakes advertised to close April 1st have filled, and every stake will go as advertised. This will be good news to the other associations on the circuit, as it insures success down the line.

The Van De Vanter stock farm, of Kent, Wash., has bought the good and well bred two year old filly Clackamas from Aug. Erickson. Clackamas is by Claymont 2:27, full brother to Chehalis 2:04½, Del Norte 2:08 etc., out of Viola, dam of Giles Noyes 2:05½. She stands 15.2 hands, has length and frame for a handsome mare of good size.

Pathmark 2:09½ is being wintered in Winnipeg, Canada, and will be raced again this year. He started in nine races last season, winning six firsts, two seconds and once behind the money—through an accident. He has started against the best horses in that province and is considered the best on the turf there. His colts are showing up good, and it is expected that he will be a great sire.

Austin Lafferty, Corvallis, Ore., who has raced his horses for the past few years in the Missouri circuit and handled such good ones as Helter Skelter 2:19½, Hondoris 2:28 and others writes that he is now preparing a string of five green ones, among them Robert H., that would have taken a record of 2:15 had it not been for an attack of distemper. All his horses are in fine shape.—Horseman.

Seattle has announced their entire program for a fall meeting. Outside of the early closing stakes, they are offering a purse of $1000 for 2:10 pacers; $600 for free-for-all trotters; $600 for 2:20 trotters; $500 for 2:25 pacers; $600 for 2:15 trotters; $600 for 2:20 trotters; $400 for 2:40 trotters; $300 for double team, trotters or pacers. They are also giving 18 running purses, from $150 to $300, besides the early closing running stakes, which makes one of the best programs that has ever been offered in the Northwest.

1415 Entries in Kentucky Futurity.

Secretary Shanklin, of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders Association, has closed the Kentucky Futurity with 1415 entries from thirty-eight States and Canada. California sends forty-four.

Among the nominators are the following:

Patchen Wilkes Farm, Lexington, 6; Walnut Hill Farm, Donersil, Ky., 35; Cochran Bros., Lexington, 22; Thomas W. Lawson, Boston, 21; Palo Alto and Henry Schumbach, 20 each; J. Malcolm Forbes, Boston, 18; A. S. Ashbrook, Cynthia, Ky., 16; A. G. Danforth & Son, Washington, Ill., 15; Orchard Park Farm, Lexington, 14; Scott Newmann, Louisville, 11; H. L. Asher, Lexington; J. D. Grover, Georgetown, Ky., and Grattan Farm, Prairie View, Ill., 10 each.

The product of 1415 mares nominated represent the get of 283 of the most prominent American sires.

There are 172 record animals—thirty-five of them are in the 2:10 class or better; forty-one between 2:10½ and 2:15; forty-three. 2:15½ to 2:20 and fifty-three from 2:20½ to 2:30.

EFFECTUAL

The most effectual remedy in use for the cure of ailments of horses and cattle is

GOMBAULT'S CAUSTIC BALSAM

Used as a Blister or Lotion.

This preferred remedy is prepared exclusively by J. E. Gombault, ex-Veterinary Surgeon to the French Government Stud.

As a HUMAN REMEDY for Rheumatism, Sprains, Sore Throat, etc., it is invaluable. Every bottle of Caustic Balsam sold is warranted to give satisfaction. Price $1.50 per bottle. HIDALGO'S GOSSIP.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

We are having a lovely spring for training purposes and there are now some forty horses stabled at the track and all taking their work in good shape. And while the removal of McKinney to your section three years ago has somewhat diminished the interest taken in the breeding of trotters and pacers in this section, yet every once in a while along comes some fairly good one "from next door to no place," as the late Henry Williamson used to say. Zombro is still with us and making a big season; and I rate him, at his present fee of $50, about as cheap a stallion, when you come to consider his performances, as any trotting bred sire that has ever stood in this State. I can remember when Rattler 2:35½ stood at $100; Kentucky Hunter 2:37 at the same fee, and General Taylor and Stockbridge Chief, neither with records better than 2:44, at $60 each. But those were the days when five dollars would not purchase any more than two dollars will at the present writing, if as much. The good old days of high prices, when everybody had money, are gone and will never return.

I hear of many fine two year olds around this neighborhood by the chestnut stallion Monterey that was also inquiring if she was thoroughbred. She was, most decidedly, and her breeding is given in full in Volume IV of the American Stud Book, page 33. She was sent here from Jamaica to be bred to Norfolk and remained at Mr. Winters' farm four years. He kept writing to the owner for payment and was finally told to keep her for the debt, as the owner was dead and his heirs took no interest in horses. She had eight foals registered as her produce and several of them were good ones. Atalanta won several good races in this State, while Jesse B. and Lady Foster won races in Oregon. The latter was one of the handsomest mares I ever saw, but I hear of no produce from either her or Atalanta on the turf, hence conclude that both must be dead. Alf Estill was also one of the produce of Lady Jane and won several good races at Chicago and St. Louis in 1885. Jesse B. was as game as a pebble and I shall not soon forget his excellent races with old Red Boy (then in his prime and one of the best sons of War Dance) at Boise City in 1881. Lady Jane was all right and the only pity is that there were not more like her. She was by Marauder out of Jane Shore by Paumon and could be traced back fourteen generations in the English Stud Book, hence there can be no doubt about her breeding.

A man writes to me from Montana to ask if Doncaster, Flying Dutchman, Bend d'Or, Kingston (English) St. Albans or Voltigeur, ever headed the list of winning sires in England, to which I answer in the negative. As he desires me to answer through the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, I presume he is a regular subscriber to your paper and give the amounts won by their get when they were respectively among the celebrity as a sire. He was a magnificent looking horse and, with his opportunities (Stockwell, Blair Athol and St. Albans, all three being dead), should have achieved more than he did. The hard-luck horse of the entire outfit was Bend Or, who was second by a difference of only £14 to Hermit in 1886, which was the year that Ormonde (now in California) won the triple crown. Isonomy is the only sire in history to get two winners of the triple crown, but he never headed the list, being second twice to St. Simon and once third to the same horse. In 1894 there was only a difference of £37 between them, Isonomy having to his credit £42,055 or £20,948 more than Hampton, who was third on the list. In 1887, solely through Merry Hampton, as poor a horse as ever won the Derby, Hampton became premier sire of England, with £31,454 won by his progeny or £10,601 less than Isonomy had to his credit in 1894 when second to St. Simon. The latter horse goes down in history as the greatest of all English stallions, having been premier for 9 seasons, as against 7 each for Stockwell and Hermit, 6 for Sir Peter, 5 each for Touchstone and Waxy and 4 for Blair Athol, the only son of Stockwell to head the list. Stockwell is the only stallion to get the winners of over £60,000 in a single season; the only stallion to get all three placed horses in a Derby or a Two Thousand Guineas (1866 and 1862), and Waxy, the male-line ancestor of Stockwell, is the only stallion to get all three placed horses in the Oaks. Considering that Waxy was the male-line ancestor of Touchstone and Hermit, in addition to Stockwell, which was the greatest of all English sires?

HIDALGO.

THE NEW GRAND STAND AT BRIGHTON BEACH.

kept here three years ago. Monterey has a record of 2:09½ and was got by Sidney 2:19½, he being the sire of 17 in the 2:15 list. Monterey was out of a mare called Hattie Belmont by Commodore Belmont, son of the great Belmont that was the sire of Nutwood; and his second dam was by Woodford Mambrino, who got a record of 2:26 at four years old and lowered it to 2:22 at six. Woodford Mambrino got that great horse Abbotsford 2:19 to a high wheeled sulky; and many other good performers of less note. Monterey was the second best stallion that we have had in Los Angeles county in the past ten years, old McKinney being clearly the best. Monterey is a singularly handsome horse and, as his ancestry is all thoroughbred back of the fourth generation, his high quality is easily accounted for. Mr. J. D. Black of this city has a two year old by Monterey out of a mare got by a son of Echo, who was by old Hambleton himself, and Walter Maben is working one that showed a quarter in 40½ seconds the first time he was hitched up. Los Angeles has always been noted for turning out fast trotters, Stamboul 2:07½ being about the best of them. He died last year, greatly regretted by his owner, Mr. E. H. Harriman, President of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and other great corporations.

A Kentucky correspondent writes to ask me about a mare called Lady Jane, brought to California from the West India island of Jamaica, and owned at the time of her death by Mr. Theodore Winters of Nevada, first twenty stallions on the winning lists of that country:

Flying Dutchman was three times second on the list, twice to Stockwell and once to Newminster. Voltigeur was twice fourth, in 1860 and 1862, but never better than that. Kingston was second to Stockwell in 1862 and twice fourth. St. Albans was third to his sire, Stockwell, in 1867, and never better than sixth after that. Bend Or was second to Hermit in 1886 and to St. Simon in 1892. He was also third to Galopin in 1888 and also to St. Simon in 1890. Doncaster was third to Hermit and Sterling in 1884 with £13,491 to his credit, which was his best year. In 1882, just two years after his best son, Bend Or, had won the Derby, he was twentieth on the list with only £4200 written opposite his name. In fact, it was only through Bend Or and Ormonde that Doncaster gained any great Wild Horses for the British Army.

A dispatch from Victoria, British Columbia, under date of April 10th says: "The proposal is again being discussed to capture parts of the bands of wild horses which roam in the vicinity of Kamloops and dispose of them to the imperial officer who is to visit this province to purchase cavalry mounts. Large numbers of horses roam the Lillooet valleys, and these, if caught, would be admirable army animals. Colonel Dent will visit Kamloops in June and some of these horses will doubtless be offered for selection. These bands have originated from animals which have broken away from the ranges and have been supplemented by others which constantly join them, especially in the spring. Settlers and ranchers find the roving racers quite a nuisance, and at the last session of the Legislature the unique scheme was proposed that the government grant an appropriation to assist in erecting an extensive cordon. The animals were to be driven from all parts of the country and would eventually be forced into one of the numerous lakes. People in boats were to keep the horses from getting ashore, and after they were thoroughly tired by swimming they could be allowed out and easily domesticated. Needless to say, the scheme did not eventuate."

W. L. Snow of Hornellsville, N. Y., has ten pacers in his stable that have records or have shown trials in from 2:04½ to 2:10. Snow has speed to give away.

Fly-Casting at Stow Lake.

The fifth contests of the Saturday and Sunday classification series ended last week at Stow lake. On the 26th and 27th insts. re-entry contests will be in order. A comparison of individual scores since the opening of the season at Stow lake will show in nearly every instance great improvement in the work, particularly so with a number of the new members. The scores last week were the following:

SATURDAY CONTEST No. 5—Stow Lake, April 12, 1901. Wind, west. Weather, fair.

E. H. R. Green, son of Hetty Green, and President of the Texas Midland Road, is having erected on Mustang Island, about twenty-five miles from Corpus Christi, Texas, a tarpon pen in which to stock tarpon to be transported to the World's Fair at St. Louis. The greatest difficulty anticipated is to get the tarpon to eat in captivity.

The big fish will be transported to St. Louis in a specially made aquarium car and will be exhibited in a thick glass tank. None less than six feet long will be sent and they will be probably the first tarpon ever exhibited in captivity.

Like all good things, Jackson's Napa Soda has dozen counterfeits. Watch out!

Fish Lines.

"The speckled trout practice at vaulting and leaping, And stir the bright sand in their soft murmuring pool: From daylight to dark night and all through the moonlight They practice the games that are taught in their school. They dart at a gnat and jump at a lady-bug; High in the air they will leap for a fly; But plumper they're growing, and in the near future The eager ones rising to feathers must die." —old song.

W. A. Cooper took a half dozen trout out of Nicasio creek on Sunday.

George Walker caught less than a dozen trout near Glen Ellen on the 13th inst.

For many of the coast streams the outlook for good fly-fishing is not promising for earlier than May 1st.

John Siebe fished Tamalpais creek and Throckmorton lagoon on Sunday and basketed fifty fish, among them a splendid three-pounder.

Sonoma creek, Nicasio and Ignacio creeks have been fairly good recently. P. J. Walsh caught a basketful of beauties above Glen Ellen a week ago.

Trout, and fine large fellows, too, are being sent to this city from Independence lake. They are caught through the ice by the market fishermen.

The wise fisherman who uses shrimp for bait will put in a stock of the little crustaceans, boiled and salted, for the close season commences on May 1st and prevails until September 1st.

Bert La Forge of Wadsworth, who has a personal acquaintance with every pool, riffle and likely fishing spot in the Truckee, was in the city during the week. He stated that the water has been so high in the Truckee that fish from Pyramid lake have been able to run far up the river over many of the obstructions and dams that would ordinarily prevent their ascending the river. The water has been higher this season than for ten years past. There is still plenty of snow on the mountains. As soon as it melts and the water runs off the fly-fishing will begin—hardly before, he estimates, the 10th of May.

The Paper Mill contingent met with varied success last Sunday. Between Lagunitas and Camp Taylor G. Rothschild caught twenty-four fish and W. Stevens landed thirty. Chas. Precht hooked a three-pounder at Tocaloma. Henry Miller was high hook with a seven pound fish caught by him under the Lagunitas bridge. E. L. Goodman returned with eight trout. L. V. Merle and James Watt caught twenty-four and thirty respectively on Saturday. Louis Haaf's basket contained sixty trout caught in the "white house pool." H. E. Pembroke had sixteen in his creel. Among the other anglers on the creek were Bert Spring, R. Haas, Louis Rondeau, who also caught a few trout.

The season for the beginning of the best fishing on Klamath river is near at hand. Next week several local anglers propose going to Klamath Hot Springs to enjoy this excellent trout fishing resort and the possibilities of Shovel Jennie and other creeks in the vicinity. The experts who visit the stream in the late April and early May days each season know every inch of the Klamath river. Where in some places the spoon is the only effective lure, and again the crawfish is the only thing for another spot, they, the knowing ones, will ken just where to put the red fly and shrimp. The Hot Springs Hotel is at an elevation of about 2700 feet. The best fly fishing begins when the salmon fly and the caddis fly come forth about the stream and on the leaves of the bushes growing on the river and creek banks. The appearance of these two insects is generally about May 15th unless a warm spell brings them out sooner. Both flies change from larvae into bugs—their first habitat being on the bottom of the river—then the transition from bug life into a brief winged existence in the sunshine. The fish are soon aware of the new dainties for their stomachs and from that time on roe, shrimp and crawfish have ceased to be an attraction for Mr. Trout.

The fish range from two to four pounds in the river and average about four runs from the ocean up stream, particularly Shovel creek, per year. There was a nice run began two weeks ago. The next run is expected, by the wise ones, about the middle of May.

Twenty miles from the Hot Springs will be found Spencer dam, here it is claimed is one of the best fishing spots in the State, there being no fish ladder the trout get no further than the dam. Just above the dam Spencer creek all the way up to Buck lake is full of fine fish.

Fishing, Camping and Outing Data.

The April number of The Official Bulletin for the California Northwestern Railway contains the latest time tables to all points reached by the road, stage routes, locations of excellent camping grounds, fishing streams and comfortable country hotels, springs and outing resorts. A general description of places of importance in Marin, Sonoma, Mendocino, Humboldt and Lake counties is of interest to many who contemplate an outing this summer, be it for a day or for a month.

AT THE TRAPS.

The Union Gun Club regular monthly blue rock shoot will be the attraction for local trap shots at Ingleside to-morrow. Besides the scheduled program of club events, a feature of the shoot will be the contest for a silver cup donated by A. M. Shields, Esq.

This race will be at 50 targets. Secretary Thos. L. Lewis announces that the cup shoot will commence at 1 o'clock P. M. sharp. Entrance fee $2, birds included. Shooters to shoot at 50 birds, and will be handicapped from 14 to 20 yards, according to ability. After making scores shooters will be placed according to following schedule. Shooters scoring 49-48-47 placed at 20 yards; 46-45-44 breaks, 18 yards; 43-42-41 breaks, 16 yards; 40 breaks and under, 14 yards.

Shooters will be entitled to shoot as many targets as they have missed from above schedule of yards. Ties to be shot off at 10, 15 and 20 birds (at 2 cents per bird).

A special prize of $2.50 is offered to shooters making fifty straight in first fifty birds.

The Empire Gun Club members enjoyed pleasant weather at the club shoot last Sunday on the club grounds at Alameda Point. A. J. Webb was high gun both in the classification money match and the championship medal race, H. D. Swales and R. C. Reed tied in the special handicap race and Swales and Harrison were a tie in the Sweeney record medal match. Webb won first class money in the classification re-entry money race, Baird won second class purse, Levell took third class money and Houpt was awarded the purse for the fourth class. A summary of scores submitted by Secretary J. B. Hauer is the following:

Club championship medal race, 25 targets—C. C. Juster 16, A. J. Webb 23, R. C. Reed 20, Hauer 22, W. O. Cullen 20, H. D. Swales 20, Lepoids 16, C. S. Fish 18, Levell 15, F. A. Hodapp 18, Baird 18, Hauer 20, Howlett 20, Jas. Ireland 20, Harrison 18, F. Houpt 12, Howlett 20, W. S. Wattles 18, Searles 18.

Classification re-entry money match, 25 targets, distance handicap—First class: A. J. Webb 22 yards, broke 24; C. C. Reed 18-20, Hauer 20-16, Cullen 18-17, Swales 20-20, Howlett 18-18, W. Ireland 18-19.

Second class—Fish 18 yards, broke 12; Hodapp 18-15, Baird 18-18, Harrison 18-16.

Third class—Juster 18 yards, broke 16; Lepoids 16-9, Levell 18-17.

Special handicap match, prize gun, 20 targets, distance handicap, 10 singles and five sets of doubles—Swales 20 yards, broke 18; Ireland 18-14, Hauer 20-9, Searles 18-13, Webb 22-14, Reed 18-18.

Sweeney record medal race, continuous break miss and out, distance handicap, for each five breaks the shooter is put back two yards until 20 targets are scored, when contestants shoot at doubles under original conditions. Scores by runs—Hoyt 1, 3; Ireland 2; Swales 0, 4; Fish 0, 1; Hauer 1, 0, 2, 2; Webb 5, 1, 1, 0; Harrison 6.

Practice at 10 targets—Jackson 4, 3; A. W. Searles 6, 6, 7, 8; H. W. Ross 8, 4, 5, 6; Lepoids 3, 7, 5, 6; Aubert 4, 5, 5, 4; Con Roman 5, 7, 5, 6; F. A. Hodapp 7, 4, F. Harrison 8, 7, 9, 8; H. D. Swales 9, 10; H. Hoyt 1, B. Hauer 7, 10; Leavell 7, 7, 8, 5, 10; A. J. Webb 7, 9, 9, 9; Jas. J. Ireland 7, 7, 8; R. C. Reed 10, 8, 7, 8, 9, 7; W. O. Cullen 8, 7, 8; C. S. Fish 4, 6, 6, 5, 6, 5; F. Howlett 6, 6, 7, 9; C. C. Juster 9; W. A. Wattles 10, 9; L. Baird 4, 7; Frank 8, 3.

Pool shoot, 20 targets, entrance $1—Leavell 15, Harrison 18, Fish 18, Howlett 17, Reed 20, Hoyt 17. Reed won first money, Harrison and Fish shot off for second money, Harrison winning.

The feature of the Golden Gate Gun Club blue rock shoot at Ingleside on the 13th inst. were fifty bird contests for two of the Olympic Gun Club trophies. The second race for one of the trophies resulted in a tie between Clarence A. Haight and Otto Feudner, each shooter scoring 45 breaks. This tie will be shot off on May 11th. The tie between Edgar Forster and Fred Feudner, who were the high guns in the first trophy shoot last month was shot out, Feudner winning by one bird on 43 breaks. Mr. Feudner will select, he having first choice, the Interstate Association trophy, which was won by a team of six Olympic Club shooters. Second choice of the trophies will probably be the Roos trophy, leaving the Overland Monthly trophy for the winner of the third contest, which will probably be shot next month.

Gold bars were awarded for straight runs of 25 to the following shooters: C. C. Nauman 4, Will J. Golcher 1. Silver bars, for 15 straight breaks, were won as follows: "Slade" 2, Nauman 7, O. Feudner 4, J. J. Sweeney 2, Golcher 1, F. Feudner 1, Haight 1, N. H. Neustadter 1, Ed Donohoe 1.

A summary of the principal scores is the following: Club match, 25 targets, $20 added, distance handicap: Nauman 23, Golcher 16, Feudner 21, Neustadter

19, Forster 18, Derby 17, F. Feudner 24, Slade 21, Muddock 22, Haight 22, E. Forster 21, Wands 20, Sweeney 23, Donohoe 15, Shields 23, Drake 8, Weil 18.

Olympic Gun Club trophy shoot, 50 targets, $1.50 entrance: Feudner 45, Nauman 48, Golcher 42, Haight 45, E. Forster 39, F. Feudner 42, Derby 31, Neustadter 43, Jackson 36, Slade 43, Donohoe 44, Shields 41, Sylvester 39, Iverson 41, King 35.

Practice, 25 targets: Neustadter 20, Slade 23, Drake 12, Derby 12, Nauman 24, Wheeler 18, F. Feudner 23, Feudner 20, Nauman 20, Haight 12.

Practice, 15 targets: Golcher 15, Donohoe 9, E. Forster 10, Whitehead 8.

Practice, 25 targets: Derby 20, Nauman 21, Donohoe 19, Haight 20, Sweeney 24, Shields 21, Nauman 24, Neustadter 15, Sylvester 19, Thomas 17, Iverson 23, Wheeler 18, McConnell 20, Sweeney 21, Donohoe 19, Drake 11, Hyde 6, Whitehead 15.

Practice, 25 targets: Shields 21, Sylvester 23, Derby 10, Drake 7, Burnell 15, Burns 16.

The Capital City Bluerock Club shoot last Sunday at Sacramento drew a big attendance of local shooters as well as sportsmen from Woodland, Davisville and Dixon. Frank Newbert made the high average, 95%. A strong north wind prevailed during the day. Nearly 5000 blue rocks were trapped. Four six-men teams contested in a 15 target race, the Dixon team with 75 out of a possible 90 breaks winning. A summary of the principal events follows:

On the 27th inst, at Sacramento there will take place the Editors' and Reporters' blue rock shoot, open only to editors, reporters, proprietors and managers of newspapers in Sacramento city. Kimball & Upson will furnish everything free but the results—the pencil pushers will have to do the rest or doctor the scores. Trap shooting has evidently taken hold in the capital city with a boom.

The Guadalupe Duck Club, of Los Angeles, on April 6th, filed articles of incorporation. This club is devoted to sports afield. It is an old club and its acquirement of property made it necessary to incorporate. The directors are R. C. Rogers, F. F. Pierce, Alfred Redington, I. R. Baxley and E. C. Tallant. The capital stock is $500, all paid up.

A pleasant and interesting incident at the Golden Gate Gun Club shoot last Sunday was the clever shooting of Mrs. A. M. Shields, the wife of A. M. Shields, a popular member of the club. Mrs. Shields made a number of shots that evoked much applause from the experts present.

The prize shoot billed for May 18th at Ingleside is surely an attractive and liberal one and should bring out a large attendance of shooters.

Merchandise Tournament.

The Union Gun Club shoot scheduled for May 18th will take place on May 4th instead.

On May 18th Clabrough, Golcher & Co. will give a merchandise prize shoot at Ingleside. The program for this shoot will be arranged on an entirely different plan from any heretofore tried at the Ingleside grounds.

The shooters will be divided into three classes on a system designed to place all on an equal footing.

The first prize for each class of shooters will be a hammerless shotgun.

All shooters will shoot at 30 blue rocks. The first 15 will be shot at from the 16 yard mark, the remaining 15 will be shot under a distance handicap arrangement as follows:

Shooters breaking 15 or 14 out of the first 15 will go back to the 20 yard mark and shoot the remaining 15 targets. Shooters who score 13 or 12 targets will shoot the last 15 from the 18 yard mark.

Shooters who break 11 or 10 targets will shoot the balance standing at 16 yards.

Shooters who break but 9 or less, will shoot the second half of the targets from the 14 yard mark.

The entrance will be $1. Ties for gun prizes will be shot off at 25 targets, each shooter standing at his handicap yard mark. The balance of the prizes will be decided by lot.

In the merchandise race the classes will be expert and first and second classes. The expert class will be subdivided into five classes with two prizes for each class excepting the first class, for which the gun prize is provided.

The first class is subdivided into seven classes for which, including the gun for first class, there will be 21 other prizes offered.

The second class is subdivided into six classes, for which a gun and 14 other prizes will be given to the winners.

The second event will be at 15 targets, entrance 75 cents, $10 added.

Events three and four, entrance 75 cents, $10 added, will be class shooting, four moneys.

Other events will be arranged on the grounds, time permitting.

Doubtless it may have occurred to many sportsmen to discover that the breech actions of their guns have not worked so smoothly and easily at some part of a day's shooting as they did at the commencement; that there was, in fact, some slight, or, in the worst cases, even considerable difficulty experienced in closing the gun properly. On searching for the cause it was found that the trouble arose from powder particles finding their way in the breech action, which thereby became clogged. Looking into the matter more closely, it is discovered that this clogging of gun actions was more prevalent in the afternoon than in the morning, and the reason, probably, is not so far to seek. So long as the gun is in use there is little likelihood of such mishap occurring; for whilst the exploded shells remain in the chambers, no powder dust can get into the gun action. Even when reloading there is not much chance of this happening, for the barrels are pointing to the ground when open, and but little residue will drop from the shell on to the body of the gun whilst being ejected or even extracted by hand. But not so at lunch time, for then the shells are removed and guns are placed butt downwards against some convenient rail or fence, etc. The slight tap of the butt upon the ground when placing them in this position causes the dislodgement of residuum from the sides of the barrels, and this drops down into the breech and thence into the action on opening the gun, thus causing the mischief spoken of. The remedy for this would seem to be the placing of the gun's muzzle downwards when at lunch; in this position, by the way, they may be fixed quite securely from dogs or anyone likely to knock them down, and, by placing the muzzle upon any rail, or piece of wood that may be handy, or upon a wisp of grass, all danger of injury to that part by contact with stones or other hard substance will be averted. In the action of tight and accurate fitting guns there is scarcely room for even a hair to lodge without some slight difficulty being perceived in closing the gun, and it will be remembered that the strain that may be exerted at that part is quite considerable by reason of the tremendous leverage afforded by the length of barrel. The joints of guns by our best makers are scarcely perceptible, and when closed the barrels and breech look as if they had been forged together, so well fitted are they.

Some High Class Northern Setters.

When the first competitors in the English Setter classes were led into the ring an eager throng of sportsmen from all over the Northwest encircled the space, anxiously awaiting a battle royal which invariably takes place when the cream of north Pacific Coast hunting dogs' struggle for honors, says the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, concerning the Setter entries at Seattle last week. Among the competitors were several old-time bench winners, well known to the public, but J. A. Peebles surprised some of the fancy by entering a youngster, heretofore unknown, which created some consternation before he had left the ring, among the puppies.

The youngster was Montez Cole (Tacoma Montez-Cole's Lady) and he carried off first in a hotly contested class of eleven dogs. In novice dogs, with ten entries, C. B. Yandell's Laddie Gladstone won first, J. W. Considine's well-known Lady's Count Noble, a dog of excellent merit, being a close second. Charles W. Minor's Roy Montez, the Victoria dog which carried off the trophy last year for the best English Setter in the show, won first in winners' dogs. In novice bitches the same owner's Zola Montez won the blue ribbon, the second prize going to Woodcraft. The latter possesses much quality, but was not in the best of condition. J. A. Peebles' well-known winner, Cole's Lady, carried all before her in the limit class, but took second place to Zola Montez in the free-for-all competition.

The Portland Kennel Club has a standing offer of $25 reward for the conviction of anyone poisoning, stealing or maliciously injuring any member's dog.

Bench Show Notes.

What a shaking up of the old dry bones! A total entry of 850 for this city is more than 200 in excess of any previous record. This showing has been brought about by the energy, activity and diplomatic genius of comparatively a newcomer, and all this despite the fact that there was many rough edges to wear off and smooth down and plenty of refractory influences to temper. From what we can gather the local Setter and Pointer support has not been to any great extent enhanced, but still the support and influence of the old guard will be a good omen for future developments.

Some forty to sixty per cent. of the entries, it will be found, have been made by the fair sex. Many of these ladies are making their initial entry. The entries from without are strong and many. Dogs from the East, North and West will be given an opportunity to tune their pipes in the glorious climate of the Golden State and incidentally win a ribbon or two and annex specials galore.

John Davidson, who will pass on the merits of the sporting dogs and large breeds, arrived in town on Thursday looking hale and hearty and evinced a strong and genial remembrance of his last visit here in '95 by inquiring after a score of sportsmen and fanciers, for each of whom he expressed the most felicitous good wishes.

The following brief communication from the honorary manager and secretary, Mr. L. A. Klein, gives in substance a synopsis of the status of the coming show such as has never yet been published in this city a week prior to the opening of a local bench show:

"The stern efforts of the management of the San Francisco Kennel Club to make this the banner show of the entire West and thus deserving of the exalted position accorded to San Francisco in the American kennel world, proved most gratifying, having brought an entry of 850 for the coming Sixth Annual Bench Show. This is by more than 200 in excess of all previous records. Owing to the fact that a good many of the entries come from the North, while George S. Thomas, of Hamilton, and F. F. Dole, of New Haven, Conn., bring strings from the East, the entries of the latter are at this present writing in the mail and only the total thereof is known. We are, therefore, not in a position to give an exact statement of all the entries in the various breeds beyond giving the grand total. Greyhounds lead with 160 entries. A record probably of the world. There are over 30 dogs entered in one class alone, to wit, the American Kennel Club's open class, while nearly as many are in the special field trial class for dogs that have won semi-finals in champion or open stakes, or finals in reserve stakes. The next largest entry is in Fox Terriers, which will reach the figure of 75 as soon as the Eastern entries are in. Next thereto are Collies and Cocker Spaniels, with about 60 entries each. The novice Collie dog class has the largest entries outside of Greyhounds, to wit, 18. There are 52 Setters and 48 Pointers entered. St. Bernards and Bull Terriers have about 40 entries each, while Dachshunds and Great Danes have about 30 entries each. There are ten teams entered for competition in the team class, eight braces for the brace sweepstake and three packs of hounds for the Foxhound competition.

"In addition to the special list so far published and which contains not less than 75 silver cups and trophies, is the International trophy offered by the Hon. Ho Yow, Imperial Chinese Consul-General, for the best dog in the show. It is a most magnificent piece of bronze, as a matter of course, of Oriental make, standing fully four feet high, and thereto is attached a solid silver shield, upon which the name of the lucky winner is to be engraved."

Ruy Blas, a harlequin Great Dane owned by J. L. Cunningham, is as promising a young dog as we have seen for many days. He has a most typical head, splendid neck and shoulders, symmetrical body, good, strong bone and excellent conformation. He is now sixteen months old and developing into a grand dog. He is by Duke out of Champion Juanita. Mr. Cunningham will have six dogs in the show next week—Ruy Blas, Duke, Carlos, Carmencita, Carlotta and Champion Juanita, the latter for exhibition only. This is a kennel of Great Danes that would show well anywhere in the country.

A paragraph in Turf, Field and Farm announces that Frank Dole and Geo. Thomas will journey to San Francisco, and should take care of the prize money in classes which they have entries. Mr. Thomas is taking, among others, the Irish Terriers Endcliffe Gripper and Endcliffe Eileen, for the Rushford Kennels. Here is a chance for the California contingent to breed to Mr. Madan's Crack, and for the good of the breed on the Coast it is to be hoped that some bitches will be sent to him.

Seattle Bench Show.

What is claimed to have been the largest and most successful bench show yet given by the Seattle Kennel Club was held last week in Seattle. Over 300 dogs were benched; of these the Fox Terriers, Collies, Setters and Cockers were the largest represented breeds. St. Bernards were good in quality but few in number; the Collies showed up well, there being several representatives of the best blood lines in the country. Two of the winners have been seen at the Oakland shows and won ribbons there, Seattle Bob, Glenara. English Setters were high class, the winners being good enough to go in any company. It has at last come to be a recognized fact that the northern sportsmen are not behind any section of the country in a high standard of Setters as well as Pointers, which latter breed at this show were equally good in quality with the Setters, but not so many in numbers. In Irish and Gordon Setters, Chesapeake Bay dogs and Irish Water Spaniels, though comparatively few in number, the showing was of general excellence, particularly the two latter breeds. It would be difficult to find a better mustering of these breeds anywhere on the Coast, particularly so with the Irish Setters and Chesapeake Bay dogs, the latter a breed that has unfortunately not been given the attention, in late years, that their good qualities are entitled to from sportsmen.

Cocker Spaniels were plentiful and had many good ones among them. In blacks, Hampton Promise was beaten by a Portland dog in open and winners, and Glenwood Havoc took third in open. Princess Flavia evened matters in open and winners bitches, placing a Portland Kennel bitch behind her. In colors, Bud Zunts, a black and white dog, took first in puppies and winners. Hampton Goldie was beaten in open by Portland Kennels' Plumeria Bud—not so bad after all.

In novice bitches Glenwood Kennels took the blue with Glenwood Ruby. In limit Plumeria Kennels with Plumeria Surprise won first and subsequently the tri-color in winners. Princess Flavia and Plumeria Surprise were in front when the specials for best were awarded. In Bulldogs, Ivel Rustic was the center of attraction and one of the features of the show. He was entered, however, for exhibition only.

The Bull Terrier display was excellent. Champion Woodcote Wonder had a walkover. J. F. Ernenwein's entries took most of the other honors. American Belle was first in open bitches and winners.

In Fox Terriers Ch. Niola Daddy and Bar None were the winners in dogs, with Legs and Feet and Wandee Carmencita the representatives in winners' bitches. This was a complete reversal of the Victoria awards, where Bar None beat Daddy and Carmencita was placed over a bitch that beat Legs and Feet.

The general tone of quality among the Fox Terriers is said to have been remarkably good. Among the dogs shown were some that have won out in many a hardly fought ring competition during past Coast and Eastern shows. Wires were a good lot, a youngster by Limefield Roderick out of Warren Corinne making the top mark, he was purchased by J. G. Morgan from L. A. Klein and is called Mineral Water.

Irish Terriers, Scotties and Bostons were over the average in the desirable elements that make these good terriers so much liked. E. Courtney Ford's Virginia F. was among the ribbon dogs in Irish. Mrs. K. Bradley-Dyne as usual annexed most of the wins. In Bostons Mrs. Thos. Magee's Winner and J. Bradshaw's The Lady, were the winning brace.

Mr. Julius Redelsheimer, the popular president of the club was a winner with his Bedlingtons and a Dach named Pretzel. Ch. Shrew of Venlo had a walk over in Dach bitches, her mate Ch. Venlo Forever was entered for specials only.

The attendance at the show for the four days was excellent, the show, according to a statement of Mr. John Davidson, was one of the best managed affairs of the kind he had ever attended. Everything went off in perfect order. Secretary Jordan and Superintendent Peebles expedited the judging in every possible way. The dogs were brought into the judging ring promptly and everything was conducted smoothly. As a consequence, the judging was finished in very short order.

A retrieving contest one evening evoked a great deal of interest. Seven dogs were entered and they were tested on fetching, seeking, obedience and style. Freshly killed pigeons were used. J. G. Jennison's Prince Gladstone, a handsome English Setter won first prize and Frank Kennedy's Gordon Setter, Rubber, was awarded second. Rubber proved to be an excellent retriever, but he had the fault of not delivering his bird well to hand.

The officers of the Seattle club are Julius Redelsheimer, President; E. L. Reber, Vice-President; S. F. Rathbun, Treasurer; W. S. Jordan, Secretary. Bench Show Committee—J. A. Peebles, F. C. Costigan, C. B. Yandell, George Tinto, J. Redelsheimer, C. B. Blethen, W. J. Miller, H. S. Jordan. Superintendent, J. A. Peebles. Veterinary Surgeon, A. J. McIntosh.

The winners in the regular classes and for the special prizes follow:

Ch. Princess Flavia.

In the list of awards at the Victoria show published last week, by reason of a misprint in the Victoria catalogue the press reports mentioned Delverton Cocker Kennels' (Alameda) Ch. Princess Florence as the winner of first open and winners and also winner of a silver cup for best Cocker in the show.

Not having a catalogue at hand when we made up our list of the prize winners is why mention of the proper honors due Champion Princess Flavia entered by Delverton Kennels (Fruitvale, Cal.) was not recorded.

The Clackamas and Kipling.

(J. MAYNE BATTIMORE.)

From the Cascade's frozen gorges,
Leaping like a child at play,
Winding, widening thro' the valley,
Thy bright waters glide away
Onward ever,
Lovely river
Softly calling to the sea.
Time that mars us,
Stains and scars us,
Leaves no track or trench on thee

Rudyard Kipling, the erratic and pessimistic, has accomplished wonderful things in the world of fiction and letters during the past decade. One thing he has accomplished that does not legitimately come within the precise limits of romantic fancy. He has given an almost world-wide fame to one of the many beautiful streams of the Pacific Coast. That lucky water course happens to be the Clackamas, and it is located in the State of Oregon.

Of course nearly everybody has read Kipling's writings; of course vast multitudes have perused his "American Notes." Nearly an entire chapter is devoted to describing a fishing outing along the Clackamas. It is penned in the true, Kiplingese style.

Much of that famous chapter sounds "fishy," very piscatorial. No doubt Kipling can coin big fish narratives; but he can adroitly weave into the mystic fabric many golden threads of truth. There are many "doubting Thomases" in the angling fraternity who have read that chapter on fishing in the pellucid Clackamas with great grains of salt. Those who, from experience, know most about that stream are the strongest doubters.

Kipling has told one fact that cannot be disputed. He has fished in the Clackamas and he did have great sport. But the Clackamas does not have to depend upon Kipling alone. She enjoys merits of her own. Intrinsically, the stream offers a fine field for the knight of the rod and reel.

Between the Mexican border and the mouth of the mighty Yukon, there are few streams that can furnish better sport and offer more satisfactory results. Certain it is, there are few more beautiful water courses.

Away south of that king of peaks—Mount Hood—and far up toward the base of Mount Jefferson, the Clackamas finds its cradle.

Like the grave of Moses, no man knoweth unto this day just where the stream really heads. Its bright, winding course has been followed for many leagues by the white man's foot. But, as the stream dwindles down to a mere mountain torrent, it is lost and swallowed up—literally buried—amidst the labyrinth of the vast Cascade mountains. Even the red men of pioneer days claim ignorance of the stream's true source.

From cradle to mouth, the Clackamas, following its devious windings, is probably fifty miles long. For not greater than thirty miles, has the stream been explored and fished. Throughout its course the stream is a revelation of mountain beauty, swiftness and rugged picturesqueness. Here it flows through dense, gloomy forests, there along the bottom of vast, yawning canyons; again it rolls in the sullen shadows of beetling cliffs and past frowning bluffs. Onward, ever onward its bright waters flash and rush. Amidst the mountain solitudes the beautiful stream plunges headlong, eternally singing its wild song of freedom.

Tributaries add their watery stores and the stream broadens and deepens. Down toward its confluence with the majestic Willamette, the Clackamas becomes more quiet and tranquil. During spring, summer and early fall, the stream is seen to the best advantage. It is then at its lower stages, its waters are clear and flashing. When swollen by tremendous rainstorms and melting snows, the waters are laden with yellow sand and black soil. At such times, the Clackamas assumes river-like proportions. It is transformed into a great, angry rolling flood, sweeping everything before it.

Between the opening of the fishing season and the close of the yellow, golden September, the Clackamas is a model, ideal stream; it is the hazy, glorious dream of the true angler.

How many "speckled beauties" have been drawn from its deep pools, swinging eddies and whirling riffles during the long years of the past, would puzzle the average mathematician. Their names are legion many times over.

Far back beyond the dim and shadowy pioneer days the lordly redman fished in its noisy, gliding waters. With the Indians, the Clackamas was always regarded as the best trout stream in the entire broad Willamette valley. From time immemorial, its finny denizens had furnished them with food.

Of later years the "Boston (white) man" has cast the fascinating lure—always with rich success. For more than 40 years the Caucasian has angled in season and out of season in those waters. It has been a perennial fountain of pleasure, inspiration and trout hooking. Kipling found the Clackamas and its environments eminently inspiring, judging from his prose-run-mad style in describing his day's outing.

Years of constant angling have wrought one inevitable result—decimation. It is the old cry: "The fish are growing scarcer." Even with the aid of stringently enforced protective laws, the Clackamas trout are in peril of practical extermination—along with the glorious salmon.

When the lordly salmon are ascending the streams of Oregon en route to spawning grounds, the Clackamas gets its full share. Some years ago Uncle Sam caused a large salmon hatchery to be established on the stream a long distance above the mouth. Below the hatchery a weir has been placed across the river, above which the salmon can not ascend. The fish keep pushing up stream until this artificial obstruction is encountered. They herd together until the lucid waters are black with these great silvery sided fellows. And they make no small commotion on the downstream side, too.

Kipling jocularly speaks of this, and says the foolish salmon "skin their noses against the weir." A great many salmon are captured during this season—particularly below the weir.

About two miles above the mouth of the Clackamas are located the famous falls of the Willamette. These great falls are just opposite Oregon City, one of the oldest historic towns of the misty land "O' Webfoot," and 14 miles above Portland. Mother Nature has placed a great barrier there, above which no Royal Salmon (Chinook or steelhead) could even ascend until a "fish ladder" was constructed by the State some years ago. Since then great numbers of migratory fish have successfully scaled the ways and reached the river above.

Below the Willamette falls are famous fishing fields during the salmon season. So plentiful are the fish that spoon hooks, gill nets, traps, weirs and even gigs are successfully used. The swift and boiling floods fairly swarm with salmon. To the angler, capturing these magnificent fish furnishes capital and exciting sport. The eventual serious depletion of this grand stream will be encompassed by the canneries.

In the days when the redman held dominion over the land and streams, the Willamette falls was the great rendezvous for the "Lo's" for scores of leagues. It was there that they collected their winter stores of dried and smoked salmon. Their favorite modes of capturing them were with spears and large dip nets.

Kipling does not mention having visited the Willamette falls. He indulged in all sorts of wild rhapsodies over the Clackamas. It is difficult to determine just what he would have written about the great, thundering overpour of waters.

It was late in the 80's when Kipling visited Portland. He went from San Francisco on his way East. From Portland he visited the Clackamas. Two well known business men of that city were his companions.

"That was a day to be remembered," wrote the author of "Kim."

"Imagine a stream 70 yards broad divided by a pebbly island, running over seductive riffles and swirling into deep, quiet pools, where the good salmon goes to smoke his pipe after meals. Get such a stream amid fields of breast-high crops surrounded by hills of pine, throw in where you please, quiet water, long fenced meadows, and a hundred-foot bluff just to keep the scenery from growing monotonous, and you will get some faint notion of the Clackamas."

Then he quaintly describes the weir and tells how the congregated salmon fly madly against it.

His impetuous, mad description of how they caught the fish and the fierce battles which followed, is a caution. Nobody but Kipling could do the subject such justice. In his enthusiasm he plunged in the ice cold river and made his cast. He first accidentally hooked a poor water snake—then he hissed maledictions in disgust, and tried again.

"Ah, but the next cast of the spoon hook—ah, the pride of it, the regal splendor of it! The thrill that ran down from finger tips to toe! Then the water boiled. My salmon broke for the hook and got it. There remained enough sense in me to give him all he wanted when he jumped, not once, but twenty times, before the up stream flight that ran out my line to the half dozen turns was ended. My fingers were badly burned by the fleeing lines."

This was only one of many battles fought by Kipling and his companions. This is only one of many descriptions he gave in his inimitable style. It was a "shovel and tongs" series of fierce conflicts.

One of his fish weighed twelve pounds, which was finally landed with an eight-ounce rod.

"My hands were cut and bleeding, I was dripping with sweat, spangled like a harlequin with fish scales, water from my waist down, nose skinned, but—utterly, supremely and consummately happy."

"Oh, the beauty, the darling the daisy; my Salmon Bahadur, weighed twelve pounds, and I had been seven and thirty minutes in bringing him in triumph to the bank. That hour I sat among princes and crowned heads greater than them all."

Meantime Kipling's companions were not idle. They were busy fighting, sweating and cussing. For more than six mortal hours were the battles waged.

"How shall I tell the glories of that day! We danced a war dance on the dripping pebbles, and my comrades of war hugged me until my ribs were nearly fractured. Then we rested like heroes on our laurels."

Sixteen salmon were caught, aggregating 140 pounds. The score in detail ran like this: A fifteen pounder, twelve, eleven and a half, ten, nine and three-quarters, eight, etc., then they ran down to six pounds and under. In concluding, Kipling writes:

"Very solemnly and thankfully we put up our rods; it was glory enough for all time to come—and returned weeping in each other's arms; shedding tears of pure joy, to that simple, bare-legged family in the packing-case house that stood by the water side."

It was at this rancher's that they lodged over night, and the trio were wet, weary, wiser, hungry—but, all were hearty and happy.

Volumes might be written of thrilling fishing experiences along the classic Clackamas, during even the past generation—going back no farther. Small wonder then that the stream has achieved such a broadcast reputation; that anglers who come for thousands of miles should seek to wet their lines in its sweet, pure waters—just for luck, if for naught else.

Kipling has added new lustre to the glories of the musical Clackamas. Oregon is justly proud of the fame of that stream. Even our Golden State could rejoice in claiming such laurels for any of her magnificent streams.

THE FARM.

Judging Beef Cattle.

John Gosling, of Kansas City, the expert judge of beef cattle, lectured recently to the students of the Kansas Agricultural College. The judging room is 96 feet long. On each side of the entire length are arranged three tiers of seats, the tiers rising one above the other. There are seats for 350 people, and every seat was full. Fifty students who could not find seats sat on the sawdust in the area where the cattle stand to be judged.

With this audience of 400, Mr. Gosling gave a lecture on "Quality and Flavor in Beef." He said that the highest percentage of dressed carcasses to live weight in a beef animal that he had ever known was 72 per cent. The prize winner at Smithfield (England) show this year dressed 70 per cent, but the beef was not satisfactory to the consumer on account of the heavy fat. The Kerrick prize Angus cattle dressed 67 per cent net. Feeders could not expect to reach such results, as they came from over-fattened steers, and the flavor of the beef where such high per cents of dress weight were made was not what the consumer wanted. Prize beef should be sold by telephone.

The best edible beef is secured where the dressed carcass is 62 per cent of the live weight. The flavor of the meat and the proportion of fat to lean best suits the American taste when this percentage of dressed weight is reached. Americans do not want to each much fat in beef; they prefer to take what fat they want in the form of butter.

Mr. Gosling stepped to a blackboard and drew the various cuts of roasts and steaks, in each case showing cuts having heavy and light fat. He showed how thick a lining of fat was desired by the consumer and then showed how to detect this condition in the live animal. He said that overfattening spoils the flavor of beef by reducing the amount of the juices and by adding fat which spoils the flavor. With underfattening the flavor is also poor, the meat lacks both in juice and in fat. Where the animal is fattened to just the right condition, the juices are abundant, the lean meat nicely marbled with fat and the flavor delicious.

The man who makes beef should study the production of flavor in his product as thoroughly as does the butter maker in his butter. This is the work in which the young feeder should perfect himself. The richer the flavor and the less the waste in beef when it is delivered to the consumer, the greater will be the demand and the higher the prices paid. The butter maker can taste his material in all stages of its manufacture and has a quick and ready means of determining the flavor of his butter. The beef maker cannot test the flavor of his product until after the animal is slaughtered, and then it is too late to change it. The beef maker should then learn what flavor is indicated by form and touch and then breed or select animals and feed them to produce form and touch that carry with them the desired flavor.

Mr. Gosling urged the students to thoroughly study form. Then to follow their fattened animals to the butcher's block to correct their ideas of form until they could tell just what outward appearance in a bullock would insure the desired flavor of the beef. He declares that until the beef maker learns this he is behind the butter maker.

Mr. Gosling had a beef animal led into the ring and marked on him with chalk all the different cuts that the butcher would make if the animal were slaughtered. He went over the animal and showed the students by touch what portion of the animal being examined would make desirable cuts and where he would fail.

Mr. Gosling's lecture lasted an hour and was listened to with the closest attention. After the lecture a bunch of Short-horn heifers were taken into the ring and judged by the students, each man judging for himself. Mr. Gosling then gave his judgment on the heifers.

The attendance and interest in Mr. Gosling's work is constantly increasing. Three hundred and forty students are taking the work regularly.

The Horse for the Farmer.

Speaking on the most useful horse for the farmer before the West Virginia Live Stock Breeders Association, Mr. E. C. Lewis said in part: The heavy horse has a signal advantage in some farm operations. In plowing or operating a manure spreader or hauling the crops to the barn or to market the heavy horse is just what is wanted, but in harrowing he does not have an advantage proportionate to his size. For drawing a mowing machine the lighter horse is better. Hitch a heavy horse to the shovel plow or cultivator and start him up and down the cornfield, with scarcely room between the three foot rows for him to put his ponderous feet, walking on two rows at once and breaking down more corn in each than a little horse could in one, and you will quickly decide that he was not made for that kind of work. Besides, to carry 1000 pounds of surplus, useless horseflesh over the soft ground of the cornfield takes a great deal of energy, and that energy has to be supplied by an extra amount of feed. Then through the long winter months of idleness it requires a great deal of grain to keep the heavy horse's huge body in repair.

Years ago when wool was bringing good prices and the sole aim of the sheep owner was to increase the weight of the fleece, the custom was established of postponing the shearing until well along in the summer. It was not uncommon to see sheep suffering in their heavy overcoats as late as the middle of June and even up to July, the object being to increase the weight of the fleece by filling it with sweat and oily excretions from the body forced out under these conditions. This abominable practice is still followed to a considerable extent. It is cruelty to animals to compel them to carry these heavy winter coats into the hot weather. It is hard on the constitution and vitality of the sheep and it will lessen its appetite and thrift so that immediate results will not be so good and in the case of ewes with lambs the latter will not do nearly so well if their mothers are compelled to carry their winter coats. The amount of product in fleece is not increased, as has been supposed, by late shearing. In fact, it is generally very much lessened in both quantity and quality from what it would have been if attended to at the proper time.

Probably the largest wool shearing bee that has ever occurred at one place in the mountain States will be pulled off within the next thirty days at the shearing pens of Walter James at Black Rock station in Millard county, Utah, during which 150 men will be employed. There will be 70,000 head of sheep to clip, the fifty flocks, owned by as many individuals and companies, ranging in number from 2500 to 13,000 head in each flock. From these will be sheared more than 1,000,000 pounds of wool, worth at least $125,000. Each sheep ought to yield an average of six pounds of wool. In order to accomplish the task it will be necessary to shear 1133 sheep daily.

Dr. Geddes, representative of the United States Department of Agriculture, resident in England, tested during the past year 249 Herefords with tuberculin prior to export. Of this large number only seven reacted, and it is stated that of these seven he considered three only "suspicious cases."

U. S. Beef Excels English.

The "roast beef of old England," it would seem from an article recently printed in the London Mail, is only a memory, and American beef has taken its place. There have been quite a few articles in the London press within a year's time expressing substantially the same opinion, and the American packers cannot help but feel proud of having won the applause of English consumers. The article in question follows:

"England would not be England without its famous roast beef. Patriotic Britons are still under the delusion that by paying the price they can obtain the genuine article, 'as good as ever it was, sir.' This is another of the pleasant fictions which the faithful journalist is obliged to shatter. As a matter of fact, the distinctive flavor which won the admiration of King James has been slowly lost, owing to modern methods of fattening cattle. Tenderness and juicy quality undoubtedly have been gained by modern breeders, owing to their scientific feeding of oxen, but the original beefy flavor, which took about three years to become perfect, is gradually being replaced by quite unpleasant flavors. For instance (and the British Farmers Association is the authority consulted by the writer), Devonshire beef has a distinctly 'turnipy' taste, due to the roots and turnips upon which the beasts are fed. In spring beef this flavor is most noticeable, 'or it is during the winter months, when pasturage is scarce, that the animals have to be fed on roots. If, for one month only just before slaughtering the cattle were fed on hay, this objection would be removed; but our cattle breeders are in such a hurry to send the animals to market that this month cannot be spared when the demand for English beef is great and pressing. Oil cake is another artificial food that affects the flavor. The taste of the oil is most unpleasantly perceptible when the food is used to any great extent. But it fattens rapidly, so farmers use it. Six weeks only is necessary to get an ox into marketable condition on oil cake. What, then, is the finest beef for table? The answer will come as a shock. It is, according to an expert, the American who 'succeeds again.' American beef, bred from the finest English stock, has many advantages over the home grown animals. The pasturage in America is ideal. Sunshine is abundant, and sunshine has a great effect in the way of improving the flavor of beef. The most exposed portions of the animal, such as that from which the sirloin is taken, are always the best. American beef comes over in chilled, not frozen chambers. If the 'ice gets into the meat' the flesh becomes tasteless; but a cold chamber, the temperature of which does not fall below freezing point, arrests decomposition without spoiling the flavor."

The North American beef company of Chicago has let a contract to erect a $200,000 packing house in Uruapan, Michoacan, Mexico. This will be the first plant of its kind in old Mexico and will be thoroughly modern. The long distance and hot climate, added to the fact that refrigeration on the route is almost impossible, prevents the shipment of dressed beef from the United States to Mexico.

The executive committee of the Northern Montana Wool Growers' association has fixed prices to be paid by the sheep men of northern Montana for the shearing of their flocks during the coming season. "For the season of 1902 we will pay 6 cents per head for yearlings, 7 cents per head for sheep, and charge 75 cents per day for board."

Wool Clip by States.

According to estimates made by the government last year the wool clip was not quite up to the average for the previous year. Taking the country over, the average shearing fleece for each sheep in 1900 was 6.17 pounds, against 6.15 pounds for 1901, showing an inappreciable decrease on the average of .02 of a pound.

According to the weight of fleece on a basis of the average made by States we find the average to be 6.61 pounds for 1901.

It is rather an interesting fact that the East and West break even on a heavy average weight of fleeces—New Hampshire and California both having an average of 8.5 pounds. However, quantity considered, New Hampshire produced only 410,301 pounds against 16,386,997 pounds produced in California.

There is one prominent advantage that the Pacific Coast, and particularly California, has over the East in that the climate enables many flocks to be sheared twice a year, thus having a tendency to increase the fleece of each sheep.

According to the average weights of fleeces, the States and Territories will range for the year 1901 something as follows, according to government report:

States having an average of 8 pounds and over—New Hampshire, Vermont, California and Texas.

An average of 7 pounds and under 8—Massachusetts, Iowa, Kansas, Montana, Wyoming, Nevada, Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

An average of 6 pounds and under 7—Maine, Connecticut, New York, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Colorado, Utah and Oklahoma.

An average of 5 pounds and under 6—Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia and Ohio.

An average of 4 pounds and under 5—New Jersey, Virginia, Georgia, Kentucky and New Mexico.

An average of 3 pounds and under 4—North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Tennessee.

An average of 2.8 pounds is the lowest of any state or territory on the list, and Alabama carries off the very questionable honor.

If one will but study the result of the above he will be impressed with one important point at least, namely, that the East no longer holds the great sheep states. Of the dozen leading, according to averages, the East holds but two.

That the North includes some of the leading sections of sheep raising is demonstrated by the fact that the twenty eight leading states with an average of six pounds of fleece per sheep, are located in the North, with the possible exception of California, Utah and Oklahoma.

It will be noted also as we go South the quality of the fleece decreases, as in the cases of Southern cotton states, with an average of less than four pounds per head.

The methods of breeding do not account for the change in every particular, though we doubt not that there is a considerable influence in the energy put forth by the breeder in securing suitable rams to head the flocks.

The great difference occurs in a direct influence of the climate and elevation by which the pasturage is exceedingly poor in the southwestern states for grazing, due to the want of substance.

It is interesting to compare the results attained in Texas, with an average fleece of eight pounds, and those in South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi, with fleeces ranging from 2.8 pounds to four pounds, with an average of 3.2. These five states are in the same latitude, only one state between them, and yet observe the difference in averages. The result is partially accountable to the fact that Texas, on the average, is probably several hundred feet higher, which, with change of climate, is conducive to better pasturage.—Goodall Farmer.

Entries to early closing events close Thursday, May 1, 1902 when nominations must be made and accompanied by first installment of entrance fee. Horses must be named July 1. In the late closing events horses must be nominated and entry paid August 1.

On payment of one entrance fee nominators will be allowed to name two horses only in same class; and the horse that is to start must be named at 7 P. M. the night before the race. In case where two horses are named as one entry, from the same stable, and any horses that have been separated from the stable from which they were originally named, and such separation made according to rule, they shall be eligible to start in the race if the forfeits falling due after said separation have been met according to conditions, upon the payment of forfeits which fell due before said separation. All forfeits are payable in cash on or before the date specified. No credit extended. Horses may be declared out any time, but declaration must be mailed to the Secretary in writing, and to be valid must be accompanied by amount due (if any) on such entry. Upon such declaration being received the subscription is forfeited, the horse ineligible to start and the nominator released from further liability. No return of any payment on account of death of horse, but the death of the nominator will not make void his entry.

The Fastest Son of Guy Wilkes

Will make the Season of 1902 at

Lakeville, Sonoma Co., Cal.

SEYMOUR WILKES earned his record in a hard fought race and was a game race horse. The oldest of his get are five-year-olds, and no horse in California can show a greater proportion of large, handsome, strongly built and well-boned colts. They all look alike and in nearly every instance are square trotters. The only one that has been trained is Joe Eviston (3-2:22 in 1901).

SEYMOUR WILKES is by Guy Wilkes his dam Early Bird by Playmail; second dam by Odd Fellow, third dam by a son of Williamson's Belmont, fourth dam by Blackhawk 787. He weighs 1200 pounds, stands 16 hands high and is one of the most symmetrical horses in California. Several of his get are in San Francisco and will be shown to prospective breeders with pleasure.

Terms for the Season, $40. Mares not proving in foal can be returned next year by paying $10 additional. Mares can be shipped direct to ranch, via steamer Gold. Pasturage $3 per month. For further particulars apply to THOS. ROCHE, Lakeville, Sonoma Co., or J. W. GIBSON, St. George Stables, 408 Bush street, San Francisco.

RECORD 2:11 1/4. By STAMBOUL 5101, a trotting and show king; dam, Belle Medium 2:30, a great brood mare by Happy Medium, sire of the great all-round mare, Nancy Hanks 2:04, and other great ones; second dam by the handsome sire Almont Lightning (sire of the dam of Zombro 2:11 and other great all-in-all animals, both on the turf and in the show rings; third dam by that sire of game, sound, handsome animals, Mambrino Patchen 58; fourth dam by that speed producing sire, Mambrino Chief 11; fifth dam by that stylish and long distance racing horse, Mason's Whip.

STAM B. is a fine and substantial upstanding bay, 15.3 hands tall, weighs 1100 pounds, and now rightly ranks among the most promising young sires of the land. That he is now in public service in California is a fact for which breeders may be grateful. He is already proving a sire of speed and gameness, together with size, superb style and high action, transmitting these qualities to every foal regardless of dam. He is acknowledged by all who have seen him to be very near the real and ideal race horse and all-around sire. His racing qualities were beyond criticism, and all close observers know that in his blood are represented the kings and queens of the trotting turf and show rings.

Terms for the Season, $40.

Payable at the end of June, with return privilege. Reduced rates to any one person breeding over three mares. Pasturage for mares, $4 per month. Freight must be prepaid on all mares. Season commences February 1st and ends August 1, 1902. No responsibility assumed for accidents or escapes.

MONTEREY 31706 RECORD 2:09½

PEDIGREE IN PART.

SIRE BY SIDNEY 2:19½, sire of 17 in the 2:15 list, 7 better than 2:12, 3 better than 2:10, and Lenna N. 2:05½ (champion record), and 96 in the charmed circle. Battle dam of Monterey, is by that great sire of broodmares, Com. Belmont 430, son of Alexander Belmont 64, sire of Nutwood 2:18½, Barona, his second dam, is by Woodford's Mambrino 2:21½, and his third dam, Miss Gratz, by Alexander Norman 25, sire of Lula 2:15, fourth dam by Gray Eagle, thoroughbred. His blood lines are of the choicest, and his wonderful speed has justly come to him. He is a grand stallion to look at; he has size and conformation to make him what he is—a king among stallions. His first crop of foals two years old now, are very promising, as Walter S. Maben writes me as follows:

"I worked the Monterey two-year old to-day, March 26th, a half in 1:15, first quarter in 0:40½, last eighth in 17 seconds, so you see he can step some and has but little work. He can trot faster than any colt I ever saw and do it easier."

Maben also writes that the Monterey colts are all fine, big, good-looking colts, and look to him (Maben) to be the real thing for stake winners. It will not be long before the breeders will be breeding to Monterey as a much larger fee than his present price. One thing is sure, it is hard for a stallion to work himself up without the support of the breeders, and yet I don't think that the cranks can keep him down, for if he reproduces himself the foals will be of such high class that the public cannot overlook them. Nowadays colts must be game to win big purses, and on this score I am on top, and speed also. Monterey will make this season, 1902,

For the Get of Stallions that made Private or Public Service, Season of 1901, for their Foals of 1902.

ENTRIES FOR STALLIONS TO CLOSE MAY 1, 1902.

The Race to be contested at State Fair in 1905, when Foals are three years old.

Entrance fee for stallions to be the price that they made public service during the season of 1901. All other stallions that did not make public service, entrance fee to be $30. Stallions to be named with the Secretary, May 1, 1902.

All foals that are the get of any stallion entered in this stake to be eligible to be entered on June 1, 1903. Entrance fee $50 each, of which $5 must accompany the entry, with breeding and name, if any, of foal, and a further payment of $13, March 1, 1904, and a further payment of $15 each May 1, 1905, and a final payment of $30 on the first day of August, 1905, and all colts making this payment shall be eligible to start. Starters to be named in writing through the entry box 4 p. m. day before the race.

The California State Agricultural Society to add an amount equal to all moneys paid in by the nominators of the stallions, not to exceed one thousand dollars.

Entrance money paid in for stallions and added moneys shall be divided 60% to the end for trotting colts and 40% to the end for pacing colts. No nominator allowed to start more than one colt in either end.

The nominator of any colts shall on May 1, 1905, then declare as to the trotting or pacing end he desires to start his colts. All moneys paid in on colts transferred to the pacing division shall be segregated and placed to the credit of the pacing stake, and all other payments shall be placed to the credit of the trotting stake.

All payments not made as they become due declares entry out and releases subscriber from further liability.

Hopples barred in both classes. Mile heats, three in five.

Nominator of the steeple of the winning colts in each end to receive $250, to be deducted from the money added by the Society and the money paid in as entrance on stallions, balance of the stakes and added money to be divided 50, 25, 15 and 10%.

Right reserved to declare two starters a walk-over, for stakes paid in only.

When only two start they may contest for all entrance money paid in, not heretofore provided for, to be divided 66% percent to the winner and 33% percent to the second horse. A horse distancing the field in either class shall be entitled to all moneys paid in and 25% only of the money added by the Society, not heretofore provided for.

Open to all stallions that have made private or public service in any of the following States: California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Idaho, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Nevada and Arizona during the season of 1901.

No entry will be accepted except under this condition: That all disputes that may arise in regard to the conditions or contest of this race shall be settled by the Board of Directors of the California State Agricultural Society, or those whom they may appoint, and their decision shall be final.

Remember, the NEW DATE of Closing for Stallions is MAY 1, 1902.

DREAMWOLD, SCITUATE, MASS.

THE FARM OF THOMAS W. LAWSON.

Dreamwold's Motto:
"STRENGTH—BEAUTY—SPEED."

Dreamwold Claims

IT POSSESSES:

HORSES:

A band of brood mares second to none in the world to produce "the horse desired" for pleasure or profit;
A band of trotting stallions second to none in the world to produce "the horse desired" for race, road or carriage;
A band of "carriage" and pony stallions second to none in the world to produce carriage or trap horses for family use or show ring;

DOGS:

A band of Bull, Blenheim, Prince Charlie and Ruby dogs and bitches for stud and breeding second to none in the world;

JERSEYS:

A herd of Jersey bulls and cows second to none in the world;

POULTRY:

A yard of cocks and hens, Barred Plymouth Rocks and White Wyandottes, second to none in the world.

If our claims are found to be facts we expect to receive the patronage of the public for our stud services and at our sales.

Dreamwold Rules

One of the unalterable rules of DREAMWOLD will be, for its stud service and its stock one price. In deciding whether our prices are fair we ask consideration of our basis of arriving at them:

First. We allow for no profit;

Second. On our capital invested, $1,500,000, for the first five years we allow for no interest, and after five years only three per cent;

Third. We figure to get back actual cost of running, based on employing only the best talent and paying good salaries and wages, feeding our stock the best possible and spending all the time and care necessary to break and educate to the highest degree, and to keep in the highest and healthiest condition possible all animals in our charge.

If the animal-loving public will not willingly pay such prices our judgment is astray, and DREAMWOLD will be a failure.

IN ANNOUNCING the beginning of DREAMWOLD I would say:

History tells us that Nature has been in the "business of motherhood" so long, her methods cannot be improved by mortals. Investigation shows man can be of assistance in "shaping up" Mother Nature's produce to fill the desires created by a growing human intelligence. Experience teaches this assistance can be rendered only after one has first educated one's self to Nature's methods, then familiarized one's self with Nature's product, and subordinated "human impulse to easy error" by patient labor and unfaltering effort to produce predetermined results. I believe there is no line of endeavor that calls for a higher order of intelligence, a more varied experience, a broader education, a more perfect control of temper, a firmer and more untiring patience and never-let-up labor than the propagation and education of the animal companions of man. In the education of man there comes a time when the inborn will may assert itself to a freedom from its educator and laid-down lines, to the betterment of self and the neutralizing of the evil effects of early defective education, but never so with our dumb friends—they can only rebel from their master to their own bewilderment and unhappiness. I believe, to breed and to rear our animal companions properly, one should first love and understand them, and to do it successfully one must in addition, have informed himself of the doings of the world, to the end that he may know what are or should be the proper requirements of those upon whose assistance he must depend for the supporting of that standard which he by intelligent investigation has decided best, and then he must be equipped, by nature, education and environment, to reach those whose assistance he must have, first to get them to think as he does, and next to support him by their acts. I believe man's standard throughout the world for his animal companions is strength (health, endurance), beauty, and then the power to win (in whatever they compete). I believe if breeders will produce up to this standard, there will then be a waiting list of buyers and a dearth of sellers at any price necessary to pay all expenses and give fair profits to producers, and that breeders will be as successful as—well, as in anything else which calls for capital, hard work and the highest order of intelligence.

In asking for the patronage of those who love our animal companions, for DREAMWOLD, I claim:

I have by painstaking study acquired a knowledge of what that class desire; I have by sparing no expense—time, labor or money—placed DREAMWOLD in a position to assist in supplying this desire;

DREAMWOLD itself is as perfect as it was possible for me to make it, and I have stocked it by first selecting from amongst all the noted horses, dogs, Jerseys, and poultry, some of the very best, and then I have been very fortunate in being able to secure what I had selected.

Of course, there are very many reasons why DREAMWOLD may never produce what I hope for, but I promise it will do everything possible to attain the standard I have set; that it will under no circumstances compromise on a lower one; that while DREAMWOLD asks for the patronage of the public it will never deceive by attempting to pass counterfeits; that under any and all conditions the brand "DREAMWOLD" on an animal will mean it is just what it is described to be—breeding, health, intelligence, education, manners, and race or show qualities; and, lastly, that the brand "DREAMWOLD" will under no condition be placed on an animal that I do not know is up to the "DREAMWOLD standard." I believe there is infinitely more harm done the breeding industry by dishonest description than by inability to produce what is wanted. Once a breeder knows he cannot sell his counterfeit, the energy he has put in his attempts will be devoted to producing genuines, and counterfeits will become extinct.

THOMAS W. LAWSON.

HARNESS HORSES IN TRAINING in California are very numerous this year. A partial list, which does not represent more than one-half the actual number, as but about a third of the principal training tracks are represented, occupies more than a page of this issue of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN and will give district fair secretaries some idea of what classes they should provide purses for. The green class is a very large one among both trotters and pacers and it looks as if three or four classes between 2:20 and 2:30 can be announced with an assurance that they will all fill. There are nearly one hundred and fifty horses in training at the Pleasanton track alone, and enough entries could be secured there to make a successful meeting. There are a great many private tracks in California where horses are being worked this year, and it is probable that nearly 1000 trotters and pacers are being given track work in this State at this time. This means an expenditure of about $40,000 per month for training expenses alone and gives some idea of the amount of money that is being paid out by owners before a single official announcement of a meeting has been made. It behooves every district board to hurry up the announcement of its program of purses to be offered as, while California horsemen are getting somewhat accustomed to a diet of expectancies and anticipations, it should be remembered that "hope deferred maketh the heart sick" and some of them may get weary of paying out money for training expenses with no purses in sight.

A STRIKE on the Market street system of railways in this city which began last Saturday night and which has caused every car of that system to remain idle from that time up to the present writing, (Friday morning) has placed the entire community under renewed obligations to its old friend and faithful slave, the horse. Every horse that is able to wear harness has been pressed into service from the youngster just broken to the old veteran that should be retired on a pension, and is doing much more than should be asked of him. A police officer whose beat is on Market street says that during the week he has seen but one balky horse of the many thousands that pass him hourly, but that the auto and loco mobiles are continually refusing to go, while all the profanity he has heard has come from angry "chaffeurs." It is more than probable that by the time this paper reaches its readers the strike will be at an end, and the over-worked horses enjoying a well earned rest. It is well for us all to remember at this time that the horse is man's best friend and pulls him out of more difficult situations during the year than all the steam, gasoline or electric contrivances that have been or ever will be invented. Like the immortal Washington, the horse is first in war and first in peace and should be first of all Nature's creatures in the hearts of the human family.

FRESNO will doubtless be the place where the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association will hold its fall meeting, the date being a week during the latter part of September or first of October. The people of Fresno are raising a fund to induce the Breeders to hold their meeting there and it is very likely that the district agricultural society will give a fair at the same time. By next week the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN will be able to make an official announcement in regard to the meeting at Fresno and a program of purses will be announced. Fresno is one of the most prosperous cities in California and the track there, which is on property owned by the county, is in first class condition now and will be kept so. The Breeders should give a very successful meeting at Fresno.

GOOD READING FOR EVERYONE is the advertisement of Mr. Thos. W. Lawson's magnificent farm, Dreamwold, which occupies the full page just opposite. In it Mr. Lawson sets forth some of his reasons for establishing this great breeding farm and some of the objects he expects to attain. A brief but concise description of the property is given and will astonish many as to its vastness. No wealthy man in recent years has done as much as Mr. Lawson for the good of the harness horse industry. Taking as his motto, "Strength, Beauty, Speed," he has never haggled over the price he was willing to pay for animals that possess these qualifications and are likely to reproduce them. He gave $50,000 for Dare Devil 2:09 and believes he has in him and Ponce de Leon the two best stallions in the world for the purposes he bought them for. Mr. Lawson wanted the best of everything that his money could buy, believes he has it and will try to breed the best. It is a most laudable ambition for one who loves horses, cattle and all domestic animals. Dreamwold was not founded as a money making venture. In his calculations for its future Mr. Lawson allows for no immediate profit on the investment of a million and a half dollars. But he wants the farm to pay its actual running expenses for five years and believes that after that time it will pay a three per cent dividend annually. It is to be hoped that his calculations and expectations will be realized, and that Dreamwold will exist for many years as a splendid monument to its founder.

OAKLEY PARK, where one of the greatest meetings of the Grand Circuit will be held this year, advertises seven big purses in this issue of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN. Oakley Park is at Cincinnati and its meeting opens on the last day of September and continues five days. The main trotting event is The Ohio for 2:11 class trotters and for which $10,000 is hung up. Horses must be eligible Monday, May 5th, which is the date of closing entries, but they need not be named until September 16th, which is only two weeks prior to the race. This gives an opportunity for substitution and almost guarantees his money back to everyone making an entry. Besides this great event there are purses offered as follows: $3000 for 2:19 trotters, $3000 for 2:30 trotters, and $2000 for three year old trotters. The pacers have three purses of $3000 each to contend for, the 2:09, 2:12 and 2:30 classes. Besides these early closing events there will be many additional purses advertised to close later. The Oakley Park meeting will be one of the greatest in America this year, and no horseman who races over East can afford to miss it if he has anything of Grand Circuit class in his string. Remember that entries to the purses already advertised close May 5th. Send them to P. M. Campbell, Secretary, Station O., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A NEW REMEDY recently placed on the market and advertised extensively in the papers devoted to equine interests has the peculiar name "Save-the-horse," and is sold for the seemingly stiff price of $5 per bottle, but if it is all that is claimed for it, it is about the cheapest remedy ever compounded for veterinary purposes. Messrs. F. A. Woodward & Co., 51 Stevenson street, this city, are the Pacific Coast agents for it and sell each bottle with a specific written guarantee that it will cure, or the money will be refunded. The cases covered are bone and bog spavin, ringbone, curb, thoroughpin, splint, shellbone, capped hock, exostosis, weak and sprained tendons, windpuff and all lameness. Any medicine that will cure any one of these ailments is worth a great deal more than five dollars a bottle to a horseman, and when such a reliable firm as the Troy Chemical Company guarantees a cure or the money back there is nothing for any sensible person to do but to try it, if he has an afflicted horse. We understand there have been a large number of bottles sold since the medicine was placed on the market here two weeks ago, and good reports are coming in from the users already.

THE STALLION STAKE should have the entry of every standard bred trotting and pacing stallion on the Coast. Remember that it will be the richest stake ever trotted for in California and that only the get of the stallions nominated will be eligible. Stallions owned in California, Oregon, Nevada, Washington, Montana, Colorado, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah and Arizona can be named and then all their foals of 1902 are eligible. Don't permit your horse to be left out of this great competition between speed sires. If one of his colts wins the stake it will be worth a great deal to you. Read the advertisement in this issue. Entries close next Thursday.

TWO STAKES FOR RUNNERS will close with Secretary and Manager Van De Vanter, of the Seattle Association, on Thursday next, May 1st. They are the Seattle Derby $1000 and the Ladies Plate $600. If you will race up north have an entry in each.

TEN $1000 PURSES offered by the N. N. Y. T. H. B. A. for its meeting at Glens Falls, in September, close next Thursday, May 1st. There are purses for the 2:10, 2:12, 2:14, 2:18 and 2:28 class trotters, and for the 2:08, 2:10, 2:12, 2:14 and 2:24 class pacers. Glens Falls is on the Grand Circuit, its track and grounds as good as any in the world and there is always a big attendance, as Glens Falls is a harness horse centre. Every horseman going East should enter there. Make out your entries and mail them to Secretary W. F. Bentley in time.

Match Race at San Jose.

There will be some great sport at San Jose this forenoon and a very fast quarter of a mile will be run or paced, as the case may be. The other day a friendly discussion arose between "Farmer" Bunch and Mr. B. S. Krehe over the speed ability of the latter's stallion Alcyo 2:10. Mr. Krehe had worked Alcyo an eighth in 15 seconds and incidentally remarked that he believed his stallion could pace a quarter faster than any other horse on the track could run. The "Farmer" doubted this, and offered to match a mare he has that is a pretty good "loper" against Mr. Krehe's good son of Alcyone. Mr. K. was willing, the only condition being that Bunch's mare should pull a high-wheel sulky. And so the match was made and the money is up. If the day and track are good the race will be called at 10 A. M. to-day. It is to be quarter-mile heats, best two in three, and those who have seen Alcyo taking his work believe that Bunch will be compelled to run his mare two quarters faster than 30 seconds to beat him. There is much interest in the race, and several bets have been made on the result by the trainers at the track.

Two Great Mares by Zombro.

There will be shipped to Cleveland next week two mares by Zombro 2:11 that will set all the tongues of the horse community over East wagging as soon as they are driven over the track at Glenville. One is a five year old called Julia M. that is consigned to the Blue Ribbon sale which opens at Cleveland on the 12th of May; the other is the four year old mare Italia 2:23½, winner of last year's Occident Stake, and purchased a few months ago by Mr. W. P. Murray, a prominent member of the Cleveland Driving Club for use at the matinees. Walter Maben, the well known Los Angeles trainer, has both Julia M. and Italia in his care at Los Angeles and says that he could have driven both a mile in 2:12 or better this week had it been necessary. He drove Julia M. a mile in 2:13½ on Friday of last week, the quarters being 34, 32½, 34 and 33. Just how fast he could have driven her had he "hiked" her along the last quarter is uncertain but it would have been a second faster without doubt. The track was at least two seconds slow that day, being deep and rough on the first turn. She went a long mile and Walter had to take her out around a harrow that was working on the track. She will show 2:10 by July to a certainty if no accident or sickness befalls her.

Italia was stepped a mile the next day in 2:17½, the last half in 1:05½ and she did it so handily that every horseman who saw her taking her work said 2:12 was within her reach.

The horsemen of California are all enthusiastic over the Zombros, and they are surely the coming champion trotters.

Entries at Oakley Park.

The early closing events offered by the Oakley Park Association for its summer meeting at this well known Cincinnati track filled well. The 2:09 pace, for which $1500 was hung up, received 14 entries. Velvet Rose, the fast pacing mare by McKinney, is the only California horse entered in this race. The 2:13 pace has thirteen entries, Velvet Rose being entered in this race also. Will Durfee has named Silver Coin by Steinway in this event, and Myron McHenry has entered his little black pacer, recently purchased, Prince Direct, better known as Freddie C. 2:14½. In the 2:30 pace there are fourteen horses named, O. A. Hickok's Thornway by Steinway and Terrace Farm's Velvet Rose being among them. In the 2:30 class trot for a purse of $2000 there are 22 horses named. The California horses make a very good showing in this list, as there are three entered, viz: Ben Liebes by McKinney, Coronado by McKinney and Zephyr by Zombro. The California bred stallions Athanio, Directum and Albert G. are represented by their get in this race.

Edwin Gaylord, the well known and popular Denver, Colo., owner, has employed David J. Raybould, who has for many years been one of the prominent trainers in Ohio, to train his stable of harness horses located at the Overland Park track, near Denver. This is since the recent death of John Blue. Mr. Raybould has gone to Colorado and assumed his new duties.

JOTTINGS.

THERE IS a decidedly emerald hue to the strings of harness horses in training in California at the present time, and the green classes should fill well at every meeting if fair purses are offered. From nearly every track in the State where horses are being worked comes the report that there are many horses without records in training, but very few of those eligible only to the faster classes. In making up their programs for harness races this season district boards will have to use considerable judgment and arrange classes that will best provide for the horses in actual training. Every district secretary should post himself on the conditions existing, and have some idea of the classes that will fill before arranging and advertising their programs.

A very bad feature of advertising which has been adopted by a few associations in California in recent years, but which should be dropped by all reputable organizations, is that of announcing big purses for fast classes which it is known will not fill with the required number of entries. These announcements have been made simply to make the advertisement look big, and with the certain knowledge that there were not sufficient horses of the class mentioned to fill the race to the satisfaction of the board of directors. I hold that owners would much rather enter in purses of $500, where but five entries are required to fill and three to start, than to enter in purses of $1000 with the condition that there must be enough entries to satisfy the board. The reason for calling these races "stakes" instead of "purses," and making the conditions I have referred to, is a good one—as not one association in twenty in California can afford to offer $1000 purses under any other conditions, as it would bankrupt any organization attempting it. Gate receipts and privileges bring in about so much every year, and the directors know very nearly what they can depend upon from these sources, which are their only revenue. Knowing this they figure that unless they receive a certain percentage of the purses in entrance they will lose money on the meeting, so the purses are changed to stakes and sufficient entries to satisfy the board required to fill. Many a good race has been kept from the program by this condition, but it also kept the association from bankruptcy. It would help matters greatly this year if every district board, the State Agricultural Society and the Breeders Association would all conclude that these stake races will not be advertised. Every association can figure approximately just how much money it can afford to give for purses, and then make its program accordingly, with no other conditions than those laid down by the National Trotting Association, of which nearly every association in California is a member. Then abolish the fake offer of big purses for classes that it is known will not fill, and the conditions will be healthier and more satisfactory all around.

Some years ago when about the only racing in California was that furnished by the State and district agricultural associations which gave one week meetings during the summer and fall months, and the Blood Horse Association that held spring and fall meetings of not longer than two weeks in San Francisco, the country fair was in the zenith of its glory. In those days there were hundreds of well-to-do business men who looked upon the circuit of fairs as the place and occasion for an annual outing and the opportunity to wager money on the races. The circuit was the place where business cares were forgotten for the time being and if at its close one's account book showed a loss, there was little mourning over the result, as it was charged up to vacation expenses. Those were the halcyon days when racing was a sport and not a business, and the entire population turned out to see the contests. It is different now. Six months continuous racing here at the metropolis every year has taken the glamour off the sport, and outside the regulars who make a business of attending solely for the purpose of wagering money on the events, there are very few who go to the races except on holidays or when some special large stake is on the card. Twenty or thirty years ago here in San Francisco, a big match race would be the talk of the whole coast and for two or three days prior to its decision the trains from Oregon and Nevada would be crowded with people coming to see it. I remember seeing a train pull into Sacramento from Reno in the fall of 1873, with two cars loaded with a delegation headed by Governor Bradley of Nevada (old Broadhorns) all bound for San Francisco to see the famous match race between Californian and eastern horses at four mile heats. It would have to be a very sensational race that would draw a like crowd these days, and I doubt if the governor of any state would risk the criticism that would be made by his constituents should he visit an adjoining state to see a horse race. In those days a district association could well afford to offer $1000 purses if it had a good mile track, as the entrance was ten per cent and the percentage from pool privileges amounted to thousands of dollars. It is different now and the directors of district associations must recognize this fact. Crowds from San Francisco do not visit the county fairs as formerly. Gate receipts depend upon the patronage of home people and programs must be arranged accordingly. The fair association that caters to the people of its own district will be the one that succeeds. Racing is such a common thing here in San Francisco that residents of this metropolis will not spend money to witness racing on country tracks. The district association that imagines it can give a program that will draw crowds of people from San Francisco will find that it has reckoned without its host.

There are enough associations in California that can afford to give purses ranging from $500 to $1000 to make a first class circuit of not less than ten weeks' racing. The State Fair (two weeks) at Sacramento, the Breeders' Association and the associations at Napa, Woodland, Stockton, Oakland, San Jose, Fresno, Bakersfield and Los Angeles are in the thousand dollar class, but all of them cannot make up an entire program with purses that large. It would be an excellent thing for California summer racing and for the harness horse interests if there could be a central or main circuit organized of those associations that can afford to give good sized purses. There should be a few of $1000 each and the rest of the program made up of smaller purses. Some of our California horsemen cross the continent to race for $500 purses and they will nearly all stay at home if there are enough races of that value to enter in. Every district association on the main circuit should give at least two large purses, say $1000 each, and they should be announced early in the year. If this were done and the events properly advertised all the leading trainers would make nominations in them and having done so would also enter liberally in the smaller purses opened later on.

The greatest drawback to a successful circuit in California however, is the lethargy displayed by Secretaries and Directors during the early part of the year. There is not an association in California that has done anything more up to this time than to claim a date. Nearly every association in the East is already publishing its entries to early closing stakes, but here in this land of perpetual sunshine and continuous training, there has not been a purse or stake for aged horses opened up to this time. Is it any wonder that owners are slow about putting their horses in training and are holding back to see what is offered before they engage trainers, buy sulkies, harness, boots, etc., or incur the many other necessary expenses to training horses for a campaign. I sometimes wonder there is any training here at all. California has plenty of fast horses, but it has some of the slowest harness racing associations on earth.

Ukiah's Fair Will Open October 7th.

On its excellent half-mile track at Ukiah, the Mendocino County Agricultural Association held a very successful fair last year and will try to repeat it this year, as the following letter will show:

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—The Fair Directors met on the 17th inst. and set October 7th as the day for commencing the race meeting and continuing five days.

Much interest is already shown in the coming fair and it is expected to excel any previous fair held in this county. Last season the fair and race meeting was so successful that it was not necessary to draw any of the State appropriation, consequently this year we will receive $1100 from that source.

Yours truly,
H. B. SMITH.

Goodwin's New Turf Guide.

The first number for the new racing season of Goodwin's Official Turf Guide has just been issued. The volume, which contains all the usual good features of the publication, including the indexed form tables, showing the performances of horses at all points where racing has been conducted in the United States, carries the records of the present season's racing up to the close of the Washington meeting.

The weight of the heaviest horse ever known was 3000 pounds, or very nearly one ton, 700 weight. This Clydesdale horse was exhibited at New York in 1889. It was 20½ hands high, and, although only five years old, measured 32 inches round the arm, 45 inches round the stifle or knee joint, 95 inches girth, 34½ inches round the hip and 11 feet 4 inches in length. It was of perfect proportions, with a head of 36 inches in length.

A Day's Sport for Dixon.

DIXON, April 20, 1902.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—The directors of the Dixon Driving Park Association will hold a Mayday picnic and race meeting at their beautiful park adjoining this lively town on the first day of next month. They have a good half-mile track with grand stand and stables, and there is a large covered pavilion for dancers.

Three good races, all of special local interest, have been declared filled for the occasion and it is certain that genuine contests will result in each. The entries are as follows:

Buggy horse race for named horses, purse $75, divided 60, 30 and 10 per cent. Entrance ten per cent. Henry Roberts' b m Dixon Maid by Falrose, dam by Tempest; E. H. Dudley's b g Allendale by Falrose, dam Bee by Sterling; A. H. Holly's b g Falrose by Falrose, dam by Black Dan; Emil Hollings' b m Bellrose by Falrose; J. A. Little's b g by Falrose, dam by Tempest.

Three year old race for trotters and pacers, purse $100, divided 60, 30 and 10 per cent. Entrance ten per cent. R. H. Nason's Glenrose by Falrose, dam by Brown Jug; A. H. Holly's b m Daisy by Tuberose, dam by Black Dan; S. H. Hoy's dun g Donwater by Bayswater Wilkes, dam by Don Marvin.

Two year old race for trotters and pacers, purse $100, divided 60, 30 and 10 per cent. Entrance ten per cent. H. H. Nason's b g Roosevelt by Falrose, dam by Alex. Button; Eugene Dudley's blk g Dart by Hector; Clarence Day's blk f Donalicia by Don Marvin, dam by son of Missouri Chief; Mrs. Ben Griffin's br g The Giggler by Bayswater Wilkes, dam Clarabel by Privateer; E. D. Dudley's dun f Lorna Doon by Bayswater Wilkes, dam Bee by Sterling.

The buggy horse race and the three year old race are mile heats, three in five, and the race for two year olds is half mile heats, three in five. There is considerable good natured rivalry here between the respective owners of these colts and, weather permitting, there will be good racing and a large crowd in attendance.

There are at present quite a number of good mares and colts owned in this community and the class of horses is improving as we have here the stallions Dictatus, Falrose, Director Jr., Glen Wilkes and a son of Oro Wilkes out of a mare by Le Grand. Near here are the good horses Diablo, Bayswater Wilkes, and Dagan, a son of Sable Wilkes, dam by Dawn.

Yours truly, REUBE.

The Santa Rosa Stock Yard.

This establishment is one of the leading, most reliable and prosperous concerns of its kind on the Pacific Coast. As its name indicates, the firm deals in live stock of every description, and its business transactions cover a very wide area of territory. It handles only standard and thoroughbred horses and carefully avoids including any of the mustang breed in its stock. Liberal advances are made on carload consignments of horses and the ample facilities enjoyed by the firm for disposing of these animals assure quick sales and good prices. In the line of vehicles the stock carried by the house includes every description of carriage and all sorts of rubber tired conveyances of the very best makes. It also carries a fine assortment of Whips, Robes, Blankets, Saddlery Harness, etc. The firm has abundant capital and makes it a point to deal in only first class stock and first rate goods. During the period it has been engaged in business the Company has established an enviable reputation for liberality, fair dealing and integrity, and those who have had business relations with it have always been thoroughly satisfied with the treatment they have received. The office and salesyard are at 1499 Market street, corner 11th street, San Francisco. Co. Phone South 864. Mr. Robert H. Farmer is the Manager of the Company.

This Year's Futurity.

Announcement is made by the Coney Island Jockey Club that this year's Futurity will be worth $70,000. It is the most valuable race in America. On Saturday, August 30th, it will be decided and a fortune will be handed over to the owner of the winner. When the entries to the stake closed on January 2, 1900, the club had received 1241 nominations. Of this number 305 subsequently became void from various causes. 419 were declared out on payment of $10, 62 at $20, 10 at $60 and 12 at $70, leaving 433 youngsters eligible.

The widely printed item that Martha Marshall is the only pacer that ever won a heat from Dan Patch 2:04½ is an error. Martha beat Dan a heat last year, but the year before—at Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 5, 1900—in the first heat of the 2:35 class Dan was beaten by the chestnut gelding Milo S. by Reward J. 2:10½ in 2:18½. Milo S. lowered his record last season to 2:11½. He is now being engaged on the Grand Circuit and is said to have the earmarks of a coming star pacer.

HARNESS HORSES IN TRAINING.

Trotters and Pacers Being Made Ready on California Tracks for the Season of 1902.

Last week a request was mailed from the office of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN to a representative at each training track in California asking for a list of the trotters and pacers in training, that the same might be published for the benefit of Secretaries of the various associations who are now arranging harness race programs for this season's racing. The responses from quite a number of tracks have been prompt and complete and we publish the same herewith. It is probable that several additional tracks will be heard from later on and they will be printed as fast as they are received:

"Horses in Training," the annual published by H. A. Buck, 571 Fifth avenue, New York, has been issued. It contains the names of all thoroughbreds that have stake engagements on American race courses this year including the two year olds. The book is printed neatly and bound in red leather and can be had for one dollar. The horses are arranged under the names of their owners, and are indexed alphabetically. Name, age, sex and pedigree of each horse is given. It is a very valuable book for race goers.

Los Angeles Harness Horse Items.

HOTEL ROSLYN, LOS ANGELES, April 21, 1902.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—To go out to the Los Angeles race track on any of these bright sunny mornings and see the many fast trotters and pacers in training, makes one think he is at a first class race meeting.

The weather god is being particularly good to Southern California, treating the country to light night rains and the best of sunny days, and the track is in the pink of condition.

Walter Maben, of Stamboul fame, can be seen behind the peerless daughter of Zombro, Italia. Just a few days ago she stepped a mile in 2:16 and a quarter in 32½ seconds, doing it as tho' it was a mere jog. She is fat and strong. Her new owner, Mr. W. P. Murray, of Cleveland, is to be congratulated.

Mr. Maben is also working a very handsome black pacer, three years old, by Titus, dam Lady Wallenstein 2:15. This colt is named Nelson; he paced a mile a few days ago in 2:16½, a quarter in 32 seconds. D. J. Desmond sold him to M. A. Henderson, of Coney Island, for a four-figure price. Mr. Henderson also purchased a gray gelding by Raymond out of the dam of Italia by A. W. Richmond; this gelding paced a mile last Friday in 2:17, last quarter in 32½ seconds. He is one of the most promising green ones to be found anywhere. Walter is very sweet on him. Mr. Henderson certainly has purchased two very high class pacers. It is his intention to have Mr. Maben work them this year and make race material next year. He is a man of means and good horse sense. Zambra, a big bay gelding by McKinney, is in Maben's stable; he is a coming 2:15 trotter, and nothing but an accident can stop him. He took a record of 2:23 last year. He can trot-rings around 2:17 now.

A sorrel colt by that high class stallion, Monterey 2:09½ out of Juliet D. 2:15½ by McKinney, is the pride of Maben's stable; no better looking or better gaited trotter ever lived than this colt. He recently trotted a half in 1:12½, last quarter in 34½ seconds. He has size, speed, and his breeding is beyond criticism.

Cornelius D. by McKinney is a green trotter in Maben's stable, dam by Bob Mason; this gelding has 2:15 speed every day. Owner Desmond is preparing him for the California races. Walter Maben says he expects to bring home the money with Cornelius D.

Zomboyetta, a three year old filly by Zombro out of the dam of Arrow 2:14 by Silver Bow, is one of the most likely candidates in this year's Occident and Stanford Stakes and it is even money that Walter Maben wins these stakes with this mare. She is a true counterpart of her great sire, Zombro, in speed, gait, conformation and all, except that she is a bright bay.

In Fred Ward's stable is McKenna 2:17 by McKinney. This stallion is without doubt the best bred entire son of McKinney. He is of faultless conformation, a seal brown, one of the best gaited and gamest of the many sired by McKinney. Mr. Ward intends to race in Colorado, Washington, Idaho and Montana. In the same stable is the Tout, a busy going trotter that has already trotted a mile in 2:15, a quarter in 32 seconds, and the green one who beats him will be doing something.

In Mr. P. D. Jonas' stable is the trotting stallion Neernut. This horse has served 36 mares, all of good breeding. Mr. Jonas is training Toughnut, a bay pacer by Neernut, dam by Bob Mason. This pacer has done a trial in 2:20, last quarter in 32½ seconds, and can step a mile in 2:16 right now.

A bay filly, five years old, by Neernut, dam by May Boy, has paced a mile in 2:25 with ninety days' work. She has faultless action and can pace a mile in 2:20 at any time.

A black mare by Neernut out of a dam of unknown breeding is one of the nicest gaited and fastest of the get of Neernut. In less than ninety days she has trotted a mile in 2:27, last quarter in 35 seconds.

Cocoanut, a bay pacer, dam by Silkwood, is the apple of Mr. Jonas' eye. He paced a mile in 2:24½, last quarter in 32½ seconds, and did it easy. He is a high class horse. All these young horses show the best of dispositions and an inclination to do business in a way that is sure to get the money.

Neernut will prove to be one of California's great sires as well as one of the greatest of race horses, which he has already proven.

Robert Hackney is training the bay mare Ramona by Albion, dam by Electioneer. This mare is spoken of by the wise ones as being a coming sensation. Mr. Hackney is giving her a very careful preparation. She paced a mile in 2:17 last week—did it easy.

In same stable is Richwood by Silkwood, a green one that Mr. Hackney says will make the green pacers step to beat this year on the California Circuit.

P. W. Hodges is training an unnamed bay mare by the great horse Zombro. This filly is out of a mare by Woolsey, full brother to Sunol. She recently trotted a mile in 2:17½, last quarter in 32 seconds. She is a high class mare with the sweetest of dispositions and a faultless gait a conformation that can't be beat. She is owned by Col. Mayberry. Mr. Hodges is going to race her this year in California.

In the same stable is the horse, Stipulator, that Millard Sanders got so sweet on last fall. This pacer is being carefully prepared for the coming races and it is even money that he will be a sensation.

The roan brother to Funston by Dictatus is rounding into form and he is said to be even faster than his roan brother of last year that now bears the name of Aguinaldo's captor. Hodges says he is a high class horse.

Elijah Duncan of Walla Walla, Washington, who owned and trained Antelope the good son of Nutwood, is training a filly by Red Freckles, dam by A. W. Richmond. She paced a mile in 2:23 and is a good prospect. Lige is also training Printer's Ink, a black son of Altamont out of Little Maid 2:18. This trotter is all that can be asked for in color and conformation, gait and disposition, and as a trotter it takes a good one to beat him. He has the bulldog courage of the Altamonts, through his dam he gets the blood of Happy Medium, sire of Nancy Hanks, and Hambletonian Mambrino, sire of Caryle Carne, backed up by the blood of General Knox and the Black Hawk tribe. He will be raced this year and his competitors for the money will be obliged to trot some to beat him.

G. T. Beckers wears a big smile these days, in fact he is the happy man of the track. His grand young stallion Zombro has already been bred to 35 high class mares and more a-coming, and every Zombro around here is acting like a real race horse. I saw the dam of Zombro to-day, she is soon to drop a foal to one of the best young stallions in America, Stam B. Of course to get a great horse one must first get a great mare. When Mr. Beckers bought this mare from Mr. Withers in Kentucky he made one of the wisest selections. She cannot be beat from a point of breeding or of conformation; flat legs, good bone, good feet, and Mr. Beckers surely has a mint in this great mare. His mating her with Stam B. was a wise selection, one that will surely prove a rich investment.

Mr. Beckers is training a two year old, The Jester, by Stam B. out of the dam of Arrow by Silver Bow; this colt is a counterpart of Stamboul in color, markings and conformation, and differs only in the fact that he has more speed than Stamboul as a two year old, and it is doubtful if any two year old can out show him. He is next year's Occident and Stanford Stakes. He will do to remember.

A. W. Breuner, owner of the stallion, Stanton Wilkes, is training Billy Green by McKinney, dam by Echo, this big trotter can trot rings around 2:20 and do it easy. He will take part in this season's California races, and it will be a pleasure to Mr. Breuner's friends to see him out with a winner. He is a tireless exponent of the light harness horse.

Wm. Durfee is preparing to go East and when his car is loaded it will contain a few of as high class horses as ever left their happy home. Coronado by McKinney is the star. Petigru will also go back East to race, and to see him trot a half in 1:04½ one must think he is a coming 2:10 trotter the first time out. Liejers by McKinney is one of the fastest trotters ever seen on the Los Angeles track. Ben Leibes, by McKinney, steps a quarter in 32½ easy, with his good looks, his good size, and that Robert McGregor blood on his dam's side, one must expect a fast record. It is a foregone conclusion that Ben will be a 2:15 performer for his sire's snow flies again. Mr. Durfee deserves success, he is a hard worker and his friends here are many.

I. P. Lipson, who raced and gave Zolock his record, is training a very handsome bay pacer by Bob Mason; this colt has paced a mile in 2:16, last quarter in 32½ seconds. He has a nice way of going and is considered a valuable prospect.

In the same stable is a big brown pacing mare by Ketchum, dam by McKinney; this mare has paced a mile in 2:16, last quarter in 32 seconds. She is a good actor and Mr. Lipson considers in these two pacers he has a money getting pair.

Sam Washington, the colored trainer, is working a very handsome chestnut gelding by Advertiser out of a General Benton mare. This horse in a recent trial paced three heats in 2:17, 2:16 and 2:14 and the way he finished the 2:14 one makes the rail birds say he is a sure 2:10 pacer the first time he is uncorked. Sam is a careful trainer and a good speed maker; this gelding was bred not in Old Kentucky, but under the shade of the lone pine on the domain of the late king of horse breeders, Senator Stanford, and sold for a small price at a public sale held here by F. W. Covey. He does not wear any fittings except harness, shoes and an old sulky made over.

Vet Kent is training several fast green prospects and it is a foregone conclusion that more than one of them will be a sensation, as Kent is a genuine speed maker and has the faculty of making good actors as well as fast ones out of his equine pupils.

Most of our trainers intend to race on the Coast circuit, beginning at Ventura, as it is rumored that good purses will be given. Perhaps the boys who stay in the Golden State this year will have a goodly share of the "kale seed," as Mr. Bunch calls the money, when the racing season of 1902 is over.

Now, we hope the track owners and secretaries will soon declare themselves and announce some large purses so that some of the trainers will have a change of heart and stay at home and try to put harness racing in California on as good a basis as it is in the Eastern States. Everyone is crying prosperity, so we hope the associations will loosen up and give big purses. The prices paid this winter for fast horses is most encouraging. California has the best of stallions, the best bred mares, the best climate and can and does raise the best horses. Let's hope for the banner year of big purses for high class racing and prosperity. Yours truly,

C. A. HARRISON.

Notes and News.

The Special Harness Stallion Stake closes next Thursday.

Columbus received 133 entries to the stakes for the Grand Circuit meeting.

Ray Direct 2:10 is back at Pleasanton after a season in the stud at Los Angeles.

Chas. Marvin will breed his mares again this year to C. W. Williams' stallions.

Tuesday, September 2d, has been set as the day of the Lord Derby—Boralma race at Hartford.

Twenty-one mares with records better than 2:10 have been nominated in the Kentucky Futurity.

Xemenia, the dam of Sunland Belle 2:08½, recently foaled a handsome bay colt by John A. McKerron 2:06½.

A two-days' race meeting is to be held at Bakersfield May 1st and 2d. Running and harness races will be given.

Silver Bow Jr. is in training at the San Jose track in Thomas Glover's string. He beat 2:15 in his work last year.

The trotter Coxey 2:13 is dead. He was owned by E. E. Smathers, of New York, and was in Geo. Spears' string at Memphis.

James Sutherland of Pleasanton recently purchased two fine tethers from S. H. Crane of Turlock and is shaping them up for sale.

Fourteen mares with records better than 2:20 and six with records better than 2:12 have already been booked to Joe Patchen 2:01½.

The greatest stake ever devised in California is the Special Harness Stallion Stake to close next Thursday. It will be a very valuable one.

Belsire 2:18 will be trained again this fall and will, it is thought, reduce his record several seconds. He could trot a half last year in 1:05.

W. H. Lumsden of Santa Rosa has sent a handsome three year old colt to Millard Sanders to be worked. It is by McKinney and is very promising.

It is said that Mabel Onward 2:10½ is looking finer than silk this spring, and Scott McCoy thinks she will get a mark of 2:07 or better this season to wagon.

J. E. Conley of Saginaw, Mich., has paid $2000 for the four year old colt Sid Thorne by Sidney. He was raced last season and showed his ability as a trotter.

Read about W. B. Prentice's $20,000 stallion that is headed for the world's record in 1904. His name is Potrero, and his advertisement appears in this issue.

Any person wanting a good buggy mare, city broke, young and very handsome, can hear of one that is a bargain at the price asked by addressing "C," this office.

Another $10,000 purse for 2:11 class trotters closes May 5th. This is The Ohio, offered by the Oakley Park, Cincinnati, Grand Circuit meeting. See the advertisement in this issue.

Don't forget to name your stallion in the Special Stallion Stake offered by the California State Agricultural Society. It closes Thursday next with Secretary Jackson at Sacramento.

Dare Devil won the first prize for trotting stallions at the Boston Horse Show last week, and Mr. Lawson's other stallion, Ponce de Leon, won first prize for trotting stallion and four of his get.

The rules of the National Trotting Association, as revised by the last Congress, are now on sale at this office. Price, 25 cents, post-paid, for paper bound copies, 50 cents for those in leather.

It is said D. J. Campau will soon call a meeting of the board of Grand Circuit stewards to consider the relation of the Grand Circuit tracks to the National and American Trotting Associations.

Mr. J. E. Snow, of Santa Ana, has sent his mare Alcazette to be mated with Zombro 2:10. She is by Alcazar, has a record of 2:36 and a trial of 2:26. Her dam is Pond Lily 2:19½ by Geo. M. Patchen Jr.

The Year Book credits Effie Powers 2:08½ with 172 winning standard heats; 17 of these were won last year. If she can put in 28 more in 1902 she will reach the 200 mark—and as she is still sound she may do it.

After trying hard last year to make the $17,500 stallion Beauseant (trial 2:07½) to go steadily without very heavy weights on his feet, his trainer has fitted him with a pair of hoppers and he is now working nicely.

William Cecil, trainer for the Nutwood Stock Farm, has a colt in his string at Pleasanton that looks and acts so much like Flying Jib that he calls him Little Jib. He is by Nutwood Wilkes out of a mare by Direct Line.

Just who will pilot the handsome White Plains pacer Coney 2:02 this season has not been decided by his owner, Harry T. Dykman. Coney can show as much speed going a quarter as Star Pointer, and that is saying a plenty.

L. M. Easell of Martinez is the owner of an Abbotsford Jr.—Steinway gelding that Mr. James Sutherland of Pleasanton is breaking and training that is a good prospect, for when he had handled him just five weeks he paced a mile in 2:25½ easy.

Potrero, the "big," handsome stallion, born and bred in San Diego county, does not trot for money, but is being trained to beat the "world's trotting stallion record" in 1904, whatever it may be. For particulars see advertisement of W. B. Prentice, breeder.

That good mare Georgena 2:07½ has been bred to Oakland Baron 2:09½. Her turf career may therefore be considered ended. At her best—as when she won the $10,000 Charter Oak purse in 1900 from Alameda and Lord Derby—she was one of the best mares that ever graced it.

It is said that James Gatecomb tried to buy Ruth 2:14½, but when he found that it would take $8000 to become her owner he held off. This mare worked a mile last year at Syracuse in 2:10½. She is by Re-Election, brother to Expedition, and is entered in the $15,000 Massachusetts Stake for 2:12 trotters.

It transpires that C. K. G. Billings purchased The Admiral 2:07½ with the view of driving him to pole with Hontas Crook 2:09. He will take the pair to New York in a few weeks, where he will drive them on the speedway. After purchasing The Admiral Mr. Billings drove him an eighth in 14½ seconds, a 1:56 clip.

Henry Dunlap recently purchased from William Murray of Woodland a colt by Diablo 2:09½ that is very highly spoken of by those who have seen him move. Mr. Dunlap has I Direct 2:12½ and King Cadenza 2:15½, both in excellent shape at Pleasanton and it is believed they will lower their records this season.

Ed Lafferty has received from Tuttle Bros. of Rocklin, a three year old by Zombro 2:11 out of the dam of Stam B. 2:11½. This colt is entered in the Occident and Stanford stakes to be trotted this year at the California State Fair. He is said to be a very handsome youngster as well as a most promising trotter.

There is a yearling filly in Kentucky whose breeding is not only especially good, but very different from anything yet registered. She is by Belsire 2:18, the fastest stallion of the Electioneer—Beautiful Bells family, her dam is by Baron Wilkes, son of Geo. Wilkes, grandam by Red Wilkes, son of Geo. Wilkes, great grandam by Guy Wilkes, son of Geo. Wilkes.

Frequently the question is asked as to how much insurance is carried on the life of the trotting champion Cresceus 2:02½. Owner Ketcham states that there is no policy, either life or accident, on the horse. This is due to the fact that none of the companies are willing to write as large a policy as the value of the policy dictates, and for that reason none has ever been taken out.

E. W. Shanklin, secretary of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association, will be assisted in his office by J. B. Faulkner. Mr. Faulkner is an expert stenographer and bookmaker and understands the horse business well enough to get the names and breeding of horses correct on the books even though the parties making entries write their entries in Sanscrit or Chinook.

The Los Angeles Driving Club will hold a matinee on the afternoon of May 3d, at which time, in addition to the races, there will be a parade of horses and equipages owned in that locality. There have been 125 entries already to the parade. A feature of the day's sport will be a race between Sweetheart, Primrose, Sweet Marie and Cœur de Lion. Vet Kent is handling Primrose for this race.

Murray Howe writes to the Horse Review an interesting account of the horses in training at Memphis track, and among others noticed has the following good words to say of The Roman: "Dick Benson says The Roman (3) 2:19 is better gaited than he was last year; his action is more rapid, and he seems to have more control over it. His fastest mile to date is 2:38, with a last quarter in 35 seconds."

We beg to remind our readers that that green trotter and magnificent horse, Stam B. 2:11½, is still at Pleasanton, where his services can be had at $40 the season. It will not be long until the get of Stam B. will be in great demand at high prices, and those who breed to him this year will be wise. Send a mare or two to Stam B. this year and you will be in the fashion when your colt is old enough to drive.

The other day David Bonner said that after personally driving the $9100 Futurity winner Peter Stirling 2:14½ to pole with Black Robert 2:13½, he considered Mr. Work in possession of the highest class pole team since the halcyon days when Edward 2:19½ and Dick Swiveler 2:18 put the world's pole record at 2:16½, driven by John Murphy. The crack chestnut gelding, now a four year old, behaves like a road veteran, is always ready for a brush, and stays with his mate whenever placed in double harness. He is, in the opinion of such drivers as Myron E. McHenry, who marked his sire Baronmore 2:14½, Ben Walker, W. J. Maloney, Mart Demarest, Orrin A. Hickok, George H. Ketcham and Ed Geers, the most likely candidate for the trotting championship available.

Sam Gamble writes us from Pleasanton that one of the handsomest, smoothest gaited little trotting wonders he ever saw is a chestnut four year old filly by Sidney Dillon, dam Lou Medium by Milton Medium. She is owned by the Santa Rosa Stock Farm and is in Millard Sanders hands. Sam says he will see her trot a quarter in 31 seconds or better by this fall and then after seeing a young Stam B. enter the 2:15 list he will be willing to shake hands with nearly all his enemies.

A new race track is contemplated by the Directors of the Contra Costa County Agricultural Association. The lower end of the old track was flooded during the winter by an overflow, and is not now in condition to work and as a consequence no horses are being trained at Concord. If the Directors succeed in perfecting the arrangements now under consideration a new track will be built closer to the town and on higher ground which does not overflow. Quite a number of the Concord horses are being worked at Pleasanton just now.

Julia M., six years old, and Italia 2:23½, four years old, were shipped from Los Angeles this week to F. W. Covey, Superintendent of the Palo Alto Stock Farm, who will take them to Cleveland with the Palo Alto horses. Julia M. is the property of Willard Stimson and is consigned to the Blue Ribbon sale. Italia goes to her new owner, Mr. W. P. Murray of Cleveland, who paid $3500 for her a few months ago. When these mares reach their destination Zombro 2:11 will have three great representative mares in training over there—Julia M., Italia and the $9000 Zephyr. They can all beat 2:15.

The horses at Lodi track are working well. The trotter Talisman stepped a mile in 2:17 last week, and H. D. B. worked in 2:19. Both are being handled by Tom Holmes. J. Langster has worked Jennie S., the pacer, in 2:20. Cranky, a bay pacing gelding, stepped a mile in 2:25. Charley Whitehead is training Toppy 2:12½, but as this horse has his speed at all times, he is only giving him work that will stay him up for the races. Mr. Whitehead has a pacing mare called The Mrs. that is a great prospect. She has been a mile in 2:15½ already. Delphi 2:12½ is making a good season in the stud.

The best foal that the old mare Mabel by Naubuc has had since she foaled Directly 2:03½, that paced to a world's record of 2:07½ as a two-year-old, is a handsome black filly called Reybel, by Rey Direct 2:10. The filly is owned by George Davis, Esq., of Pleasanton, and has had but a month's work, yet she has paced a quarter in 34½ seconds very handily. She is one of the best formed fillies ever seen at Pleasanton and is a credit to her sire. Stemwinder, the dam of Directum 2:05½, has dropped a filly by Rey Direct that is one of the best looking of all her foals. Rey Direct's get are all noted for size and beauty, and as soon as they are old enough will acquire reputations for speed.

Lottie Parks 2:16½ dropped a fine colt by Boydello 2:14½ last week. Mr. T. J. Crowley, owner of Lottie, has sent her to Oakwood Park Stock Farm to be mated with that grand young sire and game race horse Owyhee 2:11½. The produce of such a mating should be a good one, as both have shown greater speed than their records, and it is Mr. Crowley's intention to name both mare and foal in all the great futurities next year. The late Thomas Keating frequently stated that Owyhee should make a great sire, as he proved himself one of the most consistent race horses he ever drove through the Grand Circuit, and he predicted for him a bright future in the stud. The few colts by him now in training at the farm show remarkable speed, and are very highly spoken of by all visitors to the farm.

The other day a Santa Clara county fruit grower brought a long-haired and angular specimen of the equine race to "Farmer" Bunch of San Jose to get his opinion as to whether it would be advisable to train it for the races this year. The Farmer got up behind the gelding, which was hitched to a cart, and started around the track. After considerable persuasion with voice and whip he managed to drive the animal an eighth in one minute flat, with four breaks in it, and found that every time another horse came alongside, the prune man's horse would stop and seem to desire to wait until the other went by. Bunch brought him back to the owner with the remark that he did not think he would do for the races this year, but if he would take him home and feed him well he would be willing to take him next year and name him in the Milpitas M. & M. under the name "My Dear Alphonse," as the horse seemed to be determined on all occasions to permit the other horse to go first.

One frequently hears extravagant statements regarding trotters, yet if one should say that he knew of a green trotter without a record that trotted a mile in 2:10 the first time he was ever harnessed to a sulky, the statement would be received with great doubts; yet there is an authentic instance of this right here in Kentucky. Last season when Douglas Thomas started on his campaign, he left at his track near Paris a four year old by Oakland Baron that had shown wonderful speed. The owners of the horse had no intention of starting him, so his preparation was in ended to be slow. So great was his speed, however, and so easy did he take his work that those in charge of him during the absence of his regular trainer were tempted to give him a few fast miles, and late in the season, after having been a mile in 2:12 to a cart, he was harnessed for the first time to a sulky and given a trial, finishing the mile in 2:10. He has been a quarter in 30½ seconds, and is a rare looker, with almost perfect action. He is known as Rythma, and is by Oakland Baron out of Duchess by Strathmore. Unfortunately he is blind and were it not for this fact would be the most valuable green horse in America.—Ky. Stock Farm.

When His Horse Lost.

"Of all the racy stories that spring up when the horses are running at Bennings, I think the one about a certain Irishman who bet his week's wages on a sure thing is about the best," said a lucky clerk at the District building the other day to a reporter of the Washington Star.

"The old fellow went out to the track to make a killing," continued the clerk. "He had been tipped off in great style to play one of the horses, and had promised to bring Bridget enough money home to buy a whole set of spring bonnets and clothes galore. He rushed into the betting ring, where the odds were 100 to 1 against his sure thing. He reached down in his trousers pocket and pulled out his roll. Carefully he counted off the bills. They were all of the minimum greenback denomination—$1—and he peeled off ten, leaving no core at all.

"Pat made the bet all right and then walked off milingly. He began to figure out how much money he would have when the winning numbers were posted. It's a thousand, methinks," he commented. And then he pondered. "No," he mused; "begobs, I will have a thousand and tin."

"Well, to make a long story short, the race was quickly run and Pat's sure thing pulled in last, about

News From the North

[Portland Rural Spirit.]

Cris Simpson thinks he has a pretty slick thing in a green pacer by Bonner N. B. which he has named Oleo.

B. A. Washburn reports his trotting mare Altanoma has foaled a handsome bay filly by Memo, sire of Alme 2:15½.

Entries to the Portland races close May 1st. They follow the Oregon State Fair and precede the Washington State Fair.

Walter Allison's mare Viola, dam of Giles Noyes 2:05½, has a handsome filly by Erect. Viola will be bred to Boodle 2:12½ this season.

Walter Allison has sold his driving mare Esther, full sister to Estella 2:17½, to R. B. McLennan of Vancouver, B. C. Esther is by Lemont out of a mare by Nasby, son of Reavis' Blackbird. We understand she will be taken to Dawson City, Alaska, to be used on the road.

The State Fair grounds presents quite a lively appearance these mornings, as there are quite a number of horses in training there. Casto has seven head, Pender has six, Mauzey six, Trine five and Isabel three. The track is improving with the weather and the boys will be found trying to hold down first money in some of the big stake events at the coming fair.

Lawson Wants the Cup.

Thomas W. Lawson has placed Boralma 2:07, in the hands of the Gentlemen's Driving Club of Boston, to try to win back to Boston the Matinee Challenge cup, now held by the Cleveland Driving Club. The sole provision of this offer is that the Cleveland club select a date for the event at least one week later than the Boralma-The Abbot match, which must take place on or before Sept. 15. There is little doubt that the question of dates will be settled satisfactorily.

The Challenge cup was given by the Boston club in 1900 to stimulate matinee racing. It was first competed for at Readville two years ago, and was won by John A. McKerron, who was forced to a record of 2:10 about which there has been much discussion and legislation. Last season Harry Devereux and his wonderful wagon horse successfully defended the cup over their home track. Should John A. McKerron win the race this year the cup will become the property of the Cleveland club. Boston will have at least two starters, as John Shepard will send either Altro L. or Senator L.

three minutes behind the flyers in front. Pat saw the horse go by the stand, his colors trailing. His hopes had gone up in the air. Then he saw the horses come back to the judges' stand for the jockeys to weigh out, Pat went to the fence, and, calling to the boy who had the mount on his sure thing, he said:

"I say, sonny, what delayed ye?"

Answers to Correspondents.

What year did Lady Dooley by Black Hawk distance May Queen in a race at San Jose and what was the time?—R. G.

ANS.—November 4, 1869. The race was mile heats, three in five, for a purse of $400. The starters in the race were Lady Dooley, Regulator, Fred Low and May Queen. The last named mare went to wagon, the others to harness. Lady Dooley, driven by James Eoff, won the first two heats in 2:33, 2:31½. Regulator captured the next two in 2:32½ and 2:32½. Lady Dooley won the fifth heat and the race in 2:33½. May Queen was second in every heat but the last, when she was distanced.

Second hand bike sulkies and carts for sale. Bike wheels made to order and repaired. McMurray bike carts and sulkies kept in stock. Pneumatic rigs called for and repaired. Kenney Bicycle Company, 631 Valencia street, San Francisco.

At Everett track Wm. Miller has Meteor 2:17½ and Buford 2:11½ and a handsome yearling by Meteor, dam by Major Seattle by Shawmut by C. M. Clay. He looks very much like his sire and has all the appearances of a race horse. Capt. Smith has Mary L., and a green pacer which are looking fine and doing well. Jockey Frank Pico has a good runner in training and Capt. Donohue has Red Spinner and Dr. Marks, which are doing well in his skillful hands. Hank Covington has Pettigrew in the pink of condition and will be heard from this season. He is by Inverness-Pert, by imp. Glenelg. Los Angeles, who raced under Lucky Baldwin's colors, was sired by Glenelg, also the great Firenze, queen of the American turf, and Carlsbad, winner of the American Derby in 1892. Edward Ray has Durango, the chestnut son of Prince of Norfolk. He is going good and will haul down the money in the short runs. Major D. is also being worked. This is some talk of a match race here between Kittitas Ranger and Maplemont, to take place on the 26th.

last Sunday, and was sudden although not unexpected to his many friends in California who have been aware of his failing health for some years. "Bill" Langford, as he was familiarly known, was born in Brooklyn, New York, forty-two years ago. He came to California in 1894 and has been identified with winter racing here ever since. He corresponded for several eastern papers at first, was afterwards sporting editor of the Oakland Tribune and at different times engaged in bookmaking. He had the combination book this winter at Oakland, but was a loser on the venture, it is said. He left for Denver a few weeks since for the benefit of his health, but it is probable that the rarified air of that elevated point hastened his death. He was a sufferer from pulmonary troubles and heart disease. He was very popular among his many acquaintances, and all admired the game and resolute manner in which he fought for life against a fatal disease. He leaves a wife and one child residing in Oakland.

It is always the unexpected that happens. The one you think is fit to race for your money is liable to fail you and the supposed no-account is the one that keeps you from going broke.

The Life of a Trainer.

To many looking on from the grand stand at a Grand Circuit meet there appears nothing easier than to sit in a sulky and be whirled around the track a mile in 2:10 behind a steady-going trotter or pacer. When the horse has reached the acme of perfection there is much that is pleasurable about it all, more especially if the stake won be of national importance and the performer one that has quality as well as high speed capacity. The trainer, however, has many troublous hours in the process of development and works very hard to bring about favorable results many times. He must be always cool and collected, courageous, a man of marked physical strength, temperate in his habits, free from nervous disorders, quick witted and ever ready for emergencies. He must be something of a veterinarian, more or less skilled in farriery and of a decidedly mechanical bent as well. Many of our present day advanced methods of harnessing and balancing are the direct results of trying moments.

Rarely are two fast horses to be treated alike, and their feeding, stabling, work at both the jog and extreme speed, and all else require not a little study and close application. Some fast ones have been well nigh spoiled during their colthood; others are of that dull calibre requiring strenuous methods to bring to the surface their better qualifications; not a few can brush sensationally fast, yet are almost impossible to rate miles so the finish may leave them with a reserve for repeat miles. Others are hard to get away from the wire, and at the end fully as hard to restrain.

The more important meetings take place between July 1 and October 15. The trainer likes to take a good horse by February 1 to begin his work, so as to be ready by June 15 to work approximately as fast as he may be asked to go to get the first money in his class. Perhaps the horse had acquired some unpleasant practice the season before. Now, this must be corrected, and the trainer is at his wits' end to bring about the desired result. It may be a faulty gait; perhaps the horse may have become a bad breaker; maybe got to lugging; at other times he went unaccountably lame; he may prove a light eater; perhaps, again, he showed the white feather. Vicious horses are hard to place with a leading trainer, as they value their lives above trifling with this sort.

On February 1st the expense accounts are started. The trainer may have a contract, may race a horse on shares and be putting his time and work against one-half of the entrance fees and sending in no training bills during the season. Usually, the leading trainer receives $50 for working a horse till the racing season, then $75 a month thereafter, with a clause as to a percentage of the net winnings. Ed Geers receives $100 a month straight all season for his best outside pupils, such as The Abbot, The Monk, Onward Silver, Fred S. Wedgewood and such stars as he consents to train. A few take a horse at $40 or even $30, but they cannot make much money provided they employ the best caretakers, as the latter get $50 and $60 a month and their board.

To-day the leading trainers employ a shoer at a yearly salary, allowing him to do a little outside work. It costs $5 to shoe a horse right and the shoer must so construct each shoe to secure a desired result as to gait. Sulkeys, carts, boots and harness all enter into the arrangement and receive not a little close attention. A horse should have sulky boots, and his harness made especially for him and there must be absolutely no lost motion, chafing or friction at any point.

The matter of feed is an intricate one. Feed must be cooked, the oats screened from dust or foreign matter, hay the choicest and fresh and clean, straw such as a horse would be tempted to munch if hungry, and the water of the best at all times. Nothing so soon affects a horse's condition as a change of water. Then, too, a horse must be heated for bathing purposes. Witch hazel, rum, liniments, ointments and washes all require close study and each is ever useful, or, rather, invaluable.

Each star has his own special caretaker and an understudy to help cool him out on race days or during the workouts twice each week. The boys work hard, but not much harder than does the trainer throughout the active season. The hours of hard work are between 8 o'clock and noon and the force must be astir at daybreak on the day the stars are to be worked out or raced. As nearly every trainer carries ten horses or so, he divides their workout days so as to work three in a set. Usually at a track, prior to the race season, Tuesdays and Fridays are workout days.

First comes their cleaning and renovation of the stall, then they are fed, and after breakfast comes their jogging. Perhaps the caretaker relieves the trainer of this. Ed Geers usually exercises The Abbot and such horses himself. A mile around 2:35 follows, then twenty-five minutes scraping, walking and sponging out, and a faster repeat is in order. The second mile may be a drop of ten seconds after the season is advanced, followed by another yet faster, perhaps in 2:18 or 2:20, then another a little faster, with a good stiff last half and a repeat back at the same notch. Every quarter is carefully timed and rated just where the trainer desires to go. A slow, or "cooling-out" mile, with the last quarter fairly fast, ends the forenoon, and the horse may get two of these slow miles before going to the walking path, blanketed, bandaged, a sponge over his forehead and walked till he is at normal temperature, then rubbed and brushed off and put away.

A present the select division of free-for-all performers, both trotters and pacers, are not allowed to go their miles below 2:40, nor will they be for some weeks. Mile after mile around three minutes are they driven, kept under a wrap and coaxed back to slow metre, until muscles are hardened and wind is good; then they are dropped to 2:40. After two weeks from 2:40 to the faster "thirties" miles around 2:20 soon follow. Ask any trainer and he will tell you that the hardest thing he has to do is to drive the first mile under three minutes. It seems very slow, yet many are the horses whose disposition and gait were ruined while undergoing just this same 3:00 education.

A horse may have been worked too long, become tired, got to going against one shaft or the other while yet a little weak. He may have been whipped when he broke, been yanked and sawed when he felt in too high spirits, and as he improved his speed these unpleasant incidentals required many hours of hard, careful work to overcome. The gaiting pole had to be strapped on the shaft to straighten him and make him place each hind foot where it belonged. Harsh bits may have been applied to hold him with a degree of comfort.

One of the most common failings is the little matter of jumping the shadows of the fence posts, and dodging wet spots on the track. Now and again you will see a horse with a sheepskin roll under the blinkers or perhaps a piece of patent leather at right angles with his face line. These are to keep him from seeing the ground at short range. He sees at a distance, but cannot look down. Sometimes a horse carries a stick attached at the side piece of the bridle and extending back to the "D" on the saddle. It is to prevent him from carrying his head one sided and pulling on one line. Last season Douglass Thomas had this stick on Iva Dee 2:12½ and Ed Geers, seeing it, at once applied it to Shadow Chimes' outfit. Both improved and possibly may go their fast heats this season free from the somewhat ungainly paraphernalia.

Some horses, not a few in fact, draw their noses in on their breast and pulling so hard are given to choking down. A number of appliances are on the market to overcome this. John Kinney rigged a "pole," as it was termed, on Bay Star 2:08 in 1900, and she was known as the "trolley mare" ever afterward. It was attached to a band that encircled her muzzle and extended over her head between the ears, and to it the check strap was attached, thus giving a leverage that, try as she might, she could not overcome, so had to carry her head poised as her driver willed.

Many youngsters have too fast workout with scalping boots on their hind feet. They cuff the coronets, break wildly, maybe are punished, and the next man to take them has to begin anew so as to gain their complete confidence. Others are frightened and take to pulling. Sometimes, if taken in hand quietly this can be remedied in season. Usually, however, harsh bits must be used. A puller is the hardest possible horse to train. Look at Anaconda 2:01½. The day Jack Trout won in 2:01½ at Brighton Beach with him he was leaning back so far his body was almost parallel with the ground. On the other hand, the great Cobwebs 2:12, Nathan Straus' speedway trotter, wears but a plain leather bit composed of two straps sewn together. He takes hold momentarily when squaring away for one of his famous brushes on the road, then all is over and his owner never need watch him.

Few appreciate the strength necessary to drive a horse such as Anaconda, Prince Alert or Star Pointer. McClary's hands were often numb after piloting Pointer miles in his races so hard did he pull. Had he not stuck to a pace and gone to an uncontrollable break he would have surely run away many times. Trainers have horses given to breaking at one spot for several workouts and must study every side of the case to locate the reason before going away to race. It may be they strike somewhere, then the boots are chalked so to see, when a fast mile is worked, whether or not they hit themselves.

The late George West, of Chicago, had a pacer that he knew could take a record of 2:05 or near it, yet he would not eat unless the boy handed him his hay a handful at a time or an ear of corn, whistling or talking to him all the while. The boy had many things to do other than to be nursery maid to a hopped pacer, so West thought out a novel way to induce his pupil to eat. He tore a hole at either end of the stall, so that the neighboring horses could poke their noses in, threw a bunch of hay at each point, placed oats near at hand and called the boy off duty. Every horse is like a boy, no matter how much food he gets, or how good, if he can get some belonging to a chum he is the happier; in other words, "stolen fruits are the best." After a little the pacer realized he must eat and eat quickly or his rations would be stolen, so he ate. By degrees he became a glutton and to-day is a king pin pacer—Sherman Clay 2:05½.

Years ago the Maine trotter, Dr. Franklin by General Knox, was sent to James Golden to train, his owner desiring to place him in the stud with a record of 2:30. Golden persevered with him and drove him several fair miles, but found he would trot the wrong way of the track seconds faster, so the day he took his record he reversed the usual order, and his 2:31 was trotted going to the right rather than as usual.

Vicious horses are bad at all times. Old Orange Bud 2:21½ remained a useful race horse until he was in his old age, yet from abuse while younger was very ugly. A mere boy of 15 was his only friend, and he allowed the boy to do anything he chose with him. He would lash his heels and strike or bite at his trainer, yet the youthful caretaker petted him, slept with him and managed him when they shod him.

Some trainers, notably Joseph H. Thayer, of Lexington, have a knack of teaching yearlings to trot very fast miles. Others never have any success with youngsters and rarely take one to handle. "Jock" Bowen, now retired, was a very harsh-voiced man, and it was said of him that that voice was worth two seconds training a stallion. He drove Mr. Bonner's Joe Elliott by Edward Everett a mile in 2:15½ before any trotter had trotted a mile for a record so fast.

The trainer of the day is far from having the life of luxury and pleasure it may appear at a casual glance from the spectators' point of view.—New York Sun.

Won on the Long Shot.

As evidence of the ruling passion of jockeys to keep their eyes open for good odds, a well-known horse owner told this story: "One of my jockeys," he said, "had been ailing for weeks. He had tried to doctor himself without success, and I suspected that he might be suffering from some serious stomach trouble. I told him to go to my physician in Thirty-fourth street, Dr. Blank, and see what he could do for him. I also gave him money enough for his doctor's bill. Several days later I saw him and I said:

"Well, what did Dr. Blank say about your case?"

"I did not go to him."

"Why not?" I asked.

"Well, sir, when I got to his house his sign read: 'Dr. Blank, 1 to 2,' and looking across the street I saw a sign, 'Dr. Dash, 12 to 1,' and I picked Dr. Dash for a long shot. He proved a winner, too, and I'm feeling better already."—New York Sun.

California Inanimate Target Association.

An important meeting of the Board of Governors of the California Inanimate Target Association will be held this evening. Secretary Street has issued the following circular and mailed the same to representative clubs and sportsmen:

Dear Sir—At the meeting of the Board of Governors of the California Inanimate Target Association, held April 5, 1902, the following program, herewith presented was outlined for your consideration, for the Tenth Tournament, to be held, if practicable, May 31 and June 1, 1902.

The shoot to be held in the city or town which makes the best bid for it—money subscribed and donated to be used as added money in all purses.

The financial report of the secretary of the Ninth Tournament was read, which showed that the association is now entirely out of debt, all accounts having been paid in full, and a net cash surplus of $64.69 was on hand.

By amendment, the By-Laws have been changed so that the annual dues for club membership are reduced to $5 per annum and without assessment clauses.

Secretary was instructed to notify all clubs of the association that the annual dues ($5) are now due and payable, and should be forwarded to him with a list of the members of each club, and also the names of three delegates, selected as representatives on the Board of Governors of the association.

The said delegates are instructed to attend the next meeting of the Board of Governors, which will be held in San Francisco, April 26th, at 8 P. M., in the office of A. M. Shields, Crocker Building, where bids and inducements for the shoot will be considered, and location and program finally settled.

Every trap shooting organization and club in California is earnestly requested to join the California Inanimate Target Association at once and participate in the tournament.

We want your club in the association—if you have no club, organize one. We want your town to make a bid for the tournament, if you desire to have it. Any way, wherever held, we want you and your best shooters, to be with us in this coming tournament. Northern California, Central California and Southern California, your crack shots can win honors and money under this program, while the average shooter, and even the novice, will have an equal chance in the division of purses and trophies.

The Interstate Association Shoot, just closed at Kansas City, was one of the most successful ever held in this country. Interest in trap shooting in California is again awakening. The restrictions of the game law have curtailed the sport for live game to a short season, and a lover of the gun finds keen pleasure and a healthful pastime in smashing blue rock targets.

Ten events are programed for the two days' tournament, open to all members of clubs of the association, and by the system of distance handicaps, 14 to 25 yards, an equity is reached whereby the experts do not have a "cinch" on first place, but affords the semi-expert and the novice a fair chance for honors and money.

We trust that you will take this matter up at once. Help it along (or refer it to interested parties) and communicate with this office at the earliest possible date. Remember the time is short.

First day—Event No. 1—Trophy. 20 birds; entrance, $1.00. Added money, $25.00 (or more). Event No. 2—E. T. Allen Trophy. 20 birds; entrance, $1.50. Added money, $25.00 (or more). Event No. 3—Trophy. 20 birds; entrance, $1.00. Added money, $25.00 (or more). Event No. 4—Crystal Palace 3-man Team Trophy. 25 birds per man; entrance, $1.50 per team. Trophy must be won three times to become the property of any one club. High teams to win. First team takes trophy and first money. Added money, $25.00 (or more). Event No. 5—Trophy. 20 birds; entrance, $1.00. Added money, $25.00 (or more).

Second day—Event No. 1—Gold Dust Medal. 20 birds; entrance, $1.50. In this event any brand of powder can be used. Event No. 2—Golcher Trophy. 20 birds; entrance, $1.50. Added money, $25.00 (or more). Event No. 3—C. I. T. A. Merchandise Handicap. 20 birds; entrance, $1.00. Added money, $25.00 (or more). Event No. 4—Antioch 6-man Team Trophy. 20 birds per man; entrance, $2.40 per team. High team wins. Event No. 5—Novice's Consolation Handicap. 15 targets; entrance, $1.00. Added money, $25.00 (or more). For shooters entered in three or more events of this tournament, whose average does not exceed 65 per cent. Shooters of higher percentage welcome to enter event and shoot for targets only, but to have no share in the division of the money except side pools.

The secretary's office will be open to receive entries Friday evening, May 30th, and Saturday evening, May 31st, at 7:30 P. M., at Association headquarters.

1. Price of Targets—The price of targets (trapped) in the tournament will be 2 cents each, and deductions from pools will be made on that basis. The usual deduction of 3 cents a bird will be made on trophy events in which winners of last year's trophies are entitled to the entrance money in whole or part.

2. Money Division—All moneys shall be divided under the High Gun System, as follows: One money to every three entries, as follows: 45 entries, 15 moneys; 60 entries, 20 entries; 75 entries, 25 moneys; 90 entries, 30 moneys; 100 entries or more, 33 moneys.

3. In the E. T. Allen and Golcher Trophies Events—50 cents of the entrance money forms the pool, with the added money, to be shot for; of the remaining $1 entrance—3 cents will be deducted for birds, as has been the custom in other tournaments, leaving a balance of 40 cents on the dollar, of which the winner of the trophy at the last tournament receives two-thirds; the remaining one-third will be added to the pool.

In the Gold Dust Medal event conditions of the above will prevail, except that the winner of the medal at the last tournament receives the entire 40 cents on the dollar.

4. Ties—All ties for trophies shoot off at original number of birds, the winners of which will not share in the division of money.

5. Handicapping—The system of Distance Handicaps, 14 to 25 yards, so successful with the Interstate Association, will be used in all events. This system places the expert, semi-expert and the novice on an equal footing, and affords all a fair chance to win trophies and moneys.

Handicapping Committee shall be composed of the secretaries or captains of each of the affiliated clubs of the association, handicaps to be determined from the club records of the shooters or their last tournament record; decision of the committee to be final.

6. Rules—Rules will govern in all particulars not otherwise provided for (American Association or Interstate Association).

Shooters will be required to enter each day for all events of that day in order that squads may be kept together. This arrangement is necessary to avoid annoyance and delay. If a shooter is unable to participate in a particular event, his entrance money for that event will be refunded.

8. Time of Shooting—Shooting will commence each day promptly at 9 A. M., and shooters in order to make their entrance should be on the ground at least half an hour earlier.

9. Change of Program—If from lack of time or any other cause it should be impossible to complete the entire program, the Tournament Committee shall have power to cancel any event not already started. Entrance money in such events will be returned.

10. Secretary's Fee—A fee of 50 cents will be charged each day to all shooters participating in the tournament, which amount will be credited to expense of office and clerk hire.

The foregoing outlines the plan and also numerous details for the tournament, and the same will be submitted for consideration at the meeting to-night. It is barely possible that there may be later dates selected for the tournament. A number of those interested are of the opinion that the time of preparation is too short.

It is also possible that an effort will again be made to hold the shoot at Hollister. Hollister sportsmen were very desirous of having the last tournament held in their town.

This shoot should undoubtedly have the firm support of every one interested, business men as well as gun clubs and trap shooters.

The officers of the association are: President, W. S. George of Antioch; Vice-Presidents, J. B. Hauer of San Francisco, W. J. O'Neil of Fresno, Thos. L. Lewis of San Francisco, Edgar Forster of San Francisco and Geo. H. Anderson of San Jose; Secretary-Treasurer, W. J. Street of San Francisco.

Bakersfield Gun Club.

At a meeting of the Union Gun Club on the 12th inst., at the office of Anderson & Kaye for the purpose of re-organizing on lines embracing shotgun and pistol, as well as rifle shooting, Horace Stevens was elected temporary president and L. E. Swan temporary secretary. E. N. Moore, J. W. Payne, H. L. Dort and C. E. Day were appointed a committee on permanent organization. This committee will arrange for a site for traps and targets and will make a report at the next meeting of the club. Those who have signified their intention of becoming members of the club when permanent organization is effected are:

T. J. Hughes, H. E. Wells, A. A. Armstrong, Carl P. Wilkes, E. N. Moore, B. M. Putnam, William Fowler, J. I. Woolley, J. A. Fesler, O. Neikirk, J. H. Davis, H. R. McLane, J. C. Payne, J. W. Redlands Gun Club.

Redlands sportsmen organized on the 12th inst. the Redlands Gun Club. The club grounds are equipped with two blue rock traps, regular shoots will take place on the first and third Tuesdays of each month.

The charter members and officers are: President, C. M. Brown; Vice-President, Mac Phelps; Secretary, C. F. Kirkpatrick; Treasurer, C. F. Colwell; Stock-keeper, F. Gernich; Assistant Keeper, G. M. Taylor; Captain, Geo. W. Hiner; C. H. Crain, H. S. Moore, Wm. Wilshire, L. R. Whittemore, Jno. F. Dostal, Jno. H. Alder, Jno. W. Edwards, L. E. Kieffhaber, Jno. J. Boberick, Wm. B. Wilkinson, H. C. Rumohr, W. C. Whittemore, C. E. Taylor.

AT THE TRAPS.

The Union Gun Club blue rock shoot at Ingleside last Sunday was held not only under adverse weather conditions, but by reason of lack of street car facilities the attendance of shooters was materially lessened.

A feature of the day's program was booked for in the Shields cup shoot event. This race was started, but by reason of the comparatively small entry it was decided to conclude the shoot at a future meeting. The scores made in this exhibit however, will stand.

In the regular monthly club race at twenty-five targets, distance handicap, the scores were: Golcher 18, Iverson 17, Zeiner 17, G. Sylvester 16, Wolpert 20, Hansen 10, E. Sylvester 6, Hirsch 16, Hyde 12, Nauman 24, Lewis 6, Haight 21, "Smith" 19, Herring 19, Hutton 17, Daniels 20, P. Finocchi 19, R. Finocchi 15, Green 6, Jansen 15, Hyde (back score) 8, Muller 14, Eggers 15, Pisani 19, Burns 18, Thomas 18.

The scores in the medal handicap race at twenty-five targets were: Haight 21, Herring 17, Burns 16, Hirsch 22, P. Finocchi 24, R. Finocchi 16, Nauman 22, Hyde 14, Sylvester 13, Eggers 9, Hutton 15, "Smith" 16, Lewis 10, Derby 22.

The total purse divided at the recent Grand American Handicap was $12,090. Mr. Hirschey, of Minneapolis, received, besides the cup, $688.70; Mr. Spencer, of St. Louis, $588.70; Mr. Heikes, of Dayton, O., $488.70; Mr. Pollard, of Chicago, $438.70; Mr. Owen, Oklahoma, $388.70; Geo. Roll, Chicago, $338.70; G. V. Dering, Columbus, Wis., $288.70; Messrs. Snyder, Morrison, Gilbert, Clay, Squier, Cool and Darby, got $238.70 each; from the thirteenth to twenty-fourth man got $188.70 each; twenty-fifth to thirty-third, $138.70 each. The balance of the sixty-three moneys was divided between the twenty-four men, and amounted to about $130.00 each.

There were thirty-two of them, viz: O. Von Lengerke; E. Burke; F. Arnold; W. A. Williams; C. Buckeye; A. D. Mermod; E. D. Trotter; Dr. J. L. Williamson; R. L. Trimble; E. Thornton; J. H. Sims; R. S. Rhoads; A. M. Shaw; Col. Callison; E. C. Hinshaw; W. Wetleaf; M. E. Atchison; George Selbheas; G. E. Agard; W. W. Washburn; W. M. Hill; L. G. Scranton; E. E. Uno; J. A. R. Elliott; J. W. Garrett; R. Hood; C. B. Cockrell; C. E. Mink; B. P. Woodford; A. G. Allen; M. M. Mahew; Ben Dicks; E. O. Hudson.

Over 500 shooters attended the Kansas City live bird shoot.

Mr. James Whitfield, the popular and widely known sporting editor of the Kansas City Star, Mo., died on Monday morning, April 1st.

On a hot day drink Jackson's Napa Soda lemonade and be refreshed.

The Washington Gun Club members shot blue rocks at Sacramento on the 20th inst. Messrs. Rust and Peek seem to have been the high guns. An interesting feature of the meeting was a nine-man team shoot. The club and team results and other scores follow:

The Capital City Blue Rock Club held its annual meeting at Sacramento on the evening of April 17th. It was very largely attended and much enthusiasm prevailed. James Contell presided and Andrew Just was Secretary. After reports and communications were disposed of the election of officers for the ensuing year took place, as follows: President, George F. Wittenbrook; First Vice-President, Gailey Graham; Second Vice-President, Louis Webber; Secretary and Treasurer, Andrew Just, Captain Frank J. Ruhstaller.

The following committees were appointed: Classification—Frank Newbert, F. J. Ruhstaller, O. L. Stevens, H. J. Vetter, James Contell. Emblems and Banners—Gailey Graham, L. S. Upson, W. Maxwell. The Executive Committee will consist of the officers.

H. J. Vetter and O. Herold were awarded the club's gold medals for the two best scores of the year, twenty-five straight each. The club has a membership of over ninety, and is looking forward to the coming tournament of May 17th and 18th, hoping to win the championship of Northern California. A select committee has been appointed to "try out" a team and use its best endeavors to make Sacramento a winner.

Mr. S. A. Tucker, the well known representative of Parker Bros., Meriden, Conn., made his appearance on Sportsmen's Row this week. Mr. Tucker has paid an annual visit to this city for many years past and has a host of friends among the sportsmen.

The Golden Gate Gun Club will hold their regular monthly live bird shoot at Ingleside to-morrow.

San Francisco Bench Show.

The sixth annual bench show of the San Francisco Kennel Club opened on Wednesday morning with one of the best exhibits of dogs ever benched in this city. The two largest entries were in Greyhounds and Fox Terriers, both breeds showing up well in high quality, particularly the former. It would indeed be difficult to get together a finer lot of Greyhounds in the world.

Pointers and Setters were good. St. Bernards and Mastiffs are not up in numbers or quality to past shows.

Bostons are larger in number than heretofore, but not an overly high class, with a few exceptions. Collies are excellent, though not so numerous as we have seen at some past shows. Several of the dogs benched will go in any company. Foxhounds and Deerhounds are well represented and are good in type and substance.

The Field Trial Class is one that has met the highest encomiums of the sportsman who have attended the show.

Cockers in a separate and handsomely decorated section are numerous and good nearly all through. Bull-dogs were excellent and more of them shown here than at any past bench show on the Coast. Bull

JOHN DAVIDSON.

Terriers made a splendid showing with two of the best in the country and a lot of other good ones benched. The small breeds, pets, toys, terriers and miscellaneous, while not so many in numbers, made up in quality what they lacked in entries.

The judging went through expeditiously and without a hitch. The awards giving, with but few exceptions, general satisfaction.

The lack of transportation facilities, during the prevailing street railway strike, is most unfortunate. This state of affairs has militated against what would have been the largest bench show gate receipts in years. It is indeed hard luck for the club, after the systematic and persistent efforts and hard work of the management to make the show a success in every particular. Even under the handicap mentioned the attendance has been very good.

Among the out of town visitors we noticed were Julius Redelsheimer and George Tinto, of Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Albee, of Lawrence; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. R. Harker, of San Jose; Mr. and Mrs. Phil C. Meyer, of San Mateo; R. M. Dodge, of Stockdale Kennels, Bakersfield; Mrs. Thos. Murphy, owner of the Gabilan Kennels, Hollister; A. P. Vredenburg, of New York, Secretary of the A. K. C.; Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Carnochan, of New York.

Time and space before going to press prevents the more elaborate mention which the show is entitled to. A full report and list of awards will appear next week.

The faithfulness of a dog was illustrated by an incident which happened on the highway near Anderson, Shasta county, recently. The family from the Ogburn ranch had been to town, and on starting homeward a sealskin cape belonging to one of the ladies dropped to the road without being noticed. The handsome shepherd dog (Collie) that trotted behind the carriage saw the cape fall, and lay by it, though the family drove on. A passing teamster sought to rescue the cape, when the dog fought him furiously and drove him off. A neighbor who recognized the fur, and who also knew the dog, was kept at an equal distance. Even with a stick he could not even beat off the dog, and left the cape. Half a dozen persons tried during the afternoon with the same result. When darkness came the dog merely curled up on the fur and kept his eyes wide open. It was midnight when one of the family, journeying back in haste, picked up the cape and its faithful guardian.

Like all good things, Jackson's Napa Soda has dozen counterfeits. Watch out!

Sacramento Bench Show.

President Wm. Halley and Secretary Matt Coffey, of the California State Kennel Club, were in daily attendance at the S. F. K. C. show this week. Both gentlemen made a host of friends among the local fanciers and secured a good number of entries for the Sacramento show, which takes place on May 13, 14, 15 and 16. Entries will close on May 6th. Entries mailed on that date will be eligible. The show will be held under P. K. L. rules and should receive a good support from fanciers here and elsewhere. The more dog shows we have on the Coast and the heartier support they receive from fanciers, irrespective of affiliation with either A. K. C. or P. K. L. influences, the better will it be generally for doggy interests. The question as to which kennel government is to be in vogue on the Coast is entirely secondary to the initial requirement—and that is, for all sportsmen, fanciers and lovers of the dog to be in thorough accord and observe that the interests of one are the interests of all.

The judges selected are, J. J. Lynn, all Terriers. E. C. Plume, Cocker. Chas. N. Post, Setters and Pointers. Dr. Geo. W. Clayton all other classes.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

The famous old Ch. Warren Safeguard died recently. He was by Champion Venio out of Eggsford Sapphire and in his time has made history in Fox Terrier annals. He was not unknown on the Coast; several of his progeny have been potent factors among the sprightly breed here.

Portland fanciers have organized the Pacific Coast Dog Owners Protective Association. The object of the association is to protect owners against dog thieves and dog poisoners. Legislation for the protection of dog owners will be asked at the next session of the Washington Legislature.

The Collies Bonnie Doone, owned by Mrs. Judge Thomas of Seattle, the winner of three firsts; Laddie, owned by Alexander Grubb of Ballard, Wash., reserve in puppies, and Princess Ithya, owned by E. M. Williams of Seattle, first in puppy bitches, were all from a litter by Thos. S. Griffith's Imp. Lenzie Prince out of Heather Belle. This is a very good showing for the first litter on the Coast to the imported Scotch dog.

WHELPS

D. Williams' (Alameda) Bull Terrier bitch Newmarket Jean (Newmarket Duke-Edgewood Jean) whelped April —, 1902, five puppies (3 dogs) to S. Christenson's Woodcote Venom II. (Woodcote Venom-Torpedo).

Portland Bench Show.

The show in Portland last week was a success from start to finish. Entries numbered 286 and in quality were of a good standard all through. Mr. Fred Mansell of London, England, judged all classes. There was a little "hard kicking" at some of the decisions, but in the main Mr. Mansell's awards gave general satisfaction, particularly in the terrier classes.

The arrangements and management of the show was satisfactory to exhibitors and visitors alike, the exhibition was well attended and excellently conducted. The officers of the Portland Kennel Club are Dr. E. F. Tucker, president; J. A. Taylor, vice-president; W. B. Goldman, treasurer; W. W. Peaslee, secretary. F. B. Thorn, W. B. Fechheimer and E. House, board of directors and bench show committee, G. H. Fleming, superintendent and S. J. Carney, veterinary surgeon.

Complaints About Cartridges.

Sportsmen should not be too ready to lay complaints at the doors of their gunmakers or sporting goods dealers where ammunition supplied proves defective. Nor should they always believe that all eccentricities in the shell on the other hand can be placed to the account of the nitro compound now so universally used in them. There are many other causes besides these two—loading and powder—that may account for charges of shot sticking a few inches up the barrel, or occasional shells fizzling off with no more strength than is given by a popgun. For such faults the gunmaker and the powder or ammunition manufacturer too often get all the blame by sportsmen who do not stop to enquire or investigate into the real origin of the evil. The shells may have been badly loaded, they may have contained powder that by some cause had deteriorated, but the chances are very much against either occurrence. The manufacturers of all the nitro compounds take very great care and pains to ascertain that their products are beyond and above suspicion before they risk their reputations by sending them out. Loaded by a gunmaker, firm or dealer of standing, who take every precaution to use only the best materials and to pay good wages to experienced operators and loaders, there is small chance of a mistake on his part being at the bottom of the mischief when occurring. May not the want be found in the primer? Sporting opinion has now come round to the view that it very often is in that small but important part of the shell that the cause of annoyance by misfires and ineffective discharges is to be discovered. The burden borne by the manufacturer of primers just now is no light one, having to deal as he must with so many varieties of explosives, and so many varieties of caps required for each kind of powder. But even he may be guiltless of mistake, and the result of a thorough examination often is that the shell is all that it should be, but that the strikers of the gun have become worn down or loosened, so as to be unable to do their proper work in the ignition of the primers or caps.

Besides all these possible weaknesses with material daily used by every shooter, there are several others known to mechanical minds that may easily account for disappointment in the discharge of shells from a shotgun. But we have probably said enough to caution some sportsmen from flying readily to conclusions as to misfires and such mishaps in shooting. They are really incapable of thoroughly examining all the possible sources of error in the gun itself, or in the shells used in shooting with it, however well informed they may be, however much confidence they may have in their ability to decide such a technical question. It is, in short, almost impossible for the ordinary gunner to correctly decide off-hand that the powder, or the cap, or the gun, manufacturer is to blame for his annoyance by unexpected mishaps in the field. His only wise course where such occur is to send his gun to the maker of it, along with samples of the shells he is using, and ask him to investigate the cause of the failure and, if ascertained, to remedy it. It is only fair to all concerned that this course should be adopted before blame is cast upon the shells, their contents, or their construction.

In this respect we will say that we have rarely heard complaints made where Selby factory loaded shells, or Golcher hand loaded shells, were used and where Du Pont, Hazard, Shotgun Rifleite, "E. C.", Schultze or Ballistite Powder was used loaded in U. M. C. shells.

In this respect we will refer to a paragraph in the previous issue of this journal, on page 11, which briefly relates some causes of breech actions clogging. We have frequently seen guns used at the Ingleside trap grounds that showed in the muzzles of the barrels a fair number of unburned minute tablets of the smokeless powder used. Upon an examination of several guns these powder tablets could be plainly seen in several portions of the breech mechanism.

The Gun of the Future.

It seems scarcely credible in these days that only seventy-four years ago, within the possibility of remembrance of sportsmen now living, the renowned Colonel Hawker, the patron of Joe Manton, and the best of our early sporting writers, should have pronounced the fixed opinion that "the more shots I fire, the more I am persuaded that the flint gun shoots the strongest into the bird, and by far the easiest against the shoulder." Colonel Hawker had evidently at that time tried the new-fangled gun, as he imagined it, with the percussion cap on the nipple, and had decided against it, in his own mind as inferior to his old weapon, where flint and steel were the means of igniting the powder charge. What a change has the interval between then and now brought to the shooter, especially to the veteran sportsman whose memory is able to run back to the days of muzzle-loaders, with all their troublesome paraphernalia of powder-flask, shot-belt, caps, wads, and ramrods! To such experienced gun-lovers the thought must often come, as they load their hammerless, ejecting double-barrels with single triggers and automatic safeties, how greatly sportsmen are indebted to gunmaking skill for the enormous improvement wrought in the shotgun within the last half-century.

What the shotgun may have developed into when we come to the end of the next fifty years would be difficult to imagine, though we have heard some sportsmen hazard the guess that the game gun of the future is not unlikely to be found taking the form of a magazine automatic firearm, firing eight or ten cartridges without reloading. Other sportsmen, again, hold that they would not use such a weapon for game-shooting were it now put into their hands; that it would be certain to be a clumsy, unwieldy gun, that it would not be half as pleasant to shoot with as a present-day breechloader of the hammerless description, with ejecting mechanism of the best kind, automatic safeties and perhaps single-triggers. With such guns, they maintain, they can get as much pleasurable shooting as they desire, there being really nothing that they wish improved in their construction. The Americans have been developing the shotgun on magazine lines, but we do not find that their inventions in repeating guns have got the slightest hold upon the regard of English sportsmen, nor can we think for a moment that, as now made, they are ever likely to do so. But in this age of progress it is difficult to foresee what the future may contain for the gunner. The small cartridge, however unsuitable it may have proved for use in breechloaders that are not bored to fit it, indicates the line of progress that our ammunition of the future is most likely to take.

The reduction in size of the cartridge may have been retarded for some years by the unwisdom of its advocates in recommending the use of the short shell in guns for which it is absolutely unfitted and in which it might be dangerously destructive, but no one seems able to deny that the time will come when the size of the present game cartridge, along with the size of the chamber of the gun it is fired from, will be very much reduced. That seems to be the opinion most decidedly of those experts best qualified to judge as to what is likely to be the cartridge of the future. It is even entertained as a pious opinion of those manufacturers of gunpowder themselves who make a large income out of the present cartridge, but are prepared to meet such an eventuality as a decided change in sporting opinion favoring the reduction in size of sporting ammunition. That can only be effected by the concentration of the explosive used, and though concentrated explosives may have a decided set-back by the injudicious advocacy last year of their use in cases that, though small, have been guaranteed to suit all and every chamber in a 12-bore, there can be little doubt that, as times goes on, they will again progress in favor as guns are built and bored to suit smaller shells.

The reduction in size of the cartridge, then, which seems the certain line of progress in sporting ammunition would, to a certain extent, favor the popularity of a magazine shotgun. For if the cartridge can safely and effectively be reduced to two inches when used in a suitable gun, it may not be impossible to reduce its size still further until it reaches the point when to the number of eight or ten it would not take up magazine room to an extent that would inconvenience the shooter, or lead him to regard his gun as unwieldy and unsightly. We are looking at the matter, of course, purely from the shooter's point of view, without considering the mechanical difficulties that may have to be surmounted in any further improvements in our shotguns. But, as we have said, the improvements effected within the last half century could never have been dreamed of by sportsmen of the standing, for instance, of the famous Colonel Hawker, who knew almost as much about gunmaking as Joe Manton himself. How they would both have gasped with astonishment if a hammerless, ejecting, safety single trigger gun had been placed, seventy-five years ago, in their hands! They both then regarded the flint gun as the acme of perfection. May we not be equally blind as to what is to be the sporting gun of the future, and that future not seventy-five years ahead of us either. If a radical alteration does occur in the making of game guns in the future, it is very likely to be occasioned by an equal change in the explosives that are to be used in them.—Rod and Gun.

New Zealand Trout.

An interesting account of the trout found in the streams of New Zealand, their habits, etc., is given by "Tweedside" in the Auckland Weekly Press. The writer is evidently a devotee of the gentle art and tells the story of the acclimatized game fish in the antipodes in the style that anglers will appreciate.

Notwithstanding that the period extending from April 1st to September 30th is an off season with anglers, it is the most important in each year; and on its being more or less favorable to the trout spawning in their natural condition depends both the quantity and quality of the fish in our rivers, and also the pleasure and profit of anglers for several years following. Hitherto the literature dealing with trout acclimatized in New Zealand has dealt chiefly with catching them, while their more interesting habits during the close season have been rarely, or at least very meagerly, studied. But the perfect study of the spawning habits of the several species of salmonidae acclimatized in the creeks, lakes, and rivers would require much time and travel every year, yet it is the class of work requiring to be undertaken. For several years past I have been able to devote some time in each year to observing the spawning habits of trout in the Ashburton river, and in the lakes in the Public Domain. No previous year has been more favorable for such observations than the past, which is also a very successful spawning season. Owing to the chilly, damp summer, the trout at the close of the fishing season, April 15th, were in a forward breeding condition, and exhibited signs of spawning fully a month earlier than in former years. Throughout the month of May and until June 15th, we experienced a return of almost summer weather, which materially checked the breeding instinct, and caused the fish to retreat into, and remain concealed, in the stronger currents and deeper pools. A few cold nights, with light S.W. wind, nearly reaching the freezing point, induced many medium sized fish to run into the smaller streams and ripples in search of spawning grounds. On the 20th and two following days 2,008 inches of rain, with sleet, fell at Ashburton, followed by hard frosts, which continued more or less severe until the 20th of July. Owing to the long spell of dry weather before the rain, the river rose very little, but soon subsided, and the water cleared. Since the rain the natural conditions necessary to assure successful trout spawning have been perfect. On July 12th many of the medium sized fish of both sexes, and of several species, were clean spawned, at which time they are generally wretchedly thin, and in a somewhat pitiable condition. A microscopical examination of some ova collected on several occasions on their spawning beds showed it to be healthy and fertile and fully developed.

The spawning of fish is a remarkable phenomenon in the economy of Nature. In order to study perfectly the spawning habits of fish, especially the salmonidae, the water must be clear, or nearly so. Great care is necessary in approaching, or when moving or standing near the spawning beds to avoid disturbing them. In the Ashburton river they spawn on very different sites, and in various depths of water, and are to be observed daily in the season when the water and weather are suitable. The several species inhabiting the river differ somewhat in the time and their habits of spawning.

The California salmon trout is the first to spawn. If the river be low and clear in the months of May and June, most of the larger fish of all the species remain concealed in deep water, but some may frequently be seen leaving their daily resort about 4 o'clock or later, and slowly working their way up the streams in search of suitable sites on which to form their spawning beds. The greater number of these beds are selected near the bottom of the deeper ripples, where the water widens out on the clean shingle, and frequently in the ripples. The larger fish of each species spawn at the bottom of the ripples near where the water is deep, into which they dart when disturbed. The medium sized and smaller fish generally run up the smaller streams, a favorite site for them being where two streams meet and produce a rippling eddy, which they instinctively know assists to conceal them. The mimetic resemblance, or close assimilation of their semi-transparent colors to the water, and their surroundings, also afford them much protection. For a week before they commence spawning they may be seen forming long pits in the shingle by a rocking movement of the body and a vigorous scooping action of the tail. When thus engaged they often lie quite over on their side, and show their silvery underparts. On sites where the shingle is deep and clean, and the fish numerous, they move and ridge up enormous quantities of it while forming the spawning beds. As the breeding instinct develops, and the fish assemble on the chosen sites, the males frequently fight and dash fiercely after each other. On the 8th of July last year I captured a three-pounder male brown trout fleeing before a larger individual, which chased him into shallow water, and almost ashore. He was in prime condition, and had a fresh wound just behind the pectoral fin. I observed the milt to be in a slightly immature condition and immediately returned it to the deep stream. The fish occasionally caught by anglers having healed scars and wounds on various parts of their body are generally males, their wounds being the effects of encounters between rival suitors during the amorous season. In their natural state the habits of fish are much more difficult to study and work out perfectly than when they are confined in small ponds, living in a partly domesticated condition. The student would require to spend every favorable day on the river, and be a keen and accurate observer to be able to work out and record perfectly every detail in the interesting habits of trout during the spawning season; more especially when several species and several distinct hybrids are present. The question, however, of hybridization and hybrids in the acclimatized salmonidae I leave for a future article.

The temperature of the water in the different rivers must be the chief factor in regulating the spawning season of trout. In the Ashburton, Ophi and Selwyn rivers the fish spawn earlier than they do in the colder glacier streams of the Rakai, Rangitike and Waikariri. Last year I saw two female brown trout brought from the mouth of the Rakai in the second week of October, which were too poor to kill and eat, and which unquestionably had not spawned more than a month before their capture. I cannot, however, discuss the matter perfectly, as I have had few opportunities of observing the habits of trout in these rivers. When the pits are scooped out by the fish in the shingle ready to receive the spawn, the male and female fish lie close together on their bottoms, meanwhile swaying gently together with the action of the water. The clean, loose shingle is raised into heaps and ridges behind them, into which both the milt and ova collect. When the ova are deposited they instantly come in contact with and absorb the milt, which enters the sperm tube and impregnates the germ; but a prodigious number of ova from almost every spawned female must perish annually from non-impregnation. The best method of obtaining the ova for examination is to lift the shingle containing it carefully in a bucket, and spread it out gently on the sand shore. If the process is repeated from the third week in July to the second in September, the ova may be obtained illustrating all stages of development, onward to young fry. During an afternoon spent in the middle of July at the mouth of the Ashburton river I observed some magnificent sea trout and other species busily engaged spawning in the deeper streams. The fish appeared to be in remarkably fine condition, and had worked out and ridged up enormous quantities of shingle. After depositing a number of ova they perform several backward and forward movements, meanwhile making a vigorous use of their tail, covering them in the shingle. When the young fry appear and become numerous in September and October Nature provides them with abundant nourishing food in the form of minute flies, which hatch out and swarm in myriads on the surface of the stiller and shallower pools, into which the fry repair and subsist on them. These dense swarms of minute flies are familiar to all observant anglers as they rise from the damp sandy margins of the pools.

In regard to the Loch Leven trout spawning in the Ashburton river, I regret that, owing to its rarity, I have not been able to observe its habits in the spawning season. My opinion is that it is the last species to spawn. Five years ago I caught a female two-pounder in the middle of October, and again two years ago I caught another similar fish, both of which were apparently quite recently spawned. They were both extremely thin and soft-fleshed, and were at once returned to the water. These somewhat "slabby," long-bodied fish do not appear to be fit for the table until the months of February and March, when they are of excellent quality.

The habits of the acclimatized salmonidae offer an exceptionally fine field to young anglers for original observations. Extremely little is known of their habits in the great glacier rivers of the colony, and also of the giants inhabiting the larger lakes. It invariably seems to me regrettable that so few youths and young men fail to adopt the delightful and health giving sport of angling, and the study of fish.

A petition is being circulated throughout the northern portion of Orange county by A. Barrows, requesting the Board of Supervisors to enact a county ordinance, providing for a penalty of $500 or six months in the County Jail, for every person who shall draw any sort of net or seine in the waters of Orange county within 200 feet of any pier or wharf. The petition does not preclude the taking of small fish for bait. The petition will be presented to the Supervisors in the near future.

Beach and surf fishing has been one of the attractions down South. The rod and line men find their only, or most available, vantage point upon the few wharves located there. The market fishermen get the best results near the piers, consequently there is a clash of interests, which the anglers desire to obviate by the enactment of county legislation.

The California Fish Commission reports the conviction before Justice Hill at Truckee last Friday of Geo. Danner and Ed Teeters, who offered trout under weight for sale. Both men pleaded guilty and were fined $30 each. L. F. Lea, a deputy in Lake county, arrested Ed Siebert and Lee Yark yesterday morning for spearing trout at Upper Lake. The men went before Judge Green, pleaded guilty and paid $20 each into the public treasury.

At the office of the Commission in this city there was exhibited this week a fine specimen of Loch Leven trout, eleven inches long, taken from Independence lake. This choice game fish was introduced into California waters by the Commission and has so multiplied that it now fairly swarms in the waters of the lake.

A good story is told on Secretary W. J. Street of the California Inanimate Target Association. The genial William is as good a shot with the camera as he is with the gun. On a recent outing trip he, with his companions, dined at the leading hotel of an interior city. Passing into the dining-room they gave their hats in charge of a hat boy. After dining, the Secretary, upon leaving the dining-room was banded his hat by the polite and fee expecting attendant.

"Is that my hat?" severely questioned Street.

"Yessah!" answered Smoke.

"How do you know," further interrogated Street,

"that this is my hat?"

"Well, sah! I dunno whether its yo' hat or not, but I does know its de hat yo' wore when you come in heah!"

The Sportsmen's Review states that at the recent shoot at Kansas City Phil Bekeart, of Frisco, had an interested crowd about him on the first day of the G. A. H., while he told some "tall" goose shooting stories. They may have been "tall," but Phil knows a good story when he sees it and he can tell one, too.

A company backed by New York capital has obtained options on $30,000 acres of the finest grazing land in Cuba and will embark in the extensive raising of cattle for export to the Atlantic ports of the United States.

The noted Guernsey cow Mary Marshall, the leader in the model dairy at the Pan-American Exposition, has been sold by her breeder and owner, Ezra Michener, of Pennsylvania, for $1000 to Albert C. Loring, of Minnesota, who is starting a herd of Guernseys.

As the profit of a dairy herd depends very largely upon the milk flow and this in turn hinges upon the feed, we see that feed plays an important part in making dairying a success. Still another important factor is that we should use as much as possible of the feed that may be grown on the farm, because when we buy feed we pay for transportation, handling and a margin of profit to him from whom we buy.

Alfalfa for Feed.

In nearly all parts of the irrigated west, feeds which are rich in protein can be grown and this is the element that we want most of all. It is the basis of the value of all feed and especially desirable for the dairy cow as carbonaceous food would tend to make too much fat. Take for example alfalfa, the great drouth-resisting crop, which contains 10.6 per cent protein, 37.3 per cent carbohydrates and 1.4 per cent fat. Compare it with timothy hay which contains only 2.9 per cent protein, 43.7 per cent carbohydrates and 1.4 per cent of fat. We find that they contain nearly the same amount of carbonaceous food but alfalfa contains over three times as much protein. So much for the theoretical side of alfalfa as a feed for dairy cows. We would not think of going into the dairy business without alfalfa, and it is bound to hold its own against all comers as the most economical, all-around dairy provender the world has ever known.

The wool clip of 1902 will go to market under the same old circumstances. Supplies of old wool are not heavy and prices, while not high, are considered fair for the gold standard. They do not occupy their present position as a result of wild speculation or recent tariff changes or any other old thing aside from the usual conditions of supply and demand as prescribed by the mill trust. The market is not inflated, it is not overloaded and is not likely to be so in the near future.

Entries to early closing events close Thursday, May 1, 1902, when nominations must be made and accompanied by first installment of entrance fee. Horses must be named July 1. In the late closing events horses must be nominated and entry paid August 1.

On payment of one entrance fee nominators will be allowed to name two horses only in same class; and the horse that is to start must be named at 7 P. M. the night before the race. In case where two horses are named as one entry, from the same stable, and any horses that have been separated from the stable from which they were originally named, and such separation made according to rule, they shall be eligible to start in the race if the forfeits falling due after said separation have been met according to conditions, upon the payment of forfeits which fell due before said separation. All forfeits are payable in cash, on or before the date specified. No credit extended. Horses may be declared out any time, but declaration must be mailed to the Secretary in writing, and to be valid must be accompanied by amount due (if any) on such entry. Upon such declaration being received the subscription is forfeited, the horse ineligible to start and the nominator released from further liability. No return of any payment on account of death of horse, but the death of the nominator will not make void his entry.

The Fastest Son of Guy Wilkes

Will make the Season of 1902 at

Lakeville, Sonoma Co., Cal.

SEYMOUR WILKES earned his record in a hard fought race and was a game race horse. The oldest of his get are five-year-olds, and no horse in California can show a greater proportion of large, handsome, strongly built and well-boned colts. They all look alike and in nearly every instance are square trotters. The only one that has been trained is Joe Eviston (3-2-33 in 1901).

SEYMOUR WILKES is by Guy Wilkes his dam Early Bird by Playmail; second dam by Odd Fellow, third dam by a son of Williamson's Belmont, fourth dam by Blackhawk 767. He weighs 1200 pounds, stands 16 hands high and is one of the most symmetrical horses in California. Several of his get are in San Francisco and will be shown to prospective breeders with pleasure.

Terms for the Season, $40. Mares not proving in foal can be returned next year by paying $10 additional. Mares can be shipped direct to ranch, via steamer Gold. Pasturage $3 per month. For further particulars apply to THOS. ROCHE, Lakeville, Sonoma Co., or J. W. GREGORY, St. George Stables, 408 Bush street, San Francisco.

RECORD 2:11½. By STAMBOUL 5101, a trotting and show king; dam, Belle Medium 2:30, a great brood mare by Happy Medium, sire of the great all-around mare, Nancy Hanks 2:04, and other great ones; second dam by the handsome sire Almont Lightning (sire of the dam of Zombro 2:11 and other great all-in-all animals, both on the turf and in the show rings; third dam by that sire of game, sound, handsome animals, Mambrino Patchen 58; fourth dam by that speed producing sire, Mambrino Chief 11; fifth dam by that stylish and long distance racing horse, Mason's Whip.

STAM B. is a fine and substantial upstanding bay, 15.3 hands tall, weighs 1100 pounds, and now rightly ranks among the most promising young sires of the land. That he is now in public service in California is a fact for which breeders may be grateful. He is already proving a sire of speed and gameness, together with size, superb style and high action, transmitting these qualities to every foal regardless of dam. He is acknowledged by all who have seen him to be very near the real and ideal race horse and all-around sire. His racing qualities were beyond criticism, and all close observers know that in his blood are represented the kings and queens of the trotting turf and show rings.

Terms for the Season, $40.

MONTEREY 31706

PEDIGREE IN PART.

Sired by SIDNEY 2:19½, sire of 17 in the 2:15 list, 7 better than 2:12, 3 better than 2:10, and Lenna N. 2:05½ (champion record), and 96 in the charmed circle. Hattie dam of Monterey, is by that great sire of broodmares, Com. Belmont 430, son of Alexander Belmont 64, sire of Nutwood 2:18½. Barona, his second dam, is by Woodford's Mambrino 2:21½, and his third dam, Miss Gratz, by Alexander Norman 25, sire of Lula 2:15, fourth dam by Gray Eagle, thoroughbred. His blood lines are of the choicest, and his wonderful speed has justly come to him. He is a grand stallion to look at; he has size and conformation to make him what he is—a king among stallions. His first crop of foals, two years old now, are very promising, as Walter S. Maben writes me as follows:

"I worked the Monterey two-year old to-day, March 26th, a half in 1:16, first quarter in 0:40½, last eighth in 17 seconds, so you see he can step some and has but little work. He can trot faster than any colt I ever saw and do it easier."

Maben also writes that the Monterey colts are all fine, big, good-looking colts, and look to him (Maben) to be the real thing for stake winners. It will not be long before the breeders will be breeding to Monterey at a much larger fee than his present price. One thing is sure, it is hard for a stallion to work himself up without the support of the breeders, and yet I don't think that the cranks can keep him down, for if he reproduces himself the foals will be of such high class that the public cannot overlook them. Nowadays colts must be game to win big purses, and on this score I am on top, and speed also. Monterey will make this season, 1902,

Entrance money paid in for stallions and added moneys shall be divided 60% to the end for trotting colts and 40% to the end for pacing colts. No nominator allowed to start more than one colt in either end.

The nominator of any colts shall on May 1, 1905, then declare as to the trotting or pacing end he desires to start his colts. All moneys paid in on colts transferred to the pacing division shall be segregated and placed to the credit of the pacing stake, and all other payments shall be placed to the credit of the trotting stake.

All payments not made as they become due declares entry out and releases subscriber from further liability.

Hoppies barred in both classes. Mile heats, three in five.

Nominator of the sires of the winning colts in each end to receive $250, to be deducted from the money added by the Society and the money paid in as entrance on stallions, balance of the stakes and added money to be divided 50, 25, 15 and 10%.

Right reserved to declare two starters a walk-over, for stakes paid in only.

When only two start they may contest for all entrance money paid in, not heretofore provided for, to be divided 66% per cent to the winner and 33% per cent to the second horse. A horse distancing the field in either class shall be entitled to all moneys paid in and 25% only of the money added by the Society, not heretofore provided for.

Open to all stallions that have made private or public service in any of the following States: California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Idaho, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Nevada and Arizona during the season of 1901.

No entry will be accepted except under this condition: That all disputes that may arise in regard to the conditions or contest of this race shall be settled by the Board of Directors of the California State Agricultural Society, or those whom they may appoint, and their decision shall be final.

Remember, the NEW DATE of Closing for Stallions is MAY 1, 1902.

THE GARDEN CITY, as San Jose is rightly called, never bore the appellation more worthily than at the present time. Flowers are blooming in every door yard in such profusion that the air is redolent with perfume and the eye is delighted at every turn with all the colors of the spectrum in all their shades and variations. Fruit trees have mostly shed their blossoms and the heavy green foliage is rapidly hiding the limbs from sight. There is an air of prosperity all through the beautiful Santa Clara valley this year, as there is in every section of this glorious State. A brief visit to the track and grounds of the Santa Clara Agricultural Association last Saturday led me to believe that those horsemen are wise who seek it for a training place, as there are few as good mile tracks anywhere as this one at San Jose. It is being kept in good shape this year, but on the day of my visit was a rather slow one, as a heavy rain had fallen the day before and the harrows had cut pretty deep that morning.

Just as I reached the track I saw three horses going round the first turn and was told that they were Thos. R. 2:15, driven by Fred Bunch, Vic Shellar 2:15½, driven by Van Bokelen and Boodle Boy 2:29½ in the hands of "Farmer" Bunch, father of the young man first named. Thos. R. and Vic Shellar were moving very nicely but the big, black Boodle stud was mixing and skiving, finally striking a clean pace and going three-quarters of the mile at that gait, although he took his record trotting and is being trained at that gait. The Iran Alto and Hambletonian Wilkes geldings made the mile in 2:21½ finishing very close together, Boodle Boy being several lengths back and pacing the mile in about 2:27. When I was told he had about 16 ounces on each front foot, put there to make him trot, I concluded that Boodle would have a fast pacer to his credit if the "Farmer" would take off that weight and put the big fellow to work at the lateral gait. All these horses will probably be raced in California this year, Thos. R. and Vic Shellar being excellent prospects as money getters in the 2:15 class.

A very promising candidate for the Occident Stake this year is C. A. Durfee's little colt Quate, which is Spanish for twin. He is one of a pair by McKinney 2:11½, produced by the fast and handsome little Gossiper mare Miss Jessie 2:13½, and the only foals she ever had. Quate was not much larger than a good sized lamb when foaled, but the other was much larger and nearly up to average size. Quate was alive and kicking however while his brother never stood up. Quate is now 14 3 hands high, and all horse. He trots like a colt that thinks trotting is his regular business, and is one of the best gaited and most level headed youngsters ever hitched up. Durfee gave him two heats Saturday, one in 2:40, another in 2:36, and then went out to work a third in 2:40 again. Quate went to the half at the proper gait, but was feeling good and wanted to go faster. A big white butterfly flew in his face on the far turn and he broke. His driver caught him quickly, however, and let him step along. He finished the mile in 2:34, last quarter in 35 seconds, a pretty good gait for a colt that has been worked a very few times this year and has a belly on him that his owner wants to remove before he moves him fast. Durfee has never yet won an Occident or a Stanford Stake though the McKinneys have been very prominent in several, getting all three moneys in the Occident one year I believe.

While waiting for the Bunches and Van to come out for another workout, I noticed a big bay pacer come on to the track at the gate on the first turn and as she swerved first to the inner fence and then to the outer, seemingly opposed to being driven the reverse way of the track, I recognized Miss Logan 2:06½ with her owner, Dr. Boucher, behind her. "Shall I go up the stretch and turn her for you, Doctor?" called Tom James to him as he passed. The Doctor nodded assent and Mr. James started off, but his assistance was not needed as the Maid took it into her head to act nicely, and when she reached the hundred yards pole swung around quietly and scored down as if she was in an actual race and wanted to win it. Under restraint all the way she reached the three-quarter pole in 1:42 and then was given her head. She paced the last quarter in just 30 seconds flat, over a deep track that was not suited to a pacer at all that day. If ever a man was possessed with that patience that Job fixed the standard for, it is Dr. Boucher, and by it, coupled with plenty of intelligence and common sense, he made Miss Logan a big money winner and gave her a very fast record. Not one trainer in a hundred would have had the patience to get her to one race. She went lame two years ago, and it is doubtful whether the location of the trouble has been correctly located yet. She was blistered and fired in the shoulder but the lameness would return. Now it is thought to be navicular and has been treated as such. She showed a very slight favor to the ailing limb after her workout Saturday. She was given three heats that day, all below 2:15, as I was told by a gentleman who was holding a watch on the horses as they worked.

T. W. Barstow, the well known San Jose veterinary dentist, was on the track with his swift going, bay pacing mare, Alone by Nearest 2:22½ full brother to John A. McKerron 2:06½ matinee record to wagon. While Alone wears the Indiana pajamas, she moves like one that could dispense with these gait assisters and show a fast mile bare legged. She is four years old, stands 16.1, and has substance and quality as well. Look out for her when the bell rings. Nearest, or Wilkes Direct as he is best known to horsemen, is a big horse himself and breeds large. Mr. Barstow showed me two stud colts by him out of a chestnut mare that he purchased at the Corbett sale. This mare is by Prince Airlie and her dam is Minnie Princess by Nutwood, second dam by Paul's Abdallah, third dam a thoroughbred by Langford. Unfortunately this mare who is but five years old is blind from an accident but she has raised one colt by Nearest and has another at foot. Both are as fine specimens as one would want to see. Mr. Barstow was offered a thousand dollars for the yearling last winter, by an Eastern man, but declined the offer as he wanted to keep him to succeed Nearest in the stud. Had he known, however, that the mare's present foal was to be a colt, he would have accepted the offer. Mr. Barstow is handling the pacer Fredericksburg 2:12 for the races this year and likes him very well. He thinks he will be a good one in his class. The "lager beer" horse is certainly looking well and has filled out amazingly since he was campaigned two years ago. A three year old by Nearest out of the dam of Claudius 2:13½, is being trained by Mr. Barstow, and is a very large and handsome filly.

One of the fast green ones at San Jose is Motanic, son of Chehalis 2:04½, and owned by the well known San Francisco politician and wool merchant, John Wise. Motanic is being handled by W. H. Williams of Montana, who located in San Jose two years ago on account of the excellent schools and fine climate. Motanic looks like a Kentucky colonel's saddle horse in style and travels with head and tail up. He is game, but is a high strung fellow and they say is subject to car fright when traveling and does not eat enough to keep strong. He has speed to burn, however, and if he gets over his dislike to railroads and the frequent change of quarters necessary to taking in the circuit, he might get a name and record for himself, and earn some money in the green classes this year. The horse and Mr. Williams seem to understand one another very well.

J. W. Gordon, who has seven or eight trotters and pacers in his string, worked a big bay pacer by Almont Patchen a mile in 2:31 while I was at the track and did not seem to be driving very hard to get around that fast. This horse is green as grass but is such a big fellow and has such a stride that his speed is not so apparent unless one holds a watch. Mr. Gordon's Silver Bow stallion, Silver Arrow, is doing stud duty and taking a little work every day. He is looking fine and has some good looking colts and fillies around San Jose.

Tom James has twenty-three mares booked to Barondale 2:11½ and the horse has been mated with about half of them up to date. The colts are much later than usual this year in nearly every section of California. Owners did not get fully awake to the scarcity of young horses until late in the spring of 1901, consequently did not book their mares early last year. Several of the most popular stallions in California made the heaviest part of last year's season after the first of June, and the crop of May colts this year will be large. Barondale never looked better, Mr. James says, than now, and he is certainly a good looking stallion. With his great breeding, being one of the most fashionably bred horses in America, he is a snap at $40. He ought to have not less than seventy-five mares this year and they should be extra good ones. I want to predict right now that Miss Logan's foal of next year by him will be a 2:05 or better horse the first year of its campaign. This is predicting a long ways ahead. Miss Logan is a producer of great speed already and Barondale is the best bred horse she has so far been mated with, and is a fast one himself. Her first foal, Harry Logan by the obscure horse Harry Gear, has a record of 2:12½; her only other foal, by Colbert 2:07½, is but 23 months old, but can pace a 2:16 gait already, and when she drops a foal by Barondale look out for two-minute speed. It is bound to come.

Up to the present time, there has never been a real satisfactory picture of McKinney 2:11½ taken. "Irish," as owner Durfee always calls him when addressing his talk directly to the stallion, seems to have no more respect for a camera than he has for a cloud in the sky. When led out to enable the manipulators of plates and developers to take a shot at him, it has generally been impossible to make the mighty son of Aleyone realize the fact that he should look the king he is. I have seen him stand with his head out as far as he could get it, champing his bit while the patient photographer waited long for a chance to get him in a position that would look well in a photograph. Sometimes he would hold his head too high and again it would be too low, his delicate open nostrils sniffing the air aloft or the dust beneath his feet. I took a half dozen shots at him Saturday with a small camera and believe I got one good one. The readers of the B. & S. will have a chance to look at it next week and I think they will say it is the nearest like the champion 2:15 sire of any photo heretofore made. He is looking as well as ever in his life and is getting his mares in foal in nearly every instance at the first service. No horse in America, thoroughbred or trotter, has a shorter back and at the same time stands over as much ground with his legs under him as McKinney. He knows as much as a human, and like the vast majority of great horses and great men, does not seem at all conscious of his superiority over the common herd. Stallions that cannot trot a mile in three minutes, that have never yet nor never will sire a 2:15 performer, can put on more style in a minute than McKinney can with a year's training, but there is about him something that denotes power, greatness and majesty that few horses ever possess. Get him interested and he shows it, but the little ordinary affairs of life have little in them for him to give more than a passing notice. He has a very choice lot of mares this year and his book is full.

A caller at the office of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN this week was Robert Leighton, of the Vancouver Jockey Club, who came down the coast for the purpose of inducing horse owners here to race on the North Pacific circuit. Mr. Leighton had but a short time at his disposal, but there will be three or four carloads of runners headed north pretty soon, as a result of his visit here. While here he told me some interesting particulars of the sale of the little black pacer Freddie C. 2:14½, now known as Prince Direct. Mr. Sturgis, of New York, who owns Dan Patch 2:04½, was talking with Myron McHenry a few months ago in regard to securing a horse for the "slow pacing classes," as they call the side wheel events of 2:09 or slower over East, and finally decided to send a trusted representative to San Francisco to purchase Sir Albert S. 2:08½. Mr. Lawrence, the gentleman intrusted with this mission, had a talk with McHenry prior to departure and in the course of the conversation the latter said: "There is a little black son of Direct out there in Seattle that showed pretty well in the Pacific Coast summaries last year. Look him over; if he looks like his sire make an offer for him, as I like Direct and those of his get that look like him." When Mr. Lawrence reached Seattle he called on the Clancy Brothers and was shown Freddie C. He said he thought he was looking at the old horse through the big end of a field glass. He asked the price and was told $8500. After a little talk the five hundred was knocked off, a check written for the balance, and Freddie C. is now being trained by McHenry and is entered all along the big line under the name of Prince Direct, which change cost Mr. Sturgis just $50. Mac likes him very well, but had Mr. Lawrence not gone to Seattle Sir Albert S. would very likely be under McHenry's care.

Here's a chance for big money.

The California—$2000 for trotters of the 2:27 class.

The race will come off at the Breeders fall meeting this year.

Kelly Briggs 2:10½ is in training at the Sacramento race track.

It has been settled that Anaconda 2:01½ will be trained by John Dickerson this year.

W. G. Durfee worked his big stallion, Petigru, a mile in 2:12½ at Los Angeles last week.

Miss Logan 2:06½ worked a mile in 2:12, last quarter in 30 seconds, at San Jose last Saturday.

Gen. B. F. Tracy has recovered from his illness, and is seen driving in the parks every pleasant day.

Napa will give a dozen purses for harness horses, ranging from $500 to $800 each. This is liberal.

Vance Nuckols has the material in his stable for as good a string of racehorses as ever came down the line.

The Mendocino county fair made a profit last year without drawing its appropriation from the State.

John Splan and Warren Lewis have joined forces for the purpose of conducting horse sales at Detroit.

Margaretta 2:12½ is in Sam Hoy's string at Sacramento and will be made ready for the California circuit.

The Sacramento Driving Club will hold a matinee during the street fair which opens in that city May 12th.

Monroe Salisbury will leave in a day or two for Salt Lake with a carload of driving horses that he will offer for sale there.

At Cleveland, it is believed that if John A. McKerron trains on as he did last year he will trot a mile to wagon better than 2:05½.

A match race is to be decided over the track at Everett, Washington, to-day between Kittitas Ranger 2:11½ and Maplemont 2:21½.

San Jose will soon announce several purses for its July meeting. Secretary Main says the association will get out of debt this year.

Village Farm lately priced Dandy Chimes at $10,000. When Ed Geers heard of it he wrote to the farm to ask that the horse be not sold.

Woodland will hang up over $6000 in purses for harness horses this year. The program is now being made up by Secretary Thomas.

Dr. Weldon of Sacramento has put his mare Elevator 2:30 by Don Marvin in training again and she looks like a good one for the slow classes.

Ed Parker brought back with him from Los Angeles a young pacing horse of the Hal family that is quite fast. He is owned by a Los Angeles gentleman.

The most successful breeders of trotting stock aim to keep their very best mares to raise foals from. It will pay the small breeder to follow their example.

The colt by Zombro 2:11 out of the dam of Stam B. 2:11½ is over sixteen hands high and is a good trotting prospect. He has a nice way of going for a big three year old.

Bell Bird, Hi Hogoboom's handsome daughter of Electioneer and Beautiful Bells has foaled a nice bay filly by Iran Alto 2:12½ and has been bred to Nutwood Wilkes 2:16½.

The Los Angeles Driving Club has 213 members and nearly every member will drive a horse or pair in the parade this afternoon at the Fiesta matinee at the Los Angeles track.

The Pleasanton Training Track Company are sinking a new well at the track and will make an earnest effort to have all the water necessary to keep the track in good condition.

About twenty-five horses are being worked at the half-mile track at Hanford, Kings county. Nearly all are green horses. The trainers are Walton, Eddy, Morris and Depoister.

Reta H., the four year old mare by McKinney that Sam Hoy bred and owns, is one of the best green pacing prospects in California. She shows lots of speed and has a very attractive way of going.

Woodland will give a Sacramento Day during its fair this year and will make a race for horses owned and driven by members of the Sacramento Driving Club, one of the features of the day's sport.

Charles Clancy, of Seattle, son of the late Thos. Clancy, who owned the pacer Freddie C. 2:14½, has been in California for the past week looking for a good trotting or pacing prospect for the North Pacific circuit.

Silver Coin, the Steinway colt out of Jennie Mac 2:09 by McKinney 2:11½, negotiated a quarter in 29½ seconds at the Los Angeles track last week. He is well entered in the big pacing stakes on the Grand Circuit.

Fred Raschen of Sacramento is the owner of a mare by Diablo 2:09½ out of Swift Bird by Waldstein that is trotting better than a forty clip under Hi Hogoboom's guidance, and is headed straight for a 2:20 or better record this year.

Will B. White has decided to retain Star Pointer 1:59½ at the Two-Minute Stock Farm, Rockport, and will not send him to Kentucky as at first intended. The champion pacer will be in the stud as will also a son of Guy Wilkes.

J. E. Brennan of San Lorenzo purchased a handsome mare by Teheran from the Sharon estate last week. Worth Ober has been handling the mare, with several others by the same horse, at Pleasanton for the past few weeks.

John Pender has named his three year old filly Lady Jones by Captain Jones in the 2:24 trot at the Oregon State Fair. He thinks she has the speed and staying qualities to compete against aged horses in this stake and get some of the money.

"Jo" Bowers, mine host of the Capital Hotel at Sacramento was in the city last week and reports that his handsome, big five year old Glide by Silver Bee, is as fast as a ghost this year. Look out for a low mark for this fellow if he keeps right.

Carrol Hayford of Sacramento is the owner of two fast two year olds by Stam B. that are about as handsome as any colts in California. They have had hardly any work but can show a 2:40 clip already. Stam B. will be a great sire of beauty and speed, and nearly all his get will be trotters.

The big two thousand dollar stake for 2:18 class pacers at the Oregon Fair received 22 entries, of which Washington furnished ten, Oregon seven, Montana and California two each, and Canada one. The horse-men of the webfoot State should be ashamed of themselves to allow the Washingtonians to beat them.

Sam Hoy, the Winters horseman, has moved his string of trotters and pacers to the Sacramento track. He has Kelly Briggs 2:10½, Margaretta 2:14½, Reta H., a very fast green pacing mare by McKinney out of the dam of Brilliantine 2:17; Demopio, a full brother to Diablo, and a black three year old pacer belonging to Ben Rush, of Suisun.

George Wilkes raced first under the name of Robert Fillingham in 1861. The following year under the same name he beat Ethan Allen in a $5000 match race. In 1865 he appeared under the name of George Wilkes, and it was under that name that he made a harness record of 2:22, a wagon record of 2:25, and a pole record with Ethan Allen of 2:28.

Superintendent F. W. Covey left for Cleveland last Tuesday morning with three carloads of two year olds for the Cleveland Blue Ribbon sale. The Fasig-Tipton Company never had a finer lot of youngsters catalogued than these from Palo Alto. They should bring good prices as they represent the very acme of scientific breeding. We wish several of the young studs could be brought back to California for stud duties.

Coxey 2:13 died in New York two weeks ago. He was eight years old and one of the purest gaited, most level headed and handsomest horses ever driven over New York's famous speedway. Mr. E. E. Smathers purchased him for $1500 and although Coxey was not sound, expected to mark him close to 2:05 this year. He was by Judge Cox 2:23½. It was Mr. Smathers' intention to race Coxey this year on the Grand Circuit.

In securing the match between The Abbot and Lord Derby Secretary McCully has secured the star attraction of the year, and as both horses are owned in New York it should prove a greater drawing card than even the match between Cresceus and The Abbot did last season, and that event attracted the biggest crowd ever seen at the Brighton Beach track for any occasion, not even barring the star events of the running track that occur there.

The Aptos Farm horses were shipped from the farm last Tuesday in charge of Sandy Smith and will reach Cleveland by the 5th or 6th of May. Mr. Spreckels was highly pleased with the condition the horses were all in, and if no accident happens them is confident they will please the Eastern horsemen when Sandy shows them on the track before the sale. There are as many good lookers and fast ones in this consignment as were ever shipped to a sale from one farm, and they should bring good prices.

Golden Gate Park Driving Club will give a grand matinee at the Oakland track, May 30th. There will be four races, one for the 2:40 class for horses that have never raced and a 2:30 class and a 2:20 class. These races, as is the club's custom, will be arranged so that horses will be classified according to their present speed capabilities instead of by their records. In addition to these events the Frank O'Kane Challenge Cup race will be given. This race has never been won twice in succession by the same member, but there has always been a great rivalry for its possession and the race this year promises to have a greater entry than ever.

Now that the trotting rules permit three races to be "sandwiched" at once, the horses, it is said, will not be called at the Readville meeting this season until 2:30 P. M. Heretofore, under the old rule of only two races on at once, and all horses allowed to compete for five heats, it has been necessary to start at 1 o'clock and in some instances as early as 12:30. The plan of sending non-heat winners to the stable at the end of the third heat, with the new "sandwich" rule referred to, will, Secretary Jewett believes, enable the program to be cleared up by 6 o'clock or sooner. It is also said that Mr. Jewett is considering the plan of offering some dash races this season at distances around a mile.

The Board of Directors of the Hollister Association have claimed the date for holding the annual fair from Wednesday, October 1st to 4th, inclusive. This will immediately follow the Oakland meeting. The association has established a two year old and a three year old stake for trotting colts owned in Monterey, San Benito, Ventura and Santa Barbara counties to be decided at the fair this fall. The conditions are entrance $50, with $50 added by the association. Entries close May 15th, the first payment being $10. The second payment of $15 is due July 1st, and third payment of $25 due ten days before day of race. The two year old event will be mile heats, best two in three, the three year old stake best three in five.

Those who have seen the two year old sister of Nico 2:08½ take her work at the Readville track, are of the opinion that neither the $10,000 filly by Ponce de Leon, nor the $4000 Miss Todd, has any the best of the daughter of Arion for the two year old events this year, if Mr. Forbes decides to start her in the stakes this season. She is a remarkably handsome filly and a finely gaited one. Last fall when the Forbes Farm yearlings were broken and their speed tried out a little over the farm track, she was the least promising, as far as the speed which she could show, of any of the bunch, but now Henry Titer says she can beat them all as far as a man can throw a rock, in a quarter of a mile, and is improving in speed with every workout.

The trotters most prominently mentioned during the past few weeks in connection with the Boston Cup race to be held at Cleveland this fall, are John A. McKerron 2:10, The Monk 2:08½, Lucille 2:07, Boralma 2:07, Senator L. 2:12, and sometimes The Abbot 2:03½ and Lord Derby 2:06½. There are however, several other good trotters that may put in an appearance, including May Allen 2:09½, recently purchased by C. W. Marks of Chicago, Mabel Onward 2:10½ to wagon, a fast mare that has just passed into the ownership of the well known Memphis horseman, Frank G. Jones; Chain Shot 2:06½, the fast gelding owned by Chas. C. Lloyd of New York, an enthusiastic speedway driver and prominently identified with the matinee club being organized in New York.

Bert Webster left Pleasanton this week with Mr. Chas. Griffiths' consignment of horses for the Blue Ribbon sale at Cleveland. The horses taken were the following: Rect 2:16½, blk g, (8) trotter by Direct, dam Lilly Stanley 2:17 by Whippleton. Domino, blk g, (5) pacer by Rect 2:16½, dam Sophia by Robt McGregor. Rector, b g, (5) pacer by Rect 2:16½, dam Bon Bon 2:29 by Simmons. Welchman, ch g, (5) trotter by Diablo 2:09½, dam Rachel Welch by William L. Corona 2:27½, blk m, (6) trotter by Direct, dam Sophia by Robt McGregor. Red Light, ch m, (6) trotter by Directum, dam Bettie by Piedmont. Bettina, ch m, (7) trotter by Directum, dam Bertie by Piedmont. These horses were all in good shape and Mr. Webster will show the Cleveland horsemen a very high rate of speed with some of them. Mr. Griffith has nothing left but Bonnie Direct 2:05½ and a few choice broodmares and colts.

Vallejo race track is now in splendid shape to work horses over and there are several trainers established there with their strings. Joe Cuicello and Dan Misner, of this city, went up this week, each with four or five horses that they are preparing for the California circuit. The owners of the track cut all the grass from the edges of the course this spring and have since worked it the full width and it is in splendid shape at the present time. Those stabling horses at the track are charged no stall rent but are asked to pay $1 per head per month for horses actually worked on the track. If the number of horses in training there increases this charge will be cut down materially. Vallejo is one of the healthiest places for horses there is in California and the track one of the best for making speed on and is safe. Joe Smith is training several head, and since the advent of Messrs. Cuicello and Misner the track has quite a lively appearance. Several more San Francisco trainers will probably locate at Vallejo this month.

Millard Sanders will leave Pleasanton to-day for Cleveland with a carload of twelve horses. Six of them comprise his campaigning stable as follows: Dolly Dillon 2:07, Sir Albert S. 2:08½, Anzella 2:10½, Bonsilene 2:14½, all tried and true campaigners, and the pacer B. S. Dillon 2:25, trial 2:12. All these are the property of the Santa Rosa Stock Farm. Mr. Sanders also has in his string Judge Greene's three year old colt by Directum that is entered in the Kentucky Futurity. Besides these Mr. Sanders takes along six horses consigned to the Blue Ribbon sale as follows: Almoretta 2:25, winner of last year's Stanford Stake; Lady Russell 2:26½, Fram 2:17½, Rosara, five year old by McKinney out of By By by Nutwood; Lou Dillon, a phenomenally fast green trotter by Sidney Dillon. These are all consigned by the Sant. Rosa Stock Farm. Nora McKinney 2:17½ will also be taken along and placed in the sale. Mr. Sanders' string of campaigning material is the best that has left California in one trainer's care for a long time, and we earnestly hope they will fulfill every expectation and be returned among the big winners of the season.

On a hot day drink Jackson's Napa Soda lemonade and be refreshed.

Oregon State Fair Entries.

[Portland Rural Spirit.]

Entries to the early closing stakes of the Oregon State Fair are the largest and perhaps the most representative ever received for these events. Most of the entries are from Oregon and Washington, though Idaho, Montana, California and British Columbia are represented. The Greater Salem Stake of $2000 for 2:18 pacers has the largest number of entries, which indicates that big stakes bring good results. This is the largest stake event ever offered in the Pacific Northwest and promises to bring together the greatest array of speed horses ever seen on old Lone Oak track. The large number of entries received in these early closing events, assures a big lot of entries for the purse events to follow, and once more the people of Oregon will witness good racing at the coming State Fair. Following are the entries:

Something Doing in Texas.

DALLAS, TEXAS, April 20, 1902.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—In reading over your very valuable paper every week, I don't happen to see any news from Dallas, Tex., so thought I would drop you a line to let you know that the horse business is still alive and in good condition here. I have 21 head in training from yearlings to six year olds, all by Electrite but two, and all doing well. The best mile I have been so far this year is 2:33, a quarter in 35 seconds, with my aged horses. I have five yearlings by Electrite that can step a quarter from 55 seconds to 51; eighths from 26 to 23 seconds and pull a cart. Three two year olds that have stepped miles from 3 minutes to 2:46, quarters from 42 to 38—all trotters. I have two very fast three year old pacers; they could both step in 2:20 last year and do a quarter in 32½ seconds with ease. They are going fine this year. The best I have let them step so far is a mile in 2:33, a quarter in 34½ seconds, but give them lots of slow miles. I think I also have a great two year old pacer in a filly by Electrite out of Ella Calhoun, trotter, 2:16½. She has stepped a mile in 2:37, last half in 1:12½, quarter in 34½ seconds with ease; none of these pacers wear anything but the harness and quarter boots and am sorry to say they all go to the New York sale in the fall.

Mr. Geo. R. King, our local trainer here, has a stable of eighteen or twenty head, all doing nicely; also Mr. W. O. Foote can be seen in the sulky now every day working hard preparing a few good ones to go through the Grand Circuit with this year.

I am very much pleased to hear that the horse business is picking up again in California. Great crowds of people are coming in to Dallas to-day on account of Reunion of old Confederates to be held here, commencing the 21st and lasting five days. Will send you reunion edition of our daily paper when it comes out.

Yours very truly, J. S. PHIPPEN.

A Rumor From Los Angeles.

There is a strong rumor afloat anent the formation of a first class jockey club in Los Angeles, with E. J. Baldwin at the head and backed by a number of the very wealthy citizens of the city of the Southland. It is said the new club has purchased a tract of land on the outskirts of the city, on which a model track and modern grand stands will be erected, to say nothing of 700 box stalls. It is proposed, so rumor says, to have about two months of racing in the winter months, when Los Angeles hotels and private houses are filled with Eastern visitors of wealth in search of health and pleasure.

In a letter to John Bradburn, superintendent of Village Farm, Ed Geers speaks favorably of his chances for a great campaign this season. He says he has a stronger stable than ever before, and when it is remembered that for seven years out of the past nine his stable has stood at the head of winning stables, the statement is best appreciated.

Like all good things, Jackson's Napa Soda has dozen counterfeits. Watch out!

At the Fresno Track.

[Fresno Republican, April 26.]

When Charles E. Clark goes East on his summer campaign with the trotters this year, he will take with him Toggles, of course, and besides that he will have for a certainty Sue and Cozad. El Moro will perhaps be one of his lot of California representatives, but this is doubtful, although that horse is doing marvelously well in his work.

The old track presents a busy and interesting sight these days during the workout hours to anyone who chances to be out there and a visit is well worth while. It was never in better shape. The inner field is green with alfalfa and rye and the track itself—and that is the main thing from a horseman's point of view—is kept in perfect condition. The Supervisors have displayed good judgment in the selection of Farmer Frederickson to look after the place. The track is fast and there is not a doubt that with horses in condition and the opportunity there would be some of those Eastern records go a glimmering.

The world that is interested in trotting is, of course, most interested in Toggles. Poor Toggles has had a siege of the rheumatism this winter, but thanks to the mild climate it has not been so very bad and the old horse is ready to tackle the scenes of his former exploits with all four feet. Toggles is not himself just yet, but he will be and there is still many a record and purse in that horse. He is not engaged in any of the big stakes—more's the pity—but he will be heard from all right.

The fast string under Mr. Clarke's immediate superintendence at the track consists of the following:

Graham E. Babcock's br g Toggles 2:08½ (Strathway-Fly by Pasha).

Chanslor & Canfield's br m Sue 2:12½ (Athadon-Gypsy by Scallion Hambletonian).

Graham E. Babcock's b g Cozad 2:20½ (Fred S. Wilkes—Telos by Almont 43).

Graham E. Babcock's blk g El Moro 2:13½ (Longworth-dam of Anteeo).

Besides these there are seven horses that are green, but of which much is expected in time, and then there is Farmer Owen, who belongs to Joe Chanslor and is in a class by himself as a driving horse.

"I cannot talk when I'm away from the horses," said Mr. Clark at the Grand Central the other night and he suggested a visit to the track, which was made the next morning and there, after working out several of his string, the horseman showed that with the horses around, at any rate, he could not be said to lack a flow of language.

"Sue is in good shape," he said walking through the stables, "and she may repeat her feat of last year of winning four races straight. She is in $60,000 worth of stakes and stands a good show to make a lot of money. Cozad, whom I picked up at Lexington last year, is in $25,000 in stakes and is also doing well. His list record is 2:20½, but he has shown in 2:13. The black, El Moro, you know, broke down at Sacramento after winning a five heat race two years ago, but he has come around all right. I drove him a mile in 2:18 this morning, but I do not know whether he will be taken East or not, as it is not to be expected that he will be able to stand up under a trying race."

Then the green division, so to call it, was inspected. A. J. Hudson's two year old colt Strathcona (Strathway-Panjalie) was looked at. He is a promising youngster, though he has not done any hard work yet, of course. There is another likely looking colt out of Panjalie, sired by Junio, at the track too, that at present answers to the name of Joker. He is a high acting, fashionable youngster.

One of Mr. Clark's favorites is the three year old Irie (Iris-Athalie), pacer, the seventh of Athalie's foals to beat standard time. Athalie has four in the list now. A Junio colt out of Athalie is the green pacer Athablo, five years old. "He is a wonder," said Mr. Clark. "He has gone the mile in 2:17½ and has done eighths in 15 seconds. Athablo may go East, though he has no engagements."

Chanslor & Canfield have a good mare in Kathryn (Athadon-dam by Junio). She is green, but she was driven a workout mile the morning of the interview, reporter holding the watch on her, in 2:29½. Rapides, a four year old colt, is another animal of whom Mr. Clark thinks a whole lot. He is by Junio, dam Maud Whippleton by Whippleton. He is pronounced the fastest green trotter and the nicest gaited colt that Mr. Clark has seen for a long time, and he has gone the mile in 2:24.

L. Heilbron is the owner of a promising black mare, four years old, at the track, who is well bred, too, being by Red Nuttle out of a Clay mare. A. J. Hudson has a bay mare four years old that ought to show well in class company among the side-wheelers later on. He calls her Dixie and she is by Colonel K R., dam by Joe Simpson. There are others, but these are the pick of the lot and they are all looking well—showing the advantages of wintering in the mild climate of Fresno.

Mr. Clark will start on the harness racing campaign the middle of May or the first of June and from Fresno will go direct to Denver. Thence he will gradually work his way East along the circuits.

Sister to Cruzados Sold.

George W. Baldwin has sold to Barney Schreiber the bay mare, El Salado, by Emperor of Norfolk-Atalanta II, therefore an own sister to the phenomenal Cruzados and the supposed "speed marvel," Americano, and half sister to Silly Moore. Consideration, $1000. This mare, a magnificent individual sixteen hands in height, should make her mark as a matron at Schreiber's Woodlands stud near St. Louis wither she will be sent at an early date and mated with imp. Sain, sire of Corrigan, Zirl, Otis, etc.

HIDALGO'S GOSSIP.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

The continued season of warm spring weather is bringing out some good colts at the track. Walter Maben has already a good string, not the least of which is the Monterey colt that has been already referred to in your columns. He is bred right for a goer and a stayer also, his dam being by McKinney 2:11½, and he was the best stallion ever brought to "this neck o' woods." The next dam is by the thoroughbred horse Hock Hocking, who was as game as a pebble and as beautiful as he was big. There is no fear but the youngster in question will be able to go the route. I have seen many trotters in the past ten years and have invariably found that the best stayers were those who had the most thoroughbred blood in them—provided always that such thoroughbreds are stayers themselves.

Zombro is making a good season here. He resembles old McKinney very much and is a horse of such size and substance that he will always be a popular sire among the owners of good and substantial mares. All of Zombro's get show good size and plenty of style and I look for his get to distinguish themselves in harness before the close of next year. We have an abundance of good road horses here, but, just as soon as a horse shows anything like early speed he is snapped up and sold to go East, where there is always plenty of money for fast ones.

For Freedom, the little bay mare by Prince Royal, out of imported Manzanita by Kaiser (winner of the Prince of Wales and Great Yorkshire Stakes of 1873) is expected to foal during the coming week. She is jointly owned by Mr. G. L. Waring of Riverside and myself. As a first foal is seldom of any great account, we bred her to Mr. Pedley's horse, Bliss Rucker, a son of Salvator and Iris by Iroquois, because he was located so conveniently to us. This coming season, she will be bred to Taranto, son of St. Blaise and imported Tarantula. Bliss Rucker has had several foals dropped to him in the past six weeks and they are all fine, upstanding youngsters, with plenty of quality. Mr. Pedley, his owner, is a son of Mr. T. H. Pedley, who won the Epsom Derby with Cossack, by Hetman Platoff in 1847. On the dam's side, Bliss Rucker has the blood of Iroquois, imp. Hurrah, imp. Bonnie Scotland and imp. Monarch in succession, the fifth dam being Fashion by imp. Trustee, brother to Mundig who won the Derby of 1835. I should think that was good enough breeding to suit the most fastidious.

Another good stallion in this neighborhood, that nobody seems to have heard of, is Benroe, by Hindoo out of Francesca, full sister to Iroquois. He is therefore full brother to Pepper whose heads-apart finish with Ferrier in the opening races at Ingleside, is one of the traditions of that beautiful track. Benroe won several races but never beat horses of much class. He is a wonderfully fine individual, however, being a big horse on short legs, with good driving power and plenty of substance. What astonishes me is that some of the Santa Anita matrons have not yet been bred to him, for while he is a Herod-line horse, he has more Eclipse blood than that of Herod, with a dash of the stout blood of imported Australian who got such conquerors as Spendthrift, Wildidle, Fellowcraft and Joe Daniels. Nor must we overlook Springbok, the hero of the dead heat of 1875 for the Saratoga Cup, while writing on this subject. Benroe is a very dark brown horse, nearly black and his great bone and fine conformation impressed me very much, the only time I ever saw him.

Other thoroughbred horses kept in this neighborhood, from whom I hear no reports as to their progeny, are Ludowic, by Longfellow out of Carrie Phillips by Pat Molloy; Sid by imp. Siddartha and sire of such noted breadwinners as Hueneme, Montalvo and Saticoy; and Mulberry, winner of a dozen races, by imp. Deceiver out of Jennie McKinney by Planet. Whether any of those horses have ever been bred to mares that were their equals in breeding, or whether they have been mated with thoroughbred mares at all, I have been so far unable to ascertain. If they do not get good performers, it will be because they have not had access to good mares. Ludowic was purchased in Kentucky for the late L. U. Shippee, of Stockton, by A. J. Stemlar, who trained him for all of his engagements; and ran fifth in the American Derby, won by Strathmeath in 1891. Had the track been good that day, I believe that Ludowic would have won.

I see that Congratulation by Matchmaker won the Great Metropolitan Handicap at Epsom this week. I saw her race several times while I was in England last year; and she was only beaten a head by Uncle Mac (who won the Chester Cup of 1890) in a two-mile pace at Doncaster, an hour before the great St. Leger was won by Doricles. She is a bay mare, with the right foreleg roan from the ankle to the point of the shoulder, a mark that I never remember to have seen before. It looks, after this, as if Congratulation would have a pretty good chance for the Queen's Vase, Alexandra Plate or Doncaster Cup before the season is over, as she has a great liking for a long race. Matchmaker, her sire, is by St. Simon out of Match Girl; and her dam was Fusee, the dam of St. Blaise and Candlemas. Match Girl also produced Match Box, who was twice second to Isinglass and was sold for $50,000 to go to France, with a further contingency of $15,000 if he won the Grand Prix de Paris. In that race he started a hot favorite, but was beaten a neck by a 40 to 1 shot, the Hungarian colt, Dolma Baghtske. Matchmaker also got Handicapper, winner of the Two Thousand Guineas of last year; and most of the horse-men with whom I talked in England told me that race was the biggest fluke on record, but at that time they had not seen Doricles beat Volodyovski for the St. Leger. The next time they met, Volodyovski gave Doricles 3 lbs. and more than a 5-lb. beating, into the bargain. He outran him very easily.

I really wonder what this year's Suburban and Brooklyn Handicaps are going to be with Conroy gone to England and Commando, The Parader, Ethelbert and Imp all retired to the stud. Kinley Mack has disappeared also together with Jean Beraud and Standing, all good handicap horses, with a big turn of speed. Mr. John Follansbee's Roehampton is about as good a horse as can be found in the all-aged division, but there are no weight-for-age races here like there are in England, and I think the handicappers have put about enough weight on this good colt to stop him. Alcedo, winner of last year's Suburban, has more weight on him than he can comfortably shoulder, and if Watercure can win with the load apportioned him, he is a better horse than I have rated him. With the lack of class that characterizes the top weights in these races, I naturally look for the middle weights—somewhere between 115 and 119 pounds—to do the trick in each of these events. But which one it will be is hard to say. The Metropolitan is to be run at Morris Park next week and as the distance is only one mile it would not surprise me to hear that Roehampton had won it in spite of his big weight. He is a horse that has a world of speed, and at so short a distance as that, weight hardly ever stops a really good colt, such as Roehampton proved himself to be last year. Well, April is pretty nearly gone with its showers and its blossoms and we will not have much longer to wait for the verdict.

What sort of races are we going to have at the next fair. This is a question I have had asked me several times during the past ten days. I answer that it depends wholly upon how many horses go up to the trotting races at Salem and Seattle, as well as to the galloping races in Montana. But few Eastern horses visit the Montana tracks and none of them come from points east of Cincinnati. Those that do go out there are generally the "culls" of the Kentucky and Tennessee stables, that are not deemed good enough to run at Chicago, St. Louis or Latonia; and those which go up there from California are not horses that are regarded as good enough to be reserved for fall engagements at Sacramento and Oakland. I look for at least eighty two year olds to be in training in September, of which at least thirty will be new comers not trained during the earlier part of the year. Certainly there will be no lack of youngsters to contest all the prizes to be awarded to the juvenile class. As to the trotters and pacers, it is hard to say how many of them we will have as it depends very largely upon the inducements offered elsewhere. There have been good purses offered here, more than once, that did not fill, for what reason I am unable to say, but I do believe that Los Angeles can draw bigger crowds to a trot or a pacing race than any city in which I have ever lived. Certainly there has been no lack of liberality on the part of our Fair Directors to render the sport attractive.

Tuttle's American Condition Powders.

Practically all farmers know that when the rush of spring work comes on they almost invariably have trouble from sore shoulders on their work teams. It not infrequently occurs that the usefulness of a horse or team is lost to the farmer for a long period from this cause, and that, too, when their services are most needed. It is an easy matter to obviate all this trouble and loss if one but knows how to go about it. The trouble results generally from thick and stagnant blood induced by heavy feeding and lack of sufficient exercise during the winter months. The remedy is found in toning up and thinning the blood and otherwise purifying the same. In other words, providing a spring tonic which is just as essential and necessary to animals as to human kind. For this purpose we would direct the attention of our readers to Tuttle's American Condition Powders, manufactured by Dr. S. A. Tuttle of Boston, Mass. While these powders fit a number of veterinary requirements, they are to be specially recommended at this season of the year for the purpose named. When the blood is treated from within by these powders, and sore shoulders, etc., treated externally with Tuttle's Elixir, the continued and valuable service of the horse or team is practically assured. The Tuttle preparations are for sale at your nearest drug store. Write direct to the office in Boston for the Tuttle book, "Veterinary Experience," mailed free.

Matching Pairs of Horses.

A correspondent wants the following question answered:

"How shall I go to work to match up pairs of colts so that they will sell to best advantage when broken and fit for market? Is it not true that matched teams bring relatively more money than single horses?"

Yes, it is true that well-matched pairs of horses of any sort will usually sell for more money relatively, also actually, than if the same animals were put up singly and offered in that way. It must be remembered though that to do this horses must be matched in all the term implies—not simply of the same color and hatched in double harness.

Our correspondent is rather too indefinite to elicit a reply as specific as one might wish to grant. What breed of horses does he handle? Has he the colts on hand or does he propose to go forth to buy them with a view to making an investment in young and growing animals and trust to his own skill and perspicacity to get his capital back with interest? Let us again adjure inquirers to be specific. Being ignorant as to where this correspondent desires to begin, we can do little more than reply in the most general terms, trusting that he may gather from what is said the information he is seeking.

The mating of a pair of horses properly is a hard task. What is a matched pair? To deserve the name two horses must be of about the same height and color, carry heads alike, stand and go alike and be built after the same pattern. They must use the same measure of speed under similar circumstances and they must step together. A pair made up of one that is inclined to shuffle and one that folds his knee cleanly; a pair that holds one that drags his hocks and one that tucks them neatly under him; a pair in which one is a bit slouchy unless perpetually touched up and one that is right up and coming all the time, is not mated at all, notwithstanding that they may be the same height to a fraction of an inch, be colored the same to a hair and weigh the same to an ounce. A bay and a chestnut are better mated if alike in the points named than any similarly colored and formed pair open to any of the criticisms described. And then carriage horses must be much more closely mated than drafters or drivers or roadsters.

If a man is breeding his own horses he ought to begin the matching process before the foals are begotten. Breed similar mares of similar blood lines to the same horse. When the foals are weaned, if they promise to make up well together, box them together and let them grow up under exactly identical conditions. Break them early to go in harness, and never do anything with one that is not done with the other. In that way mating may most easily be accomplished. If changes must be made make them as early as possible, but remember that a slight variation in height, weight or color will be far preferable to variation in style, action or speed. Disposition also must be taken into account as affecting these qualifications.

If the effort is to be made to match a horse already purchased take plenty of time. Try first to obtain one that meets requirements in the most important respects, not merely one that has the same color and is the same height. When you find one that suits approximately submit him to conditioning and education as already laid down. It is fair to say, however, that mating horses is a sort of God-given gift and not one man in a hundred thousand ever made a real success of it. The odd one usually makes a fortune at it. The principles laid down apply co-relatively to the mating of all sorts of horses. Drafters need not be so closely matched in color and marks as carriage horses, though naturally the better the match the better the price, all other things being equal. A bald-faced horse and a whole-colored one will never match up into a carriage pair, but a defect such as that would not be held to take much from the value of a pair of ton geldings.—Breeders Gazette.

J. C. McKinney, proprietor of the Terrace Farm, Titusville, Pa., whose racing stable is at Memphis, Tenn., in charge of Lafe Shafer, stopped off in Buffalo the past week en route to New York. During his short stay in the Bison City he was seen by The Horseman's Buffalo commissioner, who, on behalf of A. H. Miller of Buffalo, offered him $15,000 for the four year old trotting filly Zephyr, three year old trial 2:14½, by Zombro 2:11, dam Gazelle 2:11½, dam of Zolock 2:10½ by Gossiper 2:14½. Mr. McKinney refused the offer, believing the filly to be one of the best trotters in sight. She is named in the M. & M. Stake at Detroit and in other large stakes through the Grand Circuit. Mr. Miller owns her dam Gazelle 2:11½ and is anxious to obtain at least one of her foals. During the past winter he sent trainer W. L. Snow to California to purchase Gazelle's oldest foal, Zolock 2:10½, but an offer of $10,000 met with a refusal and Snow returned without the stallion, the owner absolutely refusing to name any price at that time. Snow has since received word from Ben Davies, the owner of Zolock, stating that the horse would not be campaigned this year, but saved over for another season. Failing to get Zolock, Mr. Miller determined to purchase Zephyr at a figure somewhere near her value, but his offer of $15,000 was turned down.—Chicago Horseman.

There is a possibility of a match race for $5000 a side between Chas. C. Lloyd's Chain Shot 2:06½ and Fred Gerken's The Monk 2:08½. Both owners have great faith in the respective abilities of their horses and are said to have signified their desire for arranging such a match race. If the matter is consummated the race will undoubtedly be held at the Empire City track meeting in September.

THE CALIFORNIA, a stake of two thousand dollars for trotters eligible to the 2:24 class is the first announcement made by the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association for its fall meeting this year, and it is accompanied by a stake of $1000 for 2:20 class pacers and four additional stakes for other classes. This is only the preliminary announcement. At a later date a large number of purses ranging from $500 to $1000 each will be given for other classes. The meeting will in all probability be held at Fresno during the last week in September, although this will not be fully determined until next week. However, the place and date will be definitely fixed and announced before the date of closing these stakes. Two thousand dollars is the largest stake for aged trotters that has been offered in California for years and the Breeders should receive a big list of entries for it. It is the intention of the association to make The California an annual event, and if the entries are sufficiently encouraging, to increase the amount of the stake annually, until it ranks with some of the big events given on the Eastern Grand Circuit. The stake being for trotters eligible to the 2:24 class, will give all those having green horses an opportunity that they have desired for a long time. The horse that wins first money in this event will earn enough to pay all his training expenses for the year and a goodly sum besides, and as Napa, Woodland, the State Fair and Bakersfield can be depended upon to offer generous purses for the slow classes, green horses that are at all promising should be worth training and racing this year. The Breeders having broken the ice, and an announcement having been made by the Napa and Woodland associations that their purses will be officially announced next week, horse owners can be assured that the California circuit will be a good one this year—better, in fact, than has been seen here for a long time. Let every one interested in harness horse affairs get in now and "boost" the circuit and each and every meeting that is announced. This will be a very successful year if all help.

A NEW FAIR GROUND, comprising seventy acres of most excellent land just east of and adjoining the town of Concord, has been purchased by the Contra Costa Agricultural Society, and a new mile track and buildings will be immediately constructed and finished in time for the fair this year. The soil of the new purchase is particularly adapted for the purpose and an excellent track is assured. In the little town of Concord $2950 was raised by subscription to aid the association in acquiring this new property. Martinez, which is but six miles distant, will also raise a substantial sum to help the enterprise along.

DEATH has again entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Boyd of San Rafael and taken therefrom a loved and loving child. John Franklin Boyd, Jr., their only remaining son, aged fifteen years and eleven months, died at Nordhoff April 28th, whither he had been taken in search of health, and the funeral was held from St. Paul's church at San Rafael on Wednesday of this week. That death should come to one so young, to whom the future had so much of promise and hope, is deeply deplorable and the family of father, mother and daughter will have the sincere sympathy of all who know how dearly they loved their two bright boys that were taken from them within so short a time.

THE OHIO, a ten thousand dollar purse for trotters eligible to the 2:11 classes, closes with Secretary Campbell, of Oakley Park, Cincinnati, on Monday next, May 5th. At the same time six additional purses, five of $3000 and one of $2000 will close. The Oakley Park meeting will be held during the five days beginning September 30th. Read the advertisement for full particulars and remember that Monday next is the date of closing.

ENTRIES close Wednesday, May 21st, for the spring race meeting of the Vancouver Jockey Club. There is a total of $1550 in purses offered for two days of racing, and both harness horses and runners are provided for. $300 is given for a free-for-all trot or pace, $200 for the 2:40 class trot or pace, and $200 for a running race at a mile and an eighth. The remaining purses range from $100 to $150. See advertisement.

RANCHO DEL PASO will hold another sale of trotting bred and general purpose mares and geldings at the American river bridge, just outside the city of Sacramento, on Thursday, the 15th instant. This will be a good opportunity to get good horses that have looks and breeding. At the same time about 70 head of mules will be offered. See advertisement.

A Trotting Two Year Old.

OAKLAND, April 30, 1902.

DEAR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—I saw a squib in a recent issue of your paper on Pete Williams' great race horse Monterey 2:09½. Permit me to say a good word for another good horse—Stam B. 2:11½. (How many of your readers know that Stamboul is the city of the Golden Horn?) But that is another story.

J. P. Patrey, a friend of mine, a horseshoer by profession, the man who put most of the shoes on the flying feet of the Alex Button family, the first man in California to put the outside spurs on the hind shoes (an idea original with Mr Geo. Woodward), to stay (hold up) the ankles of the Button family. Mr. Patrey's sons all started at the foot of the class. His oldest son is now at the head, being a dentist associated with Dr. Walker of Oakland.

But again I have digressed. To progress I must confine myself to the "hoss."

"Well, Rustic," said my friend Patrey, "I saw a sure enough trotter last Sunday—a Stam B."

"How is he bred on the dam's side?"

"Out of the Waldstein mare Swift Bird, which Hi Hogoboom gave a two year old record of 2:27"

"Well, he ought to go," I said.

"Yes," said Patrey, "he can go; he belongs to a running horse trainer at Oakland race track, named Smith. He is only two years old, but last Sunday Smith having him hitched to a double seated cart, played with the boys on the five-eighths track at the Sixteenth street station." "My!" said Patrey, waxing enthusiastic, "this baby, not 15 hands high, trotted to that cart a quarter in 35 seconds alongside Doc Wilkes!"

"But," resumed Patrey sadly, "you know, Rustic, those running horse men don't know how to team trotters. This little fellow is a peach, not only in point of speed but in disposition. So soon as the colt is through with his brush he is content to do the will of his master. Entered as he is in the Occident and Stanford stakes, Mr. Smith is taking deperate chances so early in the game of life."

As the sparks flew over the smithy floor, my friend said, "Men who love the trotters can train runners—Knap McCarty, Frank Van Ness and By Holly have taught the boys that."

"Yes," said Rustic, "legs and feet or you can't repeat. Watch the little Stam B. out of Swift Bird. If he stands up to his work I'll (Sam) Gamble he wins some of the money. Tell Smith to call the colt Hi Stam or Stam Boom after Hi Hogoboom," said

RUSTIC.

Alcyo 2:10 Defeated the Runner.

The contest between Mr. B. S. Krehe's stallion Alcyo 2:10, and Farmer Bunch's running mare, came off at the San Jose track on Wednesday of this week, instead of Saturday last as was at first intended. The track was too heavy on Saturday for fast pacing after the rain of the day previous, so a postponement was had, but everything was favorable Wednesday and the contest took place.

At ten o'clock in the forenoon Alcyo came on the track hitched to a high wheeled cart and driven by his owner, Mr. Krehe. He was closely followed by Farmer Bunch's running mare, also hitched to a cart of the old style and driven by William Montgomery. After a little jockeying they got away from the three quarter pole at an even break, Alcyo rushing to the front when the word was given and securing the lead in a few strides. At the head of the stretch Montgomery brought the runner up, but Alcyo beat him to the wire in 33 seconds.

Mr. Montgomery said he could not catch the flying Alcyo and Bunch advised him to take a longer whip in the next heat, the short sulky whip he had being a too mild persuader for a thoroughbred hitched so far in front. Mr. M took the advice, but Alcyo defeated him in the second heat in 32 seconds. The third heat was a nice one as Alcyo was just getting warmed up and when he stepped the quarter without a skip or a touch of the whip in 30½ seconds, Bunch was ready to acknowledge that he had no business backing a pesky runner against such a pacer. Alcyo was hooked to a very heavy old style sulky and it was his first real workout this year, so his performance stamps him as a horse with all the speed that has been credited to him.

Entries at Charter Oak.

Famous old Charter Oak Park at Hartford has a splendid lot of entries for its September meeting. The Charter Oak 2:11 trot $1000 purse, has fourteen nominators, among them Chas. E. Clark of Fresno and the Santa Rosa Stock Farm.

The $3000 purse for 2:19 trotters has 38 nominators. The California bred horses among these are Princess Derby by Charles Derby, Elmoore by Azmoor, The Roman by McKinney, Lauretta by Norris, and Rubato by Steinway. Charley Clark of Fresno has named Cozad 2:20½, the horse he purchased over East last year, in this race.

There are 33 nominators in the 2:30 trot, the purse for which is $3000. In this race Will Durfee of Los Angeles, has entered Ben Liebes and Coronado by McKinney and the stallion Petigru by Kingward that he bought in Kentucky last year. Thos. W. Lawson names in this race the Palo Alto bred mare Juntorio by Altivo. J. H. Quinn of Worcester, Mass., has entered the bay gelding Prince Whips by Dexter Prince out of Linnet by Electioneer, that was also bred at Palo Alto, and Terrace Farm, Titusville, Pa., has named in this race the Zombro mare Zephyr, that was sold for $9000 last year.

In the 2:09 pace there are 21 nominators. This is a hot class and all the best green pacers in the East are entered, including Direct Hal, Beauseant and others. Sir Albert S. 2:08½ is named by the Santa Rosa Stock Farm, and Prince Direct (formerly Freddie C. 2:14½) is entered by Myron McHenry.

There are 15 nominators to the 2:16 $3000 pace, the majority of whom have made more than one nomination. Will Durfee has named Silver Coin by Steinway out of Jennie Mac 2:09 by McKinney. Fred Isabel of Shawmut, Mass., has entered Naniva a bay mare by Chas. Derby out of Clytie II, dam of Neerut 2:12½, in this event. Velvet Rose a fast mare by McKinney out of Etta Wilkes is one of the entries. She is owned by Terrace Farm, Titusville, Pa.

The 2:30 pace has entries from 31 nominators. The purse is $3000. East View Farm has entered East View, a black gelding by Chas. Derby, Juan Galleagos enters Diablito by Diabolo. O. A. Hickok names Thornway by Steinway. A. Kaul of St. Mary's, Pa., has entered the pacer Funston by Dictatus 2:17 that Sandy Smith bought for him last year for $2000, and Terrace Farm has named Velvet Rose by McKinney.

If all the California bred horses that are entered get to the post there will be some very fast records made if they are beaten, as there is not one but has shown very fast in its work. Secretary Stalker is to be congratulated on the excellent showing made by his entry list.

Horses in Training.

The following additional names of harness horses in training in California have been sent in since the publication of the list last week:

HANFORD.

S. A. Eddy—
Doctor W., blk s, pacer.
Our Pat, s g, 2:30, trotter.
S. Watson—
Mabel C., blk m, 2:33, pacer.
L. Morris—
Lady, b m, pacer.

In addition to these there are between fifteen and twenty two and three year olds in training at Hanford.

VALLEJO.

Jos. L. Smith—
Trilby, ch m, 2:23½, trotter.
Hank, b g, 2:23, trotter.
Gaff Topsail, ch s, 2:16, pacer.
Two three year olds and two two year olds that will be raced if purses are offered.

NEVADA CITY.

Phil Burns—
Billups, b s, 2:20½, trotter.
Director H., blk s, 2:27, trotter.

John Irving—
Inez, blk m, 2:36, trotter.

H. J. Wright—
Deyo, br m, 2:40, trotter.

A. H. Tickell—
Wirza, blk g, trotter.

SACRAMENTO.

S. H. Hoy—
Kelly Briggs 2:10½, pacer.
Margaretta 2:12½, pacer.
Rita H., br m, pacer.
Demonio, ch s, pacer.
Black gelding, trotter.

H. S. Hogoboom—
Perkins, ch g, trotter.
Joe Harvey, b g, pacer.
Brown mare, trotter.
Five others just beginning on.

Vet Tryon—
Fred Ames 2:20½, pacer.
Bay mare, trotter.
Five others, three pacers and two trotters.

C. M. Clark—
Ouiboul 2:21½, trotter.

E. W. Callendine—
Guynut, two year old trotter.

There are fifteen or twenty road horses being worked here that may be raced.

One of the best equipped hotels is The Rosslyn, Los Angeles.

Twelve Generous Purses Announced for the Association's August Meeting.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Napa Agricultural Fair Association held last Monday afternoon, it was decided to offer the following purses at the coming races to be held in Napa, August 18th to 23d, inclusive:

Trotting—2:40 class, $800; 2:30 class, $700; 2:24 class, $600; 2:19 class, $600; 2:15 class, $600; 2:12 class, $500; Pacing—Green class, $500; 2:25 class, $500; 2:20 class, $500; 2:15 class, $500; 2:12 class, $500; free-for-all pace, $500.

There will be a road race to which horses of Napa county without records will be eligible for a purse of $200.

Probably another local race will be arranged for running horses.

There will be at least four days of harness racing and if a running program is arranged, which is very probable, the runners will have a day or two set aside for them and there will not be a mixed program of trotting and running on the same day. This is a very wise conclusion for the association to reach and will meet with the approbation of both classes of horsemen.

The Napa Association was never in as good shape as it is now. The new Board of Directors is composed of energetic business men, and Secretary Bell is an especially active and progressive official. In next week's issue of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN the official advertisement of these purses will appear. The date set for closing is June 2d. Let every owner and trainer in California make up his mind to race at Napa this year. The track will be worked especially for harness horses, and as Napa has always been a good town for harness races large crowds are certain to attend and make the meeting successful. The Napa Association is the first district organization to announce a program, and therefore deserves the patronage and support of every owner. Make its entry list a boomer.

Rich Purses at Lexington.

The Directors of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders Association, on Wednesday, April 16th, held their first meeting since the election of E. W. Shanklin as Secretary, and at this meeting many important matters pertaining to the future of this association and particularly to the annual meeting of October 7-18th, were considered and determined upon.

Among other things, the fixed events, ten in number, to which the entries will close on Monday, June 2d, were decided upon as follows:

1. The Transylvania, 2:12 trot.....$6,000
2. The McDowell, 2:10 trot..... 5,000
3. The Tennessee, 2:08 pace..... 3,000
4. Walnut Hall Cup, 2:15 trot..... 3,000
5. The Blue Grass, 2:19 trot..... 2,000
6. The Johnston, 2:24 trot..... 2,000
7. The West, 2:29 trot..... 2,000
8. The Kentucky, three year old trot..... 2,000
9. The Lexington, two year old trot..... 2,000
10. The Wilson, 2:20 pace..... 2,000

Entries in all, excepting the Transylvania, must be named on June 2d. In the Transylvania starters need not be named before September 19th. Entrance in each is 5 per cent of purse, payable in four instalments as follows: June 2d, July 15th, September 2d, and the night before the race. These events will be carded, so that one horse may be named and start in two or more, with from three to seven days rest between.

It was also determined at this meeting to open about September 1st, to close September 19th, purses of a thousand dollars or more each for all classes, to complete the program of three or more races on each of the ten days of the meeting.

Another matter which received the attention of the Board and was favorably acted upon was that authorizing the Secretary to enter into a contract for placing throughout the grounds a water main of not less than six inches, with fire plugs wherever needed, thus affording all property ample protection in case of fire.

Secretary Shanklin, with his assistant, has been very busy for the last several days writing to every owner, as far as known at this time, of each entry in the Futurities for foals of '99 and for foals of '00—three year olds and two year olds now—to be trotted for this fall, asking if there have been any transfers of ownership of these entries, in order that they may be notified of the payments due upon these stakes June 1st.

A gentleman who was looking for a fast green pacer last week, had Green Meadow Stock Farm's chestnut horse, Robert I., recommended to him. He telegraphed for a price on the son of Hambletonian Wilkes and Anna Belle 2:27½, and the reply named $5000 as the figure at which he would be sold. The sale was not made.

Moving Along at Sacramento.

Already at Agricultural Park active preparations are in progress for the coming trotting and pacing season. On the historic old track, where some of the greatest races of the State and country have been contested, may be seen any one of these fine mornings many horses at work. Not the least interesting of these are the two and three year olds, many of which are entered in rich stakes and futurities. There are in the stable of each trainer an unusually large number of these products of noted California sires—the result of the improvement of the status of harness racing in the past few years.

Vet Tryon has already a dozen horses on hand, and, assisted by his sons, is kept busy from dawn till sunset. The Palo Alto stallion Azmoor by Electioneer, the best known, being the progenitor of several listed race horses, and able himself to show to-day a rattling gait. In the Tryon stable are Mayor Clark's pacer Fred Ames, moving at about 2:20, and his trotter Queen of Bavaria, that has shown 2:23½.

A five year old trotting mare owned by Supervisor Tom Snyder of Yolo county, by Sable Wilkes, out of a Harold mare, is at the track, as is also the following list of good ones:

A fast green pacing gelding by Algona, dam by Echo, the property of Frank Wheeler, the Haggin grant blacksmith; Polka Dot, Mr. Tryon's pacer, by Mendocino, dam Maud Merrill 2:18; a little bay pacing mare owned by William Jasper of Wheatland, and sired by Fred Kiesel's Dynamo, a son of Falrose, and showing quarters in 34 seconds; Dan Flint's 2:25 trotter Rainbow; a six year old green pacer by Tom Benton, owned by W. D. Nichols; Frank Wright's five year old fast pacing Direct mare, dam by Steinway, recently brought here from San Jose, and his two year old Knight colt, an Occident Stake prospect, dam Regina E. 2:18½; Gus Buchanan's bay trotting gelding by Arthur Wilkes, dam a Blackbird mare called Widow Macree; a two year old trotter, property of S. C. Tryon, by a son of Silver Bow, dam by Col. K. R., and William Lambert's three year old filly by Knight out of an Echo mare.

Sam Hoy, the Winters horseman, has a string of five, including the seasoned pacer Kelly Briggs 2:10½, Rita H., a fast green McKinney; J. E. Terry's Margaretta 2:14½, Demonio, a full brother of Diablo, who started on last year and took third money, and a black three year old trotting colt by Sable Wilkes. He also has a bay stallion owned by Ben Rush, of Suisun.

S. C. Mitchell has a couple of promising colts. One, a three year old by Zombro 2:11, has shown quarters in 35 seconds, and the other, by a son of Baron Wilkes, 40 seconds. This week William Irvin will place in his hands his handsome bay two year old, April Fool by Bay Bird, with which he expects to capture both Occident and Stanford Stakes in 1903.

The popular trainer, Hi Hogaboom, has nine in his stable as follows:

A three year old bay by Gossiper, dam by Almont Patchen, owned by Bart Cavanaugh, and pacing halves in 1:13; a five year old green chestnut gelding, Perkins by Henry Nutwood, dam Matron, a full sister of the dam of Cobwebs, the first king of the New York speedway, owned by Henry Cowles, of Perkins, and having paced a quarter in 35½ seconds; a chestnut mare by Diablo, dam Swift Bird by Waldstein, owned by Fred Raschen, and already trotting at a 40 clip; a five year old black mare, Mr. Hogaboom's own property, by Waldstein, dam by Guy Wilkes, and moving quarters in 36 seconds; Contractor James Touhey's brown five year old mare by Advertiser, dam a full sister of Gus Wilkes, with a mile already to her credit in 2:39; besides a black three year old trotting filly by Diawood, owned by John Riley, the Sacramento grocer; a yearling bay stud colt by Dagon, a son of Sable Wilkes, dam a full sister of Anna Bell, whose three year old mark is 2:27, and who is the dam of Labelle, two year record 2:16. This is a candidate for the $6000 Breeders Futurity Stake.

Chris Jurgensen has a couple of handsome Stam B. two year olds, one, owned by Carroll Hayford, is very fast, having shown a 40 gait, with little work. The other, owned by John Gerber, is also highly promising. Jurgensen has also a five year old green mare by Director Jr., the property of Mr. Coyle, of the Lower Stockton road, and a fast green sorrel gelding, a trotting son of Bob Lee.

Dr. J. E. Weldon has taken up his grand mare, Elevator, that got part of the Stanford Stake two years ago, and is working her a little. She seems to be ready for the races as she is.

Frank Rubstaller, Jr.'s Munroe B. shows a mile in 2:25 with apparent ease.

Frank Wright regularly exercises Baby Button, whose best mile this year is 2:22.

Charles W. Paine sends Pio around occasionally at a fast clip.

One of the handsomest horses at the track is Mrs. E. W. Callendine's big two year old chestnut, Guynut, by Nutwood Wilkes out of Abbie Woodnut, dam of Diawood and Abdine.

L. M. Clark has the stallion Ouboul, by Stamboul, a grand looking horse and a 2:12 trotter. He also has two Arthur Holt fillies owned by O. P. Willis, and a fine looking chestnut sorrel colt by Ouboul, dam by Nephew, owned by C. J. Sharon, the Palace Hotel druggist.—Record Union.

There were forty-four owners who won between $1000 and $2000.

Big Money at Oakley Park.

To California Horsemen: The promise by the management of Oakley Park, that a $10,000 purse would be hung up for its Grand Circuit meeting has been fulfilled. The 2:11 class trotting, "The Ohio," is the rich piece of fruit that is offered the campaigners, to call at the treasurer's office in October next for a division of this valued purse. The invitation is general, both to the Ohio, and the other six early closing events, five of which are for $3000 each, and the last but by no means the least—the three year old trotters are presented with $2000 as an incentive to future greatness. Mental captivity of thought may prevent you from winning one of the valuable purses for this meeting.

We close Monday, May 5th, read the ad in the columns of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN. Make and mail your entries on that day and date. Oakley Park will do the rest. Very truly yours,

P. M. CAMPBELL, Sec'y.

Stakes Closed at Boise, Idaho.

BOISE, Idaho, April 23d, 1902.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN: The following stakes which closed April 15th, have been declared to go: No. 1—Merchants' stake, 2:27 trot, $1000, six entries. No. 2—Inter-mountain stake, 2:18 pace, $1000, seven entries. No. 3—Overland Hotel stake, three year old pace, 2:30, $500, five entries.

Declared off: No. 4—Capitol Hotel stake, three year old trot, 2:40 class.

Work is proceeding rapidly on track and buildings, and track will be ready for working by May 20th.

Very truly yours,

Los Angeles Fly-Casting Club.

Among southern sportsmen there seems to be a movement in favor of the formation of a fly-casting club. John H. Schumacher, E. B. Tufts, Louis Breen, W. W. Richards, Secretary of the California Game and Fish Protective Association, A. Russell Crowell and others are taking an active interest in the movement. W. W. Richards, who is an enthusiastic angler, has given the southern sportsmen a thorough canvass in the matter.

The park authorities in Los Angeles would doubtless offer the desired facilities at Eastlake or Westlake Park. With a club started and a favorable place secured for the sport the success of the new organization would be assured.

Here in San Francisco the fly casters use Stow lake in Golden Gate Park and the Park Commission has done everything possible for the club's convenience. A twelve-foot fence has been erected for a windbreak, and a room in the boathouse is reserved for members' use. The sportsmen are encouraged, and they furnish a valuable attraction to the park, for many come to see them at their practice. The same thing can be done in Los Angeles.

Down south there are no creeks the angler can do casting on, but in the Kern river country it comes handy to know how to get out, and most of the wealthier southern trout fishermen go at least that far for their annual outing with the fish.

The San Francisco Club is very strong financially now, and it has done great work for the preservation of trout. With a good fly-casting club in Los Angeles to stimulate the interest in that class of fishing, a great deal could be done for Southern California. Bear valley and much of the adjacent country is almost ideal for trout, and a club which would take enough interest to look to the preservation of the local trout by proper screens and simple precautions when streams are diverted would do wonders for the sport.

The open season on trout in Santa Barbara county commenced on Thursday, May 1st. There is an unusual amount of water in the Santa Barbara streams this season, and it is expected that fishing will be exceptionally good. Monterey county open season also begins on the same date.

Fly-fishing prospects are daily growing better with the continuance of warm weather. At Point Reyes some excellent catches have been made in the white house pool and below. The black gnat and coachman seems to be the most killing lure. Reports from Mendocino county are to the effect that stream fishing in nearly every section is first class.

AT THE TRAPS.

The contest for the Shields' cup will be terminated to-morrow at the Union Gun Club shoot.

The California Wing Club live bird shoot and the Union Gun Club blue rock shoot are the attractions at the Ingleside grounds to-morrow.

The Oxnard Gun Club has arranged to hold a two days' trap shoot at its new grounds, east of Oxnard, Saturday and Sunday, May 10th and 11th. The committee chosen to conduct the tournament is composed of Messrs. B. S. Virden, T. E. Walker, C. Coultas, H. Coultas and R. B. Witman. The last tournament was successful and this shoot promises to be the same.

The Golden Gate Gun Club members and guests shot live birds at Ingleside last Sunday. A strong westerly wind blowing right across the traps and an extra hard lot of birds put a few goose eggs in several promising scores. George H. T. Jackson and Dr. Derby killed straight in the club race and divided 80% of the added money; they also each received a club gold bar for the straight scores. Following the regular club match 12 and 6 bird pools were shot. A summary of scores is the following:

San Francisco Bench Show.

The sixth annual bench show of the San Francisco Kennel Club can be said to have been in many respects one of the best dog shows ever held in this city. The entry, 842, was a record one. The number of dogs benched however numbered but 482. When from this number is taken the grand entry of Greyhounds and the dogs sent from various points within a radius of fifty miles of this city it will be seen that not many more than 300 local dogs were benched. This showing is not as good as has been made at past shows, however, we must say this much for the management, they accomplished marvels in the face of circumstances and conditions and they are entitled to great praise for the successful manner in which the affair was carried through. Had it not been for the street railway strike there is no doubt but the record gate for a dog show in this city would have been in substantial evidence in the cash-box—as it was, the attendance was strong enough to bring out an even balance on the ledger.

A report of the various breeds and classes will be found on a page following this; the large list of specials was, for lack of space, necessarily left over until the next issue. The complete list of the regular awards follows:

IN THE RING.

The judging was conducted simultaneously in two rings and commenced at 2 P. M., Wednesday. Mr. John Davidson started with St. Bernards and continued on Mastiffs, Great Danes, Newfoundlands (?), Foxhounds, Pointers, Setters, Irish Water Spaniels and Beagles. Mr. G. M. Carnochan took Fox Terriers in hand. Dr. Geo. W. Clayton judged Collies, Field Spaniels, Cockers, Dalmatians, Poodles, Bulldogs, all Terriers (except Fox Terriers), Dachshunds, Pugs, Spitz, Toy Terriers, Blenheims, King Charles, Esquimaux and Miscellaneous. The Greyhounds were under Mr. G. A. Cranfield. Major J. L. Rathbone judged the packs of hounds and Hon. Ho Yow, Imperial Chinese Consul-General, passed on the Oriental breeds.

With but very few exceptions the awards were satisfactorily accepted. J. B. Martin acted as ring steward for Mr. Carnochan, and "Billy" Chute was ring assistant to Judge Davidson.

Rough coated St. Bernards with sixteen benched, were ordinary excepting three or four. Glenwood Kennels made the most imposing display. Premier honors went to Lester C., who was handled by Mrs. Chas. Newman in a very charming manner. Lester C. was put down in fine condition and shows great improvement since his h c win here in 1900. First winners, open, limit and three specials for best were his due in the company against him. He is of good conformation, strong boned, well balanced and very good all round for so large a dog. He shows the Alta Millo head strongly. Bernard II, second open, first novice and reserve winners, a fairly good headed dog. Le King, third open, was off in hindquarters and not as good as we have seen him. California Eberacum absent. Glenwood Booze is a promising puppy. Sir William Wallace, second limit, is a fair big dog. In bitches, Alta Rachel, first winners and open, in good condition. Lady Melba, second open, and Zuleika third, were placed right. Alta Mildred first limit would have gone well in open, we also preferred her for first winners. In smooths, eight entries; quality, with the exception of Miss Barry and Princess of Solano, was a rather lacking quantity. General B. in fine condition is a well bodied big dog, fair head, but sour expression and lacks character. Duke Russell, a Los Angeles dog, seemed to be overfleshed, he showed quality and form that was not brought out.

Six Mastiffs were a good example of the present type decadence of the breed. Sharkey was a good specimen of the Mastiff in vogue two decades ago, particularly in rounded skull and muzzle.

Great Danes brought out twenty-one dogs, a fair averaging lot generally. Bluebeard, first winners and open, shows improvement; he has a clean cut head, good neck and shoulders, is well bodied, has clean cut legs and shows strong character and type. Duke, a handsome harlequin, lost on head and throat, being just too light in this respect to balance the well bodied dog that he is. Ruy Blas, a good young one, proved immature in the contest against the grown dogs. He has the type, character and quality to go up several pegs a year hence. Alphonse, first puppies, is a fine headed one and full of Dane quality all over. Nero, first limit, did well considering a pair of bad hind legs. Mona, first winners and open, had but a shade the best of the race over Carlotta. Both bitches are good ones; Mona could be better in ears. Maud S., third open and limit, put down in good condition, is a nice dark fawn, has a good head and expression and a very symmetrical body and legs.

Newfoundlands, two alleged specimens, was another regrettable showing of the gradual transition of a one time favorite and grand breed from type to big mongrels.

Greyhounds, in a separate and tastefully decorated section apart from the main exhibit, were a revelation to many lovers of the dog. Some six score of these handsome and graceful companions of the leashman made up a world's record showing of fleet footed stars of the coursing sward. We doubt very much if the Greyhounds installed on the benching, arranged about the sides of a spacious quadrangle, could be surpassed, in quality or speed, by a similar aggregation of coursing dogs, at any other place in the world. On these benches were dogs, and also their sons and daughters, that have shown speed, courage and intelligence in many a gruelling and hard fought final in a 60, 70 and even more than an 80 dog stake, both in the open and on the enclosed coursing field. These dogs are the speedy and high class descendants of the fleet footed coursers whose exploits have made coursing history for decades past.

Master McGrath, Herschel, Fullerton, Scavenger, Lady Barton, Greentick, old St. Lawrence, Prince Charlie, White Lips, Bessie Lee, Bit of Fashion, Mineral Water and all of the old guard, premiers of the leashmen's love, whose Spartan performances entitle those dogs to a warm spot in the hearts and memories of sportsmen, and leashmen in particular, were ably represented by direct blood line descendants at the show last week.

Heretofore, the leashmen, whilst giving their moral support to past bench shows, have held aloof from a practical affiliation with dog show enterprises, they now experienced a change of heart and under the benignant influences of the California Coursing Committee and actuated by a doubly worthy motive, came to the front with the representative showing of dogs above mentioned. The arrangement of classes was a novel one, due to the ingenuity of Mr. L. A. Klein and the suggestions of prominent coursing enthusiasts.

In open, Roman Athlete, a black and white dog, first, showed in fine condition. He is big boned but symmetrical and classic in outlines, has a clean cut head, good depth of girth, wonderful quarters and proper feet. He is muscled like a gladiator and is a fit scion of old Emin Pasha, the black whirlwind that ran out and won many a hot course at the old Ingleside grounds—outpointing his opponents time and again. He looks like a goer all over. Real Article, a brindle, smaller than Athlete, second, has not so much bone nor is she as neat and clean built as the winner although she shows more class and a better expression. Cavalier, third, shows age and is now a bit loaded in the shoulders. McHenry, a handsome brindle with white markings, one of the v h c dogs in the open class, was liked very much by many. This dog showed very poorly in the ring, but was a racy and typical looking dog withal.

Tame Tralee, a neat and very speedy looking dog with fair expression and quality but a bit light in shoulders, was reserve in the class of twenty-six dogs. In open bitches, Ruby Sankey first, is a high class one, neat sized, standing up well, pretty body and showing good bone, legs and feet. Bona Magnifica, second, lost in hind quarters and lacked the raciness of style of Sankey. Third, Harlean Gladys, is a neat little bitch, but a poor shower in the ring. She has a good head and is of excellent general type but was not put down in the best condition. Rubber Ankles, reserve, is a sweet looking young one, a bit light in head, but with a grand body that gives promise of great development. In the field trial class for dogs that reached the semi-finals or better, in champion or open stakes and final rounds in reserve stakes, Roman Athlete was again in front, Real Article, Cavalier and Luxor following in the order named. Luxor shows his age, being somewhat loaded in shoulders, but is notwithstanding a high class dog, as Curtis & Sons' bank account will bear witness.

In field class B, for bitches that had reached semi-finals or better in champion and open stakes or finals of reserve stakes, Bonnie Hughie, a handsome fawn and white bitch was first. Aggie W. second, was sent in the ring in poor condition, but is a bitch of high quality; third went to Fiery Face, a nice sized brindle, of good type and built on the racy lines that would be expected of a dog from Fawcett Brothers' kennels; being in whelp possibly kept her down a color or so in the ribbons. Bonnie Pasha, reserve, seems a bit gone in front and is also undershot.

Field trial class C, for dogs that had not gone to the semi-finals in open or champion stakes, or finals in reserve stake events brought Belfast up first. He is a good, straight fronted dog with a classy looking head but could be a bit better in loins and hindquarters. Toronto, a son of St. Lawrence, was a close second, is lighter in bone and shoulders. Grey Cloud, third, is not as good in head or expression as the winners. In this class of eleven dogs, every one entered got three or two letters.

Field class D, for bitches that had never reached the semi-finals in champion and open stakes or finals of reserve stakes, consisted of fourteen, all but one came in for recognition. Alice Louise, first, was sent in the ring in splendid condition and is a good looking bitch all round. Fanny Hughie, a sister of Bonnie Hughie, took the red ribbon and Bona Magnifica played for third place. The reserve dog, Gladys Weller, seemed to be somewhat small in size.

In the junior class for dogs under eighteen months old, Creswick, first, a big, upstanding youngster by Herschel's Pride out of Morning Glory, showed quality and style all through, he is good in shoulders, chest, loins and hindquarters and has excellent legs and feet. Renegade Apache, second, by Fortuna Favente out of Brilliantine, was slightly out of shape and had the suspicion of a flat back. Third, taken by Gloster, a black brother of Renegade, was given to a dog just a shade enough off in the shoulders to mar his general clean out appearance. In this class of eight, every one put in the ring took a mention from the judge. In the junior class for bitches under eighteen months old, Rubber Ankles, the Fortuna Favente puppy out of Brilliantine, was first. Ready Address, a sister, was second and Runaway Address, another of the same family, made third. Reserve went to Medea, a bitch by Fetter Free out of the good bitch Rocketta.

In the special novice class for dogs and bitches that had not previously won on the bench or not more than two courses in any stake Renegade Apache took the blue, Dathy (imp. Hughie ex Geary's Bonnie Lass) second, Pat Freedom, a For Freedom-Lawrence Belle dog, third, and Fred Freedom, a brother, with one letter, were properly placed. In the special novice class for bitches Rubber Ankles was first, Alameda Lass, a neat one second, and Nellie Grey third, seemed to be placed in proper order; two other bitches in the class also got deserved attention from the judge.

[Concluded next week.]

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

Mr. Leon Greenebaum purchased the Bulldogs Endcliffe Eminent and Endcliffe Forceps last week.

Irving C. Ackerman and Phil C. Meyer have gone in together on Bostons. Mr. Thomas disposed of Endcliffe Premier and Endcliffe Vernetto to them. They also purchased the wires Endcliffe Skyscraper and Endcliffe Skyrocket.

Entries for Sacramento show close on the 6th. Julius Redelsheimer has donated a prize of $10 to the San Francisco handler with the largest string entered. Wm. Halley offers a silver cup for best Great Dane bitch bred on the Coast.

Endcliffe Bristles, the wire-haired Fox Terrier that took first in his class and swept the show for best, was purchased by Mr. Carnochan.

Bristles, after a close run against the dog talent shown, was awarded the magnificent bronze vase donated by the Hon. Ho Yow. The vase is a handsome work of art and is now a bone of contention between the purchaser and Mr. Thomas. The latter contends that having entered the dog and paid the fees, he is entitled to all of the wins. Mr. Carnochan claimed the trophy, but Mr. Thomas said "Nay, nay," "If you don't like it, I'm willing to call it off," said Mr. Thomas. The purchaser closed the deal immediately with a check which was accepted. We are informed, by Mr. Christenson, that he heard Mr. Carnochan stipulate when he bought the dog that any prizes from that time on, Thursday, would go to the new owner, which was assented to by the seller, and there the matter rests.

Frederick Mansell of London, the judge of the dog show at Portland, donated ten fine engravings of crack dogs of the day, which were awarded as special prizes. The awards were as follows:

To best Yorkshire Terrier, engraving, "Ch Venio," won by Tony S., U. G. Scott, Portland, owner.

To best Scotch Terrier, engraving, "Lion's Sting," won by Endcliffe Rebel, G. S. Thomas, owner.

To best Pointer puppy in show (of opposite sex to winner of Carlton & Guist cup) engraving "Ch Dame Fortuna," won by Gnome, F. V. Holman, Portland, owner.

To best English Setter puppy (of opposite sex to winner of Butterfields cup) engraving, "Ch Go Bang," won by Bess, J. H. Smith, Portland, owner.

To best Fox Terrier puppy (of opposite sex to winner of "Totteridge Eleven") engraving, "Meersbrook Bristles," won by Norfolk Rustic, Riverside Kennels, Portland, owner.

To best wire-haired Fox Terrier dog or bitch, engraving, "Dandy Dinmont Terriers," won by Endcliffe Skyrocket, George S. Thomas, owner.

To best smooth Fox Terrier puppy, engraving, "The Totteridge Eleven," won by Blank, Riverside Kennels, Portland, Or.

To best Bulldog, engraving, "Ch Monkey," won by Ivel Rustic, L. A. Klein, San Francisco, owner.

To best Bull Terrier (of opposite sex to winner of L. A. Klein cup), engraving, "Ch Breda Mixer," won by Ch. Woodcote Wonder, L. A. Klein, San Francisco, owner.

To best Irish Terrier (of opposite sex to winner of L. A. Klein cup) engraving, "Ch Breda Mixer," won by Willmount Highwayman, Geo. S. Thomas, owner.

The eleven copies of the Dog Show, W. E. Huntington, donated by W. F. Burrell, were awarded as follows to the best in the following classes:

Pointer dog in novice class, Laddie W., C. H. Carter, Pendleton, owner.

English Setter dog in novice class, Teddy Roosevelt, D. P. Ewan, Portland, owner.

Irish Setter dog in novice class, Jack, F. B. Coulter, Portland, owner.

Cocker Spaniel dog in novice class, Max, Alfred Holman, Portland, owner.

Collie dog in novice class, Shady, G. M. Brown, Portland, owner.

Bull Terrier dog in novice class, Hot Air, S. Kerr, Portland, owner.

Fox Terrier dog in novice class, Norfolk Rustic, Riverside Kennels, Portland, Or.

Irish Terrier, dog or bitch, in open class, Buster II, Mrs. W. B. Fecheimer, Portland, owner.

Best Boston Terrier dog in show, Tony S., U. G. Scott, Portland, owner.

Best Yorkshire dog in show, Jack B., J. W. Beaky, Portland, owner.

Irish Water Spaniel in novice class, Milo, I. N. Batt, Portland, owner.

Hotel Rosslyn, Los Angeles, American and European plans.

A cow that does not average six or seven quarts a day for 300 days, from 4000 to 4500 pounds a year, is not considered profitable. This is a hurried old world and our Western Yankees and Missourians have no time to wait. The hustling farmer or dairyman who lets a lively boy with a dog take his cows to and from the range, fans them with a milk stool or pitchfork or nudges them with a number ten boot can never make them pay for their keep—nor will they help to raise the mortgage. It has been shown by experiments that kindness and grooming of cows gives a difference of 2.5 to 8.3 per cent in the yield of milk and fat.

In a trial with thirteen calves, ranging from two to three months of age, it was found that 868 pounds of water was consumed in seven days or nearly ten pounds a day to each head. It was noticed that these calves drank several times a day but sipped only a little at a time. Even after their ration of milk they would take a few swallows of water. An automatic waterer situated a little above the surface of the ground is the best arrangement for supplying this need.

Senator Money of Mississippi says that every pound of butter that goes to the West Indies is colored a brilliant red. The darkies down there will not have any other color. They like red butter just as they adore red shirts or carmine cravats. We would have been just as well pleased if the new oleomargarine bill in Congress had contained a clause requiring all bull butter to be colored pink under government supervision.

WM. G. LAYNG IS IN THE LEAD.

Owing to the demands of the public that I board and keep fine trotters and business horses for sale, I have leased the premises known as the Fulton Stables, 246 Third street, and connected it with my well-known place, the Occidental Horse Exchange, and will hereafter conduct the entire business under the latter name.

I have room for over 200 horses, the finest of stalls, all on the ground floor, where special attention is paid their sanitation and ventilation. The large area of ground space, 120x250 feet, gives me plenty of room for keeping horses in any manner desired, commodious box stalls, fine tanbark ring and large enclosure to exercise horses in. A splendid entrance on Third street (the busiest in San Francisco) and another on Clementina street in the rear, give me opportunities for the reception and delivery of horses and vehicles unequalled by any one in San Francisco.

The fame of the Occidental Horse Exchange for holding auction sales of all kinds is world wide and I intend to hold sales in the same manner as heretofore, with this exception: I will accommodate more horses and have the sales pavilion fitted up better than heretofore. I have sold horses for the following, to whom I respectfully refer breeders and owners: A. B. Spreckels, Prince Poniatowski, Charles Kerr, W. O. B. Macdonough, Edw. Corrigan, E. J. Baldwin, Oakwood Park Stock Farm, Palo Alto Stock Farm, Brentwood Stock Farm, Papinta Stock Farm, Santa Rosa Stock Farm, J. Naglee Burk, Bellota Stock Farm, Sonoma Stock Farm, Wm. Murray, W. S. Hobart, K. O'Grady, Burns & Waterhouse, Del Monte Stock Farm, W. R. Larzalere, and many others.

The wool season has begun out west and a forecast indicates that the values will be to all intents and purposes the same as last year. The market in the east is very dull at present and the indications are that the season will be slow and draggy. Until the present labor troubles with the American woolen trust are straightened out there will be very small demand for wool. This company which is the largest consumer in the country has closed down the majority of its mills owing to the strike of weavers and until this matter is settled there will be practically no market for wool and this is about the same old yell that we hear every spring when shyster buyers begin to arrive from the east.

In order to make some tests as to the keeping qualities of certain butter, officers of the department of agriculture purchased forty-four tubs out of the sixty tubs exhibited at the Kansas State dairy meeting held last month. The best of this butter made from pasteurized cream which had been heated to 190 degrees F. and immediately cooled. Some of it came from skim stations fifty miles away from the central plant. The average score was 96.9, the highest being 98 and the lowest 95.1.

SPAVIN CURE.

Actually Illustrates the Power and Value of "Save-the-Horse."

POSITIVELY AND PERMANENTLY CURES BONE AND BOG SPAVIN, RINGBONE, CURB, THOROUGHPIN, SPLINT, CAPPED HOCK, WEAK AND SPRAINED TENDONS, WINDPUFF, AND ALL LAMENESS.

NOTE OUR CLAIM—"IT IS INFALLIBLE"

Work horse continuously if desired. "Save-the-Horse" cures without scar, blemish or loss of hair. Contains no Arsenic, Corrosive Sublimite or other form of Mercury or any ingredient that can injure the horse.

Chronic and seemingly incurable cases in the advanced stage that have been tried two or three times and given up as hopeless, positively and permanently cured.

Its possibilities are without limit. "Save-the-Horse" marks an achievement remarkable and unparalleled in medicine. It is the crowning success of ten years' research and experimenting in the treatment of the products of inflammation.

The potent, unflinching power of "Save-the-Horse" lies in its concentrated, penetrating, absorbing properties. It cures by penetrating to the seat of the injury or disease, producing a physiological change, absorbing all inflammatory exudate and producing a healthy, normal condition of the parts.

$5.00 PER BOTTLE.

Written guarantee with every bottle, given under our seal and signature, constructed solely to convince, satisfy and protect you fully. We know positively "Save-the-Horse" will absolutely and permanently cure, and for that reason guarantee is made all your way.

We make no claim or assertion without being absolutely sure of its accuracy.

There is no condition or arrangement we can make more binding to protect you than our guarantee.

It is attended with such clear evidence of reliability that it cannot be mistaken.

Bottle contains sufficient to effect a cure in any ordinary case. We have only two cases on record in two years where the second bottle was required to produce a cure.

When in emergency a speedy and permanent cure is urgently needed apply

VETERINARY PIXINE

Rub it on bare spots, old sores, inflammatory swellings, scratches, grease heel and skin disease. It penetrates and soothes, and the horse grows well as he toils throughout the day.

After Blistering, VETERINARY PIXINE is the very best application that could be indicated. It absorbs all inflammatory exudate and hastens the reparatory process. Will heal the most severe cases without scar and will prevent loss of hair.

As a Preventive.—If a light application of VETERINARY PIXINE is used before speeding, driving in wet, muddy or slushy weather, or in the snow, your horse will never have speed cracks, scratches or grease heel.

For Hoofs.—It will keep the hoofs healthy, soft and in perfect form.

This penetrating, stimulating, soothing, absorbing, antiseptic, healing ointment heals from beneath the surface by disinfecting the parts, subduing the inflammation and stimulating healthy granulation, not by drying and scabbing.

QUINN'S OINTMENT.

It has the unqualified endorsement of our leading horsemen and veterinarians.

Mr. C. E. DINEHART, Cashier State Bank, Clayton, Minn., says: "One bottle cured a very bad case of blood spavin on a mare for which I have since been offered $800. I would not be without it if it cost $5.00 a bottle."

We have hundreds of such testimonials.

Price $1.00 per package. Ask your Druggist for it. If he does not keep it, we will send prepaid on receipt of price.

132,000 Deaths from this alone.

One special danger menaces those who live well, who can use champagne and fine liquors, and that is Bright's Disease. Posted clubmen understand this so well that many have tests made every few months. Others drink nothing but dry wines. But still the deaths reported from Bright's Disease and Diabetes are increasing at a fearful rate. The last census reports show that since 1880 the increase has been nearly fifty per cent and that the deaths in the United States alone from above causes and diseases growing out of them last year reached the enormous number of 132,000.

Hence the importance of every clubman knowing this one fact, viz.: That Bright's Disease and Diabetes are now positively curable in about 87% of all cases. The Fulton Compounds are now saving the lives of hundreds, and will, when better known, save the lives of thousands who are now with little hope.

For further particulars address

TOM JAMES, 1120 Alameda Ave., San Jose, Cal.

SEYMOUR WILKES REG. NO. 0232.

Race Record 2:08 1-2

The Fastest Son of Guy Wilkes

Will make the Season of 1902 at

Lakeville, Sonoma Co., Cal.

SEYMOUR WILKES earned his record in a hard fought race and was a game race horse. The oldest of his get are five-year-olds, and no horse in California can show a greater proportion of large, handsome, strongly built and well-boned colts. They all look alike and in nearly every instance are square trotters. The only one that has been trained is Joe Eviston (3-2-22 in 1901).

SEYMOUR WILKES is by Guy Wilkes his dam Early Bird by Playmail; second dam by Odd Fellow, third dam by a son of Williamson's Belmont, fourth dam by Blackhawk 567. He weighs 1300 pounds, stands 16 hands high and is one of the most symmetrical horses in California. Several of his get are in San Francisco and will be shown to prospective breeders with pleasure.

Terms for the Season, $40. Mares not proving in foal can be returned next year by paying $10 additional. Mares can be shipped direct to ranch, via steamer Gold. Pasturage $3 per month. For further particulars apply to THOS. ROCHE, Lakeville, Sonoma Co., or J. W. GREGORY, St. George Stables, 408 Bush street, San Francisco.

EDUCATOR

The Handsomest Son of Director

Will make the Season of 1902, five days each week, at M. Henry Ranch, near Haywards; Saturdays at Geary & Grindell Stables,

HAYWARDS, CAL. - Terms $25

EDUCATOR is by the great Director 2:17, sire of Directum 2:08 1/4, Direct 2:08 1/4 and 47 more in 2:30. Dam, Dolly by Vermont Messenger; second dam, a Morgan mare. His oldest colts, now four years old, nearly all from common mares, are, without doubt, the handomest colts in Alameda county and all show speed. He is a sure foal getter.

For further particulars address

M. HENRY, Haywards, Cal.

MONTEREY 31706 RECORD 2:09 1/4

PEDIGREE IN PART.

Sired by SIDNEY 2:19 1/4, sire of 17 in the 2:15 list, 7 better than 2:12, 3 better than 2:10, and Lenna N. 2:05 1/4 (champion record), and 96 in the charmed circle. Battle dam of Monterey, is by that great sire of broodmares, Com. Belmont 4340, son of Alexander Belmont 64, sire of Nutwood 2:18 1/4, Barona, his second dam, is by Woodford's Mambrino 3:21 1/4, and his third dam, Miss Gratz, by Alexander Norman 25, sire of Lula 2:15, fourth dam by Gray Eagle, thoroughbred. His blood lines are of the choicest, and his wonderful speed has justly come to him. He is a grand stallion to look at; he has size and conformation to make him what he is—a king among stallions. His first crop of foals two years old now, are very promising, as Walter S. Maben writes me as follows:

"I worked the Monterey two-year old to-day, March 26th, a half in 1:15, first quarter in 0:40 1/4, last eighth in 17 seconds, so you see he can step some and has but little work. He can trot faster than any colt I ever saw and do it easier."

WALTER S. MABEN.

Maben also writes that the Monterey colts are all fine, big, good-looking colts, and look to him (Maben) to be the real thing for stake winners. It will not be long before the breeders will be breeding to Monterey at a much larger fee than his present price. One thing is sure, it is hard for a stallion to work himself up without the support of the breeders, and yet I don't think that the cranks can keep him down, for if he reproduces himself the foals will be of such high class that the public cannot overlook them. Nowadays colts must be game to win big purses, and on this score I am on top, and speed also. Monterey will make this season, 1902.

McKINNEY 2:11¹/₄

BY ALCYONE; DAM ROSA SPRAGUE (grandam of Ferenno (3) 2:10¹/₄) by GOV. SPRAGUE

By the percentage of his performances in the 2:15 and 2:20 lists he the Champion Sire of the World at any age.

A Race Horse Himself. He started in 28 races, won 25, was second twice and third once.

He is a Sire of Race Horses. Every one of his get in the 2:20 list secured their records in races and are all race winners.

He is the Champion in the Show Ring, Champion on the Race Track and Champion in the Stud.

His get bring better prices than the get of any other Stallion on this Coast. Nine sold in 1901 for from $1000 to $7500 each, an average of $3160 each, and $10,000 was refused for a young McKinney stallion.

He is a Complete Outcross to all California Mares.

In 1900 his get won first second and fourth money in the Pacific Breeders Futurity, first and second money in the Occident Stake and first, second and third money in the Stanford Stake. The McKinneys are stake winners.

JOTTINGS.

MANY STALLS WERE VACATED at Pleasanton during last week and there is now room for a few more at the horse centre. Bert Webster took the Griffith consignment to Cleveland during the early part of the week and on Saturday last Millard Sanders hooked his carload of Santa Rosa Stock Farm horses to the overland express and was whirled away from the station amid the cheers and best wishes of a couple of hundred people who had gathered to wish him bon voyage and good luck. "The best string of race horses that ever left Pleasanton" was the verdict passed on them by the horsemen of that town who had seen Mr. Sanders giving them their work. There was Dolly Dillon 2:07, the fastest mare on the Grand Circuit last year and confidently expected to hold the same proud position this year and to reduce her present record. She is sound, and stronger and faster than she was last season at the same time of the year. She has worked a mile in 2:14, last quarter in 31½ seconds and was not urged to accomplish this feat. "She will make Sidney Dillon's name a household word if she keeps right," said one enthusiastic admirer of this great mare. Bonsilene 2:14½ by Stamboul 2:07½ out of Bon Bon (the dam of Bonnie Direct 2:05½) by Simmons is another that will enroll her name high up on the speed scroll this year. She is not what one would call a consistent race mare, but some day when she gets off just right and the day and track are suitable, she is liable to trot a mile in 2:04 or better, and be in the same class as Alix and Nancy Hanks, for she has a truly marvelous flight of speed. Anzella 2:10½ should help Millard to bring back a share of the money that is hung up for the 2:10 and 2:11 classes over East. She is a very game mare, with a great amount of speed, and although inclined at times to be a little flighty or contrary, trots steadily in a majority of the heats after the word is given. I think miles in 2:08, three or four of them too, are not too much for her. Sir Albert S. 2:08½ by Diablo will probably be the member of the string that the horsemen will be most anxious to look at when he arrives at Cleveland. The Santa Rosa Stock Farm has him entered all through the circuit wherever there is a class for him, and I think he will not disappoint them. There are quite a number of horsemen here who shake their heads doubtfully when his name is spoken and who say, "Wait till he meets a field of horses that take him to the half in 1:02 and bring him home at the same rate of speed and he will find it a harder game than he had in California last year where he completely outclassed his field." It may be that they are right, but I think Sir Albert S. will pace three heats better than his record without making much fuss about it, and that 2:03 will not be beyond his limit. He was taken to the half in 1:02 last year and then paced the third quarter in 30 seconds, when he had his field killed off and jogged home, and as this looked easy for him I believe he is one of the genuine kind that come one in a bunch and very few bunches at that. If he has ordinary luck with Sir Albert S. Millard will earn a lot of money with him and be compelled to answer many a question about the gelding's sire, Diablo 2:09½, one of the greatest young stallions California has yet produced. There is another trotter in his racing string which may trot a sensational mile before returning to California. I refer to Lou Dillon, a daughter of Sidney Dillon that showed quarters in 31 seconds and a trial mile in 2:15 this spring. She may be started in a few races this year if she is in good shape, and if so will make a good showing as she is a high class trotter. The remaining member of Mr. Sanders' racing string is the black three year old stallion owned by Judge Greene of Oakland and a candidate for the Kentucky Futurity of this year. This little fellow is an earnest strong trotter, with a little too much fold of the knee to suit some for a fast trotter, but just the sort of action that one would like in a sire. I believe he will trot in 2:15 handily this year, but as the Kentucky Futurity has been putting its winners in the 2:12 class recently he has quite a task before him to win it. Before leaving Pleasanton Sanders worked him a mile in 2:26, last half in 1:09 and last quarter in 33½ seconds.

There were great doings in a social way at Pleasanton before the heira for the East. On the evening of April 25th, mine host, D. F. Tillman, gave a party in honor of the departing horsemen, at which there was dancing in the spacious dining room of the Rose hotel and a banquet under a canopy in the beautiful garden which adjoins that famous hostelry. Col. J. C. Kirkpatrick of San Francisco acted as toastmaster and many witty speeches were made by the different parties called upon for "a few remarks." On the following Thursday evening Millard Sanders gave a "little supper" to a number of his friends and the occasion was one long to be remembered by those present. There has never been a more popular trainer at Pleasanton than Mr. Sanders and he left last Saturday with the good wishes of every man, woman and child in the place.

Fred Chadbourne of Pleasanton, who is one of the coming young trainers of California, drove the big green pacer by Lottery Ticket last Saturday that his partner, James Sutherland, has nicknamed Mush. This horse has had no work at all worth speaking of and yet he is showing an amount of speed that makes him look like a money winner this year if raced. Chadbourne drove him a mile Saturday in 2:18½, last quarter in 34½ seconds, an evenly rated mile throughout. Mush is not the soft horse he was when taken out of pasture a few weeks ago, and will have his name changed before he is entered in the races. Since his good showing Mr. Sutherland thinks Hard Tack would be a more suitable cognomen than Mush.

During the past few weeks Mr. L. C. Crellin, of the Ruby Hill Vineyard, has been having J. M. Alvise work a couple of black fillies by Chas. Derby for him at the Pleasanton track and both developed speed at once. One is out of Rubicelle by Prince Red, the other out of Coquette by Wilton. They both worked quarters in 35 seconds and gave every promise of being fast enough to race. Last week Mr. Crellin concluded to hook them together and everyone that saw them immediately complimented him on the perfect match he had made. One is three and the other four years old and Mr. Crellin is confident that with a little driving he can pole them together in 2:30 or better. They have the making of as fine a pair of roadsters as there is in California. Both are royally bred. The snap shot herewith of the pair taken last Saturday at the Pleasanton station does not do them justice, but gives some idea of their appearance.

Another lot of stalls were emptied at Pleasanton during the week when Monroe Salisbury loaded a car of roadsters for Salt Lake, where the market is good it is said at the present time. The king-maker had fifteen head, of which ten were from the farm of A. W. Shippee, these having been worked for the past few weeks at Pleasanton by Louis Carrillo. Mr. Salisbury is taking along a pair of trotters that make about the nicest road team I have seen for some time. They are gaited alike and hold their heads up nicely at the same angle, something that few pairs do without an extra amount of training and checking. One is a bay mare by McKinney out of a Director mare, and the other a black gelding by Hawthorne out of a mare by Director. It is no wonder Mr. Salisbury is pleased with them as the blood of his old favorite, the winner of the first Charter Oak and founder of the Director family, is still dear to him. The mare's second dam was by another of his old favorites, Monroe Chief, and her third dam by Blackbird. As she is of good size and handsome, as well as fast, she should be a great broodmare if given a chance. They are both 15.3 hands high, weigh 1050 pounds and although just mated travel together in a very attractive manner. They were purchased by Mr. Salisbury for his brother O. G. Salisbury of Salt Lake. Mr. S. has another team, a pair of pacers, one by Moses S., the other by Rajah. They are seven years old, sixteen hands high and travel together with perfect action. I have not seen a pacing team this year that are better mannered or more nearly mated.

A few days before any of the boys left for the East there was a presentation made one day at the track, at which the big fat China cook, Joe, was the astonished recipient of a handsome gold watch and chain bearing the following inscription engraved on the back: "Presented to Joe Schweer by the Pleasanton horsemen, 1902." Accompanying the watch was a type written testimonial signed by every owner, trainer and employe at the track and worded about as follows: "We, the undersigned, desirous of showing the appreciation we have for our friend and 'chef' Joe Schweer, have this day presented him with a watch and chain which we ask him to wear as a token of remembrance from the Pleasanton Race Track boys." Joe has been the chief cook at the track during the training season ever since it was first opened and has lived in and around Pleasanton for 27 years. He resided when a boy with a family named Schweer in that valley, hence his name. Monroe Salisbury says he is the only "Chink" in the world that can make corn bread that is corn bread, and Joe always has a big pan full cooked to the taste of the veteran horseman when the latter is at the track. Joe's extreme good nature and obliging disposition have made friends for him that are as numerous as the names of all those who are employed at the track. He is the proudest Chinaman that ever wore a queue over the present of the watch and says the testimonial will get him the three eyed peacock feather when he returns to China.

To-morrow morning Orrin Hickok will leave Pleasanton for Oakland, at which place he will be joined by that other veteran, Budd Doble, and the two will journey together to the Cleveland track. Mr. Hickok has Clipper 2:06 and Thornway, the green pacer that went east as a three year old last season and tried to beat the aged horses. Although he was separately timed in 2:08 in a race he failed to get a record, but is expected to get a portion of the money this year. Mr. Hickok has been working Thornway on the old fashioned plan that he found so successful in former years. He has not given the colt a fast mile at any time, but plenty of slow heats and long ones, so as to have him stayed up to go the route. He will wait for the races to see whether the system is a good one or not, and as it has done so well for him in bygone days he has little fear but it will still pan out all right. Budd Doble is taking back a half dozen head, some of which are for sale, and others belong to eastern parties who purchased them here during the winter. He will take with him Charles Newman's well known pair of roan mares, one by a son of Anteeo, the other by Neernut. They are fast roadsters, Maud having a record of 2:17½, and Neerbell is faster but has no record. Mr. Doble will show them on the eastern tracks and may start them in team races if opportunity offers. In the same car with the veterans Hickok and Doble, will be a young trainer making his first trip over the mountains but who has never yet driven in actual races. I refer to Robert Galleagos, son of Senor Juan Galleagos of Mission San Jose, this State. He has two pacers, one the little black mare Trilby by Direct and a chestnut pacer called Diablita by Diablo. Both are green and are well entered on the Grand Circuit. They were bred by Galleagos senior, who is an ardent lover of a good horse. He says that Robert might as well begin in the best school and believes he will learn more in one season on the Grand Circuit than he could in a half dozen years on the small tracks. Trilby has shown a mile in 2:14 and Diablita is fully as fast. I hope this young man has the best of luck, as he is modest and unassuming intelligent and gentlemanly, and a worthy son of an upright and honorable gentleman. He will have the benefit of a week's intercourse with two of America's greatest reinsmen while en route, and should be able to pick up enough pointers to aid him materially in educating and driving his horses.

Will Welch has three pacers in his string at Pleasanton that are headed for the free-for-all classes next year, and one of them, Uncle John, showed so well last Saturday that there were several arguments held among the horsemen over the question of his ability to beat Sir Albert S. He is a large horse, fully sixteen hands high, and is one of the sweetest going ones that has been seen this year. He has worked a mile in 2:12, and will be a very dangerous horse up north this season, his owner, H. W. Goodall, having entered him all through the North Pacific Circuit. He ought to come pretty near winning that $2000 stake for 2:18 pacers at the Oregon State Fair at Salem, although Captain Bennett's Doctor Hammond, another whirlwind green horse, is in the same race. As he is in Welch's string also, the latter will probably start the one he thinks is the best of the two at the time. Both these pacers are by the Oakwood Park stallion, Chas. Derby, who is one of the coming great sires of California to a certainty. Derby already has three in the 2:10 list. It may be that Welch is very lucky in getting good horses in his string, but I am inclined to think he is a speed maker of ability, as his horses all seem to learn quickly to go fast. Welch was with Keating for quite a while and worked for some of the leading trainers in America. He probably kept his eyes and ears open all the time and tried to remember what he saw or heard. I know he attends very closely to business, is quiet and energetic and is determined to reach the front rank before he stops.

Notes and News.

Napa,
Colusa,
Woodland,
The Breeders,
Announce programs.

More will follow next week.

The circuit will be the best in years.

Purses will range from $500 to $2000 on the main circuit this year.

No books at Napa on harness races. It has been so decided by the Directors. Good.

The Cleveland Driving Club will hold its first matinee of the year on Saturday, June 7th.

The dam of Dr. Leek 2:09½ was bred to Autograph 2:16½ last year and now has a black colt at foot.

The $1000 pace for the 2:20 class is the largest stake for pacers announced in California this year so far.

Oakwood Park Stock Farm has bred several mares to that grand young stallion, Stam B. 2:11½, this year.

Seven or eight starters should be the result where associations open a 2:10 pacing class in California this year.

Caryle Carne 2:11½, after a year's rest from track work, is at it again and is expected to trot heats very close to his record.

The Golden Gate Fair Association has changed its date to August 23d to 30th. The racing program will be announced soon.

The Napa track is in good shape for training. As this will be about the first meeting on the main circuit, it should be a good place to train.

Lord March, who is counted by Ed Geers, John Bradburn and others as the fastest trotter ever bred at Village Farm, is being staked again.

Carmelita, the bay pacing mare by Cornelius that took a record over East last year of 2:10½, died recently at Joliet, Illinois. She was bred at Rancho del Paso in this State.

There has been a general exodus of harness horses from California to the East during the past four weeks. More than a hundred fast ones have been sent to the sales ring or race tracks.

Are you getting ready to win "The California," the $2000 trot for horses of the 2:24 class? The BREEDER thinks that three heats between 2:16 and 2:18 will win it sure. Paste this in your hat.

Klatawah 2:05½ is going sound and working satisfactorily this year at East View Farm. Don Derby 2:13½ is also working nicely this year. He is a full brother to Diablo and will lower his record.

At the recent Boston horse show Thomas W. Lawson won 56 ribbons, 23 of them first, representing $3200 in cash and plate. Eben D. Jordon won 52 ribbons, 21 of them first, with a value of $3185.

Katie G., the dam of Klatawah 2:05½, Chas. Derby 2:20, and several others with records below 2:30, was mated with Mr. Chas. Griffiths' grandly bred racing whirlwind Bonnie Direct 2:05½ this week. This should make a great cross.

Geo. Beckers says: "If you are looking for a friend in Los Angeles and he is a horseman, or if you want to find a man that knows all the horsemen, call at the Hotel Roslyn and mine host Harrison will point him out or tell you where he is.

A recent addition to Vance Nuckol's stable is the chestnut mare Adaria, that trotted to a record of 2:17½ as a four year old last year. She is by Advertiser 2:15½, dam Aria 2:16½ by Bernal, grandam Ashby, the dam of two in 2:20 by Gen. Benton.

Entries for the Decoration Day races of the Golden Gate Park Driving Association will close positively on the evening of May 20th, at the association's room, Palace Hotel. Every member should make as many entries as possible, so that the meeting will be a great success. The outlook is for the largest fields and the best day's sport in the history of the organization.

Stockton will hold a fair and race meeting during the week immediately following the State Fair. The Stockton association has received a letter from President Thos. H. Williams, Jr., in which he says that there will be no racing at the Oakland track to conflict with the Stockton dates, and the Golden Gate Fair Association has changed its date of opening to August 23d.

Los Angeles has moved its date forward one week and will open its meeting October 11th instead of the 4th, as heretofore announced. It will announce a big program soon with entries to close July 1st. Los Angeles proposes to hold the greatest meeting in its history this year, and harness horses will have a chance to earn big money there before going into winter quarters.

Hon. Paris Kilburn, president of the State Board of Harbor Commissioners, recently purchased a very handsome mare from a friend in Salinas, his old home. She is by Adrian 2:26½, her dam is by a Cleveland bay stallion and her second dam by Niagara, sire of Fairmount 2:22½. She is 16.1 hands high, weighs about 1250, and can be driven by anyone as she is absolutely fearless. A 2:40 clip with two in the buggy is easy for her.

At a meeting of the Directors of the New England Trotting Horse Breeders Association held at Boston last Friday it was decided to offer a purse of $10,000 for trotters eligible to the 2:07 class at the September meeting to be held at Readville. It is expected that this rich purse will attract such trotting cracks as Lord Derby 2:06½, Chain Shot 2:06½, Boralma 2:07, Dolly Dillon 2:07, Peter the Great 2:07½, The Monk 2:08½, Eleata 2:08½ and other fast ones.

Sandy Smith arrived at Cleveland last Sunday with the horses, twenty-four in number, from Mr. Spreckels' Aptos Stock Farm. Every horse was in good shape and the horsemen who saw them taken from the cars said they averaged better for looks than any consignment they had seen for a long time. They are being driven over the famous Glenville track there and will be ready to show buyers a high rate of speed at the Blue Ribbon sale which opens next Monday.

Whisper, the dam of Zombro 2:11, foaled a very handsome brown filly by Stam B. 2:11½ last Monday morning, which is just what her owner, Geo. Beckers, wanted, as the old mare is twenty-one years old and cannot be expected to produce so very many more before passing to the horse heaven. Mr. Beckers now owns two fillies from her by Stam B. and says that as soon as they are old enough he intends breeding them to McKinney 2:11½, sire of Zombro, and the cross should be a great one.

Lucille 2:07, and Little Boy 2:01½, will not be seen in the matinees this season. They will be under the special care of Scott McCoy, who will get them ready for some fast miles to sulky, with the view of not only reducing their present records, but all records for trotters and pacers. On form Little Boy looks to have the best chance to succeed. Lucille, however, has a chance. She has as much speed as any trotter that lives, and a season's preparation such as McCoy will give her is liable to land her very near the record for mares.

The catalogue of Senator Jones' Maplewood Farm at Portsmouth, New Hampshire, has been received at this office. It is a neatly printed pamphlet of 64 pages, containing the pedigrees of the stallions and broodmares and all the colts and fillies on the farm. The stallions in service are the Palo Alto bred ones Idolita 2:12 and Betonica 2:10½. Several mares from Palo Alto are among the Maplewood broodmares and among the young stallions is Col. Carter, a four year old by Nutwood Wilkes out of Spry Ruth by Boodle. This colt is being entered on the Grand Circuit this year.

The Buffalo Horse World says it is reported there that Mr. A. H. Miller has sold his famous mare Gazelle 2:11½ (dam of Zolock 2:10½ and the $9000 Zephyr) to Mr. J. C. McKinney of Titusville, Pa., for a long price. The week previous, Mr. Miller offered Mr. McKinney $15,000 for Zephyr who is by Zombro, but the offer was refused, and if the sale of Gazelle has been made it is very likely that she will be bred instead of raced this year, as was Mr. Miller's intention. Gazelle is by Gossiper and judging from her two first foals is destined to be one of the greatest broodmares ever bred in California.

A very fast colt that is entered in many rich stakes for three year olds this year was recently purchased by Hon. William Prince of Providence, R. I., from the Stevens Stock Farm of that State. His breeding is just about top notch as he is by Baron Wilkes 2:18, out of Nelly May by Electioneer, second dam Lady Ellen 2:29½ (dam of Helena 2:11½ and three others) by Carr's Mambrino, third dam by the thoroughbred Owen Dale, fourth dam by Williamson's Belmont, fifth dam by Red Buck. This colt represents the Wilkes-Electioneer cross combined with the best thoroughbred strains ever combined with trotting blood on this Coast.

Last week Grant Lapham gave Mr. S. Christenson's handsome black trotting mare, Simone by Simmons, dam Mi Lady by Baron Wilkes, a six heat workout over the Alameda track. The heats were trotted from 2:35 to 2:22, the fastest being the fifth. During the entire six heats Simone never lifted her head or offered to make a break. Her fastest quarter was 34 seconds at the finish of her fastest mile. Besides being one of the most fashionably bred mares in California and a first prize winner in the show ring, Simone has speed of a high order and will get a record around 2:15 this year, barring accidents. Mr. Christenson will enter her in several races on the California circuit.

Joe Goss, who owns a handsome bay mare by Diablo 2:09½, that he has been working at Pleasanton for a few weeks, was offered $1000 in cash for her last Saturday but declined the offer. He drove her a very handy mile in 2:22 and she looks like a 2:15 prospect this year. She has a square, open gait, a steady way of going and a level head, and would make one of the most attractive of roadsters. If I remember rightly she is six years old. Her legs and feet are perfect. Few are better bred than Carrie M. as Mr. Goss calls her. By the great Diablo, first dam by Alaska, son of Electioneer, second dam by May Boy, son of Whipples Hambletonian, third dam by a son of Lodi, the well known long distance thoroughbred. No one finds fault with Goss for refusing a thousand "plunks" for this handsome and fast piece of horseflesh, as she is worth more money.

The Butchers' Board of Trade will hold its ninth annual celebration on May 21st at Oakland racetrack. A big program of racing is being arranged and there is certain to be an enormous crowd. The harness races free to all whether the owners are members of the organization or not, are two in number. The first is free to all trotters and pacers; winner of first heat will be awarded $50 and go to stable; winner of second heat $30, second horse in this heat $20. No distance flag. The other race is a two mile dash for trotters and pacers; $50 to first, $30 to second and $20 to third. There will be running races, vaquero races and other races in addition. A $100 gate prize will be given.

A comparison of prices paid for certain ones of the Adbell family during the past three years shows some remarkable increase in value. Adbell himself was taken East from Palo Alto in the spring of 1898, when the late F. E. Spier purchased him for $3000, and last fall, when he went through the Garden for the second time in his life, he commanded $10,000. At Cleveland, in 1900, his daughter, To Arms, was sold for $875, and two weeks later J. H. Shults had to bid $2300 to get her. Last November another daughter, Fruition, was knocked down for $825, and recently was sold in the same ring for $1450. Since November last Adbell and twenty-seven of his produce brought an aggregate of $25,000, making an average of $875 for the lot.

Mr. M. H. Murphy, formerly of San Bernardino but now Superintendent of the San Francisco and San Joaquin Coal Company, with headquarters at Tesla, has bred his great broodmare Nelly Bly (dam of Harry Madison 2:27½, trial 2:16½, and Julia M., trial 2:13½) to Zombro. Julia M. was sold to Willard Stimson by Mr. Murphy and the former has consigned her to the Blue Ribbon sale at Cleveland, which opens next week. She worked a mile in 2:13½ very handily at Los Angeles before being shipped and as she is by Zombro, Mr. Murphy wisely concluded that the best way to get another like her was to breed Nelly Bly back again. His two year old by Zombro out of Sallie Benton (dam of Ellen Madison 2:12½) stepped two different half miles in 1:18 last Thursday, at Los Angeles. He is entered in several Eastern futurities and is a great young trotter right now.

Geo. Beckers, the enterprising owner of that great stallion, Zombro 2:11, writes us under date of May 6th, that while there may be many horsemen in this part of the State who believe they have very fast two year olds by Stam B., that he owns one by that great son of Stamboul which he believes can make any of them take second place, and that it is not all talk either. Mr. Beckers says he wants to call the turn on the Occident Stake for this year and next. He believes it will be won this year by a Zombro three year old, and that his Stam B. will win it next year. Allowing for all the enthusiasm and bias which accompanies ownership, we think Mr. Beckers is about correct in his estimation of Zombro and Stam B. as producing sires. Their reputations will grow with every year and while their get are held at high prices now, these prices will average much more with every succeeding year.

Under date of May 6th, Mr. E. D. Dudley, of Dixon, Cal., writes the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN as follows: "On May 5th, my chestnut mare Babe by Dawnlight (dam Bee by Sterling, second dam Flash by Egmont), foaled a fine, dark bay or brown with star, filly foal, by Captain Jones, the black son of McKinney. The filly is as nice a looker as one could wish, and is nominated in the Breeders Futurity stake. I claim for this filly the name Ima Jones. By the way, my four year old gelding Allendale, which won the buggy race here May 1st, will soon, barring an accident, be in the last and will be Bee's second colt to enter the charmed circle. She also being the dam of Frank Ruhstaller's good horse Monroe B. She has a two year old filly here by Bayswater Wilkes that with thirty-five days' work, worked out a half in 1:18 and the last quarter handily in 36 seconds.

Primrose by Sidney 2:19½, the dam of the handsome San Jose stallion Scott McKinney, has a very handsome colt by her side by Owyhee 2:11. Mr. Scott, as well as the many horsemen who have seen the colt, are all of the same opinion, that the colt could not be improved upon. Primrose was a very fast mare herself, but got hurt running with her first colt so she could not stand training. Royal Sid, her first colt, Mr. Scott refused $2500 for when he was two years old. The first time he was hitched to a heavy bike he went a mile in 2:34, and as a three year old took a record of 2:24½, which was not the limit of his speed. Another of her colts as a four year old worked a mile in 2:15 and could brush a two minute gait. Primrose has been bred to Alcyo 2:10, that is now fifteen years old and not in training condition, but going quarters in 30½ seconds, showing he has his old time speed. From the result of this union a two minute pacer is looked for.

Mr. T. A. Carrol, the horseshoer of San Jose, is the happy owner of a very fine colt by Scott McKinney, son of that great race horse and sire, McKinney 2:11. Mr. Carrol says he went out to the pasture when the colt was eight days old and the mare started and ran across the large field. The colt struck a pace and kept alongside his dam the entire distance. It was such a pretty sight to him and the colt pleased him so much that he has bred her back to the same horse. Five mares have foaled to Scott McKinney thus far and all the owners are so pleased with them that the mares have been sent to him again. This is quite a recommendation for so young a horse, as Scott McKinney is but four years old. He showed great speed as a two year old and this year Mr. Scott, his owner, is having Chas. Durfee work him with the idea of racing him at the San Jose meeting in July, so that he may get a record.

THIRD OPEN AIR HORSE SHOW.

List of Classes for the Burlingame Show of May 30th and 31st.

The third annual open air horse show to be given under the auspices of the Burlingame Country Club will open on Friday, May 30th, and continue two days. There will be prizes of cups and ribbons for the usual classes and driving and jumping competitions held. Entries will close Thursday, May 22d, with the Secretary of the show at Burlingame. The Horse Show Committee is composed of the following gentlemen:

Major J. L. Rathbone, chairman; Henry T. Scott, Thomas A. Driscoll, E. D. Beylard, Frederick S. Moody, Joseph B. Crockett and George Almer Newhall.

The complete list of classes follows:

ROADSTERS—Horses entered in these classes must show conformation, quality, style, and be practically sound. Roadsters, when mature, should not be under fifteen hands one inch high, and will be judged as horses driven regularly on the road. Pacers will be eligible in these classes, but they will not be judged in competition with trotters. Class 1—Horse, and best appointed road-rig; horse to count 60 per cent, wagon 20 per cent, harness and general appointments 20 per cent. Class 2—Pair of horses (same conditions as in class 8).

HARNESS HORSES, bred in California, novice classes—Horses entered in these classes must have been bred in the State of California. They must be practically sound, have good manners, and be shown before appropriate vehicles. They will be judged on their quality, conformation, action and manners. No horse to be driven faster than an ordinary park gait (ten miles an hour). All blue ribbon winners in previous California shows are barred, except in class 7. This rule will not prohibit the showing of a blue ribbon winner as one of a pair, the other being a novice. Class 3—Best horse, 14 hands 3 inches and under 15 hands 3 inches. Class 4—Best pair of horses 14 hands 3 inches and under 15 hands 3 inches. Class 5—Best horse 15 hands 3 inches or over. Class 6—Best pair of horses 15 hands 3 inches or over. Class 7—Best high stepping horse over 14 hands 3 inches. Mouth, style, conformation and hock action also considered. To be shown in harness before appropriate vehicle.

HARNESS HORSES (open to all)—Horses entered in these classes must be practically sound and have good manners. They will be judged on their quality, conformation, action and manners. No horse to be driven faster than an ordinary park gait (ten miles an hour), except in class 15. Class 8—Best horse 14 hands 3 inches and under 15 hands 3 inches, suitable for gig. Class 9—Best pair of horses 14 hands 3 inches and under 15 hands 3 inches, suitable for spider, T cart, Stanhope phaeton or Victoria. Class 10—Best horse 15 hands 3 inches or over, suitable for brougham. Class 11—Best pair of horses 15 hands 3 inches or over, suitable for landau, vis-a-vis, wagonette or bus. Class 12—Best high stepper in the show, over 14 hands 3 inches, champion class.

APPOINTMENT CLASSES: Class 13—Best horse 14 hands 3 inches and not over 15 hands 3 inches, suitable for lady; must be shown before appropriate trap; horse to count 60 per cent, trap and appointments 40 per cent. OVER $6000 AT WOODLAND.

Good Program for Harness Races—Entries to Close July 1st.

District No. 40, which now comprises the counties of Sacramento and Yolo, will hold its annual fair and race meeting at Woodland this year during the first week in September, and Secretary C. F. Thomas has just issued the program of the harness events, for which over $6000 will be given. There are five purses for trotters and five for pacers as follows:

Trotting—2:30 class $750, 2:19 class $600, 2:14 class $600, 2:10 class $600, three year olds $400.

Pacing—2:25 class $750, 2:19 class $600, 2:15 class $600, 2:12 class $600, free for all $600.

There is no place on the circuit where the horsemen are accorded better treatment than at Woodland. They find there good stalls, excellent feed, a first class track and a force of obliging officials, while the association keeps every promise made. The meeting always immediately precedes the State Fair and as Woodland is less than twenty miles distant from the State Capital, horses can be loaded across the excellent highways instead of being taken on the cars if the owners so wish. Every year Woodland secures a large entry list to its purses and we believe the association will come near breaking the record this season. Due notice will be given through these columns of the conditions, etc. The date of closing will be July 1st.

Colusa's Program is Announced.

The Colusa County District Fair Association will hold its fair and race meeting this year during the five days beginning August 11th and closing the 15th. Entries for the harness races will close June 15th, and for the running races August 1st. Colusa has a first class track, is a reliable organization and pays all its purses promptly. The purses offered this year are very liberal, as the following program will show:

HARNESS STALLION STAKE.

Over $2000 Up Before a Colt Has Been Entered.

The special Harness Stallion Stake, inaugurated by the California State Agricultural Society, and which closed May 1st, had 38 stallions nominated. While the stallion owners of this Coast have failed in many instances to see the benefit of nominating their stallions and thereby making the get eligible, there have been enough progressive and far seeing breeders to make the stake a success. Breeders who have not yet selected a stallion to breed their mares to this year will doubtless take those entered in this stake into consideration, as it is reasonable to suppose that the same stallions will be entered next year when this stake is renewed. There has been a total of $1140 paid in to the stake in nomination fees by owners, to which the State Agricultural Society adds $1000, making a total of $2140 already in the stake—quite a respectable sum. The list of owners, names of stallions and amount of nominating fees of each are as follows. The stake is to be trotted in 1905, when the foals are three years old:

Two Noted Mares Dead.

Last week Mr. J. B. Iverson, of Salinas, met a severe loss in the death of his well known great broodmare, Salinas Belle, dam of the consistent and game little campaigner Dictatress 2:12½, Ivolo 2:20½, Ivoneer (3) 2:27, Monteer 2:30 and Mambrino Boy 2:31½. Salinas Belle was a pacing mare and was twenty-four years old this spring. She was sired by Vermont 3:22, a grandson of Black Hawk 5, brought to this State many years ago. The dam of Salinas Belle was a fine black mare by the thoroughbred horse Owen Dale, son of Williamson's Belmont, whose blood is conspicuous in the pedigrees of so many fast California horses. Salinas Belle was due to foal in June to Mr. Carr's Boodle Jr., one of the grandest looking young stallions in California. She was found helpless in the pasture. No cause could be ascertained for her illness.

Another noted mare that died last week was Mr. W. L. Lumsden's mare Myrtle 2:13½ by Anteco out of Luella B. by Nutwood. Myrtle was bred by the late I. DeTurk, of Santa Rosa, and was the sensational three year old of 1891 in California, winning the rich Occident Stake that year, in which she defeated Vida Wilkes, the favorite. Myrtle was trained by William McGraw and before the first heat the pools were Vida Wilkes $30, Myrtle $13, but after the Anteco mare had won the first heat hands down in 2:19½, it was hard to get a bid for a Vida Wilkes pool. At the death of Mr. DeTurk Myrtle passed into the possession of Mr. Lumsden, of Santa Rosa, who took her out of the broodmare paddocks in 1899 and started her once—in the 2:19 class at the Santa Rosa meeting. She won the first heat in 2:13½, thus reducing her record six seconds, and got second money in the race, which was won by Addison 2:11½. Myrtle was bred to Bonnie Direct 2:05½ last year and died soon after foaling a fine filly by him. The filly was alive and doing well at last reports. Mr. Lumsden has lost a great mare, but he should have a greater in the filly left by her.

Given Thorough Satisfaction for Years.

LOS ANGELES FIESTA MATINEE.

Sweet Marie by McKinney Wins a Third Heat in 2:11 3-4.

Honored by the presence of the largest crowd that ever attended a race meeting in Los Angeles and presenting a program of which any professional meeting might well be proud, the Driving Club achieved a marked success in its Fiesta race matinee at Agricultural Park last Saturday, says the Los Angeles Times. Aside from the day being notable on account of the record breaking crowd of 10,000, Sweet Marie, the beautiful bay mare belonging to William Garland, which held the State matinee race mile record of 2:13, brought more honors to herself, her owner and the club by easily trotting the third heat of the free for all race in 2:11.

The track was in excellent condition and generally considered the day was ideal, although fitful gusts of wind puffed across the track at times, raising tiny clouds of dust. Whatever inconvenience this may have caused had little effect on the audience, for the whole was all that could be desired.

Every nook and corner of the big grand stand was full of spectators, and a hundred boys and men were in the balcony on top of it. The small grand stand, farther south, was also full, and along the fence that stretched between the two the lines of men were three deep. North of the grand stand was another triple line of spectators to the track entrance gate by the clubhouse, and stretching beyond that north to the three-quarter pole were carriages, buggies, and all manner of vehicles, filled with people, all drawn up facing the track.

On the inner rail of the track a double line of vehicles with their occupants, extended from the seven-eighths pole down past the judge's stand to a point opposite the southern entrance to the track. All the available spaces where any sort of a view of the races could be had, was a solid mass of people, altogether the largest crowd that ever witnessed any local racing event.

Thousands of Fiesta visitors were there, in addition to the crowd of regular race-goers, and over half of the vast crowd was made up of women, society being out in force. It was a regular Fiesta crowd, and in honor of the event the club officials had prepared a program that was well worthy of the occasion. Each part of it was a success in itself.

The parade of the horses and vehicles of the members was a complete success, nearly one hundred and seventy-five rigs being in the procession. Excellent sport followed the review. A program of three events had been arranged, and the card was marked by the breaking of a Coast record and the most hotly contested race in the history of the club. It was a Fiesta number, and almost as "warm" as the special score card in red, orange and green, which was a work of art.

The track was in fine condition for fast work, and in the free-for-all, the first race on the card, the club's speediest did battle. In this event almost two seconds were clipped off the Coast matinee record, Sweet Marie covering the third mile in 2:11, breaking her own record of 2:13, made on the local track last year.

The free-for-all brought out Sweet Marie, Primrose, Cœur de Lion and Sweetheart, and it took six heats to decide. William Garland's speedy bay mare, Sweet Marie, finally landed the plum, after a long and exciting battle with F. B. Taylor's Primrose. Before the race the judges decided Primrose was a little too speedy for the bunch, and gave her forty-five pounds additional to carry.

In the first heat she quite justified their judgment by walking home in 2:21, with Cœur de Lion a bad second. Sweet Marie broke shortly after the word was given, and was unable to recover the ground lost. She had to be content with third place.

The second heat also went to Primrose, Sweetheart giving the favorite the brush. A. W. Bruner drove her out, but she was too slow to land. Sweet Marie again steamed into third place.

The surprise came in the third heat, when Sweet Marie seemed to find herself. Right from the start she went after the favorite, and at the quarter was less than a length behind Primrose, who went to the pole in 34 seconds. In the back stretch she let out another link, and at the half headed the favorite by a neck. She continued to pull away, and at the three-quarters had a length to the good. As they entered the stretch it was Sweet Marie, Primrose, Cœur de Lion and Sweetheart. Between the leaders it was neck and neck to the wire, Sweet Marie having none too much the best of it to be comfortable. Sweetheart passed Cœur de Lion in the stretch, taking third place. The time was 2:11.

They got away for a good start in the fourth heat, and again it was Sweet Marie and Primrose to the front, with Sweetheart and Cœur de Lion close up.

At the half Sweet Marie had two lengths to the good over Primrose, who was on almost even terms with Cœur de Lion and Sweetheart. As they swung into the stretch Sweetheart went off her feet and was passed by Cœur de Lion, who was sent after the leader, but the lead was too good. He landed in second place, however, beating Primrose at the wire.

Cœur de Lion had his fun in the fifth heat, H. G. Bundrem driving the bay to victory in 2:18. At the start he took the pole from Sweet Marie, and at the half had the race won. Primrose went off her feet before the quarter, and was quite out of it, the race being for place between Sweet Marie and Sweetheart, the former taking it by a good length.

A whipping finish ended the sixth heat and race, Sweet Marie just reaching the wire a half length to the good over Primrose, when she went up in the air. Cœur de Lion was a bad actor at the start, making a break on the south turn that put him out of the reckoning. This left the battle to Sweet Marie and Primrose, and it was either's race to the wire. Cœur de Lion was a bad third and Sweetheart steamed into fourth place.

Polo surprised even her admirers by the way she landed the prize in the second race. She did it in two heats in three from a field in which Medico, Alies, Tom Moore, Parazzo and Bastina were entered.

She had it all her own way in the first heat, beating Medico by two lengths. Alies landed third. The second heat went to Medico, who out-footed the little bay in the stretch, but it was a close affair, and was traveled in 2:23. Again Alies landed third.

The race was won in the third heat when Polo beat Medico to the wire, having a length or more to spare. Tom Moore took third.

Russwood was too speedy for Cocoanut and Toughnut, who tried to beat him to the wire in two heats of the third and last event. It took him but two heats to show his superiority, and each he won with plenty to spare. Cocoanut took second.

Portero, the pride stallion of W. B. Prentiss' stable at San Diego, was driven an exhibition quarter by Mr. Prentiss. He covered the distance in 0:35.

The Drafter in Demand.

The drafter continues to increase in popular favor. All the best authorities agree that the heavy work horse never brought as much money as he is bringing now and further that the demand for all sorts of him never was so broad. The fact is, that despite the absence of much of an exporting demand for weighty drafters the supply is all too small and the bidders each week at almost all of the leading horse marts have to hang on a little longer in the hopes of getting enough the following week to fill out their loads. In a few of these marts drafters are no longer coming in appreciable numbers. Most of the supply seems to be concentrated in Chicago and surely the supply is small enough there from week to week. Indianapolis was wont in times gone by to get a fair share of this trade, but of late only a very few really heavy horses have been shipped there. Kansas City has marked up her prices a good $25 per head, but some days not an 1800-pound horse reaches her yards. South Omaha, situated midway between districts in Nebraska and Iowa where many good heavyweights have been produced, reports continually decreasing arrivals, indeed some days not one is reported. Naturally this scarcity over all has stimulated the demand for the medium weights and horses of from 1550 to 1700 pounds are bringing much more money than they were some weeks or months ago, but it should always be borne in mind that conditions as to price of feed and the status of commerce are abnormal and these middle weight sorts will be the first to lose in value, no matter what happens, when the drop comes. It is easier to rear a horse that weighs 1550, 1600 or even 1700 pounds than one that weighs 1800 pounds, and when the former are commanding prices around $175 to $200 or even over there is temptation for the breeder to relax his efforts to breed the real big fellows, but this should not be done. Nothing short of a commercial cataclysm of a sort the world has never before seen will put the price of heavy drafters below the profitable point for many years to come. Indeed, it is extremely doubtful if we will ever again see that kind selling low. Keep on trying to breed the big ones; undersized lots will show up in spite of all that can be done. There is room, seemingly, everywhere at present, but it will not always be that way. Breed the kind for which the demand will always be keen and price high.—Breeders' Gazette.

News From the North.

[Portland Rural Spirit.]

J. A. Jones, of Springbrook, says all four of the mares he bred to Zombro last year are in foal.

A. P. Church, of San Jose, Cal., has located at Irvington track, where he has opened a shoeing stable for track work. Mr. Church brings with him a good reputation in this line of work.

Everett, Wash., is advertising two early closing stakes, $500 for 2:25 pacers and $500 for 2:40 trotters, entries to close June 2d. Everett has dates on the North Pacific circuit.

The track at Irvington is now in good condition and will be kept so throughout the training season. Quite a number of horses will be worked there this summer, which will give the place an old time appearance.

James Erwin is working Starkey at Pendleton and going eighths in 17 seconds easy. He also is getting Ollie M. and Oregon Sunshine in prime condition, and also a three year old pacer by Chehalis and Easter Annie (2) by Westfield.

Frank Frazier is driving Hassalo on the road at Pendleton and goes out to the track frequently and gives the boys a brush. Hassalo has had no training whatever since last year, but he pulled a pneumatic tired buggy an eighth under 17 seconds.

The Riverside Driving Club, of Portland, held a regular meeting in the Rural Spirit office last Friday evening, and took up the matter of holding regular matinee meetings throughout the season. It was the unanimous opinion of those present that meetings of this kind would be a great stimulus to the driving interest. The Board of Directors were instructed to make all necessary arrangements for holding the first meeting Saturday, June 14th.

An association has been organized at Wasco, Or., with G. N. Crosfield President; John Medler, Vice-President; R. G. Case, Secretary and Treasurer, for the purpose of holding a horse fair at that place July 4th and 5th. The association has 150 members, which they expect to increase to 250 in a short time. Cash premiums in the sum of $500 will be given at this fair, and all classes of horses will be provided for. J. G. Medler, Frank Hulery and W. E. Hines are a committee on arrangements, and they are leaving nothing undone to make the fair a success.

Post Check Money.

A new system of currency has been invented which has many meritorious features. It is proposed to reprint all $1, $2 and $5 Treasury notes, coin or silver certificates now in circulation and have the faces of the new bills provided with blank lines. This would be the ordinary money of the day. Then when one wishes to send money by mail, say $2, he takes such a bill from his pocketbook, writes on its face the name of the person or firm to whom it is to go, the city and State, and affixes a two-cent stamp in the square indicated (one-cent stamp for fractional bills) cancelling the stamp with his initials and date and signs his name on back. The bill, which previously was negotiable money, is instantly transformed into a personal check on the United States Government for $2, as safe for transmission as any bank check. This is enclosed in a letter to the person or firm desired and can be collected by the receiver upon identification at the postoffice named.

The tiresome and time-consuming trip to the post-office to secure a money order is avoided and a convenient, safe and instantly available form of safe money is supplied with which the public can transact mail business which now aggregates in small sums upwards of two billions dollars a year. The small fee charged would probably aggregate a larger revenue to the Government than is received from the present money order system.

The New Haven Register says: "This scheme would be of vast advantage to our rural communities. It would also tend to increase rural free delivery, a subject of much interest to the Postoffice Department and the country at large. It would do away with the nuisance of sending and receiving stamps instead of money. Business houses during the year receive large amounts of stamps. One large Chicago publisher reports the receipt of upwards of $350,000 in stamps in one year, nearly $1000 per day. Others have the same experience on a smaller scale. One thing is certain, the bill would stop stealing in the mails. The thief could not collect one of these post checks for he has to be identified when he presents the bill for payment. The Postoffice Department officials have already recognized the advantage of this new system and are heartily in favor of it. If the people throughout the country demand this convenience, Congress will not refuse it."

Removed Tumor, Also Cured Fistula.

COMO, HENRY CO., TENN.

The Lawrence-Williams Co., Cleveland, Ohio:

Replying to your inquiry in regard to the tumor I removed from back of my hand, will say that it had been growing for two or three years. I had shown it to two doctors and they both led me to believe they thought it might be cancer. I began using the Caustic Balsam by applying it once or twice per day with my finger; did not rub it to create any friction. I kept this up for two or three weeks when it became loose and I took hold of it with my fingers and pulled it out by the roots. It left quite a hole but it has healed and there is no scar or anything by which you can tell it was ever there. I also cured a fistula on a fine mare with three applications.

SACRAMENTO is to have a running meeting beginning next week. There are about 250 runners now at the track there and the prospects are for a very interesting and well attended meeting. Mr. John Mackay is president of the club and J. W. Brooks secretary and handicapper.

THE BLUE RIBBON SALE will open at Cleveland next Monday and much interest is taken among California horsemen as to the prices the consignments from Palo Alto, Aptos Farm, Santa Rosa Stock Farm and other California breeders will bring. Some of the best horses ever bred in this State are to be sold and the prices should be a good guide to the condition of the market.

THE MAIN CIRCUIT, comprising those associations in California that give purses larger than $500, promises to be larger this year than ever. Napa, Vallejo, Oakland, Woodland, the State Fair, Stockton, Breeders meeting at Fresno, Bakersfield and Los Angeles will all be in this class, and thus there will be ten weeks of racing on this circuit. In addition there will be two or three smaller circuits where the purses range from $150 to $500. Harness horses will have many opportunities to earn money in this State this season.

THERE IS GOOD MONEY THIS YEAR for the slow classes in California. Three associations have announced their programs thus far and all have treated the slow classes generously. The Breeders offer $2000 for 2:24 class trotters and $1000 for 2:20 class pacers. Napa gives $800 for the 2:40 trotters, $700 for the 2:30 trotters, $600 for the 2:24 trotters and $500 each for the green and the 2:25 class pacers. Woodland offers $750 for the 2:30 class trotters and the same amount for 2:25 class pacers. These purses are a pretty good starter for a circuit and the horse that can win at these three meetings in his class will not owe his owner anything for training expenses.

NAPA'S PROGRAM appears in our advertising columns this week and is a most generous one. The speed committee and Secretary Bell have made an admirable selection of classes, and every purse should fill. All horsemen know the Napa track. It is fast and safe and located in one of the most beautiful spots in California and in an ideal climate. Napa always pays its purses promptly, and every attention is shown the horsemen. This year there will be no bookmaking permitted on harness races, and no running events on the days when the harness races are held. If the program fills there will be four days devoted to trotting and pacing races, during which time nearly $7000 will be distributed in purses. A program like this is what the harness horse owners and trainers have been demanding for years. Napa has provided it for them and they should respond with the entries and help make it a big success. It will be the first important meeting of the main circuit this year, and entries will close June 2d.

AN ENTERPRISING ASSOCIATION is the Contra Costa District Agricultural Society, and their action in purchasing seventy acres of land adjoining the town of Concord for a fair ground and race track meets the general approval of the entire district. There were two bids for the coveted location of the grounds. Walnut Creek bid $1700, but Concord's bid was $2950. The citizens of Martinez stood in with Concord and will assist with a generous money contribution to the fund, as the following letter will show:

MARTINEZ, April 28, 1902.

H. J. Curry, Esq., President Agricultural District No. 2.—Dear Sir: We, the committee appointed by the Directors of the Agricultural Society to ascertain what financial aid the town of Martinez would give towards moving the fair grounds to this town, beg to report that the people of Martinez have learned with pleasure that the citizens of Concord have very generously come to the front and promised such substantial aid towards building up the Fair Association, that the citizens of Martinez have concluded that Concord is entitled to the Fair grounds; and this committee will endeavor to secure substantial financial aid from this town for the purpose of helping the enterprise along.

Yours very truly,

WM. S. WELLS,
REES JONES,
T. A. McMAHON,
Committee.

It is proposed by the association to expend about $10,000 for the grounds and buildings and making the track, and if possible they desire to pay the entire amount this year and be out of debt when the fair is over. It is a most commendable undertaking and every citizen of Contra Costa county should help the enterprise as far as he can. The location selected is very central, on an excellent piece of land, and can be made a most attractive spot.

GOOD LOOKS, one of the most valuable qualifications a trotting-bred horse can possess, and which brings more money in the aggregate than speed does in the salesring, is transmitted by inheritance with as much certainty as any trait or characteristic. It has often been remarked by horsemen in California that Zombro 2:11 and Stam B. 2:11 1/4 are two of the handsomest of all the young stallions in the State, and that while by different sires, those sires (McKinney and Stamboul) were frequent prize winners in the show ring over large fields of competitors. There are many, however, who have overlooked the fact that on the side of their dams, Zombro and Stam B. carry the blood close up of a very handsome stallion, Almont Lightning, the dam of Zombro and Stam B.'s granddam being by that son of another handsome horse, Almont 33. It is not generally known in this State that Almont Lightning, when taken from Kentucky to New York, defeated the great Mambrino King in the show ring, but such is the fact. A correspondent recently sent us the following, copied from a New York paper, the date of which does not appear on the copy, but which was probably 1884 or 1885, as we understand Almont Lightning died when about ten years old, and he was foaled in 1875. The article is headed "Almont Lightning vs. Mambrino King," and is as follows:

On Friday, October 5th, the third day of the Union Fair of East Aurora, the largest crowd that had been seen on the grounds this year was present. The great attraction of the day, and which a large number came expressly to see, was the exhibition of Class 7—trotting stallions with pedigree. The horses entered for competition were: From H. C. Jewett & Co's Stock Farm, Almont Lightning; from C. J. Hamlin's Village Stock Farm, Mambrino King, claimed by many to be the handsomest horse in America, also winner of the first premium at the New York State Fair this year; from Yeoman's Stock Farm, Mohican by Rysdyk's Hambletonian.

As it is a well known fact that a spirited but friendly rivalry exists between these farms, which is shared to a certain extent by the people in this vicinity, the greatest interest was manifested to know the result.

The appearance of Mambrino King as he was led upon the track in front of the grand stand was greeted with a burst of applause from his friends, but which subsided when Almont Lightning, seen now for the first time by a great many, came on directly afterward. Mohican also made a fine appearance and was the object of much favorable comment. It was a very fine point to decide between the first two mentioned, as they were led along side by side in front of the stand, but when Almont Lightning was harnessed to a sulky he made such a really grand appearance and showed a 2:30 gait so easily, carrying the large amount of flesh that he did, that the result was foreseen by all. The judge who was selected—a well known Canadian gentleman and horseman of large experience—gave his decision in favor of Almont Lightning, with Mambrino King second and Mohican third.

Almont Lightning 1023, the winner, is a handsome bay horse, with black points and a star in his forehead. He was foaled in 1875, is sixteen hands high, was sired by Almont 33, son of Alexander's Abdallah 15, sire of Goldsmith Maid 2:14; first dam Molly Bowman by Mambrino Pilot 29, second dam by Mambrino Chief 11, third dam Old Flaxey by Telegraph. He was purchased from W. T. Withers, Lexington, Ky., in July, by the Messrs. Jewett, and brought to this place. He now contests the honor with Mambrino King of being the handsomest horse in America, being considered by competent judges the equal in beauty, with the advantage of a superb trotting gait, greater size and strength, and presumably having greater powers of endurance than his famous rival.

Whisper, the dam of Zombro, and Belle Medium, dam of Stam B., are among the beauties of the famous broodmares of California, the one a daughter, the other a granddaughter of this handsome stallion, who must have been an equine Adonis to defeat Mambrino King, that was then known and for fifteen years afterwards was advertised as the handsomest horse in America. There is nothing truer than the old saying, "Like begets like or the likeness of some ancestor."

"Now, an auto," said the roadside photographer, "is easy, for it stands still. But it's different with a horse."

"To get a good picture of a horse you've got to fix his attention and interest him as you would a child. The dullest and laziest of horses may not stand still, or he may slouch into some unhandsome attitude, so that he won't look very pretty when you do get him."

"The spirited, lively horse finds it hard to stand still at all. He's bobbing his head or moving somehow all the time, so that he's hard to get, and then the finest horse looks better in some attitudes than he does in others. It is a common thing for the photographer who takes pictures of the turnouts of people driving, to have somebody interest the horse, to get him at once quiet and into a good attitude while he takes the picture."

"The picture taker having his camera conveniently located, the man who is to have his outfit taken drives into position and halts. The photographer, all ready for taking the picture and waiting now only for the horse to stand still and to look well, calls to his assistant, who, standing in front of the horse and ten or twenty feet away, attracts the animal's attention."

"Sometimes he has a little rattle for this purpose; sometimes he holds up a bunch of grass. It might be that he would wave a handkerchief gently, at the same time calling to the horse. Then you see things happen."

"Even though he was a handsome horse anyway he looks more so than ever in that first look at the man who has attracted his attention. It may be that he's just a bit startled, and he stands there perfectly erect, head up and all attention, ears thrown forward, a keen alertness in every line, a most spirited figure of a horse, and for the moment motionless, and in that happy moment you get him."—Exchange.

China Maid, the fast green pacing mare by McKinney 2:11 1/4, has been entered in several important events over East and will be sent there to fulfill them. She is now in the hands of Jack Groom, who trained and drove Sir Albert S. 2:08 1/4 in all his races, who is giving her a very careful preparation and seems to understand her thoroughly. She is being worked at the Alameda track.

May Day Races at Dixon.

DIXON, May 6, 1902.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—The directors of the Dixon Driving Park Association were fortunate this year in having a fine day, the first of May, on which to hold their picnic and races. The weather was perfect and a large crowd in attendance. The races were called at one o'clock sharp with Joe Stadfeldt of Vacaville acting presiding judge, ably assisted by John Hale of Suisun and C. C. Donohoe of Dixon. Timers—Ham Boyce of Winters and Mr. Casey of Sacramento.

For the named buggy horse race, for a purse of $75, mile heats, three in five, the following horses, all by Falrose, lined up as named.

Dixon Maid, b m, W. Masten, driver; Allendale, b g, Sam Hoy, driver; Shanghai, b g, C. Day, driver; Bellrose, b m, Q. Scwisher, driver; Falrose, b g, R. H. Nason, driver.

After several attempts the horses got away in good shape, Dixon Maid and Allendale leading. Round the first turn Allendale broke and gave the Maid quite a lead, but got his stride again and soon overtook the mare and beat her out at the finish by a short neck in 2:35. For the second heat only four started, Falrose having been withdrawn. Allendale took the lead at the fall of the flag, which he maintained quite easily, though followed closely by Dixon Maid, to the finish. Time, 2:34. Bellrose and Shanghai distanced.

The third and last heat was won handily by Allendale in 2:34½, trailed closely by Dixon Maid.

Both of these horses can easily enter the list as they have had but little work, neither of them having had two months prep. The track here is a half mile and in poor condition for fast time.

For the second race, for a purse of $100, for two year olds, pacers or trotters, one-half mile heats, three in five, the following colts started:

Donalicia, blk f by Don Marvin, C. Day, driver; Dart, blk g by Hector, D. Bigelow, driver; The Giggler, blk g by Bayswater Wilkes, H. Giddings, driver; Lorna Doon, dun f by Bayswater Wilkes, Sam Hoy, driver.

After several attempts the colts got away scattering, Lorna Doon acting badly. The Giggler soon assumed the lead, which he maintained easily to the wire in 1:23, followed by Dart, Donalicia and Lorna Doon away back.

The second heat was won handily by The Giggler in 1:23. Dart second and Lorna Doon third.

The third heat was the prettiest in the race, Bigelow, with Dart, caught the veteran Hank Giddings with The Giggler napping in the stretch, and forced him out in 1:20 to win. A creditable performance for two year olds at this season over a slow half mile track.

For the three year old race, for trotters or pacers, for a purse of $100, mile heats, three in five, the following started:

Donwater, dun g by Bayswater Wilkes, W. Hoy, driver; Glenrose, b g by Falrose, R. H. Nason, driver; b g by Falrose, E. Holling, driver.

Donwater took the lead at the fall of the flag and maintained it to the wire in 2:42.

The second heat was won by Donwater in 2:37, closely followed by Glenrose, as was also the third in 2:55. In the above race Donwater was ably driven by Will Hoy, eldest son of Sam Hoy. This was Will's first mount and he distinguished himself a veritable "chip of the old block."

The win of the two Bayswater Wilkes colts here show that ere long Kelly Briggs 2:10½ will need look to his laurels and stamps Hoy's horse a rare good one for his opportunities in the stud. REUBE.

To Cure Forging.

To treat successfully the habit of forging or clicking it is necessary that the farrier should know first the gait at which clicking occurs, and the proportions and structure, or build, of the horse. The feet are then to be examined, and the part of the shoe struck by clickings marked. A skillful farrier will then be able to determine the causes and the remedies for each.

If the horse hits the heel of the front foot, clip off the heel of the shoe on the angle of the foot on the ground surface. If he hits on the inside web at the toe, take the weight from quarter to heel. If he hits on the outer quarter, put the drop crease on the outside. If he hits on the inside web of shoe, concave the shoe on the ground surface at the point touched. If the head is low, check up so as to lighten the front part; if too high check down with standing martingales to add weight. If the breast collar is too low on the point of shoulders raise it up. If the propelling power behind is too great for the front part, shoe with a five ounce shoe heavier behind than in front. If he forges at a certain gait drive over or under that gait. If the horse be a "dweller" with his front feet put on a double rolling motion shoe highest at the quarters, gradually thinning the shoe from quarters to toe, then from quarters to heel. The effect of such a shoe will be to quicken his action in front.

The shoes designed for the hind feet should in all cases project well back at the heels, having good long heel calkins. The driver or farrier should be able to judge of the weight of shoes to be used. I have used four-calkin hind shoes in many cases with the best of results.—From Russell, on Scientific Horse Shoeing.

Matinee Racing at Sacramento.

The Driving Club at the capital held a matinee on Friday of last week that furnished great sport for several hundred people who were in attendance. There were five races originally on the card, but Mr. John Batcher's now celebrated horse Captain Hackett showed up lame after breaking his own record the week previous and the race in which he was to appear was declared off. There was a hot tip out that the track record would likely be changed in the first race if Mayor Clark's recent Eastern importation got off just right, but he didn't, and Monroe B. beat him a neck in 2:20½, owing, it is asserted, to the Mayor dropping his whip.

The judges were Homer O. Buckman, W. Sayers and D. Flint; the timers were Irving H. McMullen and L. S. Upson and the starter S. Hoy.

The Record-Union's turf writer describes the races as follows:

In the first race the entries were Mayor Clark's Fred Ames, W. O. Bowers' Silver Bee, F. Rubstaller, Jr.'s Monroe B. and F. E. Wright's Baby Button. They were all driven by owners except Silver Bee, whose driver was Harris. Silver Bee broke badly shortly after leaving the wire, and he trailed the field the rest of the way, trotting very fast later on, however, and doing the last half in 1:08. Monroe B. and Fred Ames went together around the back stretch and turn, and on the homestretch Monroe B. challenged the swift pacer and a very pretty race ensued. When half way down Mayor Clark reached for his whip and fumbled it, and the mishap was fatal, Monroe B. drawing ahead and passing under the wire a neck ahead. Baby Button was a close third, and Silver Bee, which had gained rapidly, came in a good fourth. Time, 2:20½. Rubstaller was much complimented on his driving.

The second race was between George H. Clark's Queen of Bavaria, C. W. Paine's Pio and Daniel Flint's Rainbow, with owners driving. Pio broke after leaving the score and crowded the Queen over in front of Rainbow. He tore off a boot and cut himself on the quarter, and in consequence finished third. Rainbow came down the stretch ahead of the Queen and finished two lengths in front. Time, 2:29½.

The third was a double team race between Albert Elkus' Zulene and Rose Elkus and William Triest's Candy Joe and Toots. Charles Silvey drove Elkus' team, which was disposed to break. The blacks broke shortly after the start and Elkus' sorrels forged ahead, trotting well. On the far stretch both teams took up the running and hung together, the Elkus team a little ahead. Up the turn they came, still on a run, and down the stretch they were still in an easy gallop, with Elkus' team ahead. Just before they reached the wire they dropped into a trot and won by a couple of lengths, amid much applause. Time, 2:42½. Toots had a boot torn off and her quarter cut, and practically pulled up near the wire.

The fourth race was declared off, John Batcher's Captain Hackett having gone lame.

The fifth race was between William Harris' Central Boy, John Morrison's Canny Scot and Daniel Flint's Arrow.

They got a good send-off and Canny Scot forged ahead, but near the half they were all together. Canny Scot broke and dropped back. There was a smart brush down the stretch, Arrow ahead, with Canny Scot closing up the gap fast, but he was too late, and Arrow passed under the wire two lengths ahead of Central Boy, Canny Scot third. Time, 2:44½.

Entries at Boise Meeting.

The three purses for harness horses which were declared filled by the Inter-Mountain Fair Association for its October meeting received the following entries:

No. 1—Merchants' Stake, 2:27 trot, $1000, six entries: Louis Z. L. Zimmerman, Portland, Or.; Mack Mack, H. H. Helman, Portland, Or.; Bird, L. L. Ormsby, Boise, Idaho; Cornelius D., Clancy Bros., Seattle, Wash.; Placer, A. L. Love, Bozeman, Mont.; —, A. T. Van de Vanter, Seattle, Wash.

No. 2—Inter-Mountain Stake, 2:18 pace, $1000, seven entries: Cappie Woodline, L. L. Ormsby, Boise, Idaho; Chester Abbott, Fred Brooker, North Yakima, Wash.; Leroy, G. W. Williams, Whitney, Or.; Taffeta Silk, N. K. West, La Grande, Or.; Miss Tricks, Higgins Bros., Missoula, Mont.; Direct C., Clancy Bros., Seattle, Wash.; —, A. T. Van de Vanter, Seattle, Wash.

Horse News from Humboldt.

ROHNERVILLE, May 5, 1902.

ED. BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN: I have been a reader of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN for several years and have seldom seen any mention of Humboldt county in its columns, probably for the reason that no one writes from here. I propose for once, and for the novelty of the thing, to give you a few items.

Some of our horsemen got together and organized a jockey club, to be known as the Rohnerville and Fortuna Jockey club with principal place of business at Rohnerville. The officers are M. J. Weber president, William East, Robert Noble, William Friedenbach and M. J. Weber, directors. William East is secretary.

We have here at Rohnerville, by far the best racetrack in northern California, and have put it in the best of condition for training or racing, and propose to have several days' racing this fall. We have a lot of youngsters that their owners believe are as good as any, and that will be worked, and even should none of these succeed in taking the wreath from the brow of King Cresceus, will make many of the lesser lights do their "speedy utmost" to keep step with them. We have the descendants and the direct get of such stallions as Poscora Hayward, The Grand Moor, Waldstein, Ira, Wayland W. Dudley, Mustapha, Anthrim and various others.

At one time there was talk, and we had some hopes of getting the Trotting Horse Breeders Association meeting here this season, but I notice that another place gets the meeting—probably offered greater inducements than we did. But it is only a question of a little time, the meeting will come here, and probably that of the Blood Horse Association as well.

We understand that folks in Frisco and vicinity now generally know that Humboldt county is not in Oregon, and when they learn more of us, are sure to come and see us. Respectfully yours, M. J. WEBER.

Lacked Speed and Action.

A critical judge looked the importation of Orloffs over in New York and wrote his impressions to one of the papers. "Apart from their truly remarkable uniformity of type, they were among the handsomest heavy harness horses yet seen in a New York sale mart. Their feet were smaller than American horsemen like to see; their spread of loin and stifle was not all that could be desired, and some of them had a bit too much daylight under them, but in general contour they were undeniably grand specimens of horseflesh. To look on the other side of the picture it was apparent to everybody that, judged by the standard of the trotting bred carriage horse of America, they were woefully lacking in speed and action. With few exceptions they 'could not do anything,' as the critics put it, having neither the ability to go high nor the pace to step away fast. For this reason there was probably not one in the lot that could go out among the native American high steppers and get a blue ribbon at the horse shows."

Stam B. will not go to Oregon. There were many inducements offered Mr. Gamble to take the handsome son of Stamboul to the webfoot State, but he decided to remain in California. Over twenty high class mares have been bred to him so far this year and he will make a good season at Pleasanton. Among the mares booked to him are two very choice ones that will not foal until late in June.

A Battle Between a Rattlesnake and a Chaparral Cock.

To the lover of nature and the sportsman, possibilities with rod, gun and dog are not all of the elements that go to make up sport and recreation afield or on the trout brook. The doings of the inhabitants of forest and stream are full of much information and afford food for reflection often to those who have the opportunity and penchant for study and investigation. Of most entrancing interest is the habits of pursuit, animosity and combat between many kinds and species of wild inhabitants of the open. "The death of every wild creature," says Seton-Thompson, "is a tragedy."

This truism in nature was aptly illustrated in the following story of a battle royal between a huge rattlesnake and a "roadrunner" or chapparal cock that was recently observed by a young high school student of Santa Barbara. The combat took place in the hills near "Painted Cave," west of Santa Barbara. Palmanteer chanced upon the scene of the conflict while hunting botanical specimens and carefully observed all the details of the encounter. When first observed, the "roadrunner" was seen darting earthward from a considerable height. It would fly away from a spot on the ground and return to it. The upward flights were soon less and less, and Palmanteer was attracted to see what was going on. He found that the bird had located a rattlesnake and had bent its energies to the killing of the reptile. The snake was, however, fresh, and as the bird circled around it either on foot or on the wing, kept sharp eyes upon it and watched to find a chance to strike. The bird circled constantly and at times would rush the snake, striking with its bill at the back of the rattler's head. Several blows were sent home with telling strength.

Finally the rattler had become infuriated with impotent rage and frequently coiled and sprung in the direction of the agile bird. The roadrunner kept well out of reach and was very deft in avoiding blows from the snake. As the snake tired apparently, and seeing an advantage, the bird struck him squarely in the face, taking out both eyes. The rattler, however, still struck vainly and with failing energy. In the end the bird pecked the head of the rattler almost into a pulp and left it. Palmanteer then secured the rattles, which were seven.

The young man says that while the struggle was a fierce one, one of the most interesting possible, the bird acted almost as it might have acted had its work been play. The snake was vicious while the roadrunner was light and apparently playful in its movements. There was no time during the struggle when the snake had more of a chance of winning than might have come of a chance blow. The battle lasted for about half an hour.

The chapparal cock, "roadrunner" or "paisano," as the bird is variously known, has the reputation of being the inveterate and deadly enemy of the rattlesnake. This most interesting bird, at one time far more plentiful in this State than it is at the present, has for some unexplained reason almost invariably fallen the victim of vandal rifle or shotgun whenever opportunity offered. Never overly plentiful, it has always been to the student of nature and the lover of the harmless denizens of the wild wood the source of much pleasant study and observation. Its common appellation, that of "roadrunner" was given the bird by reason of its well known habit of running along roadways. This bird when chased, as it has been frequently by riders and drivers who chanced upon the runner, will put up a sprint with the aid of its wings that is surprising. When close pressed, however, it will leave the road and take to cover.

This bird has been found to endure captivity very comfortably. If either sex has room enough in an inclosure to run about some most amusing bird dancing can be observed at times. The "roadrunner" in appearance is not dissimilar to the pheasant family and in habits and appetite very like birds of prey. They are capable of domestication, so that they will stay about one's yard, feeding with the chickens and also upon their eggs at every opportunity. If properly looked after, however, they are, according to naturalist Harry N. Dunn, an admirable addition to any aviary. They eat freely—almost from the time they are hatched—of any animal substance, though mice, lizards, centipedes, scorpions, etc., are their favorite food. They will nest in captivity, if a place be provided suitable for them, but they should never be allowed in the same inclosure with other nesting birds or with terrestrial birds, else in one case they will destroy every egg, and in the other make life miserable for game birds of other land forms. As a regular diet, beefsteak chopped very finely does well for them, but fresh fruit, particularly the "tuna" or "prickly pear" (borne by most of our common cactus) will be welcomed when presented in small quantities and not too often.

If, along with the fish and game protection agitation in this State, that has principally for its object the protection of fish and game for the sportsmen only, a little care and attention were given to the many useful and beautiful creatures of the woodland, plain and marsh, both furred and feathered; then some huge additional and also worthy would be accomplished for the benefit of the commonwealth at large as well as for a class. Many birds and animals that are wantonly slaughtered are valuable enough to be adequately protected, and for one of them, the "roadrunner," we make a plea now; the bird is well entitled to it.

San Bernardino County Fish and Game Ordinance.

The Supervisors of San Bernardino county have issued "Notices to Sportsmen, Hunters and Fishermen," giving the game and fish laws of the county, and these notices are being posted throughout the county. The notices, while in some respects they embody the provisions of the general statute law will be found to have curtailed materially the chances for the "fish hog" to deplete the county streams. The county ordinance is the following and forbids sportsmen:

1. To pursue, take, kill or destroy any female deer at any time. 2. To hunt, kill or pursue, take or destroy any male deer between the 1st day of October and the 1st day of August of the following year. 3. To take, kill or have in possession more than three male deer during any one open season. 4. To catch or have in possession any kind of mountain trout between the first day of November and the first day of May of the following year. 5. To sell, or offer, or expose for sale any mountain trout at any time. 6. To catch more than fifty mountain trout. 7. To catch or take any trout less than five inches in length and not immediately and carefully returning the same to the stream. 8. To catch or take any mountain trout except with hook and line. 9. To take, kill, destroy or have in possession between the first day of February and the first day of August any dove; or during any one calendar day to take, kill, destroy or have in possession more than fifty doves. 10. To hunt, pursue, take, kill, destroy or have in possession any quail, plover, rail or wild duck between the first day of February and the first day of October of the same year. 11. To take, kill, destroy or have in possession during any one calendar day more than twenty-five quail, or more than fifty wild ducks, or more than twenty rails. 12. At any time to transport or carry out of the county of San Bernardino, or to secure for the purpose of transporting from said county any quail or wild duck. 13. At any time in the county of San Bernardino to sell, or offer or expose for sale any quail or wild duck. 14. To take, kill, destroy or have in possession at any time in the county of San Bernardino any pheasant, or to rob the nest, or to have in possession the eggs of any pheasant. 15. To hunt, kill, destroy or have in possession any species of tree squirrel between the first day of February and the first day of August of any one year, or to kill or destroy in any one day more than five squirrels, commonly known as gray or treesquirrels. 16. To hunt, pursue, take, kill or destroy any of the birds mentioned in this notice between one-half hour after sundown and one-half hour before sunrise of the following day. 17. To destroy or have in possession the nests or eggs of any of the birds mentioned in this notice. Upon conviction of any of the above offenses the offender will be punished by a fine of not less than twenty ($20) dollars or imprisonment in the county jail not less than ten days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

The Watsonville Rod and Gun Club, which was organized a few weeks ago, now has a membership of about fifty, each Sunday witnesses a gathering of shooters at the new shooting quarters on the Broadis place, at the northern end of that city. The location is an ideal one for trap shooting. The property has been leased by the club and is being supplied with modern appliances. Five traps, with an electric attachment, have been installed to throw the blue rocks and now work very satisfactorily. Other improvements will be made from time to time.

AT THE TRAPS.

The California Wing Club live bird shoot last Sunday commenced with twenty-four entries in the opening event, the regular club match. Seven shooters killed straight and divided $75; they were M. O. Feudner, Dr. E. G. McConnell, H. C. Golcher, Jos. J. Sweeney, P. J. Walsh, Ed Donohoe and W. H. Williamson. Feudner also shot up a back score without a miss, standing at the 33 yard mark in the twelve bird pool following. Phil B. Bekeart, H. Justins, C. H. Shaw and F. W. Tallant each killed straight in the club race, but the wire fence ruled against their full scores, the birds falling dead out.

C. A. Haight, Phil B. Bekeart, H. Justins, H. McMurchy, P. J. Walsh, Ed Donohoe and M. O. Feudner (back score only) killed clean in a twelve bird pool. The shooters scoring straight in two six bird pools were W. J. Golcher, H. F. Wagner, H. Justins and P. J. Walsh in the first and H. McMurchy, C. C. Nauman, P. J. Walsh, H. F. Wagner, C. H. Shaw and Mr. Hutton in the second. Feudner and Walsh did not lose a bird during the day's shooting. Feudner now has three straight club scores to his credit. The weather was favorable to the sport; the birds supplied were generally strong. The average of scores, given below, was excellent all round:

There was an interesting contest for the Tufts-Lyon medal at the Los Angeles Gun Club grounds last Sunday. The scores made were: Van Valkenburg 45, Bruner 45, Hagerman 46, Shelton 44, Vaughan 43, Baer 41, Gilbert 41, Smith 40, Blanchard 37, Lovelace 34, Lefebvre 33, Shumacher 33, Llewellyn 31, Frank 29. Hagerman won the tie shoot off in which he, Bruner and Van Valkenburg participated.

To-day and to-morrow at Bakersfield, the Union Gun Club will hold a shooting tournament. The program embraces blue rock and live bird shooting—1500 pigeons have been provided for the latter events. Rifle and pistol matches will also take place. The Union Gun Club was organized but recently and has a membership of over 100. The shooting grounds at Kern are equipped in an up-to-date and first class manner.

The Union Gun Club monthly blue rock shoot took place on the 4th inst. H. C. Hoyt won the monthly gold medal and George Herring the silver medal, winning the trophy from Mr. Dieckman on the tie shoot off. In the regular club race at 25 targets the scores were: F. Walpert 19, Feudner 21, Knick 19, G. Herring 19, H. Hoyt 18, D. Daniels 12, C. T. Mitchell 15, G. Gordon 19, A. J. Jansen 10, O'Shaughnessy 8, Mason 23, Burns 19, M. J. The scores made in the contest for the Shields' cup were: C. C. Nauman 50 straight, Iverson 44, Walpert 46, Hutton 39, Cooper 36, Burns 36, Dieckman 24, Jansen 25, Barker 47.

Oroville and Chico trap shooters met at Oroville on April 27th and indulged in some pleasant blue rock shooting. The first event was a free-for-all match. The second was a fifteen-bird match between ten men of each of the two gun clubs and resulted in a score for Chico of 94 and for Oroville of 90 breaks. The second team match was won by Chico by a score of 89 to 88. The third event was a match between six from each club and was won by Oroville with a score of 74 to 69. In the first two events Chico was ahead by five points. In the third match Oroville won by five breaks. The shooting between the two clubs was a tie for the day. The scores were:

Chico and Oroville trap shooters are actively preparing for the tournament at Sacramento.

Berkeley sportsmen have organized a gun club and elected the following officers: President, C. C. Juster; Secretary and Treasurer, Guy Hyde Chick; Manager, W. H. Kerrison; Captain, Cecil Reid. Charles McClain, Cecil Reid and W. H. Kerrison have been appointed a committee to select a site for a club house and a name for the club. Others interested in the new organization are Dr. J. A. D. Hutton, Lancelay Baird, John Lynch and James Landregan.

Sacramento trap shooters devote themselves to the sport with avidity. The capital city traps are much frequented by shooters every Sunday. Last Sunday was a pleasant day and a large crowd was present at two club shoots.

At the Washington Gun Club meeting some excellent scores were made, Captain Williams carried off the honors, breaking 25 straight and 23 in the club match. The Capital City were beaten by the Washingtons in the team shoot. Following are the scores:

The Clabrough-Golcher Company handicap prize merchandise shoot at Ingleside on the 18th inst promises to be a great event. The shoot will begin at 10:30 A. M. The conditions of the main event are as follows:

Thirty blue rocks, entrance $1.00. All shooters will be classified as follows: expert, 1st, 2d and 3d classes and will compete for prizes provided for such class as they may be placed in. All those competing will shoot at the first fifteen birds from the sixteen yard mark, after which the following handicap will be made: shooters breaking 14 and 15 shoot the remaining 15 from 20 yards; 12 and 13 breaks, 15 at 18 yards; 10 and 11 breaks, 15 at 16 yards; 9 breaks or under, 15 at 14 yards. The handicap will be the same for all classes. Ties for guns will shoot off at 25 birds from the handicap distance. Other ties decided by lot. High guns to win. Four shotguns, Smith, Parker, Remington hammerless guns and a trap gun are offered in each class—10 prizes are given for the expert class, 18 for the first and second classes and 20 for the third class.

All shooters will be classified and the less skillful will not have to compete against the expert. Secretaries of clubs are requested to forward to E. Forster, care of C. G. & Co., 538 Market street, by the 15th, a list of members' names, classified into classes as above. The management reserves the right to make such changes as they deem proper. Grounds open for practice and pool shooting at 9 A. M.

The Golden Gate Gun Club at Ingleside and the Empire Gun Club at Alameda Point will be the blue rock attractions for to-morrow.

The annual tournament of the California Inanimate Target Association is set for June 28th and 29th. At a meeting of the Board of Governors recently held the place selected for the shoot was the Empire Gun Club grounds at Alameda Point. Since that meeting, a re-consideration of the selection of grounds will be made at a meeting of the Board of Governors to be held in the office of Mr. A. M. Shields this evening.

Fly-Casting.

Last Saturday several members of the fly-casting club wet their lines at the lakeside, two of them took opportunity to cast up back scores, their contemplated absence from the city on the scheduled dates for the contests would have prevented attendance. To-day and to-morrow the last of the re-entry contests will take place. The first of the class series of contests will commence on Saturday, May 24th, and be continued on the following day.

SATURDAY RE-ENTRY CLASSIFICATION CONTEST STOW LAKE, May 3, 1902.

Striped Bass.

These grand salt water fish should from now on be found in the waters of Raccoon Straits and vicinity if the experience of a noted Eastern angler last Sunday is any criterion. During slack low water Mr. C. F. Bonney and Mr. F. W. Kelley trolled for bass in the waters about the end of Belvedere island, Peninsular Point. This was Mr. Bonney's initial try at striped bass trolling with a No. 5 Wilson spoon. A number of strikes were had and several fish caught, the largest, a fine conditioned seven pounder, was cooked and eaten for dinner the same evening at Mr. Kelley's summer cottage in Tiburon.

When the first fish was felt, Mr. Bonney, not knowing the ways of the bass, waited just a bit too long to strike. In the swirling eddies near the half submerged rocks jutting from the tide off the point, the next strike was had, and it was a heavy one. The fish took the line out with a rush and came to the surface of the water with a splash when the butt was put on him. It was at once seen that the bass was one of enormous size. The fish again came to the daylight, this time close to the anchored boat of a party of rock cod fishermen, who were almost startled at the sudden appearance of an immense fish almost within reaching distance. Luck, however, was not with the angler, for the fish in coming towards the boat beat the reel and then shook the spoon from its jaws when the line was slack. The indications from the number of strikes presage some good bass fishing in that quarter from now on. Mr. Bonney was more than pleased with his initial experience with striped bass and will try the game again before returning East. He has an enviable reputation as a record black bass angler in Wisconsin and Michigan waters, where he goes annually for a fishing outing.

At the "fill in" below Point Reyes striped bass are plentiful; clams are the proper lure for this spot. Frank Vernon hooked an eleven pounder, James Maynard and Jos. Macauley also caught some nice bass. A thirteen pound fish was taken in San Antonio slough on Saturday. The net fishermen are taking big hauls of bass out of Petaluma creek, much to the disgust of the anglers.

Fish Lines.

T. S. Mabel, of Salinas, landed a 16½ inch trout out of the Carmel last Saturday.

Striped bass are now rather plentiful in Russian river. A few days ago a six-pounder was taken from the river near Healdsburg.

Mr. J. W. Dickinson, of Oakland, enjoyed an afternoon's trout fishing on the Truckee near Verdi, on April 20th. The Truckee has the reputation of being one of the greatest and most prolific trout streams on the Coast. The fish caught there are always cold, firm and in good healthy condition. This water has its peculiarities and disappointments for the angler unacquainted with the river. With fly or spoon some fishermen will go all day without putting a single fish in the basket, whilst a market fisherman will whip out from ten to twenty-three pounds a day almost under the shadow of his hat.

Mr. Dickinson's catch was taken near Verdi, with the spoon, in about two and one-half hours with a 5½ ounce split bamboo rod. The largest fish scaled at six pounds, the total weight of the take was twenty-six pounds. The fishing was abruptly terminated by a sudden snowstorm. He felt confident that had it not been for this contretemps he could have taken out between fifty and sixty nice fish from the stream.

Another angler, who fished the river on the opposite bank at the same time landed enough trout to weigh twenty-three pounds. Another fisherman about 200 feet further down on the other side hooked six fine trout, the largest one weighing eight pounds. Both fishermen used bait—the "barnyard hackle."

The big fish now being caught in the Truckee have come up from Pyramid lake. Spoon and bait fishing on the river is always good from the opening of the season until about the middle of June, or at least until most of the snow in the mountains has melted and run off and the river cleared. After this the fly is taken with avidity by the trout. Good fly fishing can be had much earlier on Prosser Creek and the Little Truckee, a short distance above their confluence with the Truckee. The Truckee at present, above these two streams, is reported to be full of fish running from one-quarter to one and a half pounds in weight.

San Francisco Bench Show Specials.

The list of specials at the recent show was a grand one. The elegant and costly bronze vase given by Hon. Yo How is as valuable and ornamental a trophy as one could wish for. The "Cresceus Cup," given by Mr. George Ketcham, is one of the handsomest and best cups ever won at a Coast show. The A. D. Spreckels' cup, "President's Cup," is a beautiful and valuable piece of the silversmith's art and was won by Mr. Rosseter with Rubber Ankles, the John G. Kent silver cup was also won by another of Mr. Rosseter's Greyhounds, Royal Archer.

In the Ring.

[Concluded from last week]

Fox Terriers were a well averaging lot in quality, with thirty smooths and fourteen wires benched. Rowton Besom, a clean cut, well balanced dog, first winners, open and limit, Endcliffe Resist reserve winners and second limit, Wandee Revelry, first puppies and novice, third limit and second open, was taken from a crate a day or two before the show and was not in the best of condition. This youngster is a well headed, good fronted dog but will stand a promised improvement in hindquarters. Champion Niola Daddy came in the ring in off condition after his round of the northern shows. In bitches, Imelda, first puppies was the surprise going over Cairnsmuir Modesty in winners. This latter bitch ranked such well-known ones as Vina Belle, Carmeota and Eclipse Blanche.

Wires brought out Endcliffe Bristles, a grand headed, well fronted, stylish terrier from the ground up. Mr. Carnochan thought so well of him that he purchased him. Second place was taken by Humberstone Bristles, a showy, good bodied and limbed dog with a well typed head. In bitches, Maggie the Maid was the leader. Morenga, a good young dog, second. The number of good ones on the Coast now should mark an era of much advancement in the breed.

Cocker Spaniels were up in class and quality with previous shows—the principal rivalry was between Delverton and Plumeria Kennels, the former getting first honors in blacks with Hampton Promise and his son Mrs. J. H. Brooks' Delverton Cappi. In bitches Ch Princess Flavia was over Plumeria Portia. In reds Plumeria Kennels annexed the principal honors.

Field Spaniels with but three entries were fair with the exception of Royd Monarch III which is a very good one.

The sporting dogs were not up to the standard of past exhibits. Pointers were twenty-one in number and about the poorest collection showing in several years past. Stockdale Kennels and Mount View Kennels made the best showing. Aleck C., Dr. Daniels, Cuba Jr., Bow's Son and Tick's Sport were nearly all that the dog classes offered worthy of mention. In bitches Ella E. put Lady Colvin in second place.

English Setters to the number of twenty-two embraced some high class field dogs, but with few ex-did not appeal to the attention of visitors by reason of high Setter type development. The field trial celebrities among this breed did not fare so well as the Pointers. In dogs, Buckwa was easily first as a typical specimen of what a strong, clean well built hunting dog should be and in marked contrast to some of the high strung and tense nerved thirty-five and twenty-eight pound field trial dogs—which, although highly developed in intelligence and field sense, have gradually acquired those qualities at the expense of vitality, stamina and requisite structure. In bitches, Maggie E., Miriam J., the Victoria dog Lady Howard and Hazel C. seemed to be the properly selected ribbon winners.

In the field trial class Judge Davidson, who by the way does not show any inclination to place dogs by reason of past performances, seemed to hit the right balance, Aleck C. and Maggie F. took first awards. The class was a small one, full of quality but lacking in style in some respects.

Gordons were seven in number and but fair, the Sacramento dog Crackerjack is a good dog, as is the local dog Major II. The breed seems to have gone out of fashion on the Coast. Irish Setters, with thirteen on the bench, showed a fine average of good ones. Mike Swiveller T. first and grand old Finglas Jr. in dogs and Lady Josie II. and Ch. Lady Swiveller, her dam, were the best of the red setters. Two Irish Water Spaniels, both good ones, were benched. We fancied Bang B. over Barney Lund in type, color, style and everything but size.

Foxhounds were not numerous, though a few good ones were shown. Bay is a nice looking dog of the English type, showing class and style. Max, a young dog, is a proper sized one with plenty of quality. Crowder, first winners, is a solid, well set up, strong-boned dog. Guy, reserve, was a fair-headed, good dog, but in poor condition. In bitches, Melba C., a good, clean-built, classy one, was first; Sappho, a nice bodied bitch, reserve. Melody, first novice, was remarkably well boned for a bitch.

The two packs of hounds shown were not remarkable for style or quality, with the exception of one or two. These seemed to be a commingling of the different types. These dogs, however, are high class in one respect, and that is in their work, either at San Rafael or Burlingame.

One Bloodhound, Peggy, a fairly good specimen, and four Dalmatians of merit filled out the entries for these breeds.

The general tone of the Collie exhibit was fair with a sprinkling of some very good ones. Ormskirk Emerald, Jr., shown in fine coat and condition, first winners and open, was put over Ch Old Hall Admiral, whose twelve years of age was too great a handicap in favor of the younger dog. Verona Braw Laddie showed promised improvement since last year's show. In puppies, Robert Bruce, a handsome tri-color is a promising young dog. Cheviot Construction was easily best in a numerous but rather poor class for quality, but five out of seventeen entered getting a mention. Verona Battle and Seattle Bob, both good dogs were in strong company in limit, a class of ten, all of which received mention from Dr. Clayton. In bitches, Gypsy Queen, first winners, open and limit, carried the honors for a kennel of white woolly collies of only ordinary quality. Verona Mollie, first limit, Ormskirk Fannie, first novice, and Las Vegas Maid, first puppies and Pearl Thurber, second puppies and novice, are an all round fair lot, placed about right.

Bulldogs, with eleven benched, was the most imposing exhibit of this breed seen here yet. Ivel Rustic (for exhibition and brace competition only) is too well known for description here. In puppies, True Blue, a white bitch, has a low, well set, cloddy body and shows good conformation and front. She has a small head and pinched face. Woodlawn Masquerade has a better face and head but lost in body and legs to Blue. Bully Bottom has improved much in a year. Endcliffe Eminent is a good bodied brindle and has a good head and face. In bitches Endcliffe Pleasure, a well set brindle, and Canford Rush were first and second.

Bull Terriers had an excellent entry, not quite up to the two past shows however. Champion Banjo, looking well and fit as ever, was easily first winners and open in light. Patsy, reserve, winners and first novice, is deaf as a post and should have been disqualified. Newmarket Duke II. is a fair headed, well bodied, young dog and had hard luck. Hawthorn Snowflake, first winners and puppies, is a clean cut, good headed bitch, Belle Balsamo, second winners and first open, and Lady Venom, first limit, were all in excellent condition and placed in a manner that did not bring out adverse comment.

Boston Terriers showed a record entry of sixteen. Among them were a few good ones, the general run of them being but fair. One of the Eastern dogs with a docked tail was evidently overlooked by the judge and came in for a win or two. Endcliffe Premier and Winner, one-two in winners, open and limit. Premier did not show so much superiority as he did age over the younger one to merit the awards. Endcliffe Verneette, first winners and puppies, is a fair looking brindle bitch that was lucky in not receiving a critical inspection. Meg was relegated to a place in the background that was undeserved.

In Beagles a good one, Pilgrim, was shown. Wharton's Diligent is a clever looking bitch.

Poodles showed two good ones, Sport and Cocaine, a black. Toys were only ordinary.

Dachshunds brought Doc, Jr., a local dog to the front in winners and puppies. Pretzels second and Merry Fritz seemed about all the quality to the dogs excepting several Venlo cracks not entered for competition. In bitches, Pretzel and Olga romped through the classes.

Irish Terriers with twelve entries were a fair lot. Endcliffe Gripper and Virginia F. taking the honors without much struggle.

Two Bedlingtons from Seattle were good ones. Two Scotties, Endcliffe Rebel and Reynard's Rascal, were better than usually seen here.

Pugs, Spitz, Yorkshire and Toy Spaniels were not well represented. In Maltese Terriers, four were shown, Margie B. being the best one.

Champion Nippon won in Japanese Spaniels; two others shown were also good ones.

The Black and Tans, Oriental dogs, Chows and Esquimaux varieties were not numerous nor overly good ones.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

Endcliffe Premier served Woodlawn Kennels' The Lady April 28th, 29th.

Mr. Chas. K. Harley has offered a silver cup for the best Coast bred Great Dane bitch shown at Sacramento.

American Kennel Club Stud Book, Vol. 18, is out. Copies can be procured by addressing Secretary Vredenburg, No. 55 Liberty street, N. Y.

The Pacific Bull Terrier Club will hold a meeting in the office of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN on Monday evening. Among other business to be transacted will be the annual election of officers.

The practice of some Coast fanciers of using well known Eastern or English kennel names for dogs of their own breeding with an initial or a numeral suffix added is entirely wrong, misleading and should be discontinued.

Sacramento entries have been beyond expectation, writes President William Halley. The outside entry is also a good one. The show opens on Tuesday and closes Friday night. Quite a delegation from this city will attend.

Ben Baum's English Setter bitch, Rod's Sylvia (Champion Rodfield-Countess Diana) whelped on April 18th a litter of ten puppies, three dogs, by Thomas J. Watson's Starlight W. (Dan Gladstone-Miss Alice). The puppies are beautifully marked and strong, healthy youngsters. This litter should produce some good ones.

A communication from Mr. L. A. Klein, taking exception to our statement last week, gives his version in figures of the number of dogs benched this year. In his statement, however, he includes dogs benched that were not local dogs. Of the "416 other breeds," nearly 50 of these were from without the zone of local support—we have not included in this the usual entries from within a radius of fifty miles of this city; there are also about 15 entries of his own, for exhibition, etc., which may be counted with the local dogs, but must be taken in place of that number of local dogs absent. Taking the 50 "outside" dogs and his own entries of 15, from "416 other breeds" benched, shows that we over-estimated the local showing of dogs by nearly 17%—we stated that "not many more than 300 local dogs were benched." It seems we were about 65 dogs over the limit.

However, this is not in criticism of Mr. Klein; he is entitled to much credit for bringing off a very good show, in fact, under the circumstances he accomplished marvels. The fact that bills, prizes, cups, etc., etc., were paid and forthcoming during the last day and immediately following the close of the show, is alone an unusual precedent in connection with past shows for several years. The communication of Mr. Klein referred to is the following:

"The last issue of your valuable paper asserts that 'the numbers of dogs benched (at the last S. F. K. C. show) however numbered but 482, * * * that not many more than 300 local dogs were benched.' Allow me to state that the official record of the show proves the following figures: total number of dogs entered 568; total number of absentees 48; total number benched 520, of which total 104 were Greyhounds and 416 other breeds.

As compared with the previous year it has been the record entry of the S. F. K. C.

I find the total number of dogs entered last year 463, of which there were 80 absentees. For some unknown reason these latter were never reported to the American Kennel Club, which is made evident by the official report of the show in last July's American Kennel Gazette. This proves this year's show to have had 105 or nearly 23% more dogs actually entered or 137 dogs or nearly 36% more dogs actually benched as last year's record. Leaving Greyhounds entirely out of consideration we find this year 416 dogs benched as against 377 (last year's record), an increase of over 10%. Trusting that you will give this space in your next issue in the interest of truth as well as justice."

THE FARM.

Dairymen want the best and cheapest feed for their cows. If they raise alfalfa they have the cheapest because they can raise more tons to the acre than they can from any grass, and it is also the best because it will produce more milk than any grass

Immediately after milking the temperature of the milk ought to be reduced to forty or fifty degrees, either by pouring it in a thin layer over a smooth metal surface which can be kept cool with water, ice or brine, or by setting the cans of milk into cold water and stirring frequently to hasten the cooling. The quicker this is done the better, as the sudden chilling of milk is considered very beneficial as it improves the flavor and hastens the separation of cream.

The famous Shorthorn cow Cicely of Queen Victoria's breeding sold recently for $6000. She is not large but very broad, with a superb loin, well sprung rib and heavy quarter. She is low down, legs short and weighs about 1600 pounds. The possession of these individual characteristics, the ability to lay on thick flesh where it will command the highest prices, coupled with that old but well established axiom that like breeds like is what gives her great value for breeding purposes

So great is the shortage of beef in Britain, pending the tremendous falling off in receipts from the United States, that a resolution has been introduced into the House of Commons ordering an inquiry into the present status and asking the Government to throw down the bars to Canadian and Argentine cattle, though of course under different conditions. The British farmers want Canadian stock cattle to feed and the British consumer wants the Argentine steer to eat right after his arrival on British shores.

Taking into consideration the scarcity of eggs that has prevailed lately the people who are keeping chickens are quite anxious to have them keep on laying for a while and many of them would prefer not to have the old hens take a notion to set just yet. A well known fancier claims to have discovered an infallible recipe for breaking up setting hens. His plan is to administer to the fowl having such a strong attachment for the nest a one-grain quinine capsule each day for three or four days. At the end of that time it will be impossible to induce the hen to stay on the nest any longer than is necessary to lay.

The real poultryman is the one who has a plan for everything, and breeds with an object in view. He plans to have his young hens become layers in the fall and he plans to keep them laying during the winter when eggs are high; he plans a poultry house that can be kept clean at a minimum of labor; he plans to feed a certain ration and mix in a certain way; he plans to have green and vegetable food at the right times; he plans a dust box in a place that will always be dry, even in rainy weather, and he plans to have his fowls exercise and keep healthy. When he has planned all the details carefully, he has arranged a plan of success.

One of the striking things shown by the last census was the remarkable increase of tenant farming. The percentage of farms operated by tenants showed considerable increase by the census of 1890. For the whole country this percentage increased in the last ten years nearly twice as fast as the percentage of population of the nation, four times that of the purely agricultural population and twice that of the farms operated by owners. The woods are still full of people who just dote on voting for a governmental policy that will continue to perpetuate such a disastrous system as this. It is everything for the banks and the money-sharks these days.—Field and Farm.

It is best to dehorn animals when calves and the earlier the operation is performed after two or three days old the better. The horn button may be lifted out with a knife or removed with special instruments made for the purpose, known as the out-cutter or gouge. Dehorning calves by chemicals is generally preferred to the use of these instruments. Liquid chemical dehorners are manufactured and sold to the trade and generally prove effective when properly applied, killing the horn germ and even altering the natural development of the little animal's head at the point on which the horns would otherwise set. Stick caustic potash will accomplish the same results, but the men who make the liquid dehorners warn against its use, contending that it may make the head sore and thus stunt the calf. On the other hand much weight of veterinary indorsement has been given to the use of caustic potash. To apply it clip the hair around the embryo horn, moisten the button and rub thoroughly with the stick of potash, being careful to protect the fingers. In using all chemicals take care that they do not run down into the eye of the calf.

Too much can scarcely be said about the importance of having forage crops to supplement the pastures, when drought causes the crop to run short. It is important to the dairy, because without it at such times the cows will shrink in their milk, and after this shrinkage has taken place, the grass that starts after the rains come cannot bring back either the full milk production, or the flesh they will have lost, and the most liberal feeding at the barn, though it may put on flesh, will not cause the milk to return. Worse than that, starvation will induce the cow to eat weeds or the leaves of trees, so as to seriously injure the quality of what she may produce. There is also another value to these forage crops. Farmers are often tempted to feed too late in the fall that they may save hay. This leaves the pasture bare in winter, and the ground after the fall rains, gets trod and packed hard, and the grass starts slowly in the spring, while if enough had been left to protect it, it would have warmed up and started more quickly, giving good feed just when the stock seem to relish it best. Do not fail to provide some, and more than one, if possible, of these crops, that they may be ready at any time from June to October. If any are left they can be cured for use in winter, saving the precious hay.

Always be willing to arbitrate a grievance with your neighbor rather than go to law. Law should be the very last resort in the settlement of neighborhood troubles.

STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA.

STANFORD STAKE OF 1904

FOR FOALS OF 1901.

TO BE TROTTED AT THE CALIFORNIA STATE FAIR OF 1904

ENTRIES TO CLOSE JUNE 1, 1902,

With GEO. W. JACKSON, Secretary, at the Office in Sacramento.

FIFTY DOLLARS ENTRANCE, of which $5 must accompany nomination June 1, 1902; $5 November 1, 1902; $10 June 1, 1903; $10 June 1, 1904, and $20 on the tenth day before the first day of the State Fair of 1904. $300 added by the Society. Mile heats, three in five, to harness. The stakes and added money to be divided 50 25, 15, and 10 per cent. Right reserved to declare two starters a walkover. When only two start they may contest for the entrance money paid in, to be divided 66 2/3 per cent to the winner, and 33 1/3 per cent to the second horse. A horse distancing the field shall be entitled to first money only. In no case will a horse be entitled to more than one money. Nominators are not held for full amount of entrance in case colts go wrong; only forfeit the payments made, which relieves you from further responsibility, and declares entry out. The stake is growing in value each year; every breeder should enter in it; it will enhance the value of his colts in case he desires to sell.

A Special Stake will be opened in 1904 for colts entered originally in this stake, and Occident Stake of 1904, that develop a pacing gait, to be contested for as three-year-olds in 1904.

Your colt entered in the Occident Stake for 1901 is eligible for entry in this stake.

Remember, the date of closing is June 1, 1902.

WM. G. LAYNG IS IN THE LEAD.

Owing to the demands of the public that I board and keep fine trotters and business horses for sale, I have leased the premises known as the Fulton Stables, 246 Third street, and connected it with my well-known place, the Occidental Horse Exchange, and will hereafter conduct the entire business under the latter name.

I have room for over 200 horses, the finest of stalls, all on the ground floor, where special attention is paid their sanitation and ventilation. The large area of ground space, 130x250 feet, gives me plenty of room for keeping horses in any manner desired, commodious box stalls, fine tanbark rug and large enclosure to exercise horses in. A splendid entrance on Third street (the busiest in San Francisco) and another on Clementina street in the rear, give me opportunities for the reception and delivery of horses and vehicles unequaled by any one in San Francisco.

The fame of the Occidental Horse Exchange for holding auction sales of all kinds is world wide and I intend to hold sales in the same manner as heretofore, with this exception: I will accommodate more horses and have the sales pavilion fitted up better than heretofore. I have sold horses for the following, to whom I respectfully refer breeders and owners: A. B. Speckels, Prince Poniatowski, Charles Kerr, W. O'B. Macdonough, Edw. Corrigan, E. J. Baldwin, Oakwood Park Stock Farm, Palo Alto Stock Farm, Brentwood Stock Farm, Papinta Stock Farm, Santa Rosa Stock Farm, J. Naglee Burk, Bellota Stock Farm, Sonoma Stock Farm, Wm. Murray, W. S. WINDPUFF, AND ALL LAMENESS.

NOTE OUR CLAIM—IT IS INFAILLIBLE

Work horse continuously if desired.
"Save-the-Horse" cures without scar, blemish or loss of hair.

Contains no Arsenic, Corrosive Sublimate or other form of Mercury or any ingredient that can injure the horse.

Chronic and seemingly incurable cases in the advanced stage that have been fired two or three times and given up as hopeless, positively and permanently cured.

Its possibilities are without limit.

"Save-the-Horse" marks an achievement remarkable and unparalleled in medicine. It is the crowning success of ten years' research and experiencing in the treatment of the products of inflammation.

The potent, unfailing power of "Save-the-Horse" lies in its concentrated, penetrating, absorbing properties. It cures by penetrating to the seat of the injury or disease, producing a physiological change, absorbing all inflammatory exudate and producing a healthy, normal condition of the parts

$5.00 PER BOTTLE.

Written guarantee with every bottle, given under our seal and signature, constructed solely to is urgently needed apply

VETERINARY PIXINE

Rub it on bare spots, old sores, inflammatory swellings, scratches, grease heel and skin disease.
It penetrates and soothes, and the horse grows well as he toils throughout the day.

After Blistering, VETERINARY PIXINE is the very best application that could be indicated.
It absorbs all inflammatory exudate and has-tens the reparatory process. Will heal the most severe cases without scar and will prevent loss of hair.

As a Preventive. If a light application of VET-ERINARY PIXINE is used before speeding, driving in wet, muddy or slushy weather, or in the snow, your horse will never have speed cracks, scratches or grease heel.

For Hoofs.—It will keep the hoofs healthy, soft and in perfect form.

This penetrating, stimulating, soothing, absorbing, antiseptic, healing ointment heals from beneath the surface by disinfecting the parts, subduing the inflammation and stimulating healthy granulation, not by drying and scabbing.

SEYMOUR WILKES REG. NO. 0232.

Race Record 2:08 1-2

The Fastest Son of Guy Wilkes

Will make the Season of 1902 at

Lakeville, Sonoma Co., Cal.

SEYMOUR WILKES earned his record in a hard fought race and was a game race horse. The oldest of his get are five-year-olds, and no horse in California can show a greater proportion of large, handsome, strongly built and well-boned colts. They all look alike and in nearly every instance are square trotters. The only one that has been trained is Joe Eviston (3-2:22 in 1901).

SEYMOUR WILKES is by Guy Wilkes his dam Early Bird by Playmail; second dam by Odd Fellow, third dam by a son of Williamson's Belmont, fourth dam by Blackhawk 767. He weighs 1300 pounds, stands 16 hands high and is one of the most symmetrical horses in California. Several of his get are in San Francisco and will be shown to prospective breeders with pleasure.

Terms for the Season, $40. Mares not proving in foal can be returned next year by paying steamer Gold. Pasturage $3 per month. For further particulars apply to THOS. ROCHE, Lakeville, Sonoma Co., or J. W. GREGORY, St. George Stables, 408 Bush street, San Francisco.

EDUCATOR

The Handsomest Son of Director

Will make the Season of 1902, five days each week, at M. Henry Ranch, near Hayward; Saturdays at Geary & Grindell Stables,

HAYWARDS, CAL. - Terms $25

EDUCATOR is by the great Director 2:17, sire of Directum 2:05½; Direct 2:05½; and 47 more in 2:30. Dam, Dolly by Vermont Messenger; second dam, a Morgan mare. His oldest colts, now four years old, nearly all from common mares, are, without doubt, the handomest colts in Alameda county and all show speed. He is a sure foal getter.

For further particulars address

M. HENRY, Haywards, Cal.

MONTEREY 31706 RECORD 2:09½

PEDIGREE IN PART.

Sired by SIDNEY 2:10½, sire of 17 in the 2:15 list, 7 better than 2:12, 3 better than 2:10, and Lenna N. 2:05½ (champion record), and 96 in the charmed circle. Hattie dam of Monterey, is by that great sire of broodmares, Com. Belmont 4340, son of Alexander Belmont 64, sire of Nutwood 2:18½. Barona, his second dam, is by Woodford's Mambrino 2:21½, and his third dam, Miss Glad, by Alexander Norman 25, sire of Lula 2:15; fourth dam by Gray Eagle, thoroughbred. His blood lines are of the choicest, and his wonderful speed has justly come to him. He is a grand stallion to look at; he has size and conformation to make him what he is—a king among stallions. His first crop of foals, two years old now, are very promising, as Walter S. Maben writes me as follows:

"I worked the Monterey two-year old to-day, March 26th, a half in 1:16, first quarter in 0:40½, last eighth in 17 seconds, so you see he can step some and has but little work. He can trot faster than any colt I ever saw and do it easier."

WALTER S. MABEN.
Maben also writes that the Monterey colts are all fine, big, good-looking colts, and look to him (Maben) to be the real thing for stake winners. It will not be long before the breeders will be breeding to Monterey at a much larger fee than his present price. One thing is sure, it is hard for a stallion to work himself up without the support of the breeders, and yet I don't think that the cranks can keep him down, for if he reproduces himself the foals will be of such high class that the public cannot overlook them. Nowadays colts must be game to win big purses, and on this score I am on top, and speed also. Monterey will make this season, 1902,

McKINNEY 2:11¹/₄

BY ALCYONE; DAM ROSA SPRAGUE (grandam of Fereno (3) 2:10¹/₄) by GOV. SPRAGUE

By the percentage of his performances in the 2:15 and 2:20 lists he the Champion Sire of the World at any age.

A Race Horse Himself. He started in 28 races, won 25, was second twice and third once.

He is a Sire of Race Horses. Every one of his get in the 2:20 list secured their records in races and are all race winners.

He is the Champion in the Show Ring, Champion on the Race Track and Champion in the Stud.

His get bring better prices than the get of any other Stallion on this Coast. Nine sold in 1901 for from $1000 to $7500 each, an average of $3460 each, and $10,000 was refused for a young McKinney stallion.

He is a Complete Outcross to all California Mares.

In 1900 his get won first second and fourth money in the Pacific Breeders Futurity, first and second money in the Occident Stake and first, second and third money in the Stanford Stake. The McKinneys are stake winners.

THREE DOLLARS A YEAR

THREE ALAMEDA TRACK TROTTERS.

DAN W. 2:17 $\frac{1}{4}$ by Live Oak Hero, J. M. Nelson trainer. P. W. Bellingall's road mare by Secretary, dam by thor. Gladiator. Jack Groom with C. F. White's mare by Alexis, son of William L.

JOTTINGS.

THE BLUE RIBBON SALE opened last Tuesday at Cleveland and while telegraphic reports are very meagre they show that speed brought good money and that the sale has been a success. Of the Palo Alto consignment which consisted almost entirely of undeveloped two year olds (there was one three year old offered) Medion, the handsome son of Mendocino out of Clarion by Ansel, brought the top price—$1350, and was purchased by James Golden who has a knack of picking up good things at the Palo Alto sales and selling them at a profit. Rosaro, a brown gelding by Dexter Prince, brought $1300, La Rose, a filly by the same sire fetched $1100, Naza by Nazote sold for $1000, and a half dozen more went for prices ranging from $500 to $900.

The twenty-four head from Aptos Farm were sold well. The five year old chestnut mare by Dexter Prince out of Point Lace by Antevolo brought the most money, Mr. Abe Carson of New York paying $2275 for her. Quite a number brought over $500.

Willard Stimson's consignment consisted of two trotters, Julia M. by Zombro and The Vendome by Iran Alto. The mare brought $2600 and the gelding $850. Julia M. is a green mare with a trial of 2:13½ while The Vendome has been raced and has a record of 2:21½ as a three year old.

The consignments from Santa Rosa Stock Farm and from C. L. Griffith of Pleasanton went under the hammer Wednesday. Of the Santa Rosa horses Almaretta 2:25 brought $1000, Lady Pansy Russell, by L. W. Russell out of the dam of Almonition 2:24½ and King Orry 2:21½, sold for $1100, Rosario a five year old mare by McKinney out of By By by Nutwood brought $775, and the others sold for lesser figures.

Mr. Griffith received the top price of the sale up to Wednesday for Domino, the five year old black pacer by Rect 2:16½ out of Sophia by Robert McGregor. John H. Shultz of New York paid $3400 for this gelding, which showed a mile in 2:05 over the Cleveland track on the day before the sale opened. Rect 2:16½, who has been gelded since he sired Domino, brought $1100.

These are the only sales reported by telegraph up to the time we go to press, but we shall be able to print a full summary of all the sales of California horses next week. From the figures received it looks as if the market for fast horses is off a little and this is not to be wondered at as the entry lists for the big purses on the Grand Circuit are about all closed by this time. The prices obtained were very good however, and there should be little grumbling over the result.

Budd Doble left Alameda last Tuesday for Cleveland with a carload of harness horses. It was Orrin Hickok's intention to accompany him on the trip, but a day or two previous the veteran reinsman was taken suddenly ill and could not go, and did not get away until Thursday of this week. Col. J. C. Kirkpatrick's two pacers, Clipper 2:06 and Thornway, that Mr. Hickok has been training at Pleasanton, went in Doble's car, and were both in fine shape at the time of their departure. Clipper has been given his work in hoppers this spring and took to the straps so kindly that it is thought he will give a good account of himself this year. Owing to Mr. Hickok's illness, Worth Ober drove Clipper in his final tryout last Saturday at Pleasanton. He was instructed to work him the mile close to 2:15, going away fast and coming home fast. He followed instructions very closely. The first eighth was in 15 seconds, then he took the son of Diablo back and at the last quarter let him step along. The watches held on him registered from 30½ seconds to 31 seconds for this quarter and Clipper was going easily. If he keeps his temper Clipper will be able to give an argument to some of the free for allers over East this summer as he is game as a pebble. Thornway, now a four year old, has many engagements on the Grand Circuit and his owner believes he will give a good account of himself. The many friends of Mr. Hickok sincerely hope he will fully recover his health by the time he reaches Cleveland that he may be able to give his personal attention to these two fast pacers, and Col. Kirkpatrick has nothing but the very best wishes and hopes of all Californians for a successful campaign for his horses on the Grand Circuit. Budd Doble has Chas. Newman's pair of road mares which he intends showing on the Eastern tracks and they will surely attract attention. He also took along in the car Miss Jessie 2:13½ and several other horses that were consigned to Eastern purchasers. Young Mr. Galleagos did not go with him as he intended. His two young pacers, Trilby and Diablita, went wrong and were not in condition to ship, so he wisely concluded to keep them here for a while yet.

There will be harness racing in California this year "from Siskiyou to San Diego and from the Sierras to the sea," as Senator Perkins once poetically put it when speaking of a wave of votes that was coming his way. Every little district association and every big one is getting out a program of races to be held at its fair. There will be large purses and small ones, for fast classes and slow ones, and it might be well for owners and trainers to remember that the horse which is well entered will be the money earner of the stable. I don't mean the one that is entered in everything promiscuously to which he is eligible, but the one that is placed where he will have an opportunity to win. Many a trainer sits down every year and makes his entries without taking into consideration anything but the class of the purse, the size of it and the speed of his own horse. He often utterly fails to reckon on the speed of those his horse will have to meet, and that has much to do with results. Two years ago a trainer told me he knew the horses in the 2:30 trots would go faster than those in the 2:20, because he had seen the majority of them work, yet he entered in the slower class and got no money when he had a good chance to win in the 2:20 class, as was proven by the time made. The trainer or owner who is thoroughly alive should have an idea, at least, of what the other fellows are doing and not allow his hopes of what he expects his horse to do to control him in making entries. It is much more profitable to win first money in a $500 purse than to be outside the money in the M. & M. at Detroit. Of course, the Grand Circuit is the place for a man with a string of 2:10 or better horses, but the horse that finds three heats around 2:16 or 2:18 about his limit should be raced at home. The horse, his trainer and the owner will all feel better and have more flesh on them at the end of a campaign where they win small purses than where they start for all the big ones and lose. The California Circuit this year will be worth entering horses in and those who enter judiciously should be able to earn considerable over and above expenses.

I see by an Eastern exchange that the talented and versatile Gilbert Tompkins is now located in New York and is conducting a correspondence by mail with horsemen who desire to be instructed in the science of balancing horses. Mr. Tompkins has many original ideas and theories and while they may not all be practical he has given trainers many ideas that they have put to profitable use. When he managed the well known Souther Farm near San Leandro in this State, he built a swimming pool where horses with bad feet and legs were given exercise without fear of injury to joints or tendons. That swimming horse is beneficial to them is well known, and many trainers of thoroughbreds here exercise their horses daily on the ocean beach, where they are galloped in the surf or swum as the case may be. Mr. Tompkins' tanks were very expensive things to maintain, however, heated as they were by means of pipes, and the revenue did not equal the expenditures. One of his inventions was a sort of hinged paddle or rudder to fasten to the feet of a swimming horse for the purpose of correcting faulty gaits. Mr. Tompkins also expended quite a sum in advertising a patent rasp for leveling the hoof of horses without injuring the frog, but it failed to meet a very large sale. Up to a few months ago, Mr. Tompkins conducted a Balancing Department in the Chicago Horseman. Several trainers have told me that they found much to commend in the suggestions there made, and improved their horses greatly by following the rules laid down. Mr. Tompkins has gained quite a reputation as a song writer and is an accomplished musician. Few persons have made the study of the gaits of harness horses that he has, and while he may be more theoretical than practical he has ideas that are original at least and many of them meritorious.

Poor old Ottinger went through a New York auction sale the other day and brought $140. He is now fourteen years old and has been one of the regulars at the New York auctions for the past year or so. Time was when he was received with the clapping of hands and cheers when brought onto the California tracks and many a dollar he won for his owners and friends in years ago. The first time I ever saw the son of Dorsey's Nephew was when the lamented Tommy Keating won the four year old stake with him at the California State Fair in 1892. There were but three starters for this stake, which was worth something over a thousand dollars, and Peko, the Palo Alto mare by Electioneer that afterwards took a record of 2:11½, was the favorite. The other starter was Oakwood Park Stock Farm's colt Wildo by Clovis, but he was distanced the first heat. Ottinger won the race in straight heats, the fastest of which was the third—2:21½. Keating and his partner Adolph Ottinger, the well known ticket broker for whom the gelding was named, must have cleaned up a hat full of money that day. The next year at the Stockton fair Ottinger
